DARING BANDIT HOLDS UP HAMILTON BANK

PRICE ON BANK ROBBERS' HEADS; SAY BORDERNSKY HAS CONFESSED; BANK OF HAMILTON IS HELD UP

DETROIT CLEARING HOUSE OFFERS $5,000 FOR ARREST OR KILLING OF BANDITS—WALKERVILLE POLICE ALLEGE BODERNSKY CONFESSED TO PETITE COTE ROBBERY—HAMILTON BANK ROBBED IN BROAD DAYLIGHT BY UNMASKED MAN.

DETROIT, July 30.—A standing reward of five thousand dollars was announced by the Detroit Clearing House Association for the arrest and conviction or the killing of any person who robs or attempts to rob a member of the Bank Association.

The killing of any person committing robbery or attempting to rob, the announcement states, "shall, for purposes of reward, be considered the same as an arrest and conviction."

Chief of Colice James Philips of Walkerville, admitted last evening that Samuel Bodnersky, blacksmith, arrested Thursday on suspicion of knowing a good deal about the Petite Cote bank robbery last week, when eighteen thousand was stolen from the branch of the Merchants' Bank, has made a full confession and has given the authorities the names of his three accomplices. Three arrests are expected within a day or two. More than three thousand in Merchants' Bank bills was found hidden in Bodnersky's home just outside Walkerville City.

Hamilton Bank Robbed.

HAMILTON, Ont., July 30.—(Canadian Press.)—Visited yesterday afternoon at closing time by a bandit for whom the police of Hamilton and district are now searching, the Bank of Hamilton branch at Lock and Herkimer streets, was robbed of $4,400.

The man who was not masked, held the manager and two clerks at the point of his revolver while he completely ransacked the place. He stuffed a stack of bills into his pocket which the teller was counting just before he closed his wicket, and then the daring burglar asked for bonds. When informed there were no bonds in the bank he demanded the three officials to stand still, and he searched every drawer in the vault and looked through the cages of the bank. Police are of the opinion that the bandit know the place and had cleverly arranged all his plans.

CAMPBELLFORD WON AGAIN, DEFEATED PETERBORO 13-4

VISITORS WERE HELD FAIRLY CLOSELY IN FIRST HALF BUT RAN AWAY WITH THE GAME IN THE THIRD QUARTER.

Although they were minus a couple of their first string men Campbellford had no difficulty in defeating Peterboro's intermediate lacrosse team yesterday by the score of 13 to 4.

The recent performance in Havelock had inspired the hope that on the Riverside lawn the locals would give Campbellford a real argument, and for the first period and part of the second it seemed that the expectations of the hopeful followers of the ill-starred intermediates, with their infusion of younger blood, might be realized. And right here they made their big mistake, as Briggs says in his funny strip.

Campbellford was leading by 2 to 1 at the end of the first peroid, and made it 5 to 2 at the half way station. Jimmy Kerr opened the second half with four goals in a row, and the final frame started with Campbellford leading by 10 to 3.

The attendance was fair for lacrosse in Peterboro in these days, but it was only a handful alongside the gates both Campbellford and Havelock count in their home games There is nothing to explain in the score except to freely admit that the better team, in fact, much better on yesterday's performance, won.

Their defence handled the Peterboro attacks easily ,and the home worked the odd man often and effectively. They eluded their checks, and even when uncovered for a moment or two they worked a fast combination that kept Lou Lebar, Junior, busy. That third period was disastrous in that respect, Kerr roaming around without anybody near him for the most part, and he took full advantage of his oportunity.

The teams were as follows:

Peterboro.		Campbellford.
L. Lebar,	goal	T. Stewart
E. Dillon	point	T. Thomas
F. Goodfellow	c. pnt.	C. Montgomery
A. Hatton	1st def.	C. Weston
J. Ward	2nd def.	B. Gannon
J. Creighton	centre	C. Farrell
E. Foley	2nd home	J. Nesbitt
C. Nattress	1st home	A. Jacobs
H. Tudhope	inside	J. Kerr
G. Halpin,	outside	L. Harte
	Spares—
B. Todd		L. Hill
L. McCoy,		J. Blute
J. Thirnbeck.

Peterboro scored the first goal when Foley took Tudhope's pass near the net and slipped the ball past Stewart. Abe Jacobs found the net open shortly afterwards for an easy one, and he started the play that put Campbellford in the lead, Harte getting a pass for an easy counter.

McCoy, Todd and Thirnbeck went on in the second period. Harry Tudhope tied the score when he grassed one from outside the defense that Stewart failed to see. While Thirnbeck was on the fence, Gannon sent Campbellford ahead, when he took a pass from Jacobs and Kerr added another tally a few minutes later in a combination with Farrell, who also scored the fifth goal for the visitors on a long shot.

Peterboro seemed to have bunched too many defence men in their arrangement during the first half, while the home seemed too bare. Eddie Foley was playing in an unaccustomed position on the home field and was not as effective as he has been in previous games when he played at cover point. Dillon was quite evidently too far out on the defence, his favorite position being nearer the goal.

Kerr got in his work in the third period bulging the net four times in a row, combining with Jacobs and Hill for two of them, and with Thomas, Jacobs and Gannon for another in one of the neatest plays of the game. Harte made it ten on a rush with Jacobs and Hill.

Peterboro had chances to score but failed either in passing or shooting. Stewart was given several stops ,including a fast one from Todd, who finally beat him for Peterboro's third goal before the whistle blew.

Arnold Hatton, who played a fine game on the local defence, was put in again in the fourth quarter, Jacobs and Harte worked a nice combination that looked simple from the side, Harte scoring. Nattrass got Peterboro's last counter on a pass from Foley. Other attacks were foozled, and Campbellford came right back with the final punch, Jimmy Blute helping himself to one goal and Hill gettin gthe last in a rush with Harte.

Referee Harcourt, treasurer of the O.A.L.A., handled the game quite satisfactorily, but neither team tried to rought it. Looking over the local team in action yesterday, there were numerous evidences of ability but a lack of system. Campbellford had a decided advantage in that respect, Harte, Jacobs and Kerr working together effectively. Tommy Stewart of the juniors took Pat Kelly's place in goal and handled himself very creditably.

Lebar of the local juniors wes in the Peterboro nets and made a number of spectacular stops, but in the third period he was given little protection especially against Kerr's raids. Jacobs turned in his usual finished performance for the visitors, and Nattress for Peterboro flashed in the play at times.

"It was a nice workout for our team for next Wednesday's game with Havelock," said Dick Cole, the Campbellford manager, and according to the visitors, the C. P. R. boys are due for a trimming when they cross the Trent next week.

LONDON PRESS ENTERS LLOYD-GEORGE-NORTHCLIFFE CONTROVERSY WITH CONSIDERABLE VIGOR.

HERALD CALLS IT A FORM OF LOW COMEDY

BY ED. L. KEEN,
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, July 30. — The Northcliffe-Lloyd-George war of words continues briskly.

The anti-Northcliffe press took up the battle game, charging Northcliffe with "the unpardonable crime of dragging the King's name into politics," despite Northcliffe's denial of the interview which he was purported to have given on the conversation between Lloyd-George and the King on the Irish question.

While accepting the denial, the press generally insisted that explanation was needed as to why the interview was printed in Irish editions of the Mail and not in the London editions. It was said to be evident that one of the editors, seeing the possible effects of the interview, and believing that his "chief" had been misquoted, suppressed the story in later editions of the Northcliffe papers.

The Chronicle, a Lloyd-George paper, declared that Northcliffe "appears to have gone to the United States with the intention of doing the utmost to make Lloyd-George unpopular there and queer the pitch for the British Government in the coming Washington Disarmament Conference."

The Times and The Mail feature Northcliffe's denial this morning. They "play up" the boycott of Northcliffe by the British Embassy in Washington, which the remainder of the press ignores.

The Herald editorially stated the Lloyd-George and Northcliffe controversy proves to be "the most diverting piece of low comedy our politics has produced in a long time. Great demagogues turned back for a chat in true comedian style, with the broad Atlantic for a stage."

CHOSEN TO SUCCEED ROWELL AT ENTHUSIASTIC CONVENTION HELD AT ORONO YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

LIBERAL AND FARMER IN THE FIELD ALREADY

ORONO, July 30. — (Canadian Press).— Fred W. Bowen, warden of the United Counties of Durham and Northumberland and a farmer of Clarke Township, will carry the Government Standard in the approaching Federal bye-election in Durham.

Mr. Bowen was chosen on the first ballot yesterday at one of the most enthusiastic conventions ever held in the district.

The seat was left vacant by the resignation of Hon. N. W. Rowell. Liberal and Farmer candidates have ben nominated.

OMEMEE MAN FELL OFF LOAD

TRIP ROPE OF SLINGS BROKE—OMEMEE NEWS.

OMEMEE, July 30. — While Mr. George Henderson, a farmer residing about three miles north of Omemee, was unloading grain in his barn on Friday afternoon, with the slings ,the trip rope, which he was pulling, broke, letting him fall backward off the load where he struck the scales on the barn floor, causing his shoulder to be dislocated, also one finger out of joint, and his face and head badly cut. His many friends will be sorry to hear of his misfortune.

On Thursday afternoon while Mr. Alex. Tully of Mount Pleasant, was unloading grain in the barn, his little seven year old daughter ran out and sat up on a beam above the granary. She attempted to get down and on turning around to slide down she lost her balance and fell, breaking her leg so close to the thigh that she had to be placed in splints from her toes up to her shoulders. This is indeed a sad accident and the sympathy of the community goes out to the family and suffering child.

The Anglican Sunday school picnic was held at Thurston's on Wednesday afternoon and was the chief attraction for the half holiday. A most enjoyable time was spent, and would have lasted on into the evening but for the thunderstorm which gathered causing everyone to hurry homeward. Imagine the disappointment, upon arriving home to a quiet little town when the shower only lasted a few minutes.

THREE CITIES FIGHT TO GET RAIL OFFICES

MONTREAL, TORONTO AND WINNIPEG PRESENT RIVAL CLAIMS FOR NATIONAL LINES HEADQUARTERS TO GOVERNMENT.

AND OTTAWA, KEEPING QUIET, MAY GET THEM

OTTAWA, July 30.—(Canadian Press).—The rival claims of Toronto, Montreal and Winnipeg to the exclusive offices of the whole government railway system have been forwarded and a decision between them, however, has not been made by the government or will one be made until they are consolidated and the Canadian National Railway Act is proclaimed.

Toronto claims the officers because it was the headquarters of the Northern Railway of the National system and is the great public ownership centre of the Dominion. Montreal points out the fact that it has been the headquarters of the Grand Trunk System as a separate and a great commercial metropolis.

Winnipeg is the gateway of the west, but is not considered to have a chance of securing the railway office. There is said to be a possibility that the executive staff of the Canadian National, including the Grand Trunk system may be located in Ottawa with a staff comprising only about 200 persons.

GREATEST GAME OF ALL.

We have played most games with vigour, if not always with success. There is another game which deserves to be played with equal zest: Work — the greatest game in the world. It offers a prize to every entrant, the prize of glory of achievement. Material gain is not the only prize to fight for. The great merchant's success is due to his love of the combat. Are we playing the great game? Are we doing our utmost to qualify for the final round? Let everyone ask himself the question and try to improve his form.—London Daily Express.

DOUBTFUL OF HATFIELD.

Just about once in twenty years the Western farmers develop a new faith in the possibility of "making rain." Then somebody with a beautiful and fully warranted confidence that the last efforts in this interesting industry — and their failure — have been forgotten comes along with apparatus more or less elaborate for creating or attracting clouds and making them "give down," as is said of cows. He sets up his machinery starts it to operating, and in a day or two rain either does or it doesn't fall.

After a long drought, of course, the chances are rather in the rainmaker's favour. He is a little more likely to get a shower than not, and if he does he is sure to do a good business for that season all through that part of the country and a fair one for the next. A single triumph is enough for that.

This is not to say that the rainmakers are conscious deceivers, nor is to say that rainmaking is and always will be impossible for man. Probably the majority of these wizards sincerely believe in their own powers, as do the weather forecasters who rely on turkey wishbones and muskrat houses and the quantity of nuts laid up by squirrels, as grounds of prediction as to whether the next winter will be severe or mild. They couldn't convince their customers if they had not first convinced themselves.

As for the practicability of influencing atmospheric conditions sufficiently to cause rainfall, that is at least theoretically admissable, but it will not be done by means of chemicals in "a tank twenty feet high," or by firing a few cannon, or by exploding TNT carried aloft in balloons. It will take something bigger than things like those — something analogous to the mountain ranges which in many parts of the world can be observed daily in the very act of making rain out of a current of moisture-laden air. — New York Times.

GOSSIP AND ANONYMOUS LETTERS.

We note an item in one of our contemporaries that according to Dr. E. H. Bullock, of Chicago, the Health Director of that city, "men and women who gossip cannot be in their right minds and should be given the closest attention to get them back to normal." In the same article attention is also given to anonymous letter writers, who, it is declared, have "one of the nastiest, lowest, and most vicious forms of insanity known to medical circles. Their distorted imagination visualises scenes which they would have come true, and their insane mind immediately grasps the story and they repeat it as if it were truth."

This is rather a sweeping arraignment and one may very well doubt if it is not just a trifle overdrawn. Nevertheless, there is no doubt that, whether sane or insane, the persistent gossipers as well as the cowardly anonymous writers are, as one eminent psychologist declares—though it does not need any knowledge of psychology to determine this—"assassins of character" of the worst kind, and it is not to be wondered at that both classes are given a wide berth by self-respecting, right-thinking people who know how easy it is to spread unfounded rumours and by means either of the poisoned tongue or the equally poisoned anonymous leter to do irreparable damage to the name of an honest man or an honest woman.

Unfortunately too many men and women alike, especially those of petty or envious minds, indulge in one or other of these vicious habits and unfortunately, also, it is extremely difficult to get after them in a legal way. When they gossip they are shrewd enough to place the origin of their story upon some unknown person, not daring to shoulder the burden themselves, while when they write anonymous letters their very anonymity acts as a shield and cloak for them.

Happily in Kingston we have relatively few of this kind of rattlesnake, and it is just as well that we have, because in a small community like this, the gospel of goodwill is essential not alone to the peace of mind of the community, but also to its very welfare. Those few that we have, however, are just that many too many. The most effectual way to get rid of the pest is to shun them as one would the plague.—Kingston Standard.

IS THE CONSERVATIVE PARTY DEAD?

(From The Montreal Star, Thursday, 21st July, 1921.)

The Toronto Globe has been holding a most enjoyable funeral service over the Conservative party. The possible absence of the corpse does not detract from its inocent pleasure in the smallest degree. Its "proof of death" it finds in the results of the various Provincial elections since the beginning of the war. The unfortunate Conservatives seem, indeed, to have suffered a shocking number of "casualties" in Provincial politics as well as in Belgium and France.

"The Globe's obituary notice runs, in part, as follows:

Summarising these results, we find three Conservative Governments defeated during the war and replaced by Liberal Administrations. After the war the Farmer and Labour movement comes into play, resulting in the defeat of a Conservative Government in Ontario, and reducing the Liberal majority in several Provinces. In the Prairie Provinces, in Quebec and in Nova Scotia the Conservative party almost disappears as a factor in Provincial politics. East of Ontario, Quebec and Nova Scotia remain Liberal by large majorities and New Brunswick by a small majority, while Prince Edward Island passes from the Conservative into the Liberal column. Liberal Governments have weathered the storm fairly well. No Province has a Conservative Government, and over a large part of Canada, east and west, the Conservative party sees to be on the way to extinction. Provincial politics do not always run on all fours with those of the Dominion, but the Provincial losses, taken in conjunction with those in the Federal field, make a rather gloomy prospect for Conservatism.

Is the Conservative party really dead?

They are asking this same question, not without anxiety, in Great Britain. The Lloyd-George Coalition is visibly disintegrating. Yet when it falls apart, it will be necessary for the King's Government to be carried on. And few of the men with a stake in the country or with an intelligent appreciation of the problems and perils of the immediate future, are willing to see their Government fall into the hands of either of the ineffective and distrusted groups which are barking at the heels of the Coalition. So they call for the historic Conservative party to gird up its loins and make ready to serve the State.

The Conservative party in Canada also has a proud record for public service. It guarded the cradle of Confederation through its most precarious years. It provided the young Dominion with its sole fiscal defence in the National Policy. It bound the Provinces together with the daring adventure of the Canadian Pacific. It stamped out the incendiary fires of race and religion, lighted largely by a Liberal whom The Globe should remember, one George Brown; and brought Ontario and Quebec together in cordial and patriotic co-operation to make of their mischievously divided peoples a united nation.

If this party has died, the country has suffered an irreparable loss. We do not expect men who have lived by advising its assassination to sorrow very deeply over its rumoured demise. But in these days of unrest and economic uncertainty and reckless experimenting with the greatest national assets—in these days when Canada is not even pretending to pay her way, but is mortgaging herself deeply and yet more deeply to the money-lenders — in these days when we have leaders who bask in the smiles and shiver at the frowns of our big neighbour and seem to reserve their suspicions for the statesmen of the heavily-burdened Mother Country—we are confident that there are thousands of Liberals in the Dominion who would be sorry indeed to believe that the party of British Connection, of industrial independence, and of the old gospel that "private initiative" is a stronger motive-power than the Socialist-Bolshevik hybrid of political control, is for ever buried in the grave, over which The Globe chants its jubilant Nunc Dimittis.

It is as necessary to carry on the King's Government in Canada as in Britain.

* * * *

Canadian political history has shown that it is not always possible to deduce the decay of Conservatism in Federal affairs from the failure of politicians bearing its name in Provincial fields. For instance Sir John Macdonald freqpently carried in Ontario which was immovably faithful in Provincial politics to Sir Oliver Mowat. Indeed, when Sir John won his last "British subject I was born, British subject I will die" victory in 1891, he was faced by Liberal Governments in Manitoba, Ontario, and Nova Scotia, and bya Blair Government in New Brunswick; and yet in every one of these Provinces, the old Conservative party and leader obtained a handsome majority.

Conservatism is not a narrow creed. It does not find sufficient room forits distinctive development in a Provincial enclosure. It is a national policy. It appears in British politics defending the Empire, extending the Empire, protecting British institutions, stabilising economc forces and affording the nation a refuge from every form of political "gambling," whether it be the blind "gamble" of the theorist or the sinister "gamble" of the revolutionary. It appears in the Federal politics of Canada defending British connection, developing British co-operation, frankly more friendly to British than to foreign statesmanship, protecting Canada's industrial and economic independence, depending more upon the calm counsel of the practical and experienced man than upon the frenzied urgings of the "faddist" or the fanatic.

It is a very real thing — this Conservative spirit. It is not tied up to any personality or party machine. It is always latent in a sane and a thoughtful community. It can always be summoned to vigorous life by an inspiring and sincere leader. It was never more needed in this country than it is to-day. Every one of the principles for which it stands is being impudently and confidently challenged. But it is our belief that it is not dead; and that The Globe's burial service will prove to be disappointingly premature.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Some men leave their "footprints on the sands of time," others leave their thumbprints with the police after doing time.

The anonymous writer of a book which contains sidelights on prominent Americans, says that President Harding is a poker player. He comes forward with this assertion as though it were news, whereas it was announced some time ago that Warren was a newspaperman.

Old Ander, a Swedish yokel, visiting in town one day, asked a restaurant proprietor, "Got any squirrel whiskey?"

"No," said the restaurant man, "but I can slip you a little Old Crow."

"Aye, don't vant to fly," said the Swede, "Aye just vant to yump around a little."

Nations are like individuals, it has often been pointed out. True, now they are finding it difficult to pay their debts.

A local man, anxious to "make a bit," hit upon the idea of selling some old tin cans and pieces of scrap iron which had collected with the passing years, and sent them to a junk dealer. Somehow or other, however, they went astray, and were delivered to the wrong place.

Imagine his surprise the next morning when he received the following from a garage:

"Dear Sir: Your motor car to hand. We have never seen a worse smash, but we will do our best to put it together again. We send you herewith an estimate of the cost of repair and approximate date of delivery."

Women Use Pin Money and Wages Freely On Pari-Mutuels.

(By J. F. BEAMAN, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 30.—Gambling damsels have made up for the loss of Europe's aristocracy in the "sport of kings."

Pin money and weekly wages of the female betting friends are flooding the pari-mutuels, Pop Geers, famous sulky rider, declared today in explaining the revived enthusiasm and crowded stands that have attended spring meetings of the grand circuit this season.

"Women are better bettors than men," Geers chuckled, as he told of the new order of things in the turf world. "Pretty nearly all the ladies in the stands send down a little bet on each race of the day and they pick some winners, mighty often—women's intuition, I suppose you'd call it.

"It's the breezy debutante and the high headed, bejeweled society matron that are getting the thrills out of picking a long shot," according to "Pop."

"The women are getting free and easy nowadays," the grizzled pilot explained. "They are wearing the pants. They are just as bold as the men about where they go and what they do."

"Pop" laid it all on the war.

"What Can You Do?"

One of the first questions asked the man seeking a new position is, "What can you do?". If you say "I can save money", and produce a Merchants Bank Pass Book that shows regular weekly or monthly deposits, you need no other recommendation. The man who saves systematically—knows the value of money—is providing for the future—is ambitious—is using his head as well as his hands—and the Savings Account proves it.

Buy a Chalmers As an Investment

Buying a Chalmers car is recognized as a sensible and sound investment. One that pays definite returns.

Because of its low upkeep and replacement costs, the Chalmers is economical to operate. It renders service more continuously. It is at your command when wanted.

Due to Careful Designing

The low maintenance of the Chalmers is due to careful designing. Chalmers' engineers developed the hot-spot. This device pre-heats the fuel before it enters the cylinders. This saves fuel. It reduces carbon. The motor runs more smoothly and accelerates more quickly. It renders better service, always.

Find Out for Yourself

The man who investigates, will easily find the truth of these statements. We will be glad to go into detail and explain just how fine a motor car investment the Chalmers is.

You owe it to yourself to make this investigation.

Tom Barney Again

Days went by.

Kent did not speak to me about the diamond. As he had requested me not to talk about it, I refrained from doing so. Yet I knew the thing must be uppermost in his mind. He was restless and nervously irritable. With an aching heart I watched him go off listlessly in the mornings and come home fagged and unhappy at night.

We were both suffering—and suffering silently, which is the most deadly, exhausting kind of pain.

But through those long unhappy days of waiting I never thought of failure. It never entered my head that Kent could fail. He had a tremendously delicate task to perform, with grave consequences awaiting him if he should blunder I did not think about that part of it. Love always hopes—where reason and sounder judgment would despair.

I only though about Kent and how nerve-racking and deadly the strain must be for him. I tried to do everything to keep up his spirits and make him feel vitally my love for him. I wanted to sustain him through his troubles.

Gradually the material part of the theft had taken second place in my mind. I thought only of the diamond as a thing which had robbed my husband of his self-respect and sense of honesty. I simply prayed that he would find a way to straighten it all out with his own conscience. It was Kent's soul that I thought about. If the truth were found out, Kent would lose his chance of saving his own self-respect. And because I believed that his soul was big enough to find itself, I never thought of failure.

Even my fears of Tom Barney were forgotten, until his presence brought them suddenly before me again.

Kent and I were sitting home one evening reading, when, about 9 o'clock, the door bell rang.

"I'll go," Kent said, closing a magazine which he had been reading and putting it down on the table.

He opened the door.

"Too late for callers" someone asked, greeting Kent at the door, and then I recognized Tom Barney's laugh.

"Oh, no—come in," Kent answered in a half-hearted way.

Tom came on in, and dropped down easily in Kent's chair at the other end of the library table. I saw a frown darken Kent's features. Then he went over and threw himself down an the couch.

The conversation lagged. Kent was not making any effort to be agreeable. But it did not seem to disturb Tom any. He pulled out his cigarette case and asked me if he might smoke, then settled back in his chair, apparently enjoying himself greatly.

He talked about some tin stock that he had had a tip to buy, but all his conversation was directed to me. Kent lounged, silent and sullen, over at the other side of the room. It was so foolish of Kent to act like that. Men always showed their feelings so plainly. A woman, put in Kent's place, would not have given Tom the satisfaction of seeing that he bothered him.

'Oh, do have a cigarette, old man," Tom said suddenly, as if he had just remembered that Kent existed. He got up and offered his cigarete case to Kent. I knew Kent would refuse, and he did so with a sort of half audible growl.

"Will you have one, Barbara?" Tom asked turning toward me," or won't your old bear over there permit you to smoke?"

I thanked him and tried to laugh it off easily. I could not see Kent's features very plainly over beyond that if Tom was not careful Kent would put him out bodily in another minute.

"Barbara, do you know anything about diamonds?" Tom asked me suddenly, changing the conversation.

I felt my nerves tighten.

"No," I told him. I hoped my face did not disclose my feelings.

"I have a chance to buy one," he went on, "and I thought you might be able to pass some judgment on it. I'm a dub about jewels."

To-morrow—Tom Makes Insinuations.

BRITISH SYNDICATE TO WORK ALBERTA MINES

EDMONTON, Alta., July 30.—(Canadian Press).—The development of Alberta's coal resources will be taken up soon by a powerful syndicate of British financiers, the Edmonton Board of Trade has been advised by J. Handley Yates, who has just returned from England, where he lectured before the Royal Colonial Institute on "Canadian Natural Resources," and pleaded for their development. At the head of this group of influential capitalists recently formed with this purpose in view is Lord Morrison, former Prime Minister of Newfoundland.

It is proposed to acquire a coal mine in this Province and to instal a system for subjecting the lignite to a low-temperature process, whereby the by-products will be secured and the residue transformed into priquettes. By this means, the syndicate aims to demonstrate in a practical way how profitable the process advocated by Herbert Alexander, claimed to be one of the greatest living experts on briquette making, is.

BRITISH ARMY AND GERMAN BRIDES

LONDON, July 29.—British army non-coms are anything but insular in their affections, 138 having chosen German girls as their brides while serving in the army of occupation. Announcing the figures in the House of Commons Tuesday, Worthington Evans said the War Office did not encourage such unions, but was unable to prevent them.

ANTICIPATE DELAY IN BRINGING STONE'S BODY FROM ROCKIES TO BANFF.

CALGARY, Alta., July 20 (Canadian Press). — Considerable delay in bringing the body of Dr. Stone, of Perdue University, out of the mountains was predicted here today. Although the mountain on which Dr. Stone fell to his death is only thirty-five miles from Banff, the trails are so tortuous and rough that it is regarded as a four-day trip.

FIND SPURGIN'S FAMILY; BANKER YET A FUGITIVE.

Wife and Daughter Persuaded to Face Chicago Inquiry as to $1,000,000 Bank Loss.

DETROIT, Mich., July 29.—Mrs. Warren G. Spurgin, wife of the missing President of the Michigan Avenue Trust Company of Chicago, and their daughter, Miss Vivian Spurgin, who have been hiding in Detroit since last Thursday, were located by Pinkerton operatives and detectives of the Detroit Police Department here.

The two women had been living in the "400 block" on Alexandrine avenue during the time both Chicago authorities and Detroit detectives were searching for them in an effort to get a line on Warren G. Spurgin, who is wanted in connection with the disappearance of money and securities amounting to more than $1,000,000 from the bank. A reward of $10,000 is offered by Lloyd's Agency for information resulting in Spurgin's detention.

A friend of Vivian, whose name the authorities refused to reveal, arrived in Detroit on Monday night, it was learned, and at once got in touch with the mother and daughter in an effort to persuade them to return.

This friend told Pinkerton men that he was convinced the women knew nothing as to the whereabouts of the missing banker, nor had they been in touch with him since his disappearance. He personally also denied knowing the banker's whereabouts.

Mrs. Spurgin and her daughter left Chicago and came to Detroit to "escape publicity," according to the friend's statement to the Pinkertons.

The friend said he had watched the search for both Spurgin and his wife and daughter, and that he had come to the conclusion that it would be better for the women to return and "face the music." He came here he said with that idea in mind, and succeeded in convincing them of its logic.

The automobile in which the women made the trip here and which they placed in the Selden garage last Friday, was left there in charge of officials. It will be called for by a friend of the Spurgins, the Pinkertons said, and will be returned to them.

Both women refused to make statements pending questioning by Chicago authorities.

Mrs. Spurgin and her daughter arrived in Detroit Thursday and made application for a room at the Y.W.C.A. They were referred to the rooming house of Miss Thompson, at 3773 2nd Boulevard. There they spent Thursday night, but left early Friday without leaving a forwarding address for their mail.

OBERAMMERGAU TAKES ON NEW LIFE AGAIN.

Approach of Date of Passion Play Works Change.

OBERAMMERGAU, July 28. — Since the decision was made to give the delayed Passion Play in 1922, Oberammergeau has taken on new life. Carpenters, painters and masons, many of them wearing long hair and beards which mark them as participants in previous dramatizations of the passion of Jesus Christ, are restoring the open-air theatre and villas which had no attention during the war period.

Busy housewives are preparing their homes for the reception of visitors who will fill the little village next summer. Scene painters are rebuilding and restoring the representations of parts of the Holy Land where Jesus lived and died and rose again from the tomb.

Needlewomen are fashioning robes for the apostles and scores of other biblical figures who particapte in the play. Although the cast will not be elected by the directors of the play until October, young women who have distinguished themselves in other religious plays given by the Oberammergeau folk are fashioning simple robes for the role of Mary in the hope that they will be chosen to enact the part of Jesus' mother, the highest honor which can come to an Oberammergau woman.

The great auditorium which seiters spectators of the Passion Play is a wooden structure, supported by steel trusses, arranged much after the plan of a modern opera house. When the play is offered one end of the auditorium is removed entirely, and the stage stands at some distance from the end of the building, in such a position that the mountains furnish a background for the setting. The audience is entirely sheltered in case of rain and the main part of the stage has a glass roof.

Even amog the children of Oberammergau the reverence for the Passion Play is very marked and in imitation of their elders they are constantly acting in the hope of being chosen for important roles in the production given every ten years.

As good character is insisted upon as the basic requirement for participation in the play, the danger of being debarred from a part in the historic spetcacle is held constantly over the village children and is a far better corrective influence than the bogeys invented for most children.

"The Little Brown Package"

Forest Fires Kill Jobs

HERE are instances of carelessness such as the Fire Rangers of Ontario are meeting all the time. Each is an actual case, as officially reported in detail to the Forestry Branch. Until each individual realizes personal responsibility and co-operates to prevent forest fires, Government Fire Rangers can hope merely to lessen the tragic consequences of such human carelessness and bad judgment.

Save Ontario's Forests
They're Yours

Lumbermen's Fires

May 25th, 1920—A careless river driver, by leaving his smudge fire or throwing a cigarette into slash, burned over two townships, including 7,000,000 feet of pine, a $5,000 mill, camp buildings and equipment worth $7,000, sawn lumber worth $7,500, and killed several million young spruce and jack pine trees.

May 26, 1920—Fire in a rubbish heap behind a lumber company's boarding house got away and, despite prompt action, burned over 1,600 acres, including 2,000,000 feet of white pine, and a set of new camps worth $1,000.

June 1, 1920—Two old men left to attend to the stop logs in a dam, let fire get away from either their smudge or camp fire, and burned over 9,000 acres, including 6,000,000 feet of pine, one mill, four camps, large quantities of supplies, and equipment to a total value of $40,000.

May 4th, 1921—Lumbermen burning slash around their camps, lost control of their fire and 15,000 acres were burned before they regained it.

Railway Fires

June 5th, 1920—Engine No. 1368 started a forest fire which ran over 15,000 acres, burning one saw mill, three sets of lumber camps, stables, houses, and outfits, 5,000 cut logs and 1,400 piles, besides standing timber.

May 25th, 1920—Engine No. 2509 set a fire which burned over 12,000 acres of timber worth $20,000 on the stump, camps and logs worth $5,750, and cost $1,000 to fight.

June 2, 1920—A section crew left a pile of burning ties to go away to their regular work. The fire spread over 1,200 acres.

Fires Set Out Under Permit

June 10th, 1921—Parties burning slash under permit, lost control through bad judgment, and 1,050 acres were burned and forty buildings, including saw mill, were wiped out.

May 27th, 1920—A squatter, burning debris near his shack, fired 7,000 acres, 1,000 of which were virgin timber, and wiped out four sets of logging camps.

Neglected Camp Fires

July 4th, 1920—Tourists left camp fire on shore of Deer Lake. After six days' fight, rangers put fire out, but 550 acres of young pine were dead.

May 31st, 1920—A neglected camp fire, despite efforts of Chief Fire Ranger and 42 men, burned 1,200 acres of young pine.

May 7th, 1921—Indians left camp fire, which burned over 7,000 acres and took one week of fighting to control.

Be careful of fire in the forests. Be careful to put your camp fire out—dead out. Don't throw away lighted matches, cigarettes or cigar ends. Watch out, lest your fire gets away from you.

BOLSHEVIKS ARE CRIMINAL TYPE.

So Phrenologists Who Have Studied Subject Announce.

BUDAPEST, July 28.—Hungarian phrenologists who have made a careful study of the skulls of 30 notorious red terrorists, sentenced and hanged after the fall of Communism in this country have just reported that "Bolshevik terrorists, though exhibiting signs of abnormality, seem not to belong to the type of born degenerate criminals."

All the 30 were members of Bela Kun's fearful bodyguard called the "Lenine boys," all were found guilty of numerous murders and robberies and examined in their lifetime by the same doctors when under trial.

"The skulls," runs the report, "are prognathic, characterized by an exceptionally low forehead, deep eye-caves, big mouth, sharp protruding jaws, deficient dentition. When compared with the skulls of notorious common murderers preserved in the museum of the police they show the signs of degeneracy in a much less degree.

"The only exception is Joseph Cserny, the leader of the group, whose skull is easily first among the worst and most deformed specimens of human degeneration. When examined during his trial the savage cruel look of his small evasive eyes startled even the professional doctors of crime. Small wonder that the Bolshevik dictator of Hungary, Bela Kun, felt afraid of the man and never met the chief of his devoted bodyguard without previously slipping a revolver into his pocket.

"The medical board holds the view that the Bolshevik terrorists, though undoubtedly degenerate individuals, would under ordinary circumstances never have committed murder. But their resistance to crime was much weaker than that of the civilized type and when the solid body of law and morality was shaking with revolutionary fever their half-slumbering ferocious instincts roused up and they killed with the savage passion of the neolithic man."

CANNOT KILL THIS CROP.

Great Yield of Hard Wheat in West — Damage by Heat and Rust Only Ordinary.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 29.— A sample of this season's wheat threshed at Emerson, Man., at the end of last week, has been received here. It is of good color, flint hardness, and in the opinion of experts, grades a good No. 3 Northern. The field from which this wheat was taken is admittedy damaged by rust and heat, and the berries are a little shrunk, otherwise it would have graded No. 1 Northern. There is no doubt of its excellent milling qualities.

"I have spent the active years of my life in the grain and mill business," said W. A. Matheson, general manager of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company, "and I have never seen a finer stand of wheat than on some 400 miles along the Grand Trunk between Winnipeg and Saskatoon. There are spots and districts in the west that are poor and light, but the great fact remains that we have a magnificent crop as a whole."

Cutting at Portage.

Mr. Matheson was a visitor to Saskatoon during the fair, taking the Grand Trunk for his outward journey, and coming back via Regina and the Canadian Pacific. From Regina to Virden he also found a magnificent stand of wheat.

"There has been injury from extreme heat," said Mr. Matheson, but nothing more than the ordinary damage from rust, and I see no cause whatever for anxiety on the rust score. The crops are filling fast and there will be a lot of wheat in the sheaf this week. Our Portage agents state that there will be a lot of wheat cutting on the Portage plains to-day. I expect harvest has started at Carberry and Brandon."

Andrew Kelly, president of the Western Canada Flour Mills, regards crop prospects as excellent.

"It is no use in trying to kill this crop," he said, "it can't be done."

CROP OF APPLES.

Better Yield Than Last Year Is Anticipated.

OTTAWA, July 29.—The apple crop throughout the Dominion, though seriously affected by recent drought, is still likely to average better than last year.

The best reports, according to the Department of Agriculture, come from New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, where there is a heavy set for all varieties. Baldwins and Kings promise well in Nova Scotia, but in other varieties there has been a heavy drop, reducing prospects to about 10 per cent. in excess of last year. Quebec anticipates a crop something larger than that of last year. In Ontario, apples have suffered greatly from dry weather, and a heavy drop has brought down the possible crop to some 80 per cent. of that of 1920. Spies, Baldwins, McIntosh, Russets, heavy; Ben Davis, light. British Columbia expects a crop of some 10 per cent. better than last year's.

A fairly good crop of peaches is expected in British Columbia. In Ontario, a thirty-five per cent. of average crop. Yellow St. John's, best; Elbertas and Crawfords are light.

Plums promise well in Quebec; about 50 per cent. of the average in Nova Scotia, and 35 per cent. available in Ontario, with the exception of Japanese, which are a practical failure. British Columbia expects 90 per cent. of a full crop.

Pears are generally promising in British Columbia. In Ontario, the prospects are for a 60 per cent. average crop. Bartlett, light; Duchess, fair. Nova Scotia counts on 60 per cent. of a full crop.

Says Mr. Babson

"Business will be called 'quiet,' but in many lines there should be some improvement. If you have weathered the storm of the past seven months, you can take courage! At this stage of depression the main problem is selling. Cut down your production expenses as far as you can, do without further expansion in new buildings and equipment, but don't skimp your selling appropriations. Now is the time to use that reserve fund which was set aside during the fat years! Later in the depression area we shall come to the point where you should increase your plant, but this summer—plan to increase your advertising! Take the aggressive course.

There is, perhaps, no better barometer of business conditions than Babson's Statistical Bureau.

The significant injunction in the foregoing report is "plan to increase your advertising—take the aggressive course."

Already many experienced advertisers have let their daily newspaper advertising contracts for the fall. They are not going to be caught napping when the pendulum starts its upward swing.
What of yourself?

Issued by The Canadian Daily Newspapers Association, Head Office, Toronto.

He was an optimistic soul, and a sportsman. His pals, whom he infected with his enthusiasm, followed his tips blindly, with more often than not disastrous results.

"See what you've done," wailed one of his friends, after a race. "And you told me I could put my shirt on that horse."

"And did you?"

"Yes—worse luck."

"Well, then, replied the optimistic sportsman, 'see the money you'll save on laundry bills!"—London Ideas.

THE PROCESS OF PASTEURIZATION

PASTEURIZING MILK in our Creamery simply means passing the Milk through a Heater that raises the temperature to 145 degrees Fahrenheit, then holding it at this Temperature for a period of Half an Hour.

The Milk is then Cooled to a Low Temperature, Bottled, and made ready for Delivery.

PASTEURIZATION destroys any harmful thing that might be contained in the Milk. As a City's Milk Supply must be drawn from many sources, any danger of contamination before reaching the Consumer is overcome by PASTEURIZATION.

Do not confuse PASTEURIZATION with Boiling of Milk. When Milk is Boiled, it, to some extent, affects its Food Value. But PASTEURIZATION in no way affects the Digestibility or Food Value of Milk. It is not Boiled.

Every step of the way our Milk is so Safeguarded that ABSOLUTE PURITY is assured. Being rich in Butter Fat, it is rich in Vitamines, which are so necessary to Health.

INDUSTRY'S NEW COURTS

(From the New York Times.)

A fancy leather goods manufacturer, in the sight of the union and some of his fellow employers, committed a misdemeanor against his employes. Instead of submitting to them a type of work which he felt they would refuse owing to the fact that the price was lower than the one current in the factory, he farmed it out to workers not employed in his shop. At the time the men regularly employed by him were idle.

In all other industries, with but few exceptions, such an occurrence would undoubtedly have resulted in a strike on the part of the workers. What happened here? The employer was called to trial before a Joint Grievance Board presided over by an Impartial Chairman. He was represented by the official clerk of the manufacturers' group; the men in his shop were represented by a clerk of the union. Witnesses for both sides were called in to give testimony, and the Impartial Chairman fined the manufacturer a sum equal to the value of the work that was farmed out. It was true, indeed, that the men in the shop would have refused to do the work at the price offered, but the fact remained, as was brought out by the union clerk, that according to agreement all work before being farmed out must be submitted to the workers in the factory.

Organized labor and organized business are today watching with interest this industrial experiment in this city which, it is expected, will mark a distinct advance in labor arbitration. It is not a new one as far as the country is concerned. The clothing workers have since 1911 been operating under such a system.

The fancy leather workers and the silk ribbon workers are today operating under this sytsem of an industrial arbitration court. The silk ribbon workers were the first to adopt it. Previous to this, all their quarrels had been settled in the usual militant manner. The union made a demand; the employers refused to countenance it; result, strike. Or, the employers laid down new rules; the union refused to agree; result, lockout. In both instances, there was loss of work, of money and of amicability.

Last April after much study of the question, four silk ribbon manufacturers and three silk ribbon union locals, members of the Amalgamated Textile Workers of America, came to a decision that the time for casting off the old methods of disagreement and the adoption of new methods of agreement had come.

The Impartial Chairman.

Most important of all in the new agreement were the creation of the office of Impartial Chairman, the formation of a Trade Council on which were to sit representatives of the union and of the employing body, and the inculcation of a clause in the document which provided for the preferential shop. The duties of the first were those of a judge. "All complaints, disputes and grievances arising between the parties hereto," read this section of the clause, "shall be submitted to the Impartial Chairman, either on appeal as hereinafter provided, or for determination in the first instance."

The Trade Council consisted of one representative from each of the factories entering into the agreement. In case the number of manufacturers grew, six men were to be chosen from the total number. The union was to be represented by as many weavers or workmen as there were employers' representatives.

Preference in employment, discharge and distribution of work was covered by the preferential clause. Union members were to get first choice. When the employer, after applying to the union for helpers, could not fill his looms he was at liberty to hire what men he chose.

Charles B. Barnes of this city, who had previously been the Impartial Chairman for the Garment Industry in Cleveland, and later in the clothing industry of Montreal, Canada, was chosen by both sides as the Impartial Chairman. His salary and expenses were paid, half and half, by the employers and the union.

So well did the Trade Council, presided over by the Impartial Chairman, function for the silk ribbon trade that in August the Fancy Leather Workers decided to adopt the same plan. It may be interesting to note that this industry for a number of years had the reputation of being one of the most progressive in the field of industrial reform. At the time it was decided to adopt the Impartial Chairman machinery it already had evolved a method of settling disputes without resorting to the strike or lockout. Their agreement, dated Aug. 20, 1920, read in part as follows:

"Each of the parties hereto shall forthwith appoint three representatives, and the six persons so appointed shall constitute a board to be known as the Joint Grievance Board, for the hearing and determination of all claims arising hereunder between the parties. The determination of this board in all matters shall be conclusive upon the parties hereto. In the event of there being an equal division of opinion between the members of the board, the matter in dispute shall be submitted for determination to an impartial umpire mutually agreed upon by both sides, whose decision shall be binding on the parties. It shall be the duty of the Grievance Board to enforce compliance with the terms of this contract."

Up to the time of the creation of the office of the Impartial Chairman the leather workers, as stated, had worked with a Joint Grievance Board. Inasmuch, however, as the problems that came up were many, and the settlement of them devolved upon the agreement of everybody sitting on the board, it was decided to expedite matters by placing the duty of decisions into the hands of one man. The same man, Charles B. Barnes, was asked to serve as Impartial Chairman for this industry.

Mr. Barnes was asked the other day how the system worked and what part he played in the business of making each side of the industrial tangle get the viewpoint of the other.

"No case comes to me," he began, "that can be settled out of court. What I mean is that every shop has its own machinery to settle minor disputes. A man can appeal directly to his foreman or he can appeal through the union official or shop chairman. If, however, they cannot come to an agreement then the two Chief Clerks are called in, one representing the employers' group and the other the union. If they cannot come to an agreement which is satisfactory to everybody concerned, the case is brought before the Impartial Chairman and a hearing is held with such witnesses as are necessary.

"In obtaining evidence, as little of court formality as is possible is used. Personally, I believe in allowing the workers to tell their grievances freely and fully. I do not bar out hearsay. If they are not permitted free expression, the workers feel that they are unfairly dealt with. The psychological element must have consideration. More often than I expected, I find that merely getting a chance to air the grievance tends to a settlement of the matter. One side gets the point of view of the other.

"After all witnesses have been heard, the Chief Clerks, who are comparable to lawyers in a real court, make their arguments. These arguments are extremely helpful, especially when they involve technicalities of the work. When I find that the case seems to be evenly balanced, that is, when the six faults of one are equal to half a dozen of the other, I call the Chief Clerks into private conference and I try to get them to agree to a decision in which both parties must yield something of their demands. It is important for the Chief Clerks to know all the reasons for a decision, for it is they who see that the sentences are carried out. It has been my policy to write out a tentative decision which I submit to the representatives of both sides. If they have further arguments, I listen to them. If not, I make the decision valid by affixing my signature to it.

Fines Go Into Trust Fund.

"If a firm or a member of the union fails to obey the decision rendered it may be and is necessary sometimes to bring the pressure of the Manufacturers' Association on the firm and, in the case of the union, it may be necessary to discipline the individual worker or group of workers until they comply with the order issued. All fines are paid into the trust fund of the Grievance Board. The fines of the unions are entered into the account of the employers; the fines of the employers are entered for the union. One profits by the misdemeanors of the other.

"Through the decisions and orders rendered by the Impartial Chairman throughout the country, there is being built up a code of industrial common law for the various industries pretty much in the same manner as our Anglo-Saxon system of jurisprudence was built up.

"The chief merit of a collective bargaining agreement with impartial machinery of this kind is its educational value. In the discussions at the meetings of the Trades Councils and in the hearing of cases, employers get a better understanding of the attitude of the employes and a fuller realization of their difficulties in carrying on their work and in the holding together and upbuilding of their organization. The employes on their part, get an understanding of the difficulties which the employer encounters in carrying on his business and a realization that his pathway is not all lined with roses'.

"With the elimination of the old system of fighting, the leaders of the union are left with more time to do constructive work along the lines of building up a co-operative organization instead of preparing a regiment for battle. The types of labor union leaders are changing. Today the leader has got to fight with his mind instead of his fists. Formerly when half a dozen or more workers had a grievance they walked out of the shop and stayed out until they could force the employer to come to terms. Under the new system, it is often difficult for the men to understand that they must stay on the job and submit their grievance first to their union representative and later, perhaps to the Impartial Chairman, but it is done.

"Nor is it only on the union's side that such trouble exists. Too many of the employers who join with others of their association in collective bargaining of this kind are still living under the old idea of arrogant and autocratic control. It will take time for all to understand how important is the step they are taking, but the effort at this sort of education is well worth while."

QUAINT FRENCH ORIGIN TRACED OF USUAL AUTOMOBILE TERMS

BECAUSE FRANCE TOOK LEAD IN EARLY DAYS OF INDUSTRY, MOST OF THE MOTOR TERMES ARE DERIVED FROM "LA BELLE LANGUE."

The French took the plea in the auto industry because they had imagination, capital, skilled mechanics and some of the best roads in the world. Progress was delayed in England by adverse legislation and in the United States by poor roads over which the weak engines of that period were unable to make much headway. When we finally made our start, we found it necessary to invent a lot of new names or else borrow those which the French had already coined. As the latter was the easier method, the language was immediately enriched by a long list of foreign words, which have now become part of our everyday speech—such as chauffeur, chassis, garage, tonneau, limousine, and so on. None of these words was made up from nothing, like the word "gas", which was invented by a chemist, or "kodak", by a manufacturer, but were words already in common use in France and were naturally used in the new industry as the ones most suitable.

The word chauffeur means a fireman or stoker. A man who fires a boiler is called a "chauffeur" in French. There is a curious survival here which is difficult to explain. The early cars were steamers and required two men to operate them, the "mechanicien" and the "chauffeur"—the mechanic and the fireman, respectively. But as the word has now acquired a definite legal standing, meaning a paid driver of an automobile it will probably last as long as automobiles are used.

Also Meant Robber.

But the French dictionary gives another definition of the word which is not so complimentary; a robber. It seems that in the Middle Ages there were bands of marauders who had their own methods of exacting toll from frequenters of the highways. If these unfortunate people did not contribute, as much as the robbers thought reasonable they had a playful way of warming the victims' feet by building a fire under them which soon overcame any unwillingness. As this gentle practice antedates the steam engine by several centuries the word, it will be seen, has almost a high antiquity, so that it is a far cry from the lowly chauffeur of the Middle Ages to the lordly autocrat of the modern automobile. Be that as it may, some people claim to have found the same strain running down the line and cropping out in the modern taxicab driver.

"Chassis," the next word on our list, means a "frame" but is now taken to mean the mechanical parts of the car—all that remains when the body is removed. It is now used in this sense in French as well as in other languages.

The word "garage" means a railroad siding, but as applied to automobiles means a room or building where cars are kept ready for use—a close analogy, for the cars are switched off the main line for the time being. It is not a store room or repair shop, but is similar to a livery stable where your horse and rig are, or rather were, kept in proper condition ready for immediate use when required.

"Jump Into the Tank."

The word "tonneau," applied to the rear seats, has apparently passed out of use, although it was once heard very frequently. It merely means a tank or cask. The gasoline tank is called a "tonneau" in French, and the rear seats were called the tonneau because the back of the car was almost circular in outline. The French had a circular cart which was called by the same name and so it was naturally applied to that part of an automobile which looked like a cask. Of course the word was adopted in this country as it sounded more automobilious. You would hardly ask your lady friends to "jump into the tank."

But the word "limousine" has the most picturesque origin of all. It is named after the head-covering of certain ladies of France; the inhabitants of the region around the city of Limoges, which was the capital of the old province of Limousin. A woman of this region would be called a Limousine. The ladies thereabouts—the peasant ladies, be it understood—wear a sort of coif or hood with a cape attached. This has come to be known as a limousine because the ladies of Limoges—the peasant ladies—wear it. The French have a sort of covered cart, much like a prairie schooner, which was named a limousine because it was covered with a hood, and when the closed winter body of the automobile was devised, what more natural than to call it a loulimousine also? Thus we see the evolution of the word from the peasants' coif to the modern high-powered automobile; but, while all the ladies of Limoges and vicinity own limousines and some of them more than one, and even go driving in them—yet they are not at all run by gasoline!

Pronunciation is Off.

Looking over the above list we see that some of the words were not really needed, but they have become fixed in the language. "Tonneau," however, was a pure "hangar", applied to the place where airplanes were stored. In French the word merely means a shed, for wood, cows or any other use. If a word had to be coined why not use "airage", meaning a garage for airplanes? And why not pronounce it so that a Frenchman would understand it? It sounds very much like "ong-gar", and not as it is usually pronounced, like the English words we get from the French would be word "hangar". However, few of the recognized at home, the words elite and limousine being notable exceptions. But the French have just as much trouble domesticating the many English words they have adopted, so the odds are even. As long as this is so there is no danger of ending the Franco-English entente cordial. But if both nations, when borrowing each others words, were required to learn the pronunciation also, there is no telling what disasters might be predicted.

A UNIQUE WEDDING PERFORMED IN WEST

A unique wedding ceremony was performed at Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, recently when Miss O'Brien of Philadelphia was united in marriage with Charles Barker of Vancouver by Rev. Father Egan of Boston, at the local Isolation Hospital, where the bride is a scarlet fever patient. The ceremony perforce was performed through a window of the hospital. Safe behind a germ-proof sheet of glass the groom and Father Egan took their stand in the hospital grounds, while Miss O'Brien, charmingly gowned, made her responses from the interior of the building. Following the ceremony the bride returned to her ward to await expiration of her six weeks' exile, while the groom left Moose for his home in Vancouver. Miss O'Brien was stricken with scarlet fever while travelling to Vancouver with Father Egan, where she was to have been married. She was taken from the train there and moved to the Isolation Hospital.

SETTLEMENT OF COAL AND COTTON STRIKES AND AVERTING OF CRISIS IN ENGINEERING CHANGES BRITAIN

COMPLETE TRANSFORMATION IN TRADE AND INDUSTRY HAS RESULTED, SAYS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TRADE SUMMARY.

LONDON, July 30. (Associated Press.) Settlement of the coal strike, after more than three months idleness, the return of the cotton operatives to work, and the last minute agreement in the engineering industry have completely transformed the business, industrial and economic aspect of Great Britain, says the American Chamber of Commerce in its official monthly summary of trade.

Wage reductions have not been effected in practically all important industries, including coal, cotton, woollen, road transport, tramways, gas works, engineers and railwaymen. The cost of living, meanwhile, continues to fall, according to the official figures. During June the index figure fell from 128 to 119, a decline of 9 points.

The bank rate has been suddenly reduced to 6 per cent. This is believed to be due to the action of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, which reduced its discount rate to 6 per cent. The policies of the Bank of England and the Federal Reserve Bank have run on parallel lines for some time.

The British government will give a grant of $5,000,000 to foster cotton growing in the British Empire. This will replace the former promise of $250,000 a year for five years. The grant will come out of the profit made in marketing Egyptian cotton during the war.

September 30th has been fixed as the commencing date for the new Anti-Dumping Bill. Discussions in committee point to the fact that a tax of 66 2-3 per cent. may be imposed by the act and that under the depreciated exchange section a duty of 500 per cent will be necessary in some cases.

The effects of the coal stoppage and general trade depression are reflected in the revenue returns for the quarter ending June 30, which show a deficit of 67 millions sterling, revenue being less by 111 millions as compared with the same period last year.

The production of pig iron during May was only 13,600 tons, and steel 5,700 tons. In May, 1920, figures were 739,000 tons and 846,000 tons respectively. The low output was due to the coal strike.

The American Chamber in London announces it will shortly issue a trade report dealing with office appliances and labor saving devices in Great Britain.

The International Chamber of Commerce recently finished its deliberations here. The American section placed all its facilities at the disposal of the delegates.

FEDERAL TELEGRAPH TO YUKON BUILDING ROMANCE OF NORTH.

Colorful Incident of Boom Days of Mining Camps.

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 30.—(Canadian Press).—Whenever old "sourdoughs" of the Yukon foregather to talk of those old boom days when they lived in the colorful atmosphere of lively mining camps, the romance of the building of the Federal Government telegraph line from Ashcroft, B. C., to Forty-Mile, Y. T., just above Dawson, on the Alaskan boundary, is always prominently featured. In their minds the development of Northern British Columbia and the Yukon Territory is closely linked with the maintenance of this quick avenue of communication with the outside world.

In the face of enormous difficulties the nineteen hundred and one miles of wire was strong through a virtual wilderness in less than three years. All materials for construction and provisions for the workers had to be carried in by dog teams in winter and pack trains in summer.

The first venture in telegraph construction by the Government was in 1899, at the time of the great Dawson gold rush, when six hundred miles of wire was strung from Bennett, B. C., to Dawson. Messages from "outside" were mailed to Skagway, Alaska, carried from there a distance of about two hundred miles through the White Pass to Bennett, where they were placed on the wire.

In the fall of 1900 gold was discovered at Atlin, B. C., and the telegraph line was extended from Bennett to that point. From that time until the last gap between Forty-Mile and Ashcroft was closed on September 28, 1901, the work was steadily pushed forward, one gang working from Ashcroft north and another from Atlin south. At about the time the two crews met another extension to the line in the North—from Dawson to Forty-Mile—had been completed, thus connecting with the United States Alaskan land lines and bringing in a great deal of additional revenue, as the United States cables to Alaska were not laid until nearly three years later and, in the meantime, all messages to America's northerly possession had to go over the Canadian circuit.

While for a time it was found feasible to work direct from Ashcroft to Dawson, the rapid increase in business in recent years has made it necessary to cut the wire and relay from Hazelton, B. C. In case of severe wire trouble, other relays can be established without delay.

The lure of the North has strongly gripped most of the telegraph operators, who prefer life in a lonely cabin in the wilderness to the bright lights of the big cities. Many enlisted during the war, but lost no time in getting back to the North when demobilized.

There are two operators in each cabin, one of whom is a combination operator and lineman, who is held responsible for the repair of any breaks in the wire in his district. They cook their own meals, provisions being sent in once a year by pack train. Moose and other wild game is plentiful, so there is no lack of fresh meat. Most of the men augment their incomes by trapping, making an average of two thousand dollars extra yearly

Of the one hundred telegraphers employed between Forty-Mile and Ashcroft, a large percentage have been in the service since 1899 when the line was built. Each man is allowed three months' holidays every three years.

It having been found that the wire can be used for telephone service without in any way interfering with the telegraph service, the Government has installed telephone exchanges at many points and surrounding ranchers are thus brought into closer touch with each other. This feature of the service is being gradually extended, and it is expected that before long even the most sparsely settled region will enjoy the advantages of telephonic communication.

POLE LEADER ASKS U. S. AID TO END WAR.

Sees Danger of Fight Over Silesia; Fears It May Spread.

(By EDWIN HULLINGER, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, July 30.—"America must intervene in the Upper Silesian controversy to prevent a Polish-German war which could easily ignite another European war," Adelbert Korfanty, leader of Polish insurgents, declared in an exclusive interview with the United Press here today.

"There is real danger of such a war unless the Silesian issue is settled promptly and definitely," Korfanty declared. "It is difficult to see how this is possible unless the United States intervenes."

15,000 Troops Asked.

"It is necessary," he said, "that 15,000 troops be sent to Silesia to enforce the allied decision on the division of that territory. The Germans are pledged to resist any division that does not strike them as favorable."

Korfantly, a plump and dapper person, spoke with intense seriousness. Toying with the monocle which hung from a silk cord, or stroking his graying mustache, he spoke slowly in French, apparently weighing each word. He showed familiarity with American politics and conditions.

"I appeal," he said, at one point, to the 80 Congressmen and 20 Senators sent to Washington by Polish votes to use their influence toward American mediation in the interests both of Poland and European peace.

Harvey as Mediator.

"Ambassador Harvey will sit with the Supreme Council and it lies in his power to avert a Polish-German conflict by acting as mediator. "British and Italian desires to keep troops out of Silesia are unacceptable. It will only perpetuate friction.

"An inter-allied control, such as obtains in the Saar basin is also impracticable, especially if England and France continue to disagree.

"The United States, however, could adjust everything; every one would accept her verdict."

TOOK $5 FOR KISS, ALSO $75, MOTORIST SAYS

NEW YORK, July 30.— Helen Joyce, 20, a telephone operator of 814 Halsey street, Broklyn, was riding with Herman Schlueter of 2859 West Twenty-third street, in the "Gold Mine," one of the amusements in the Bowery, at Coney Island, late Tuesday night, when Schlueter offered her $5 for a kiss, according to his testimony yesterday in Coney Island court.

The young woman accepted and gave him the kiss and took the $5, according to Schlueter, but, he said, she also took his wallet, containing $75. He charged her with grand larceny. The defendant denied having kept the wallet, saying she threw it playfully on the floor of the boat in which they made the ride through the "Gold Mine."

She was held in $1,500 bail for examination to-morrow.

FISH HATCHERY IN PETERBORO FOR PROPAGATION OF 'LUNGE

ONLY ONE OF ITS KIND IN THE WORLD—A GOOD LOCATION.

If a fish hatchery is established in this district, and the Provincial Fisheries Department has virtually given its promise to that effect, it will be chiefly for the propagation of bass and maskinonge. And according to the information in the possession of the Department this will be the only hatchery of maskinonge in the world. Such is the assertion of Mr. R. J. Soden, president of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association, who has been actively interested in the representations that have been made to the Government.

The maskinonge is indigenous to Canadian waters and has always abounded in the lakes and rivers of the Trent district. It ranks high among the game fish, it is a valuable and appetizing food, and because of its attractions to tourists and to equally ardent sportsmen nearer home it deserves the portection and care that will prevent its extinction. Regarded from another angle, a fair day's catch has stimulated many a man's self esteem, formed the bright and durable thread of his oft repeated and invariably amplified, if not exaggerated stories, and has finally dangled in the foreground of the inevitable photograph of the trophies of a run of luck with the hooks and spoons.

Lost Spawn.

Mr. Soden asserts that ninety per cent. of the maskinonge spawn is lost nearly every spring by the lowering of the water levels in the Trent system. This adverse condition evidently has to be accepted without complaint. The rights of navigation take precedence, even over the needs of power consumers, and against such claims the spawn of the maskinonge takes a feeble and uncertain third place. But the Fisheries Department has shown itself responsive to the solicitations of the local fishermen and of other organizations interested in the stocking of the Trent waters. Mr. T. Tooms, M.L.A., has given this movement every support, and there is every likelihood that a hatchery will be set up somewhere in the district.

The Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association have given much time and consideration to the matter of the best location for a hatchery for maskinonge and bass. They have proposed to the Fish and Game Department at Toronto, what would appear to the ordinary observer of these fish, a common sense method of obtaining the best results from such a hatchery.

Recognizing in the first place that maskinonge seek the waters of the Trent Waterway as their natural habitat, this association has located in the neighborhood of Peterborough would seem to be the natural chosen spawning beds of these fish.

Seek Drowned Lands.

The association has found that the fish seek the lands drowned by the spring freshets, either at the low lying arm of a lake or a creek mouth and deposit the greater portion of the spawn upon such lands, hence the enormous loss of spawn when the freshets subside and the waters assume their normal level.

They would therefore propose that the Ontario Fish and Game Department take over lands on which this spawn is deposited, erect dams across the junction between such lands and the lakes on which they lie, open the gates in the dams when the freshets are out and allow the fish to seek without hinderance their natural spawning beds, then close the gates until the spawning season is past, when the parent fish could be released either by netting them and passing them across the face of the dam, or by an arrangement that would allow sufficient water to escape to allow the parent fish to escape with it, and yet keep the spawning beds covered.

This, roughly, is what they would recommend, and it would, as before stated, seem to be the feasible way to proceed.

Good Transportation.

Such spawning beds exist quite close to Peterborough, as at the head waters of Mud Lake, above Bridgenorth and at the mouth of Deer Bay Creek. Whether either of these locations are the best possible to be obtained they cannot say. They do know, however, that in each spawning season the fish, both bass and maskinonge, seek these beds in thousands, and the Association has asked the Deputy Minister of Game and Fisheries to investigate them during the next spawning season of the 'lunge, and have been given to understand that this will be done.

Both places offer no obstacles in in the way of transportation for the fry, as with motor trucks they can be on the railway in this city within one hour of the time they are netted, or can be placed on lake passenger boats for transportation to any railhead at any point on the Trent Watgrways System.

The Department of Game and Fisheries under the Deputy Minister, Mr. McDonald, who personally visited Peterborough a short time ago, is giving this matter their careful and serious consideration, and it is hoped and expected that they, together with the assistance of the local Fish and Game Association, which is aiding the department in gathering all possible information on the subject, will arrive at a decision that will assure us for all time against the danger of the extinction of the 'lunge and bass in the wtaers of the Trent Waterways.

PRAISES WIVES OF PRIME MINISTERS

LONDON, July 30.—(Associated Press).—Lady Astor, at a luncheon recently given by the British Women's Patriotic League to Mrs. Lloyd George and the wives of the Dominion Premiers, replied to a toast and caused much amusement when she said she had a profound admiration for the wives of the Imperial Prime Ministers.

"I admire them for what they have made their husbands," she said, "and I commiserate with them for what they have had to do. I would like to be a Prime Minister's wife, because it would be a glorious chance for getting things done, but it is one of the most difficult jobs in the world.

"Prime Ministers rise to such dizzy heights that their wives are the only persons who can speak out flat to them. I am sure Mrs. Lloyd George would agree with me. Never have there lived five less pompous men than our Prime Ministers, and we must thank their wives for it. Their wives have kept them straight and told them not to be ridiculous."

COSTS TOO MUCH TO USE GUNS FOR CURFEW

CALGARY, Alta., July 30.—(Canadian Press).—It occurred to some one in the City Hall recently that the sounding of a cannon at bed time would be just the proper thing for Calgary, but after consulting the military authorities it was learned that this method of reminding the citizens of their slumber hour would cost the city $25 a day. The military authorities said they would be willing to put over the nightly barrage. They have only 18-pound guns, and to shoot them, even for the sake of warning the children to go to bed, would burn up money too fast. It would mean about $7,500 a year. The city is considering something cheaper.

WIFE FINDS GOLF A MANIA; ASKS DIVORCE FOR NEGLECT

STERLING P. HAYWARD OF MONTCLAIR, N.J., REPLIES THAT WIFE'S FAMILY INTRUDED AND INSISTS HE'S TOO POOR TO PAY ALIMONY

NEW YORK, July 30.—Golf is the thing that upset the marital happiness of Mrs. Rachel B. Hayward of Montclair, N. J., according to affidavits filed here before Vice-Chancellor Fielder in Newark, when she applied for temporary alimony pending the trial of her suit for divorce from Sterling P. Hayward, Vice-President and General Manager of the Connelly Iron Sponge and Governor Company of 227 Fulton street. She says the game became a mania with him and that he thought so much about drives and putts and golf in general that he slices his home approach terribly and virtually put her out of his life.

Mrs. Hayward sets forth in her affidavits that her husband went to England last April to attend the golf matches there, and that during the six weeks he was gone he allowed her only $15 a week for her support and that of her two children. She also says that he spends most of his time on the links of the Glen Ridge Country Club, goes to Pinehurst every winter for a week of golf and often goes to Atlantic City for the same purpose. Golf, she says, has become a mania with him, and she believes it to be the reason why he has often treated her cruelly, because she knows nothing about golf and doesn't care to learn.

In his reply Hayward said that the trouble began when his wife learned that he was not a wealthy man. He also said that his wife's brother and sisters intruded on his home life and that he did not want them around. He denies his wife's allegations, including one that he occupied a separate room in their Montclair home and refused to sit at the table with her or eat food that she had prepared. The papers show that he is a member of the Princeton Clubs of New York and Philadelphia and of the Glen Ridge Country Club. He says that it would not be possible for him to pay alimony because, owing to business depression, his drawing account with his corporation is only $300 a month.

I was advised to take Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and I lost no time in doing so. I cannot hesitate in recommending it most highly, for when I had not yet taken half the bottle I was relieved. CRITICISM AND REMINISCENCE

(By PATERFAMILIAS)

ECONOMIC DISTRESS AND GOVERNMENT WORSHOPS.

These days of industrial and trade depression in Canada presage a rather gloomy outlook for no inconsiderable army of workingmen next winter, and the prevention of unemployment, if possible, is a problem which promises many an uneasy hour for men in high Governmental posts—the Minister of Labor, for instance. Already, at a time when, under Canada's normal conditions, neither Governments nor the men who elect governing powers, have any foreshadowing reason to look ahead with disturbing pessimism to what the coming winter may bring forth in labor circles, "doling" of work and "charity" enters into present-day calculations. Then, men who refuse the construction work awaiting them, at a wage reduction commensurate with the purchasing power of the dollar, aggravate the situation by carrying with them through their stubbornness thousands of others into enforced idleness. The writer was present at a conference between civic employees and city officials when the former based their demands for increased pay on the purchasing power of the dollar, and the argument looked sound enough. But should that principle not apply both ways, for when a reduction in wages necessitated by unavoidable trade and industrial readjustment leaves those who are "cut" in quite as comfortable circumstances as before, it does seem that the dollar's trade value argument cuts the ground from beneath the feet of such men as those members of building trades in Toronto who pass up the $8,000,000 of building operations in sight, rather than accept reduced pay envelopes compatible with the increased purchasing limit of those envelopes. And these men—some of them at least—will be found in the fore ranks of those unfortunates clamoring for "doles" next winter.

Unless the economic situation is faced squarely on broad "come let us reason together" lines between both employees and industrial and business heads, and in a spirit of co-operation, Canada will lapse into an obscure place in world competition and forfeit that positive position gained by the last decade or so of strenuous enterprise.

Socialistic Theory.

It is hard to conceive how Governments are to create employment, apart from necessary public work, unless the Socialistic theory that Governments should control labor so that co-operation and not competition shall be the dominant factor is put into effect. But this utopian dream of idealists would prove a difficult, if not dangerous, plan to put into effect, out of which might evolve results directly antithetic to the object in view. Such was the experience in France when in the summer of 1848 the new Republican Government, the majority of which were moderate Republicans, mainly representing the bourgeoisie, or middle class, undertook extreme revolutionary measures. The workmen, suffering from industrial depression, similar to that in Canada today, demanded Governmental relief, and such radical associates of the administration as Louis Blanc, Ledrun Rollin and Albert, a locksmith, rashly undertook to guarantee employment for every citizen by instituting "national workshops."

Dangerous Experiment.

This proved a gigantic task, in fact, a dangerous experiment, from which emanated bloody civil war. The mere distribution of the unemployed among the various industries in which they were engaged called for a new branch of the administration. And within four weeks the number of applicants for Government work had increased from 140 to 65,000. Then, under the stimulus of state competition, a number of strikes were declared against private industrial enterprises, when this impracticable scheme of dreaming theorists assumed alarming and quite unmanagable proportions, throwing the already stricken country into a revolutionary phase of unrest and turmoil.

Man Against Man.

In this connection Fyffe very pertinently summarised the consequences of this wild Socialistic employment innovation when he declared: "If, instead of a group of benevolent dreamers the experiment of 1848 had found in its authors a company of millionaires anxious to dispel all hope that mankind might ever reach a higher order than that of unrestricted competition of man against man, it could not have been conducted under more fatal conditions."

And what was the upshot of this disastrous state blunder? The elections in April 23, 1848, conducted under protection of the National Guard, returned President Lamartine and his colleagues, but with less radical associates in the Cabinet; the excluded radicals fanned the flames of revolt, and on May 15 a mob of workingmen invaded the Chambers and dissolved the Assembly, following which a provisional Government was installed in the Hotel de Ville. But the National Guard, rallying to the Government's support, the leaders at the Hotel de Ville were captured; then the Deputies reconvened in their Assembly Hall. Encouraged by this turn of affairs, the Government then planned to efface the incubus of national workshops, and by one bold edict on June 21 legislated that all beneficiaries of public workshops between the ages of 17 and 25 must enlist in the army or lose all support from the State.

The Hundred Thousand.

But the hundred thousand destitute Frenchmen who had flocked into the Government workshops at Paris(rose as one man in a revolt which actually developed into civil war, and the streets of the French capital ran with human blood. Paris assumed the character of a huge battlefield, in which the workingmen, in fear of starvation through the abolition of State workshops, fought with that ferocious courage which is the child of despairr. The eastern portion of the city was barricaded by the revolting workmen into a formidable fortified camp; all available troops were brought into Paris, and, side by side with the National Guards, waged a war against the several army corps of workingmen, in which mercy found no place—and savagery reigned supreme.

Cold Steel.

For four days and nights the insurgents sustained an artillery attack in which field and siege ordnance finally battered down the barricades, besides demolishing whole blocks of buildings, while cold steel effectively wielded by Government troops drove their compatriotic enemy into the north-eastern section of Paris. Grape and cannister ended this tale of appalling slaughter; all prisoners taken alive were transported by the victorious Government; Government workshops and all concessions to Socialism were discarded as implements for unemployment relief "tried and found wanting."

Confidence and Co-operation.

And so we see the danger of Governments promising more than they can fulfill, when the vital interests of the great mass of a people are at stake. These days of advancing democracy much is expected of national or provincial administrators in relief of adverse employment conditions; but the sun has not yet risen on the day when Governments would be justified in undertaking public revenue expending plans other than construction operations from which the State would derive a direct benefit—highways, eliminating as far as practicable the danger of level railway crossings, or needed public buildings, for instance. With such a policy Canada needs a quickening in business, commercial and industrial fields, restoration of confidence between capital and labor, producer and consumer, together with such readjustments as will boost our rapidly declining export trade. This country is rich in natural resources, awaiting capital and enterprise—a vast, prolific territory in which its modest nine millions of a population should find ready sustenance were a spirit of mutual co-operation for expansion, achievement and exploitation more in evidence than it is today. But to expect that Governments—Provincial or Dominion—will be in a position to find employment for every man in what promises to prove a huge army of Canadian idle workers next winter, savors of demanding the making of bricks without straw. It simply cannot be done. And unless progressive, enterprising, industrial reaction quickly sets in both Governments and the nation in general will have to devise some means for alleviating considerable economic distress after the next snow flies.

A CASE OF 'SUASION.

Some twenty-five years ago matrimonial advertisements were quite common, although regarded by some as curiosities. I remember very well one which held my attention on account of its uniqueness. It read this way:

"A young gentleman on the point of getting married is desirous of meeting a man of experience who will dissuade him from such a step."

And marriage was then a generally accepted institution.

My gracious! Just imagine it, dissuade him from getting married! What a difference one finds these days in society's relation to the nuptial knot. What, with the making of business and professional women by the legion, so to speak; the growing antipathy of the daughters of Mother Eve toward domestic ties; man's reluctance to assume the cost and responsibilities of family cares when rents are prohibitive to the majority and sheltering roofs at a premium, the bulk of our young men and women need no persuasion against the holy bonds of matrimony. On the contrary, divorce courts are teeming with applicants of both the masculine and feminine gender for a return to single blessedness (?), while in some communities a taxing of bachelors and spinsters is seriously mooted as a means for stimulating the marriage market.

"Four feet on the fender"—an old English idea of worldly happiness, you know—to say nothing of home in which clinging cooing baby sweet, and the joyous, happy companionship of dependent, growing little ones cement in family felicity fond papas and sacrificing mammas, no longer appeals to this day and generation as they used to do. No, these are times in which jazz, white lights, terpsichorean extravaganza, joy riding and what not dominate too degeneratedly the life of so-called supernations.

SWEET SIXTEEN.

I am taller far than Bess,
Though she's stouter I confess,
And my shoe tops elude my dress;
And my hair
Reaches far below my waist,
Which is just a little laced,
And many with good taste
Call me fair.

With the boys I mustn't play,
Mamma told me so today,
And my dolls are given away—
Every one.
I'm too old to run about,
Play at tag or laugh and shout,
I must learn to live without Any fun.

If with cousin Tom I walk
Mamma sees me like a hawk,
And you ought to hear her talk—
Such a tongue!
"You, a school girl, flirting, fie!"
Then I wish that I might die,
Since for any pleasure I
Am too young.

I'm too old to play with toys,
I'm too young for woman's joys,
I'm too big to fight the boys;
And the men
I'm forbidden to regard,
Lest I sister Bess retard,
And I find it rather hard
Now and then.

GANGSTER KILLED IN STREET FIGHT.

"Billy the Machine," Motor Car Robber, Shot Down in Feud of New York Underworld.

NEW YORK, July 30.—Men with big bank rolls and notorious names, living on the outer fringes of the law, and hence driven largely to self-protection against their foes, breathed easier the other night after a pair of anonymous marksmen had settled a collection of old scores with Billy Sperduti and left his lifeless body, riddled with pistol bullets, in the hallway of his home at 70 Mott Street.

Detectives of the Italian Squad, viewing the form in the dingy doorway, its head lolling back on the first step of the tenement stairs, said they would do their duty and try to get the getters of Billy, but they would weep no tears at his taking.

And in dives where furtive-faced men discussed in whispers one of the most picturesque gun battles of recent Italian quarter history, the moral was drawn that the "stick-up" man who gets too bold in preying upon his own kind in the end will "get his" at the hands of men just as cunning and just as courageous as himself.

The only regret over the incident that enlivened the stifling, crowded street for a few lurid minutes seemed to be that two unoffenning women who came into the line of fire dropped, each with a bullet in her leg, while a man, who insisted he had nothing to do with the affray but was held as a material witness, was wounded badly.

Sperduti, sometimes known as "Billy the Machine," because he was a motor car desperado and liked to boast of his automobiles, sauntered out of his home, picked a careful way through the press of humanity sweltering in the oppressive air and just had steered a diagonal course off the sidewalk when he saw that two men who had been lounging in doorways across the way were converging upon him, each with his right hand concealed.

Billy tried to regain his own door, but as he turned a raking cross-fire spattered all about him. Screaming women and frantic children, shoved into a scramble by frightened men as they dodged for shelter, hindered Billy's movements and it was a second or two before he could unlimber. Then his own pistol came into action.

A bullet drilled through his trunk as he reached the hallway. His weapon answered until all its chambers were empty, but his aim was wild, and with a desperate lunge for the shelter of the hallway he flung the pistol into the street just as a missile pierced his head and finished him.

Lieutenant Casey in the Elizabeth Street Station, just back of the tenement, heard the fusillade and sent the reserves double-timing into Mott Street. A dead man, the two injured women, an empty weapon and a hysterical mob were all they found. But the police were sure such a spray of bullets must have found more marks, and sent word to the Oak Street Station to be on the look-out for any gunshot case that might show up at Broad Street Hospital. Frank Gratana, 20 years old, of 124 East Third Street, appeared there soon with a bullet wound in his breast and was taken to Bellevue a prisoner, held as a material witness. He said he was caught by a stray bullet as he was walking in Canal Street.

The injured women, who were taken to Volunteer Hospital, are Mrs. Carlona Tosalla, of 70 Mott Street and Agato Cicerone of 6,709 Fourteenth Avenue, Brooklyn.

The police say Sperduti recently "stuck up" a man whom his emissaries summoned to the lobby of an east side movie house and got a $500 roll. They say he was the leading spirit in a raid on a crap game in a cafe near his home whose patrons, flush from a winning session at the races, were forced to surrender $21,000 in money and jewellery, that not long ago he forced a woman, at pistol point, to part with $400, and that other depredations had enriched him. He was 28 years old and a laborer, but don't work much.

Records at headquarters showed that Sperduti had served two terms in a reformatory; that he had been discharged once when arraigned for burglary, and that two charges of burglary and one of burglary and assault, running back as far as 1917, still were pending against him. Why none of the cases has been disposed of the police did not know.

LARAMIE HOLDS THE RANGE

By Frank H. SPEARMAN.

She almost cried out a protest: "How can you say such a thing?"

"Just the plain fact, that's all."

"Is it fair because you are enemies to accuse my father in such a way?"

"Have it as you want it, but get my view of it with the one you get over at your place. And if you'll climb down we'll go under cover."

"Now may I say something?"

"No more than fair you should."

She spoke low, but fast and distinctly; nor was there any note of fear or apology in her words. "You must put a low estimate on a woman if you would expect her to go home with tales from the camp of an enemy that had put her again on her road. It may be that is the kind of woman you know best——"

Laramie tried to interrupt.

"I've not done," she protested instantly. "You said I might say something. It may be that is the kind of woman you understand best. But I won't be classed with such—not even by you. If you've saved me from great danger it doesn't give you the right to insult me by telling me you expect me to be a tale-bearer. It isn't manly or fair to treat me in that way."

"You mustn't expect too much from a thief."

"You shame yourself, not me, when you use a word I never in my life, not even in anger, ever used of you."

"You shame your friends when you call me or think of me as anything else. I'm no match for you——"

"I've not done——"

"I'm no match for you, I know, in fine words—or in any other kind of a game—don't think I don' know that; but by—" he checked himself just in time—"thief or no thief, you've had a square deal from me every turn of the road."

Bitter with anger, he blurted out the words with vehemence. If he looked for a quick retort, none came. Kate for an instant waited. "Should you wish me," she asked, "to look for anything else at your hands?"

"Well, we're not holding up this rain any by talking," he returned gruffly. "Get down and we'll get inside. You can stay here till morning."

"Oh, no!"

"Why not?"

"Just put me on the road for home, and let me be going."

"This is my cabin. I told you that."

"I can't stay here."

"This is my cabin. I'm responsible for the safety of every one that steps under my roof."

"I know; but I must go home. They have most likely been searching the trails for me. Father would telephone—to Belle, and learn I'd started home—and the storm——"

He did not hesitate to cut her off. "Afraid of me, eh?"

The contempt and resentment in his words stirred her. Without answering she sprang as well as she could in her wet habit from the saddle and faced him, close enough almost to see into his eyes in the darkness. From the fireplace inside a gleam of light, from the blaze that Hawk had started, piercing the tiny window sash, shot across her face. "Does this look like it?" she demanded, her eyes seeking his. He was stubborn: "Answer me!" she exclaimed in a tone of a dictator.

"Then why don't you do what I ask you to do, instead of giving me a story about Barb Doubleday telephoning?" he demanded. She winced at her mistake in urging an impossible thing. She felt when she made it Laramie would not credit so wild an assertion. Her father would not take the trouble to telephone to save even a bunch of his steers from a storm, much less his daughter. "But there may be others over there," Laramie added grimly, "that would."

The reference to the man he hated—Van Horn—was too plain to be passed over. "Now," she returned, as if to close—and standing her ground as she spoke—"have you said all the mean things you can think of?"

He evaded her thrust. "The wires are down a night like this, anyway," he objected. "If you'd be as honest with me as I am with you we'd get along without saying mean things."

"I am honest with you. Can't you see that a woman can't always be as open in what she says as a man?"

"What do I know about a woman?"

"But since you make everything hard for me I shall be open with you."

"Come inside, then, and say it."

"I couldn't be any wetter than I am, and if I've got to say this to one man I won't say it to two: You ask me to stay all night in your cabin, as if I were a small boy—in stead of what I am."

"You could take all the shooting-irons on the place into your own room with you."

"I shouldn't need to. But what would people say of me when they hear of it? That I stayed there all night! You know what they can do to a woman's reputation in this country—you know how some evil tongues talk about Belle. I would like to keep at least my reputation out of this bitter war that is going on—can't you, won't you, understand?"

He was silent a moment. "Come into the fire, then," he said at length, "and we'll see what we can do. You've been on the wrong road all night. There's no need of any secrets now on anybody's part, I guess. But I'd rather turn you over to ten thousand devils than to the man you're going back to tonight."

"Surely," she gasped, "you don't mean my own father?"

"You know the man I mean," was all he answered. Then he threw open the cabin door and stood waiting for her to pass within.

It would have been idle for Laramie to deny to himself, as she stepped without hesitation under his roof, that he loved her; or that he could step in after her and close his door for her and for him—even for an hour—against the storm and the world, without a thrill deeper than he had ever felt.

He leaned his rifle against the cabin wall; a blanket had been hung completely over the window and he let down two heavy bars across the door. Kate, in front of the fire, followed him with her eyes. "Don't mind this," he said, noticing her look. "The place is watched a good deal. I couldn't afford too much of a surprise any time."

While he was searching for a lamp her eyes ran quickly over the dark interior, lighted fitfully as the driftwood, snapping on the stone hearth, flared at times into a blaze. Kate herself, despite the doubts and fears of her situation, was conscious of a strange feeling in being under Laramie's roof—at one with him in so far as he could make her feel so. Like a roll of fleeting film strange pictures flashed across her mind and she could not help thinking more and more about the man and his stubborn isolation.

He had taken off his coat and was trying to light the lamp. She looked narrowly at the face illumined by the spluttering flare of the wick as he stood over it, looking down and adjusting the flame; he seemed, she was thinking—for her at least—so easy to get along with—for everyone else, so hard.

A pounding at the door gave her a start. Hawk was returning from the barn where he had taken the horses. Laramie showed no surprise and walked over to lift the double bar only after he had got the lamp to burn to suit him. She felt startled again when Laramie in the simplest way made the formidable outlaw, who now walked in, known to her. The picture of him as he swung roughly inside from the wild night was unforgetable. Erect and with his piercing eyes hollowed by illness, his impassive features made slender by suffering and framed by the striking beard, Hawk seemed to Kate to confirm in his appearance every fantastic story she had heard of him.

Not till after Laramie had urged him and Kate herself had joined in the plea would he come near her or near to the fire.

"A wet night and a blind trail do pretty well at mixing things up," observed Laramie. "However, we needn't make any further secrets. Abe, here, has got it in his mind to head for a hospital tonight. You," he looked at Kate, "are heading for home. I don't like either scheme very much, but I'm an innocent bystander. We'll ride three together till the trails fork. Then," he spoke again to Kate, "we'll put you on a sure trail for the ranch and the two of us will head into town. It isn't the way I planned, but it's one way out."

"The sooner we get started the better," said Hawk, curtly. The two men discussed for a moment the trip; then Laramie and Hawk left the house for the barn and corral to get up horses. Before leaving Laramie showed Kate how to drop the bars and cautioned her not to neglect to secure the door. "Some of this bunch Van Horn has got out wouldn't be very agreeable company."

"Surely they wouldn't harm me!"

"It would mean a nasty fight for us when we bring up the horses."

Kate secured the door. Wet and uncomfortable but undismayed by the various turns of her predicament she sat down to study the fire. Her eyes wandered through the gloom to the dark corners of the rough room and over the crude furnishings.

The long, slender snowshoes on the wall, the big beaded moccasins with them, the coiled lariats hung on the pegs in company with old spurs; the bunk in the corner strewn with Indian blankets from the far-off Spanish country, and overflowing with the skin of a grizzly—all brought to mind and reflected an active life. The fire light glinted the bright, bluish barrels of the rifles on the rack to Kate almost sinisterly, for some of them must suggest a side of Laramie's life she disliked to dwell on—yet she allowed herself to wonder which rifle he took when he armed not for elk or grizzlies but for men. And then at the side of the fireplace she saw fastened on the rough wall a faded card photograph of a young woman—almost a girl. It was simply framed—Kate wondered whether it might be his mother. Over the crude wooden frame was hung an old rosary, the crucifix depending from the picture. The beads were black and worn by use as if they had slipped many times through girlish fingers.

She had a long time to let her thoughts run. The two men were not soon back and she was beginning to wonder what might have happened when, standing at the door to listen, she heard noises outside and Laramie's voice. She let him in at once. "You didn't have the door barred," he said, suspiciously.

"Oh, yes, but I heard you speak."

He was alone. "We're ready," he said. "No dry clothes for you, but we can't help it."

She protested she did not mind the wet. Hawk in the saddle was waiting with their horses. Rain was still falling and with the persistent certainty of a mountain storm. Kate, mounting with Laramie's help, got her lines into her hands. "It's pretty dark," he said, standing at her stirrup. "We'll have to ride slow. I go first, Hawk next, then you; if our horses can make the trail yours likely can. I don't think we'll meet anybody, but if we do it's better to know now what to do. If you hear any talk that sounds like trouble push out of the line as quick as you can and throw yourself flat on the ground. Stay there till you don't hear any more shooting, but hang on to your lines so you don't lose your horse.

"The only other trouble might be your getting lost from us." He spoke slowly as if thinking. "That must depend a good deal on you. Keep as close as you can. Can you whistle?" Kate thought she could. "If you can't make us hear," he continued, "shoot—have you got a pistol?" She had none. He brought her a double action revolver from the cabin and showed her how it work. "Don't use it unless you have to. It might be heard by more than us."

Kate stuck the revolver under her wet belt. "Why couldn't I ride with you?" she asked.

"There's more danger riding ahead."

"No more for me than for you."

"I wouldn't say that. But if you want to try it, all right. Keep close. Don't be afraid of bumping me—and Hawk can follow us."

There was nothing in the night to encourage heading into it. That men could find their way with every possibility of landmark and sight blotted out and nothing of sound above the downpour except the tumultous roar of the Turkey which they were following was to Kate a mystery of mysteries. Even the lightning soon deserted them. Their pace was halted by washouts, obstructed by debris in the trail. In places the creek, running bank-full, backed up over their path.

At times Laramie, halting his companions, rode slowly ahead, sounding out the overflows and choosing the footings. Where streamlets poured over rock outcroppings the horses slipped. Frequently, to get his bearings, Laramie felt his way forward by reaching for trees and scraped his knees against them as he pushed his horse close. And in spite of everything to confuse, intimidate, and hold them back, they slipped and floundered on their way until quite suddenly a new roar from out of the impenetrable dark struck their ears.

Laramie halted their party, and the three in silence listened. "That," said Laramie after a moment to Hawk, "sounds like the Crazy Woman."

He went ahead to investigate. He was gone a long time, yet he groped half a mile down the road and made his way back to his companions without a signal. He was on foot. "We're all right," was the report he brought, "it's a little dryer ahead. While I'm down," he said to Kate, "I'll try your cinches. It's a mean night."

"Did you ever see such a night?" she echoed, shuddering.

"Plenty of 'em," returned Laramie. "Once we cross the creek the going will be better."

Of the going between them and the creek Laramie prudently said nothing. It was the worst of the journey. Two stretches were filled with backwater. Across these they cautiously waded and swam the horses. When they gained high ground adjoining the creek Kate breathed more freely. There was a halt for reconnaissance. For this Laramie and Hawk, after placing Kate where she would be safe whether they should come back or not, went forward together.

The splashing and floundering of their horses as the two left her side was gradually lost in the roar of the night and she was alone in the darkness. They were gone a good while, but Kate had enough of confused and conflicting thought to occupy her reflections. After a long interval the report of a Colt's struck her anxious ear. She swallowed in sudden fear to listen more keenly. If there were a fight it would be followed by another report and more. With her heart beating fast she listened, but there was no successor to the single shot, and, calming somewhat, she speculated on just what it might mean. Again she waited with patience such as she could until the measured splash of a horse's feet nearing her through the shallow water announced someone's approach. Laramie was back and alone.

Almost anybody in the world would have been welcome at such a juncture. He called and she answered quickly, but he brought unwelcome news—the little bridge that spanned the creek at this point was out.

"We can't get across, can we?" she exclaimed in disappointment.

"We can swim the creek if you're game for it."

"Could we possibly get across?"

"If I didn't expect to get across I'd sure never try it. It'll be a wet crossing."

"I couldn't be wetter."

"Hawk asked if you could swim."

"I can't."

"I told him I didn't suppose you could."

"Are we all to go together?"

"He's over now. He signaled a minute ago. I told him I'd get you across if he'd get you out. It's close to daybreak. Better take off your coat."

While he strapped her coat to the saddle she lightened and freed herself as much as possible, disengaged, as he directed, her feet from the stirrups, and they started for the creek. At the point he had chosen for the plunge he gave her a few admonitions, chiefly to the effect of doing nothing except to cling to her seat in getting into the flood and getting out. Just as her horse poised beside Laramie's a wave of dread swept over her. It was very literally a plunge into the dark. "Are you afraid?" he asked, divining her feeling.

Pride dictated her answer: "No," she said stoutly. "Though, of course," she added with an attempt at lightness, "I'd prefer to cross on a bridge."

"All in getting used to it, I suppose. I guess I've crossed here a hundred times before there was any bridge. Don't get scared if your head goes under water when your horse jumps in. The bank here is a little high, but it's clean jumping. Say when you're ready."

"I'm ready."

"Go!"

With his hand on her bridle he spoke loudly and sharply, kicked her horse with one foot and punched his own horse with the other at the same time. The next instant, gripped by an overpowering fear and breathless, Kate felt herself jerked into the air, then she plunged headlong forward and sank into the boiling flood. Down, down, she went, her ears swooning with water, mouth and eyes tight shut, and moving she knew not where or how until her head rose out of the flood and a voice yelled above the tumult: "You're all right! Horse's doing fine. Hang on!"

Hawk's Last Fight.

Kate was conscious of a hand clutching her upper arm, a hand so strong her flesh winced within its grip. And she could feel the powerful strokes of her horse as he panted and swam under her.

Above the terrifying swirl of the waters, carrying in the hardly distinguishable light of the breaking day, a mass of debris that swept about the two riders, the only sound was the hard breathing of the horses and a shout repeated by Laramie, until at last it was answered by Hawk somewhere in the darkness ahead.

Urging the horses to their task, Laramie guided them to where Kate could make out portions of the creek bank. She could realize how fast they were being carried downstream by the wild sweep of the current. Trees flashed past her like phantoms, as if the bank were mad instead of the creek. It seemed impossible she could ever make the bank, now very near, and get up out of the water; only Laramie's hand, locked firm now in her horse's mane, and his strong voice as he urged the horses or called to Hawk gave her the slightest hope of coming out alive.

Laramie cried to her to duck as a cottonwood leaning over the water almost tore her cap and hair from her head. The next instant the cottonwood was gone, and, looking ahead, she saw a horseman on a slope on the bank his own horse half submerged. They had reached one of several old fords. Here the two men had purposed to get Kate ashore. But she did not know that this was the last of the ford crossings for a mile—the only shelving bank—nor why Laramie made such superhuman efforts to head her horse toward Hawk, to get to where the horse could ground his feet. Hawk, in an effort to catch Kate's bridle, spurred down to them till his own horse was afloat. Kate's horse struggled desperately, lost headway, and was swept below the ford opening. The two men with shouts, curses, and entreaties, guiding their own horses, urged the hapless beast to greater effort; it was evident he could not reach the ford.

"The roan can't make it," shouted Hawk. "Crowd him up to the ledge where I can get hold of her."

Hawk, reining his horse hastily about, got him back up the shelving ford, spurred down the bank to where Kate, despite Laramie's efforts, was being driven by the sweep of the water and sprang from his horse. Where Kate's horse struggled at that moment the creek bank rose vertically above the peak of the flood. Deep water gave the horse no chance for a foothold and it swam helplessly. Hawk, running along the ledge, awaited his chance. It came at a moment that Laramie succeeded in crowding the roan to the bank. Hawk saw the opportunity and held his hand out to Kate. "Reach up!" he shouted. "Give him both hands!" cried Laramie, punching and pushing her horse against the bank. As Kate swept along, her hands upstretched, Hawk caught her wrists and, bracing himself in the slipping earth, dragged her up and out of the saddle. The roan, with Laramie's hand on his bridle, swept on downstream. The clay bank, under the strain of the double load, gave under Hawk's feet. But without releasing Kate's hands he threw himself flat and, matching his dead weight against the chance of being dragged in, caught her with one arm and flung the other backward into the dark. A clump of willow shoots clutched in his sinewy fingers gave him a stay and, putting forth all his strength, he drew Kate slowly up. She scrambled across his prostrate body to safety.

The force of the gnawing current had already undercut the soft clay. The next instant the whole bank began to sink. Hawk shouted to Kate to run. She saw him struggling in the crumbling earth. Crying out in her excitement, she stretched her hands toward him. He waved her back. As he did so, a great section of the bank on which he was struggling broke, and in the big soft splash Hawk went into the creek.

The instant he saw Kate in Hawk's keeping, Laramie rode down with the flood, looking sharply for a chance to get out the two horses; when finally he did get them ashore he was spent. Leading Kate's horse, he made his way up creek through the willows to where she should be with Hawk.

Hawk's horse he found browsing in the heavy wet grass at the old ford. Neither Kate nor Hawk was in sight. Laramie walked down to the water's edge where Hawk had pulled her out. Familiar with the meander of the bank below the ford, he saw what had happened. The bank, under-cut, had been swallowed by the flood. Laramie ran downstream and came suddenly on Kate standing alone on a rock jutting out above the torrent.

In the uncertain light of the gray morning he saw her anxious face. She explained what had happened. Laramie showed no alarm. "I guess Abe will handle himself," he said.

"Can't we do anything to help him?"

"I'll put you on your trail, then I'll ride down the creek and look for him. He'll make it if his strength doesn't give out."

Laramie took Kate up the creek and, riding through the hills, brought her, unexpectedly, out on a trail within sight of her father's ranchhouse hardly three miles away. He pointed to a break leading from the creek. "You can follow that draw almost to the house," he explained. Then, reining about, he wheeled his horse to take the back trail. "Are you going to run away without giving me a chance to thank you?" she exclaimed, with a feminine touch of surprise.

"There's a gate near the head of the draw where you can get through the wire," he replied stubbornly.

"I can't see how I can ever repay you for what you've done tonight," she persisted.

He was coldly uncompromising. "You needn't bother about any pay, if that's what you call it."

Skillfully she drew her horse a step closer to him. "What shall I call it?" she asked innocently, "debt, obligation? I owe you a lot, ever so much to me—my life."

"I've done no more for you than I've done for less than a human being," he returned impatiently.

"I'm sure that's so. But human beings," she added, with a touch of gentle good-nature, "are supposed to have more feeling that cows or steers, you know."

"I never had a cow or a steer call me names," he retorted rudely.

King Edward School Pupils Have Advantages Of Large Playgrounds

The children who attend the King Edward School in the southern part of the city are fortunate kiddies. They have large, flat grounds of their own, and the school is faced by the pretty little grass-carpeted, tree-studded common. Their equipment for play here also, sems to be the best of any of the grounds. A long line of graduated swings offers opportunity for both large and small children to fly through the air, a giant stride, a slide and a sand-pile, that great favorite of the smaller members, minister to their pleasure. There are quoits for the older boys, who seem to enjoy this form of sport very much, and a popular game for the girls called "tether tenis", where the competition for "turns" is very keen and were some wild batting may be seen any day in the week.

Large and small kiddies come to these grounds, and lots of babies. Sometimes there are as many as four carriages parked at the side of the grounds at once, with their small occupants taking in the sights with much rolling of big eyes. One mother evidently appreciates the advantages of the playgrounds, for she sends her entire brood of seven, ranging in age from twelve years to six months, to be watched over by the kindly care of the young lady and gentleman who are in charge here, and who seem to be very popular with their small charges.

A good rule which is observed without any grumbling in the different games is that of "the youngest first," and the children are very keen in getting their cards punched for points. They are allowed so many points for different things, attendance at grounds and swimming, finishing tasks, etc. and also for home tasks. One small maiden announced that she had washed the dishes all by herself after dinner, 'and we have nine in our family,' and her sister had dried them, while another "minded the baby", and was rewarded accordingly.

They enjoy their bathing trips, and are a wholesome, browned, happy-looking bunch, one and all. A great outcry from the juniors at the sand-pile arose from the fact of a "punch" presented by one of the players to another, but the matter was adjusted satisfactorily, and they were seen playing together again, quite amiably. A little girl with small china tea-set was informed by an enquiring small boy that she should have got some cups and saucers with it, but she pointed triumphantly to the cover, which said "one set", and that clinched the matter.

They do good work in the wool-work cards, in raffia baskets and mats and picture-frames, and are a well-trained, obedient lot of youngsters, who collect and put away in the litle red house provided for this purpose, all the swings, benches and paraphernalia for the different games that have to be locked up every night. They bring their teachers all manner of little presents of flowers and home-made dainties, and watch with keen eyes to see that their offerings are not neglected.

Just now, the youngsters are enchanted with the World of Mirth Shows. The sights and sounds of the aggregated shows interests their imaginations, and the little ones run after the "pipe organ" as they call it; the miniature motor calliope which rounds the park every little while.

Y. W. C. A. Picnic

A jolly party of a dozen Y.W.C.C. girls enjoyed a picnic down the river on Thursday afternoon in the Y.M.C.A. war canoe. The novelty of paddling a big canoe appealed to the girls and when everybody worked and kept stroke with Captain Julia, they made good speed. The picnic supper was big enough to satisfy everyone, as someone said, "even Agnes and Grace." It was enjoyed near Braundport and none wanted to start for home. In fact, some of those who had no paddles wanted to go all the way to Rice Lake or to Stoney Lake "Y" camp, opposite Burleigh Falls. "Y" yells and much laughter and song greeted the campers all along the river and the girls voted this picnic one of the best yet. Those in the party were the Misses Leta Brownscombe, Agnes and Jean Horsfield, Grace Evans, Grace Allen, Olive Marshall, Marjorie Bridge, Julia Nicholls, Daisy McCarren, Margaret Eastwood, Alice Ebbs and Flossie Pammett.

Husband's Estimate Of Better Half

A picture play at the Capitol Theatre for the first three days of this week, "What's a Wife Worth?" devoted some time to the exposition of a modern husband's estimate of the worth of his better half. After a disillusioning second marriage, he discovers in a melodramatic moment that his divorced wife is worth "home, family, wealth, everything!" This view, from all accounts, wouldn't appeal to masculine members of some foreign lands. An Eskimo trapper, in a recent commercial transaction, disposed of four of his wives for a pound of tea and some tobacco each. One of these ladies had been bartered six times, twice for a pound of tea, once for a can of condensed milk, once for a plug of tobacco and once for a slab of bacon, for, in Eskimo custom, the original owner may redeem his lady for double the purchase price.

According to a writer in the London Daily Mail, the husband of a Japanese pearl-diving lady is quite aware of her worth. She means to him long days of pleasant dozing and outings with the husband of other feminine divers. These women start to work at the age of fourteen, and spend the greater part of each year in the water, which gradually turns their hair a repulsive rusty brown and gives their skin a texture resembling sand paper.

Then there are the African women, who work in the forest camps, gathering rubber, or march it to market, nearly always with their black babies strapped to their hips. They doubtless are of some worth to their lords and masters.

A WOMAN'S RIGHT TO GOOD HEALTH

MOST TROUBLES AFFLICTING WOMEN ARE DUE TO POOR BLOOD.

To every woman belongs the right to enjoy a healthy, active life, yet nine out of ten suffer from some form of bloodlessness. That is why one sees on every side, pale, thin cheeks, dull eyes and drooping figures—sure signs of headaches, weak backs, aching limbs and uncertain health. All weak women should win the right to be well by refreshing their weary bodies with the new, rich, red blood that promptly transforms them into healthy attractive women. This new, red blood is supplied by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which reaches every organ and every nerve in the body. Through the use of these pills thousands of women have found benefit when suffering from anaemia, indigestion, general weakness and those ailments from which women alone suffer. Among the many women who tell of the good Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done them is Mrs. L. Hicks, Round Hill, N. S., who says: "I became very much run down in health; my blood seemed weak and watery, my strength failed, and I was so easily tired that my work was a burden. I had often read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to try them, and I can truly say that after using three boxes I found myself gaining, and under a further use of the pills, all my time energy and vitality was restored. Out of my own experience I can strongly recommend this medicine."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

C. G. I. T., Course For The Teachers

The Summer Training School for Sunday School workers, held under the auspices of the Ontario Religious Education Council at Geneva Park, Lake Couchiching, last week, which was attended by several local young ladies who are interested in this work, closed its largest and most successful annual session on July 25th., with an attendance of one hundred and ninety-two. Diplomas for a three years' course were awarded to fourteen graduates.

The Beginners and Primary Department with the Juniors were in charge of Miss Bertha Laine, Childrens' Division Superintendent of the Ontario Religious Education Council, and Miss Carmichael of Indianapolis. Miss Mabel Taggart and Miss May Gemmell had the 'teen age girls and the 'teen age boys and young people were looked after by Dr. J. C. Robertson and Rev. T. A. Halpenny, Dean of the School.

Miss Taggart spoke on method in teaching. The teacher must first have an aim in her lesson, then prepare the minds of the pupils by arousing interest and focusing attention. Following the introduction with unity, is the presentation, which translates the lesson in terms of the pupils' own experience. Generalization and application must be made.

Miss Gemmell divided her class into 'teen age groups, organized Sunday School classes, and Sunday and mid-week sessions were held.

Dr. J. L. Gilmour of McMaster University, conducted the Bible study of the Book of Ames. Dr. Gilmour made the vigorous herdsman live before the eyes of his students. The Carlyle of his time, he denounced the nations for their failure to recognize the moral law of God, while intensely covering his own sphere and doing the work for which he was called.

Rev. Dr. Norman MacLeod of Hartford, Connecticut University, gave a course of lectures in psychology on 'The Unfolding of the Religious Life."

Each stage of life has its own caracteristics and each stage must have its own appropriate training and activities. The child and adult are different, physically, mentally and spiritually. The forces behnd and underlying child development are heredity, environment and God. The unfolding life of the child makes many demands and when these demands are met by parents and teachers the fruits of their work are many.

The characteristics, religious development and work of the teacher in each stage of child life were carefully considered by the speaker.

The afternoons at the Summer School were free for sports and recreation of all kinds. Twilight talks were given by Dr. Robertson and Miss May Gemmell on Stories and Story Telling, which made the evenings pass all too quickly. The faculty and students illustrated in many ways the proper method of building and telling a story.

Between 14,000,000 and 15,000,000 tons of sugar are consumed throughout the world every year.

The New Fashions

New umbrellas and sun shades show great variety. One is of accordion pleated white taffeta, with a narrow black and white strip edge. Another is of rose pink silk with an embroidered design in crystal beads. Still another is made of narrow ruffles and accordion pleated white taffeta. Each ruffle is edged with black satin ribbon.

Three-piece dresses with detachable capes in knitted fabrics bound with hercules braids in contrasting colors, are being shown.

The newest thing in women's sports wear is a golf suit with knickers.

Side fastener brassiers are being specially featured.

A very becoming adjunct to the average elbow is the one to two-inch wide fringe of wool thread used to finish the short sleeves of smart frocks.

Small jet and steel buttons will be used lavishly on blouses made of sheer fabrics and lace.

Two-inch wide girdles of cut steel with or without a ribbon foundation are very smart, with one-piece dresses and separate blouses. They are worn quite loose.

Draped, heavily fringed shawls, in all white and colors — heavily embroidered, plain, and in Paisley effects are popular for afternoon and evening wear.

A luxurious evening wrap is made of royal blue taffeta lined with old ivory satin. It has a collar made of ten large royal blue ostrich feathers.

Smart anklets of bright gold and silver braid, about one-half inch wide, drawn tightly and sewn on, so as to leave no protruding ends or knots, are being worn underneath the stocking.

White shoes in both canvas and leather, with trims of purple leather, fashionable in Paris, are being tried out in New York.

At the Ritz Carlton a noted woman was seen wearing a frock of navy matelasse, having a girdle lined with red. She wore red heeled patent leather slippers with red bound ankle straps.

Pile fabrics in subdued colors are smartest for fall and winter coats and suits. Trimmings will consist of silk and metal braids with an added smart touch in the front and side fastenings secured by the use of a few large handsome buttons. The olive shape button, made of polished jet, is just over from Paris.

New seamless stockings are so fashioned that the drop stitch stripes form successive V's from the upper part of the ankle over the calf. The drop stitch effect extends to the toe on the top of the foot. There is a short seam starting beneath the middle toe and running up over the toe.

In a smart dress shop objections of some customers to the extremely short sleeves of summer frocks is being overcome by a clever suggestion—that the customer take an 8-inch wide strip of organdy and gather it into a narrow lace-edged band top and bottom, the upper edge is fastened to the sleeve and the organdy puffed over the elbow.

Black satin slippers and the sheerest of chiffon silk stockings are worn anywhere, either day or night.

A decidedly smart touch punctuating the picturesque black and white of a stunning street costume was the single strand of half-inch wide red ribbon. It was worn about the waist with a bow with long ends almost to the hem.

Black or ecru now are the two leading colors. There must be, however, a touch of coral. This promises a revival of strings of coral beads and other coral jewelry a little later on.—"Along Fifth Avenue."

Practical Hints

Sanifush is the best grease and discolored bowl cleaner. Be careful not to get on porcelain or hands, as it is very powerful.

If you have opportunity to notice the meat bills of those who buy meats which take little time to prepare, like steaks, cutlets and chops, you will find that they are much larger than those of the cook who buys pot roasts, stews, soup meat and the cheaper cuts. A small piece of meat added to a large quantity of vegetables will give flavor to them and the amount of meat will never be noticed.

When a tough piece of meat has been purchased, rub it well with olive oil or corn oil, add a little chopped parsley and a bay leaf with a few tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Let the meat lie in this over night, then drain and brown the meat, add the vinegar and some water and let it simmmer until tender at a low heat on the backpart of the stove.

To clean windows so they will shine, dampen window pane about 10 inches with wood alcchol and polish quickly with dry soft cloth before it evaporates. Fine results.

If left over meat is not enough for dinner run it through meat chopper; add bread crumbs and an egg; season it with onion and bake in small pan in form of a small meat loaf. Very good served with tomato sauce.

As meat is the great item in many families, costing as much as it does to-day, it is needful that all housewives take serious thought and do much planning to furnish their families with nourishing food with the amount they have to spend upon it.

A Frying Hint.

When frying fish, if the pieces are put in the hot fat with the skin side uppermost, and allowed to brown well before turning, there will be no possibility of the fish breaking up.

To Clean Stove.

Dust stove. Dampen a cloth with warm vinegar and apply briskly. When dry, apply your favorite stove blacking, rubbing riskly. When dry, rub off with a cloth and brush. Clean any nickel on the stove the same as faucets and boiler.

CHOICE RECIPES

Peanut butter sandwiches are much improved by the addition of beans, either baked or boiled. The proportions are one-third peanut butter and two-thirds beans.

If the skins are tough, rub the beans through a seive, then mix with the butter, adding a dash of cavenne pepper and salt to taste and a little water or milk, if too thick.

Sandwiches prepared in this way do not stick to the roof of the mouth, as the peanut butter alone sometimes does. This is inexpensive, very palatable and original.

Eggless Gingerbread.

1 cupful of shortening, 1 cupful of molasses, 1-2 cupful of boiling water, 2 cupfuls of flour, 1 teaspoonful of soda, 1-2 teaspoonful of salt, 1 1-2 teaspoonfuls of ginger, 1-2 teaspoonful of cinnamon.

Rub together shortening and molasses and add water. Sift dry ingredients together and add and beat thoroughly. Pour into greased, shallow pan, or into greased muffin pans and bake in a moderate oven 25 minutes.

Maple Sugar Puffs.

One egg, 1 heaping cupful maple or brown sugar, 1 cupful sour milk, 1-2 cupful fat, 1 teaspoonfuls baking powder, 1-4 teaspoonful salt, 1 cupful chopped nutmeats, flour enough to make a batter that will drop from spoon (about 2 1-3 cupfuls), 1-2 teaspoonful soda.

Melt shortening and sugar together, add egg and beat the mixture vigorously. Then add dry ingredients, sour milk, and nutmeats. Drop from a teaspoon on buttered pans and bake in a quick oven.

Mock Angel Food.

Sift a cup of flour, a cup of sugar and three teaspoons banking powder together three times. Have two whites of eggs beaten stiff. Stir in one cup of sweet milk. Flavor, and add lastly the whites of eggs. Bake about 35 minutes, preferably in a tin with a spout in centre.

White Boiled Frosting.

Boil 1 cup of sugar and 1-4 cup of water to a threadlike consistency. Have one white of egg beaten stiff, then gradually add hot syrup to egg, beating all the while. Flavor.

Baked Peaches.

Soak dried peaches, put them in a pan, sprinkle generously with sugar, add a few drops of lemon juice, nearly cover with water, and bake in a slow oven about two hours.

Rinso

You need not rub

You need not boil your clothes

The wonderful new soap in granules, just soaks the dirt out of your clothes in a few hours. No need to use the wash board or boiler.

Moreover, Rinso saves your clothes. In these pure, cleansing suds they soak as safely as in water alone. There are no harsh chemicals to eat the fabric. Just rich, pure suds, so mild they do not even redden your hands.

If you have a washing machine—

Soak the clothes overnight in the usual Rinso way. The cleansing suds loosen every bit of dirt. In the morning operate the machine for a few minutes and the clothes are perfectly clean—even the most soiled pots.

Hollanders in Canada

This is a home built by a Holland Family in Alberta, Canada, after a few years farming.

Good Dutch farmers for Alberta and British Columbia farms are the newest phase of the immigration situation, as reported by George L. Boer, colonization manager in Holland for the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Two families have located at Westlock and another at Nearlandia, in the Westlock district. Others have bought land at Gleichen and Strathmore.

Most of the new immigrants have brought capital, it is pointed out by Mr. Boer, and are in a position to get right down to work. They will therefore be a real asset in the country.

They Know How.

"They are practical farmers," the colonization man from Holland explains, "and will go in for mixed farming in this country. They will farm intensively, too, for that is the way they have been accustomed to at home, and they will lose no time in mastering the problems of a farming district. Among all the men that we have brought out from Holland there has not yet been a single failure, and most of them are now prosperous. The Dutch people are quick to adapt themselves to Canadian conditions, and the general verdict is that they make good settlers and citizens."

Mr. Boer is now looking into the situation in Alberta and the other western provinces with a view to further immigration another year. The aim of his department is to distribute settlers through all the provinces, but it is found that a large proportion prefer the prairie country, and the prospects for increased immigration to the west are therefore considered highly promising.

Rotterdam is headquarters for Mr. Boer's work over in Holland, and from that base he carries on a publicity campaign for Canada through the year. Settlers for this country are handpicked, and only the best and most desirable type are accepted. Next year, he thinks, will see a fairly heavy movement across the water.

The reasons why the Dutch people want to come to Canada, apart from the fact that Canada is a land of promise, are explained by the C. P. R. colonizer as high taxation in Holland, bad trade conditions, and high prices for land and land leases.

Even though Holland was neutral during the war it had to keep up an army, and this has left a heavy war debt, which now has to be met with taxes. So a good many people are thinking of moving out. Holland can spare them, too, says Mr. Boer, being now, next to Belgium, the most densely populated country in Europe.

BASEBALL

Now there is some talk, according to Oshawa reports, of keeping Manager Solomon of the Peterboro team off the coaching lines. It is claimed that he is a profesional and cannot secure an amateur card. According to rules coachers are in the same class as players. — Lindsay Post.

ANOTHER BASEBALL FATALITY

SMITH'S FALLS, Ont., July 29.—Ernie McKay, of this town, was killed here while playing baseball. He was catching behind the bat and was struck over the heart by a foul ball.

BOOM IN HAS-BEEN PUGILISTS COMING

NEW YORK, July 29.— Former kings of pugilism have taken heart since Peter Herman of New Orleans punched Joe Lynch into an abdicating mood and became once again ruler of the bantams, Freddie Welsh, whose lightweight title passed to Benny Leonard, is said to be planning a come-back campaign and is in training at his New Jersey home.

Mike Gibbons, the once redoutable "phantom" of St. Paul, dreams that he soon will wear the middleweight crown. He is to meet Augie Ratner here next Monday night and if he wins will challenge Johnny Wilson, present holder of the title.

Back in Kansas big Jess Willard has sent out word that if given the chance he will train hard and attempt to send Jack Dempsey back to the minors.

CARPENTIER TO QUIT, IS BELIEF.

May Rest Content With Ring Honors and Remain in France.

(By HENRY L. FARRELL, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, July 30.—Georges Carpentier may never come back to America to fight. Ovide Musin, one of the greatest of violinists, and an enthusiastic boxing fan, has just returned from Paris with the opinion that the Frenchman is through with the ring.

"Despite his defeat by Dempsey, Carpentier is still the national idol. France considers him now almost as a martyr, in that he failed in trying to accomplish the impossible," Musin said.

"If Carpentier dies as the light heavyweight champion, his record against Dempsey will be held to his credit instead of being covered up, but if he should come to America and be defeated by Tommy Gibbons, a boxer his own weight and size, he would fall as an idol.

"Carpentier is being advised by his friends in Paris to quit the game with a record that all his countrymen are proud of."

Many Americans are coming around to the belief that Carpentier will not return. He has not answered the cable sent by Tex Rickard that Gibbons had been selected as his next opponent.

LOCAL PLAYERS OFF TO BRANTFORD THIS MORNING

Peterborough's soccer team, which meets Brantford this afternoon in the Albert Plenty competition, got away on the 4.16 C.P.R. train this morning, with the acting secretary, Fred. Sutcliffe, Vice-President Alex. Dick and several other supporters accompanying them. The Peterborough lads were keen for the game, and were confident of their playing fast football, despite the handicap they are under in travelling 200 miles on the railway.

The game is called for 3 p.m. Once again The Examiner reminds the fans that the results of the game will be bulletined, and the final result should be known by 5 p.m. at the latest.

Regarding the game, the Brantford Expositor says this in last night's issue:

"Brantford's opportunity in going any distance in any sort of intercity games was never more evident than in the series just started for the Albert Plenty trophy for the football associations of the province. The All-Brantford team has a remarkably good chance of putting over a bunch of wins. Just what Peterborough can do on Saturday afternoon at Tutela Park is not known, but the All-Brantford team has men on it who are among the best in Ontario. The chances of Peterborough dropping this game look good here, and then Ottawa is scheduled to visit the local association. A single team from Ottawa was fortunate in defeating a single from Brantford. Seven of Ottawa's best men played on the Lyalls, Ontario cup entrants, and are playing with the Albert Plenty team, so the Ottawa team will be much the same as the one which visited here six weeks ago. The Brantford team, however, is not the Dufferin Rifles' team, though the splendid defence has been retained. A new halfback line, a combination of Cockshutt and Massey men, has been secured and a splendid forward combination is to be worked out, with Massey, Cockshutt and Veterans on it. With a line-up such as this Brantford is quite capable of beating many other representative teams in the province. Toronto has not entered the Albert Plenty Cup series this year."

STABBED TEN TIMES, GIRL FORGIVES FATHER

One Wrist Almost Severed When She Refuses to Live With Her Parent.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 29.—"I forgive my father, for I suppose he was lonely without me, but I cannot leave my aunt, who is the only mother I have ever known," said 19-year-old Marjorie Sarah of Iselin, as she lay in the Rahway Hospital, one arm rendered useless for life by a slash of her father's razor.

"I don't know why I did it; I must have been insane; I wouldn't knowingly hurt a hair of my little girl's head," moaned her father, Isber Sarah, in his cell in Woodbridge, where he is being held to await the outcome of his daughter's injuries.

The girl was stabbed by Sarah when she refused to leave the home of her dead mother's sister, Mrs. Kurtiz Nahasi, in Iselin, for her father's home at West Hoboken. Mrs. Nahasi brought the girl up since the death of her mother sixteen years ago.

Before daylight Sarah crawled through a window into the room where his daughter was sleeping. Shaking her by the arm, he ordered her to leave with him under penalty of death. The girl refused, and Sarah attacked her with a razor, stabbing her ten time and almost severing her right wrist. Then he escaped when neighbors ran to the girl's aid and hid for several hours in the neighboring woods, being captured only after a long chase by a posse of citizens and township police.

The girl is still in a critical condition, but may recover.

BARE MODERN POLICE METHODS IN SOLVING MYSTERY IN PICTURE

"Someone in the House" Gives Thrilling View of New York Crook Life.

Just how far modern police methods have eclipsed the efforts of the detective of fiction will be shown on the screen for the first time in "Someone in the House," the Metro special all-star production which comes to the Capitol Theatre, commencing Monday night.

John Ince, directing the production, has used all of the methods of crook trailing advocated by police officials in the unravelling of the crime mystery pictured in this production.

In the telling of the story every phase of New York life—from the mysterious haunts of the underworld to a luxurious summer home on Long Island—is faithfully reproduced. To accomplish this it was necessary to bring shrubbery, flowers and even trees to the Metro studio grounds at Hollywood, California, from the east, in order to provide the necessary background of New York and Long Island verdure.

The great studio lots at Hollywood were converted into a country place with a spacious home that might have been lifted from its resting place on the shores of Long Island Sound. From the automobile approaches in the front to the walled-in formal garden in the rear, not a detail has been overlooked.

It is in this setting that a nimble-fingered member of the semi-underworld—a character such as only New York could produce—suddenly appears to ply his profession. "The Dancer," as he is known because of his preference for social affairs, immediately fits himself into the social gathering, proves that he has wits and nerve and becomes a favorite—almost. The "almost" is the exception that provokes numerous complications, thrills and surprises.

Down on the lower end of New York's Bowery is an old half-basement pawn shop kept by a typical East Side "uncle," which is reproduced in detail. From this Bowery shop the onlooker is carried on a swiftly moving journey past the Tombs, to Police Headquarters, into the mysteries of the city's police machinery and then out on Long Island.

"The Dancer" has been visualized in the person of Edmund Lowe; while Vola Vale, Howard Crampton, Edward Jobson, William J. Irwing, Cara Lee, Lawrence Grant, Tom McGuire, Jack Levering, Edward Connelly, and Henry Miller, Jr., are included in the all-star cast. The play was scenarioized by Lois Zellner and Marc Robbins. George K. Hollister was camera man.

Balance of this programme will prove excellent entertainment, as it contains lots of good comedy, serials, news, weeklies, topics of the day, etc. Fan, Fan.

The management of the Capitol Theatre wishes to announce that its new concert orchestra, better than ever, will make its first appearance on Monday evening.

CANADIAN ARTISTS ARE EXHIBITING AT ALGONQUIN.

ALGONQUIN PARK, N. B., July 30. — Great interest has been manifested in the exhibition of the work of Canadian artists at the Casino. Mrs. Godenrath, wife of Capt. Percy F. Godenrath, of Ottawa, is in charge of the exhibition. The artists represented are: Dorothy Stevens, whose collection consists of etchings and dry paints, mostly French studies; Herbert Raine, A.R.C.A., etchings of Montreal; Clarence A. Gagnon, R.C.A., etchings of Italian and French scenes; Fred E. Haines, aquatines; Walter J. Phillips, colour paints from wood of Manitoba scenes; Will W. Alexander, etchings in colour; John Cotten, aquatines, paints, and etchings; Gyrth Russell, dry paints and etchings; Major Ernest Fosbery, A.R.C.A., etchings and dry paints.

The ladies of the Methodist Church held their annual sale of fancy articles and afternoon tea to-day. There was an excellent display of hand work.

To-day has been very warm for St. Andrew's. The thermometer at the Algonquin Hotel showed a maximum temperature of 74 all day. A breeze has been blowing from over the bay, and this kept the heat from becoming uncomfortable. At six o'clock there was a light shower, which laid the dust and freshened the air. The temperature is still 85 for Montreal, 76 for Quebec, 85 for London, and 74 for Toronto.

BULLHEAD'S HORNS FOIL BIG PICKEREL

Big Green Lake Fishermen Have Fine Breakfast.

GREEN LAKE, N. Y., July 27.—Claire V. Dwiggins, the artist at whose camp on Canada Lake recently a garter snake drank a bottle of home made hootch and then jumped off the dock as quickly as possible, went fishing yesterday with Reggie Scriven of Jamaica, who is visiting at the Russell Camp near "Dwigwam." They came back with two fish and a strange tale.

Near Stoner's Island they saw a commotion in the water and found that a pickerel nearly three feet long had seized a bull head with the evident intention of making a meal of him. But the bull head was too big. The pickerel had swallowed half of the other fish and then got caught in the bull head's horns and could not get him down any further. Young Scriven netted both fish, pulled the bull-head from the pickerel's throat and both fish were served for breakfast.

PETERBORO 50 YEARS FROM NOW

(By C. HAMILTON)

The appended article is a "Dream of the Future," concerning Peterboro as the writer sees it in 1971 or fifty years from now.

(Presumably taken from the Peterboro Square Dealer of July 1st 1971)

Once more our great and growing Dominion celebrates the national holiday. The 1st of July is a red letter day in our history, the anniversary of that day when Sir John A. Macdonald and the Fathers of Confederation cemented into a glorious union a few sparsely populated provinces. The daring and long-headed foresight of these old patriotic Canadians has culminated in a national consolidation of greater magnificence than even their prophetic minds would have predicted. The Union of Newfoundland in 1924, the Union of Bermuda in 1930, and our protectorate of Labrador, with its inexahustible copper and tin mines and its rich fisheries, taken over in 1942 has helped our own sturdy efforts to build up a nation of twenty-eight and a half million people.

In this wonderful growth our thriving City of Peterboro has done its share. Half a century ago, or, to be exact, in 1921, this city had a population of approximately 21,000; today our civic authorities announce that we have passed the 140,000 mark. Such a record attained during fifty years if propheised in 1921 would have sounded like the ravings of a man whose better sense was overcome by his civic pride and ambition. Still the seemingly impossible has been attained. In rapid urban growth we have beaten out nearest rival in percentage of increase. Toronto in 1921 had at most 380,000, as compared with our meagre 21,000; today, Toronto claims 711,000. Compare the comparative growth and then give three cheers for the home town! Our rapid growth has been due to many causes; first, geographically, and lastly but mainly, to causes from within. Our location on the Trent Canal with its never-ending strings of barges carrying Western grain to the huge elevators at the Southern termination for through shipment via the deepened St. Lawrence waterway to Europe, bringing back hard coal and Eastern-made goods to the West, has been one factor in our rapid development. The rapidly growing demand for our water power which has been virtually trebled by the recently invented reciprocating water turbine has of course, drawn many manufacturers to our city and its vicinity. Then we have the fruit of Mr. Simeon J. Keefer's brain and courageous enterprise in "Solar Motors, Ltd.," with its 9,000 employees working the year round at the huge plant on South George street. It will be remembered that in 1937, Mr. Keefer, president of Solar Motors, whilst a foreman at the C. G. R. Works, conceived the idea of obtaining and storing in batteries energy from the sums' rays. At first, as was Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, the public, and particularly those of the public interested in electrical and steam power, laughed and jeered at Mr. Keefer's invention.

However, that gentleman had the courage of his convictions and aided by outside capital, as local capital in those days took no chances outside first mortages or Victory Bonds, brought his ideas to tangible and economic success. Today, we see agricultural machinery, aerial ferries, individual private airplanes, motor cars, boats, and a thousand other kinds of machinery operated by Solar Motors storage batteries.

Of course, the unsanitary, stuffy, unventilated and cumbersome railway passenger cars of half a century ago have been replaced almost entirely by passenger traffic per aerial ferries and "tubes" as the former Zeppelins were called.

In noting the causes of Peterboro's phenomenal success we must not omit the predominating fact that civic pride and hearty co-operation of all classes of our citizens have led to building up that little old 140,000 mark. Many years ago this and other small towns awoke to the fact that sturdy growth was impossible so long as money made or earned in these towns was sent away to build up the larger cities. They began to realize that so long as local money was sent away, at the expense of local business to swell the profits of mail order houses just so long would local business stagnate and local prices be kept high to make up for losses made in orders sent away. They found that the few cents saved by buying abroad were mainly eaten up by the express charges and that local trade, on which local growth largely depends, must stagnate. Then, the small town people kept their money at home and the small towns began to prosper.

We see by old files of The Examiner, our daily contemporary, Peterboro's only newspaper in 1921, that the 1st. (formerly Hunter) street bridge was opened to traffic in that year. We learn from the files of that paper that this bridge, to have been built for the sum of $235,000, far exceeded the half-million mark before completed. The old bridge, however, has done good service for half a century. It has for years puzzled those of our people with an eye to architectural balance and artistic symmetry, whose mind conceived the idea of spoiling a massive and handsome a structure by inserting these tawdry green tiles in the bridge. Surely that mind would have suggested hanging pretty Chenille curtains over the stained glass of a cathedral or advocated putting a silver plated dog chain round the neck of Egypt's Sphinx.

So many changes and improvements have been effected here during the past half century that space precludes giving an detailed or itemized account of them. Amongst the many changes and improvements effected since 1921, we might note the numbering of streets running East and West, whereby the names of such thoroughfares as Hunter, Simcoe, King, etc., to the South of 1st street, formerly Hunter street, were named respectively 1st street South, 2nd street South, 3rd street South, while the former streets to the North, viz.: Brock, Murray, McDonnel, etc., were given the titles of 1st, 2nd and 3rd streets North, etc. Possibly our newest and m most imposing public building is the new Court House, completed last fall, to replace the former forensic temple destroyed by fire two years ago. The new Court House is made of Bamboolith blocks and is Doric in its severe but elegant architecture. Bamboolith, it is not generally known, is the invention of Prof. Smiles, of Peterboro University. That gentleman, whilst engaged in 1966 at Rio de Janiero, in investigating means to use the rolled and dessicated stalks of bamboo cane from which the sugar juice had been squeezed, discovered that a mixture of the shredded with pulverized spar cement and other ingredients produced a building material impervious to moisture, absolutely fireproof, of immense tensive resistance and weighing one-third the weight of Portland cement at one-fifth its price.

Among the recent local improvements deserving attention on account of its pronounced success is the new Ontario and Quebec Aerial Ferry Grounds on Observatory Hill. (This hill, 50 years ago, was known as Armour's), but when an eccentric Englishman of means, in 1935, erected a private astronomical observatory, demolished last year, as it had been unoccupied for over a decade and as the ground on which it stood was required, the hill was rechristened 'Observatory.' Two years ago the ferry company's business had outgrown the space and accommodation supplied by their premises on the old exhibition grounds, so after purchasing Observatory Hill and raizing the apex, so as to lower its altitude by some twenty feet and concreting the whole top surface they have now, with their magnificent aerodrome and passenger stations, one of the finest and safest aerial grounds on the continent. The daily average of arrivals and departures by aerial ferry from these grounds last month averaged around 871 This is many times the average number of passengers at Peterboro in 1921 when it took three hours, at a cost of $2.50 to go to Toronto by the obsolete old railway carriages.

One cardinal proof of Peterboro's growing importance is the international motor launch race at Rice Lake on August 8. This race, covering a course of 250 miles between buoys at Bewdley and the foot of the lake, between the local flier, Bessie B., with a record of 77 miles and the New York wonder boat, Sprite, which is claimed to have exceeded 80 miles an hour. Timely advice might here be given to those who propose attending, viz.: . . . . . don't use your private hydroplane as the lake will be so crowded that hydros would be dangerous to both those aboard and others on the lake.

In closing this article it would possibly not be out of place to remind our readers that Peterboro's progress was largely due to her citizens' determined attitude in the matter of buying their goods in the home market. Our merchants are alive to the necessity of judicious advertising and from their advertisements you will find that it pays to patronize home industry.

DIFFICULTIES IN THE WAY OF LAYING MAIN ON EUCLID AVE

FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT COMMITTEE DISCUSSED MATTER LAST EVENING.

After the chairman had read two letters regarding the laying of a water main on Euclid Avenue, East City, one from the Utilities Commission, explaining why the main could not be laid, and one from Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, Provincial M.O.H., offering a suggestion to clear up the matter, the Fire, Water and Light Committee which met last night in a short session decided to let the local Board of Health take some action before they did anything, and so Dr. McCullough's letter was referred back to them. In their explanation, the Utilities Commission stated:

"The Commission is anxious to furnish water wherever citizens desire it, but in the case of Euclid Avenue, only four persons applied for water, and a petition was received from eight persons opposing the laying of a water main on the street this year.

Consider Cost.

"The Commission has also to consider the cost of doing the work and the revenue that will be received from it. They are not only required to do this through ordinary business prudence, but, in addition, the Municipal Act requires that before debentures can be issued under that Act to pay for such work, it must be shown that the work is necessary and that sufficient additional revenue will be derived therefrom to meet the annual payments in respect to such debentures, and the interest thereon. This could not be done in the case of the main asked for on Euclid Avenue, as the revenue would fall far below the amount required."

The Correspondence.

Mr. T. Tooms, M.P.P., interested himself in the matter and wrote Dr. McCullough to see what could be done. Dr. McCullough wrote as follows, the letter being passed on to the Board of Health by the local member:

"In answer to yours of the 2nd instant. If the local Board of Health will request the Council or the Utilities Commission to apply to the Board of Health for an order under Section 96 of the Public Health Act to make an extension for water supply, the Board will make the order. This will enable the Council to finance this extension without any petition or guarantee of revenue from the local people. The Council may then close the wells by law and oblige the people to use city water. It seems to me that this is a very easy way out of the difficulty."

The committee last night did not feel prepared to take any action, and felt that the Board of Health should fully consider Dr. McCullough's letter, realizing the power that rests with the Provincial Board of Health. Ald. H. Gainey said he understood all the citizens along the street wanted the water.

New Lights.

W. Rogers, 6 Aberdeen Street, wrote asking for a light on that street. The committee granted a light there. "There's a lot of dark streets without any light on," said Ald. Jones. The placing of lights at Park and London Streets, Smith and Bethune Streets, Water Street at Kendrey's Crossing, Perry Street between Olive Avenue and Aylmer Street, on Maud Street and Lafayette Avenue, was left to the chairman with power to act.

Want Better Lighting.

"There are a lot of lights placed on the streets that aren't much good. A light in a tree is no use," said the chairman, lamenting over the way many trees have grown up about lights, almost obscuring them. He also spoke of the difficulty of lighting back streets where there was no pole line. "How are we going to get around that?" he asked. Ald. Gainey favored a conference with the Utilities Commission to discuss the street lighting. A better programme of street lighting and park lighting, Ald. Turner felt, could be arranged, and Ald. Gainey moved, seconded by Ald. Jones, that a conference be held with the Utilities Commission and the whole Council with regard to the lighting of the streets.

Higher Than Needed.

Ald. Jones told the committee there was an old pole on McDonnel Street, near the Public Library, that was about 25 feet higher than was needed for the light. It should be lopped off above the light, he said, and would greatly improve its appearance. He moved, seconded by Ald. Crowe, and it was carried that the Utilities Commission be requested to take the top off the pole.

More Hydrants.

With the Fire Chief, the chairman was instructed to order one or two more hydrants. The Utilities Commission asked the committee if they wanted to place a hydrant on the new main being put in on Lansdowne Street from Maud to Park Streets, and the committee promptly decided they did.

Ald. R. Morrison presided at the brief meeting. Ald. H. Gainey, Ald. J. Crowe and Ald. R. Jones made the even quorum.

KOEHLER SEEKS $30,000 FOR LIVING WITH WIFE

NEW YORK, July 30.—For having kept an agreement to live with his wife for the last three years, August Koehler, former Chicago restaurateur, wants $30,000. He started suit for that sum in the Supreme Court, naming his wife, Olga L. Koehler, defendant. She is a sister of August Luchow, proprietor of Luchow's Restaurant in Fourteenth street. According to his complaint, he withdrew from participation in the restaurant business with Luchow in 1917, and went to Chicago to open a place of his own. He says his wife and her brother begged him to return to this city and resume domestic relations withone and business relations with the other.

He consented, he said, on the assurance that Mr. Luchow would set up a $200,000 trust fund, $10,000 of the income from which would go yearly to Mrs. Koehler and $10,000 to Mr. Koehler. The fund was created with the Equitable Trust Company, he states, and though his wife received her $10,000 yearly he got none. His wife then promised to pay his $10,000 share herself, he alleges, but has not done so.

RUM SHIP SKIPPER TELLS OF TRAFFIC.

Outside 3-Mile Limit He Calmly Admits Huge Smuggling Operations.

Works For Syndicate.

ATLANTIC CITY, July 30.—Capt. Eric Anderson, the young skipper of the schooner Henry T. Marshall, the rum smuggling ship which has been floating around outside the three-mile limit for some time here, waiting to dispose of her cargo of whiskey, talked over the side of his vessel today to a group of men in a motor boat and gave some interesting information regarding the methods of smuggling liquor from the Bahamas to the United States and about the syndicates who handle it after it has been landed here. Among other things Capt. Anderson said that although he has no wireless he knows all about the efforts the Government is making to catch the whiskey runners, as motor boats come out to him every night and give him papers and information.

The Henry T. Marshall, according to Capt. Anderson's statement today, is the rum smuggler which was recently seen off Montauk Point and various parts of the New Jersey coast, where he had transferred cases of whiskey from his ship to motor boats that put out from the American shore. The principal point for this transfer, he said, is at the Egg Harbor buoy, out from Egg Harbor, N. J. When ships that have whiskey aboard arrive off the buoy, he said, at least five motor boats are always there to meet them and run back and forth with the cargo throughout the night. At daybreak the whiskey smuggler drifts further out to sea and stays there until night fall.

This Is the Phantom Ship.

"I used to sail out of Gloucester and I was a fisherman," said Capt. Anderson. 'I do not own this ship, neither do I own the cargo of several thousand cases of old Scotch which I have aboard. And I am not going to tell who does. I might say that I am working for a crowd of wealthy men. This old smack used to sail out of Gloucester, but when it was decided to run whiskey she was sold and transferred to British registry.

"When I got my cargo I left the Bahamas and sailed straight up the coast to a position off Montauk Point. I laid out there and during the night came within ten miles of the shore, where at a certain buoy motorboats came out to meet us. My ship was the phantom ship the papers talked about. They made me laugh. All of the members of my crew are Gloucester fishermen, excepting three Newfoundlanders and one Frenchman. We make a certain profit on each case we sell. We are only responsible until the stuff goes over the side into the small boats. Then we are through with it."

Capt. Anderson was asked if he would sell a few cases and what was the price.

"Whiskey is $60 a case," he said, "and gin is $50, but I won't sell less than $10,000 worth. If you'll buy $25,000 worth I'll knock off $10 a case."

Syndicate in Every City.

He said that the whiskey cost $15 a case at the Bahamas.

"After we left Montauk Point," the Captain said, "we came down here and laid off Beach Haven, and some of the boys in the boats came out and met us."

"Who are the people in Atlantic City who are buying the liquor?" he was asked.

"They are saloonkeepers, mostly. They are the ones who send the boats out. When we go to the light buoy in Little Egg Harbor the stuff is stored in shanties several hundred feet back of the shore line. This is the third time I've been here with a cargo in two months, and I was never so long getting rid of a cargo before."

Capt. Anderson said he laughed about the stories of a country side whiskey syndicate, because there is no such thing. He said that there is a syndicate in each big city, but that they work independently.

THE LIP-STICK.

Wife's Failure To Use Article Wrecks Many Happy Homes, Claim.

CHICAGO, July 29.—A wife's failure to use a lip stick has ruined many a happy home.

The five thousand members of the American Cosmetican Society in convention here this week, are permanent converts to the doctrine that curbing the male instinct to wander is part of their job.

"Men don't want to admit it, but they won't be good unless their wives make them," declared Mrs. M. J. Bard, of Champaign, Illinois, president of the society. "And when a man wanders, it is usually his wife's fault. His wife has let herself become dowdy.

"The man who declares he won't let his wife do things to make herself attractive is generally looking over his shoulder at some woman who is," the president continued.

When reminded that the recent world's convention of Christian Endeavors had severely and especially criticized the use of rouge, Mrs. Baird countered sharply:

"Why does goodness have to be ugly?" she inquired.

"It is deplorable that virtue should so often be unattractive, when the really good women pay more attention to making themselves beautiful they will have done much toward getting a better hold on the boys and girls who are growing up."

18,000 CASES OF SCOTCH HERE TO TEST THREE-MILE DRY LAW

ARRIVE ON LINER TAGGED TO BERMUDA AND FIVE CASES ARE LANDED AND PROTECTED BY WRIT BEFORE UNCLE SAM CAN GRAB THEM.

NEW YORK, July 30.—The most important freight on the Anchor liner Cameronia, which reached port here ,was a consignment of no less than 18,000 cases of old Scotch whiskey, which, judging from the outside of the bottles, worthily upholds the traditions of Scotland.

The 18,000 cases of Scotch are here only for a visit. The whiskey is in transit for Bermuda and other places outside the United States, where prohibition is still a joke. It was brought here by the line so the right of steamship companies to bring alcoholic liquor within the three mile limit might be tested. The United States Attorney's office decided recently the Volstead act prohibits the entry of liquor into this country even for transshipment.

At the pier five cases of Scotch were landed. The company immediately applied for and received a temporary injunction restraining the prohibition officers from interfering with it. Arguments for a permanent order will be heard in the United States' District Attorney's office on August 4.

In addition to the 18,000 cases of whiskey the Cameronia brought a case of Scotch romance. Thomas McAllister, chief electrician on board, and Miss Betty Sharpe, also Scotch, a passenger, headed for the Marriage License Bureau as soon as the ship docked. Their love affair began when McAllister was a badly gassed soldier and Miss Sharpe was a nurse in an Edinburgh hospital. It ended in a lover's quarrel, but was renewed five days ago when Sharpe, now in the merchant service, recognized Betty as a passenger.

When McAllister learned she was on the way to the States to marry another sweetheart he combined the oratory of a Demosthenes with the poetry of a Robbie Burns, added a dash of J. M. Barrie and won.

BIG MARKET OF VEGETABLES BUT BUTTER SCARCE

NEW POTATOES WERE CHEAPER AND GARDEN TRUCK ABUNDANT.

In the produce that floods the Saturday markets these weeks the advancement of summer may be traced. This morning the increased loads of tomatoes told of August being near at hand, and corn, although not plentiful, made people think of autumn, with warm, sunshiny hazy days, and bright moonlight nights filled with sounds and smells that indelibly mark the beautiful season and stay with one throughout the year.

The fine weather was a drawing card for the market to-day, and considering the harvest is in full swng, both basket and fruit and vegetable markets were well attended.

The waggons outside were loaded with vegetables, and apples. Tomatoes gleamed red everywhere. By small baskets, about 4 or 5 quarts, they sold at 60 cents. Quart berry boxes containing three or four, sold at 15c. The cheapest were ones one grower was selling at $1 for an 11 quart basket. The 60c baskets appeared to be popular.

Cucumbers were plentiful in fair and large sizes but the Examiner did not see any pickles. Plenty of the cucumbers could be had for 5c and even three for 10c. One grower told the reporter that they were drying up fast in this hot weather and there would be no pickles. He had not been able to fill orders he took last week, he said.

New Potatoes Cheaper.

New potatoes were cheaper today, 50c being the prevailing price, although one man wanted 60c for the pink variety. There were not any prodigious quantities on growers claiming the early variety are almost a failure and the later do not look much better. Irish Cobblers seemed to sell best.

There was Golden Bantam corn in the waggons to-day but the price scared those who looked longily at it. One man asked 40c for his, and those who felt they could not afford it emulated the fox with the grapes. "They're small, anyway," people said. A grower with just plain white corn of no particular variety wanted 50c for a dozen cobs he had left.

Small Vegetables Plentiful.

There were fine beets, carrots and small stuff on to-day. Beets, carrots, radishes, lettuce, parsley, onions ,were only five cents. Cabbages as large as a man's head could be had for 15c. Celery that seemed crisp and nice, was 15c and 20c. String beans weer 10c a quart.

Apples 40 Cents.

Duchess apples were plentiful on the market but were high in price. One well known fruit grower had a whole waggon full of which he was selling at 40 cents a peck. "Harvest apples are very scarce," he said. Those that were on to-day were quite green and the farmers also go 40 cents for them. Rhubarb still hangs on at five cents a bunch.

Butter Scarce

For one basket of butter upstairs there were half a dozen buyers so butter sold high again. Where the Examiner asked, it was all 55 cents, the reason for the steep price being given that the cows are almost dry on the pasturage. The hens cannot be affected similarly. Existing on a somewhat arid diet all year they relish the hot weather and filled the farm women's baskets to overflowing to-day. Eggs sold at 35 and 36. This year's chickens were more plentiful and were cheaper than last week. Some asked 30 a pound, some 35 and some went as high as 40. Old hens were going at 30 cents. Ducklings of a fair size were selling at 40 cents a pound and there were quite a few representatives of the young water fowl on the tables.

A market report would not be consistent if some mention was not made of the young pigs on the market to-day. They might be described as roast pork on the hoof. The swine were apparently half suffocated in the crate but the man who was selling them did not worry about them dying as to an onlooker seemed possible. Likely he knows they were quite comfortable behind their "camouflage." of suffering. They were $12 a pair. Throughbred collie pups were $3 each, but the man seling them reduced the price to $2 in an effort to sell. He also had a spaniel at the same rate.

DEVELOPMENTS ARE IMMINENT OVER IRELAND

SOME SINN FEIN LEADERS ARE READY TO COMPROMISE, WHILE OTHERS INSIST ON FULL INDEPENDENCE.

CONTRADICTORY STORIES CIRCULATING IN LONDON

LONDON, Aug. 1. — (Canadian Press.)—Developments in the peace negotiations between Lloyd George and the leaders of the Irish Republicans are imminent, it was reported here to-day, but Government leaders refused to discuss it.

Art O'Brien, President of the Gaelic League in London, arrived in Dublin yesterday and one rumor is that he is the courier who will take the Sinn Fein reply back to Lloyd George.

Another rumor says De Valera will return to London this week and that Sir James Craig, Ulster Premier, is also coming. Another report is that members of the Irish Republican Parliament have made preparations to receive a sudden call to Dublin and the British Government is declared to be ready to release the imprisoned members of the Republican Parliament in time for a meeting of that body.

There is admitted to be considerable difference of opinion among members of the Dail Eireann respecting the concessions to be demanded from England. Some are ready to compromise, while others insist on full independence.

COUNTY COUNCIL SPECIAL SESSION

MEETING HERE TO-DAY TO AR. RANGE FOR DEPUTATION.

The County Council is meeting here this afternoon in special session to arrange for the proposed deputation to Ottawa to present to the Department of Railways and Canals a request for a new bridge at Pigeon Creek. On account of the farm activities, in which most of the members are now engaged, the trip may be deferred until the harvest is in, according to the opinion of one of the reeves, but the importance of this petition to the government in its possible results to parts of Victoria and Peterboro counties, may influence a decision this afternoon to interview the Department at once.

DERAILING OF 4 CARS BLOCK G.T.R. TRAFFIC

FLAT CARS OF A BELLEVILLE BOUND FREIGHT LEAVE THE TRACK IN SOUTH END, DUE TO BROKEN TRUCK.

TRANSFER PASSENGERS AROUND WRECK SCENE

At 5 a.m., to-day four flat cars on the G. T. R., loaded with ties going to Trenton , to be treated with creosote, part of a freight for Belleville, were derailed between Lock and Romaine streets, at the siding into Houedry's pea factory.

J. A. MacNab, local agent of the G. T. R., stated this morning that a truck broke apparently right at the switch to the siding. The four cars were switched and went off the rails, the middle two of the chain into the ditch, the others blocking the track.

Traffic to and from Belleville was stopped. Passengers on the 8.30 from Belleville were transferred around to the Lindsay train, which had been sent on down to the wreck, and this train went through to Lakefield. A train was made up east of the wreck and went to Belleville.

Meanwhile an auxiliary from Lindsay was clearing the track and the train service will be running as usual to-morrow, it was said.

All the cars were considerably damaged, Mr .MacNab said, but the rails were not pulled up to any extent.

APPREHENSIONS OF CURTAILING OF TRADE GROW

SERIOUS DETRIMENT TO BOTH U.S. AND CANADA FEARED FROM TRADE RESTRAINT OF NEW U.S. TARIFF.

BILL IS EXPOSED TO REACTION OF SETIMENT

WASHINGTON, August 1.—(By Canadian Press.)— Apprehension of serious curtailment of trade between the United States and Canada, to the serious detriment of both countries, is being more and more voiced in Washington as the new tariff bill advances toward enactment. It is an interesting fact that Canadians coming to Washington express this feeling and at the same time similar feeling is expressed by many in Congress.

The warning which Senator Nelson of Minnesota voiced in the Senate the other day that this is a critical time in tariff making and the tariff cannot be framed along old lines is expressive of what a growing number of Congressmen and officials believe. This is not saying that enactment of high rates will be prevented but it is indicative of the fact that the new bill, once it is enacted, is exposed to the prospect of an unfavorable reaction of public sentiment.

Senator Reed of Missouri, prominent on the democratic side of the Senate, has just had published in the Congressional Record a speech he made some time ago in which, among other things, he urged the importance of fostering trade with Canada. In connection with it, he put into the Record tables showing the growth of trade between the two countries. Senator Reed said:

"Mr. President, I wish to dwell for a moment upon the Canadian situation, because in my opinion it lies at the very basis of our foreign trade. Canada is to-day and has for years been the best customer of the United States.

"It will be found that if we go to 1913 as the year of normality, we exported to Canada in that year—in round numbers — products worth $403,000,000, and imported products worth $142,000,000. The balance of trade in our favour was $261,000,000.

"In 1919 we exported to Canada $734,000,000 worth of our products; we imported $494,000,000 worth of products; and we had a balance of trade in our favor of $239,000,000.

"Now, let us stop a moment and ask why we should not trade with Canada. There is nothing between Canada and the United States but a red line drawn on the map. The soil of North Dakota and of all our Northwestern States runs directly on into Canada. They have the same kind of soils there, speaking broadly, that we have in Northern United States. They have a population that is more like the population of the United States than has any other people of any land whatsoever. One may visit in Canada and be there a month and scarcely realize that he is outside the borders of the United States. The Canadians pay a little higher farm wages than we do in the United States. That is due to the fact that in a new country wages are higher than in a country thoroughly developed. The Canadians use the same kind of farm implements and they buy them nearly all from us. They have the same language, the same school system, the same religion, the same hopes, the same code of morals, and the same high ambition and desire to succeed. They are so much like the people of the United States that I would they were a part of the United States, although I do not expect to see them so.

"If it be asked why Canadian wheat comes to Minneapolis and other great centres of the United States, I answer by asking, why does wheat go from North Dakota to Minneapolis. Both questions are answered by the map which I have had suspended from the wall of the Chamber. If Senators will look on that map and observe the heavy blue lines, they will see that the great trunk lines of railway run from North Dakota down to Minneapolis. When a farmer wants to get his wheat to a mill, he puts it on a car that is going to the mill, and that is all there is to it.

"However, those same lines of railroad cross the imaginary line between North Dakota and Canada and run into and tap the great wheat fields of Canada. The Canadian farmer, who is just across the line, puts his wheat in the same kind of cars on the same tracks that the North Dakota farmer does and sends it to Minneapolis, because it is where the cars turn. The wheat seeks its natural outlet. Mr. President, it would be just as sensible to bar North Dakota wheat from Minneapolis as to bar Canadian wheat.

"Some Canadian wheat, going over another great trunk line of road, reaches the lake at Fort William and there, following the shortest line of travel, it is hauled over the Great Lakes and is milled in the United States, because it is a little shorter and a little better route to a market where the mill is located which is to turn it into flour than it is to

NEVER STOP TO PICK UP AUTO TIRE BY ROAD.

ST. MARY'S, Aug. 1.—A party of autoists returning home to Stratford from a visit in St. Mary's, while passing a lonely spot along the Strafford road, noticed an auto tire lying on the side of the road. The man of the party stopped the auto and got out to pick it up, when three or four men sprang out of the thicket, where they were ambushed, and gave chase. Dropping the tire the Stratford man hastened for his auto and put on high speed. The bandits ordered him to hold up his hands and gave chase for quite a distance, but the speed of the auto was too much for them. In narrating the facts to a Stratford policeman he was told by the officer that he had warned auto-drivers time and again never to stop their machine to pick up anything on the road, as it is often placed there by unscrupulous men as a trap for the unwary.

IMPERIAL AIR SERVICE PLAN BEFORE GOV'T

PROPOSED TO ORGANIZE FLEET OF PASSENGER AND MAIL CARRYING AIRPLANES TO TIGHTEN EMPIRE BONDS.

CANADA, HOWEVER, NOT INCLUDED IN PROJECT

WASHINGTON, August 1.—(By Canadian Press).—According to U. S. Consular reports from London A. H. Ashbolt, Agent General for Tasmania, acting in co-operation with a number of experts, has submitted to the British Government a proposal for the organization of a fleet of airships to carry on an imperial air service. This service will be designed to carry passengers as well as mails, between Great Britain, Egypt, India, South Africa, Australia, and New Zealand.

The purpose of the promoters of this scheme is to form a company to take over and utilize airships, plant and equipment now in the possession of the British Government, which, it is understood, the Government is willing to hand over to the new organuization when formed. It is proposed that the company shall have a capital of 2,500,000 pounds sterling, of which half shall be issued immediately on the following plan of distribution; Indian Government, 100,000 pounds; Australian Government, 100,000 pounds; South African Government, 100,000; New Zealand Government, 55,000 pounds; Malay States; 20,000 pounds; General public, 375,000 pounds; grand total 750,000.

Inasmuch as the airships, material, and equipment are to be a free gift from the British Government, not ranking as capital, the British Government will have the option of taking up the whole of he second subscription of 375,000 pounds, this being the equivalent of the amount to be allotted to the general public in the first issue of capital stock.

As an alternative to the foregoing allotment in which the public would be invited to participate, it is proposed that he first subscription be confined to the governments concerned, as follows: Great Britain, 250,000 pounds; India, 135,000 pounds; Australia, 135,000; South Africa 135,000 pounds; New Zealand 75,000; Malay States 20,000; total 750,000 pounds. In case this proposal meets with the approval of the governments concerned and the company is organized, all the governments subscribing would be required to undertake to send mail matter between Great Britain and the countries mentioned subject to the provision that the rates of carriage should not exceed those charged by the steamship services. The respective governments would also be required to share losses and profits for 10 years, after which period it is expected that the company would be a going concern.

The ports of call suggested are London, Marsellies, Athens, Cairo, Bazrah, Bombay, Colombo, Singapore, Java Perth Melbourne, Sydney, Wellington, Mombasa, and Cape Town or Johannesburg. If such a scheme is successfully carried out, it is anticipated that the service will bring Great Britain with in five days of India and South Africa and within 10 to 12 days of Australia and New Zealand.

Takes Refuge in Muzzle of a Gun

MISSING GIRL FOUND ASLEEP THERE—ONLY BY ACCIDENT GUN WAS NOT FIRED.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., August 1 (Canadian Press). — Louise O'Brien, 14, missing from her home all night, was found at daybreak on Sunday asleep inside the muzzle of a 14-inch gun of the shore batteries at Ford Worden.

Other guns at the front had been fired just before the girl was discovered.

According to military authorities, she had gone for a horseback ride the previous afternoon. While dismounted, far from home, the horse ran away, and she, losing her way and weary of wandering in the darkness, took refuge in the long black object that suddenly loomed in her path.

Officers at the fort said it was only by chance that this gun was not fired.

ACT SAFELY, THINK SAFETY

$100,00 FIRE LOSS AT ST. MARY'S MILLS.

ST. MARY'S, Ont., Aug. 1.—The whole northern section of the town was threatened Saturday night when fire completely destroyed the chopping mills of the St. Mary's Milling Co., causing a loss of $100,000. A call for help was sent to Stratford, but a heavy shower of rain helped the fire-fighters and the call was cancelled. The loss is fully covered by insurance, the owner, H. L. Rice, stated.

ONE KILLED, ONE INJURED, AT LEVEL CROSSING.

TORONTO, Aug. 1.—One man was killed and another slightly injured at 3.30 Saturday afternoon, when a delivery waggon on which they were riding was struck by a shunting engine at the crossing of Esplanade and George Street. Frank Edmonds, aged 37, of 37 McMurrich Street, driver of the waggon, was killed, while John Keenan, 66 Lansdowne Avenue, who was riding with Edmonds, was thrown clear of the tracks and escaped with a shaking up. Keenan was removed to his home.

HUNDRED HOMELESS BY MONTREAL FIRE.

MONTREAL, Aug. 1.—More than a hundred persons were driven from their homes and nearly $120,000 damage was done by fire of undetermined origin which broke out in a garage on Atwater Avenue Saturday afternoon, destroying the garage and 16 automobiles, jumping across a lane, and causing serious damage to nearly three blocks of residences on Marion Avenue and two stores, one on each side of the garage.

PINNED UNDER CAR, BUT MISSES DEATH.

BRAMPTON, Aug. 1.—Defective steering gear caused the automobile driven by Arthur Campbell of Norval to turn turtle when it struck a raised culvert Saturday night. The driver was prisoned beneath the overturned car and narrowly escaped death. His companion, a youth named Flett, from Georgetown, was thrown out when the car struck the culvert, and on seeing the plight of his friend he started to look for assistance. Ken. Warner, of Brampton, came to his help, and with the aid of passing motorists righted the car, allowing Campbell to get out. He was shaken, cut and bruised, but escaped with no other injuries and was able to proceed home.

HAD LIQUOR IN CAR, FINED $200 AND COSTS.

OTTAWA, Aug. 1.—For carrying a bottle of Scotch whiskey around in his car instead of keeping it in his room, William George McLean, a returned soldier, who had served twenty-seven months overseas, was penalized in the Police Court here $207, including costs, or three months in jail. McLean is a Swansea man, but was arrested by the Oshawa police, who found the liquor in his automobile, which the O.T.A. does not recognize as a private dwelling. Having no money, the fine was levied on his car.

UNEMPLOYMENT SITUATION IS VERY SERIOUS

CAN BE ALLEVIATED IN GREAT MEASURE BY PUBLIC BUYING CANADIAN-MADE GOODS WHERE AVAILABLE.

SUBSTANTIAL DECREASE IN EMPLOYMENT SHOWN

OTTAWAA, August 1. (Canadian Press.) — Canada is facing a serious unemployment situation and the rank and file of the Canadian people can help in a great measure to alleviate the situation by buying only Canadian made goods wherever they are available.

This point is emphasized in a statement made yesterday by Senator G. D. Robertson, the Minister of Labour. He pointed out that Canadian industries continue to show substantial decrease in the number of men whom they employed, and this could be largely righted if the Canadians would purchase more home made goods.

THE WEATHER

The month of July just past had many more than the usual number of hot days. We had it above 90 degrees on 12 days, and on 23 days it was above 85 degrees. The warmest day was the 7th, with 98 degrees. The coolest night temperature was 55 degrees, which occurred on several occasion. The morning of the 1st day of August, however, gave us 48 degrees. The rainfall in July totalled 3.14 inches. This was a fair average amount for July, but not sufficient to counterbalance the excessive heat we have had. On Saturday night we had some heavy hail, and a rainfall of .48 of an inch. — W. P.

HALF A BILLION LOST IN STATES IN UNEMPLOYMENT.

According to Engineering Report on Building Industry.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Half a billion dollars a year in wages is being lost in the building industry in the United States through unemployment, declared a report made public recently by the Committee on Elimination of Waste in Industry of the American Engineering Council.

The committee, appointed by Herbert Hoover when he was President of the Council, asserted lack of work was the outstanding fact in this industry, whose critical condition is attributed primarily to high costs of construction.

The report said that waste was causing huge losses in building which, including all trades and common labor, ranked second among industries and contributed more than $3,000,000,000 yearly to the wealth of the country.

The chief sources of waste in the industry were, according to the report, irregular employment, inefficient management and wasteful labor regulations. Customs or conditions prevailing throughout the industry and poorly designed equipment are given as secondary causes.

The annual economic loss due to accidents was estimated as high as $120,000,000. Application of safety methods, it was stated, would save the industry 12,000,000 days' work a year. Loss through duplication of estimates and designs and duplication in bidding was said to run into millions.

An acute national shortage of housing exists, the report stated, because of prohibitive construction costs of householder and banker.

Many union rules were condemned as "absolutely wrong," and both employers and employes were blamed for restriction of output.

"Union regulations in the past have produced enormous losses," said the report, "through direct or indirect restriction of output. Workmen and contractors, however, are beginning to appreciate that reduced output reacts in tremendous fashion upon themselves.

"Greater co-operation between workmen and employers is an absolute essential. This co-operation must be attained before we can approach the elimination of labor difficulties. Such co-operation, however, is impossible without the removal of causes of friction and the working out of plans to this end."

The report deplored the irregularity of employment for building trade workmen, declaring that they were busy only on an average of about 190 days in a year. It recommended the following means of reducing seasonable unemployment:

"Allowance of a small margin of profit for both labor and capital during winter months, development of methods of conducting the work in cold weather, arrangement of work to provide indoor operations in cold and stormy weather, organization of a clearing house for co-ordination of activities, increasing the usefulness of employment bureaus and educating the public.

"Idleness, however, is not due entirely to seasonable demands; strikes and lockouts are appreciable causes," the report added.

The strike was declared to be one of the great economic wastes in the building industry.

"The waste to the men engaged, the contractor and the public is hard to estimate," it was asserted.

"If the greatest cause, the demand for an increase in wages, could be eliminated, strikes as a factor of waste would shrink into insignificance. The remedy that suggests itself is co-operation. Management and labor must forget the sore spots of past conflicts, and through wholehearted co-operation fix by proper studies a minimum wage to correspond with a standard amount of production, with additional compensation for additional output. This would furnish an incentive to the men and would give recognition to deserving mechanics."

The "Philadelphia Plan" is endorsed by the report as one of the means of adjusting labor difficulties and eliminating waste. This plan, it was stated, provides for a tribunal or council of the building industry composed of an equal number of representatives of employer and employed.

It also proposes establishment of a central bureau through which voluntarily all construction programs in the territory should be cleared, including national, state, municipal and private work.

Unions are not alone blamed for restricting output by the report, which said that "contractors and builders and supply dealers affect the situation to as great a degree indirectly by maintenance of high prices, collusion in bidding and unfair practices."

Haphazard management in planning and controlling work and lack of standards in the industry has often doubled the labor cost, asserted the report.

Trade unions are urged to make their services more valuable to the employer by developing and training the men in their organizations and assisting in the development of standardization of time, method and material.

"Never in the history of our country," concluded the report, "was it so important that certain fundamental principles of economics should be accepted and established as a working programme. These principles will throw overboard the fallacy that restricting production can make the work go further, and will supplant this with the knowledge to get one must give, that to receive the equivalent must be given in money or in time or in effort, and that increased returns can only be attained through increased production."

The building investigation was in charge of Sanford E. Thompson, of Boston, who directed a large force of field workers, who covered the entire country, special attention, the report said, being paid to representative cities, such as New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Chicago, Cleveland, Atlanta, and San Francisco.

OPENS A NEW OFFICE ON PACIFIC COAST.

The growth of east and west trade in Canada has syncronized largely with the growth of the volume and quality of advertising by eastern manufacturers in the western centres.

That national trade, to be really valuable as a factor in building the nation, should be reciprocal as between east and west is an axiom in Canada. McConnell & Fergusson, Limited, a national organization for the development of markets by advertising, are putting this principle into practice by extending the scope of their organization to the Pacific Coast.

After a six weeks' survey of western conditions, Mr. J. E. McConnell, president of the company, recently opened a branch of his company in Vancouver.

Hitherto Winnipeg has been the farthest Western point of any of the national agencies, but Mr. McConnell came to the conclusion that a branch of their organization in Vancouver could assist very materially in extending the markets of eastern manufacturers, and, at the same time, aid in developing eastern markets for B. C. products, such as fish, canned goods, fruit, lumber, etc., which British Columbia is in a position to produce in enormous quantities. The east needs the trade of British Columbia, the richest per capita of all the provinces, and British Columbia needs the markets of the east.

Mr. W. H. Carswell, a man of ripe experience both in Eastern and Western Canada, has been placed in the charge of the Vancouver office. Mr. Carswell was for many years associated with newspapers in Toronto and Montreal, and has been in the advertising business in Vancouver for thifteen years.

McConnell & Ferguson now have offices in London, Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

WHY DISTILLED WATER FOR STORAGE BATTERIES.

Putting ordinary water in a battery is a good deal like putting dirty ice in a refrigerator. Once or twice may do no harm, but the trouble piles up, and everything happens at once.

When a storage battery is built it has in it all the elements necessary to ensure satisfactory operation. Nothing can get out of it except the water that evaporates, and nothing can get into it unless it is contained in some form in the water that you add.

If the water that you put in every week or so to make up for the amount that evaporates contains ever so little iron in any form or other substance, this will remain in the battery. A little more is put in each time, and soon there is enough to interfere with proper action; and your battery wears out much more rapidly than it should.

If distilled water only is added, there is no chance of foreign substances working their way in, and consequently the battery plates will give better and longer service.

NORTHCLIFFE DAZED BY U. S. PROHIBITION

Seeks It, but Cannot Find It—Liquor Everywhere He Says.

WASHINGTON, July 29.— Lord Northcliffe, famous English publisher, still is dazed by the wonders of prohibition in the United States.

"What is this prohibition? When and what does it prohibit?" he queried in deep perplexity yesterday.

"Now, while we were dining in New York we ordered some wine—and got it," he narrated. "All kinds of drinks were on tap. I paid no attention to it until later it suddenly came to me that the United States was 'dry.'

"So I started looking for prohibition. So far I haven't found it. Everywhere I go I'm offered a drink. Everybody I talk with seems to have it or knows where to get it.

"My cab driver in New York—he makes about $50 a week— told me he had no trouble in getting his whiskey. I've met other men of moderate means, and they had their whiskey.

"No matter where I go I see it—and smell it. It's beyond me. So far I have been unable to see where and what prohibition prohibits."

HOPE OF WORK IS THE LURE.

Unemployed From Everywhere Are Flowing Into Montreal.

MONTREAL, July 29.—For some unknown and incomprehensible reason, claim social workers, Montreal has become known as "the city with streets of gold" to every out-of-work in Eastern Canada and the United States. Employment is expected to be easily available, and the inflowing tide of men, women and children arriving in the city with eager anticipation shows no signs of diminishing. A word in Ottawa, a whisper in Boston, or a so-called word of advice in Detroit, and some people spend their last penny, it is stated, to leave a city in which they have a fair chance of getting employment, to come to Montreal, where the unemployment situation is probably worse than anywhere else.

HOW WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

May Escape the Dreaded Sufferings of That Period by Taking Mrs. Block's Advice

Hopkins, Minn.—"During Change of Life I had hot flashes and suffered for two years. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the paper and got good results from taking it. I recommend your medicine to my friends and you may publish this fact as a testimonial." — Mrs. ROBERT BLOCK, Box 542, Hopkins, Minn.

It has been said that not one woman in a thousand passes this perfectly natural change without experiencing a train of very annoying and sometimes painful symptoms. Those dreadful hot flashes, sinking spells, spots before the eyes, dizzy spells, nervousness, are only a few of the symptoms. Every woman at this age should profit by Mrs. Block's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., about your health.

STRIKE LARGE VEIN OF LEAD NEAR SUDBURY

FIRST LEAD DISCOVERY IN DISTRICT JUSTIFYING DEVELOPMENT IS ON GOLD PROPERTY

SUDBURY, August 1 (Canadian Press). — What is believed to be the first discovery of lead in the Sudbury district in a quantity which would justify development of the property on which it was found, was made last week on the Gold Nugget property near Crerar.

Samples brought out from the property have been favourably commented on by mining men in town, and a number of prospectors have already gone into the new field.

Although primarily a gold property, the existence of lead not having been considered by prospectors first on the ground, there is an eight-inch vein of galena on the surface runinng about 124 feet.

The official assay by the Provinciay Assayer, W. K. McNeill, shows the lead content to be 78.40 per cent. —an unusually high percentage, and the highest ever registered in this district.

"IT'S ALL OVER," SAYS NORTHCTIFFE

$1,000.00 AN OPERATION SHOULD BE LIMIT.

View of Trustees of Famous Hospital on Doctors' Charges.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 1.—The Board of Trustees of the Johns Hopkins Hospital has issued the following dictum:

"The maximum fee that any surgeon ought to charge for an operation, no matter how wealthy the patient may be, is $1,000.00.

"The maximum charge that any physician ought to make for attending patients in a hospital is $35.00 a week."

The dictum takes on the force of an order to physicians and surgeons practising in the hospital, limiting fees to be charged.

The ruling was issued after long and thorough consideration of all the conditions surrounding physicians and surgeons, the cost of living, the scale on which physicians and surgeons are required to live, and the like. In it many eminent scientists at the hospital concurred.

OSTEOPATHS CONSIDER BREACH OF ETHICS.

CLEVELAND, July 30. — The alleged violation of professional ethics by Dr. H. L. Russel, of Buffalo, in testifying in the Stillman divorce case, was up before the House of Delegates of the American Osteopathic Association yesterday, and a heated discussion ensued.

The New York Association of Osteopaths was ordered to make a thorough investigation and submit a report with recommendations to the national organisation.

Action was deferred pending receipt of the report when the point was raised that under its constitution the national association could take no action until the New York Association had made recommendations.

A telegram received from his attorney stated Dr. Russel is on a vacation in Canada, but he will welcome an investigation which will afford him an opportunity to defend himself against this "unfounded criticism."

REDS RELEASE PRISONERS TO GET U.S. HELP

SIMULTANEOUSLY U.S. SENATOR RETURNS FROM RUSSIA ADVOCATING DIPLOMATIC AND TRADE RELATIONS.

RIGA, Aug. 1. — (Canadian Press.)—Soviet Russia has agreed to release the United States' prisoners and to accept famine aid from the American Relief Association, just at the moment that United States' Senator Joseph I. France of Maryland, has returned to Riga from Moscow determined to advocate renewal of trade relations and, perhaps, diplomatic relations, between Russia and the United States and bringing with him one of the prisoners, Mrs. Marguerite E. Harrison, of Baltimore, who was freed by his efforts at Moscow.

Senator France, who entered Russia several weeks ago, skeptical of the advantage of immediate diplomatic relations with the Soviets, but believing that trade relations were advisable, has returned an ardent enthusiast for both.

SPANISH FORCE IN PRECARIOUS POSITION.

MADRID, August 1 (Canadian Press). — A Spanish force is in a precarious position at Mount Arruit, in Morocco, it is announced here.

The force is a remnant of General Navarro's column, and it is surrounded by rebel tribesmen.

The enemy, it is admitted, is heavily firing on Navarro's position.

Commercial airplanes in the United States flew 3,250,000 miles in the last six months at a cost of 15 killed and 43 injured.

THE HYDRO APPOINTMENT.

The appointment of Mr. Fred R. Miller to the Hydro Electric Commission does not seem to have pleased some of the municipalities in Eastern Ontario, who complain that a commission from this section of the province should have been appointed. There is undoubtedly some reason for the complaint, inasmuch as Eastern Ontario is largely interested in the Hydro enterprise, and the municipalities east of Toronto have made heavy investments in the scheme. At the same time, however, when it is taken into consideration that strong pressure was being exerted to have Premier Drury appoint one of the U.F.O. members to the commission, whose sentiment towards the Hydro enterprise might have been lukewarm, if not hostile, the municipalities have not so much cause to complain. Had the choice been left to the Farmers' Sun it is safe to say that Mr. Miller would not have received the appointment. He brings to his new office a record of achievement and success that gives promise of valuable service on behalf of the people of Ontario and on the whole there does not seem very substantial reason for criticism.

THE SPEED MANIACS.

During the last session of the Legislature, as a result of resolutions passed by the local Board of Police Commissioners, a bill was introduced by Mr. Tooms, M.P.P., to reduce the legal speed limit for motor cars in the cities and towns of the province. The measure received scant consideration —in fact was "laughed out of court," and the chief mockers were the Toronto members of the House. There has apparently been a change of sentiment since that time, as a result of the ever increasing number of fatalities caused by speeding and reckless driving on the streets of the Queen City and during the past few days several coroners' juries have, in their verdicts, included a recommendation that the speed limit should be reduced. Certainly some measure must be taken to round up the speed maniacs, not only in Toronto, but elsewhere, who are menacing the safety of other motorists and of pedestrians as well. Men who are inclined to race powerful cars through the city streets should be given to understand that the authorities are determined to check such perilous pastimes and to see that the offenders are punished with the severity that the offence demands.

WHERE CARE IS NEEDED.

The recent forest fires in the Province of Quebec have resulted in damages estimated at several millions of dollars. The long dry spell had of course left the woods as dry as tinder, and carelessness did the rest. A camper's fire left smouldering, a brush fire getting beyond control, a burning cigarette stub carelessly thrown away, and the monetary loss of the resultant conflagration reaches an appalling figure. No wonder the Ontario Government is engaged in an advertising campaign, designed to awaken the people to a realization of the situation. Year after year our resources of valuable timber are being exhausted by forst fires that would never have happened if some one had not been neglectful. The warning cannot be too often repeated. So far as Peterborough is concerned, the citizens who go camping or fishing or hunting, are those to whom the appeal is chiefly addressed. Above all things they should be careful in regard to their camp fire. If possible it should be built upon a rock, but at all events it should not be a large one and it should be carefully extinguished before leaving camp. A few moments' attention may avert a disastrous forest fire and perhaps prevent fatalities as well as a huge financial loss.

THE PRINCE AND THE PEOPLE.

London Times.

It was announced yesterday that the Prince of Wales was suffering from a slight cold, and had in consequence given up his visit to Woolwich and one or two other of his immediate engagements. We believe that if he were to consent to continue this break in the ceaseless [illegible] his public activities with out waiting for the longer suspension arranged for August and September the news would be hailed with a general feeling of relief. The country is genuinely concerned for the possible effect on his health of the strenuous life which he has led since he came to man's estate. When the war began he was still a boy, and like the other boys of his generation, did the work of a soldier for five long years. Since then, in the Dominions and at home, he has worked harder than ever. Day after day, since he first set foot on the Renown, he has expended, in the performance of his duties as Heir to the Throne enough physical, and nervous and mental energy to tax the resources of a far stronger man. He has never spared himself. Mind and body, he has thrown his whole energy into everything that he has done. In his play as in his work he has shown the same untiring and unresting zeal and vigor. Swimming and running and dancing, in the hunting field and the squash racket court, on the point to point course and the polo ground he has crowded into his already full life a quite extraordinary amount of exhausing exercise. It is true that he has always so far "come up smiling,' and that without the recuperative effect of the exercise he might have found it more difficult to stand the strain of the constant rush from one place and one engagement to another. But what the public is afraid of is that the cumulative weight of over-much travel and ceremonial work and hard physical exercise may be beginning to tell, as it did once before, during his visit to Australia. Every one has read what Lord Derby said of him the other day after his tour in Lancashire: He was absolutely exhausted each evening, but his only thought was whether he had left anything undone that he ought to have done." Every one will feel, as Lord Derby does, that his spirit, indeed, is willing, that he is giving up the whole of his leisure to fit himself for the task which will some day be his, but that he has no right to gve up his health, which is of as much value to the nation as himself. We earnestly trust that the Prince of Wales will take to heart the advice thus given him by his Lancashre host, who went so far as to hint that if he had his way he would consel him to "knock out even the voyage to India.' The issues involeved in this last suggestion, as the Pince well knows, are, however, of such grave importance to the future of the inhabitants of India, that he is sure to do everything in his power to avoid causing them a second disappointment. It was only with great reluctance that he consented to postpone his visti when it was first arranged. But there is no doubt in the minds of the people of this country as to the necessity of the moment. They believe the Prince badly needs not only the holiday he has so richly earned, but something in the nature of a rest cure, and the sooner he takes it the better will they be pleased.

BLOOD POISONING FROM BOIL PROVES FATAL.

Inflammation Followed by Pneumonia—Infection in Face Spreads.

WATERTOWN, N.Y., July 30.—Mrs. Emaline Frances Morse Matzenbach, wife of Benjamin Matzenbach, passed away at the residence of her mother, Mrs. Arthur Morse, following a brief illness due to blood poisoning and pneumonia, aged 21 years.

A small boil appeared on her cheek and it is believed that she irritated it with her finger nails. The boil became inflamed and her cheek was swollen, the infection gradually extending across her face. Later the infection extended and pneumonia developed, as is often the case in such streptoccoci infection.

She was ill with pneumonia only twenty-four hours when she passed away. Erysipelas contributed also to the condition.

SCHOOL 8 HOURS DAILY ALL YEAR ROUND IS URGED.

N. Y. Child Welfare Man Says Longer Classes Would Cut Crime.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., July 30.—School eight hours a day, six days a week, and 52 weeks a year, with three hours of Sunday school every Sunday—this, declares J. Adams Puffer, of New York City, would help mightily in solving the delinquent child problem.

Mr. Puffer spoke on that subject here yesterday, in the last of three lectures in the university summer school lecture course, under auspices of the National Child Welfare League.

Mr. Puffer advocates 10-minute periods of setting up exercises between each recitation hour, with an hour each day devoted to physical exercises, preferably in the out-of-doors, when the weather permits.

"If we fill in the time of the boys and girls with study and physical training, the deviltry will be pretty much worked out of them by supper time, and there will be fewer delinquent boys and girls as a result of this," he declared. He advocated physical training for every child in the Public school system.

He denounced the physical training that ended with getting a "team" trained sufficiently to meet competition.

The five per cent. of people who are in the lowest station of intelligence in this country, he said, have the largest families, and they breed their own kind. The average was six children in a family, he said. On the other hand, the average of children in the home of a Harvard graduate was one and one-tenth child, and the graduate from Vassar averaged but one child. He advocated institutions where these lower five per cent. can be kept from increasing so rapidly.

In this connection, he said if university educations were keeping families from having children, it were better to forego the education.

TOM MAKES INSINUATIONS.

After Tom Barney had gone I expected Kent to speak of his conversation, to wonder why Tom had brought up the subject of diamonds. I thought surely Kent would be suspicious. But apparently it did not bother him.

"Kent, what do you suppose ever made Tom bring up the subject of diamonds?" I asked, unable to curb my curiosity.

"Why, I don't know," Kent returned blandly.

"You don't suppose he has any suspicions—knows anything?" I ventured.

"No. How could he?" Kent answered. "Don't let that fellow bother you, Babs. I wish I knew how to stop his coming around here and worrying you, though."

But even if Kent did not think anything of Tom's reference to the diamond, it disturbed me a great deal.

"I wonder if women are more mistrustful individuals than men," I thought to myself. I had often noticed that women were inclined to be much more wary. I sort of hated that trait of always looking for trouble. Men were so much more apt to be big and open-minded about such matters.

And then Tom Barney made me another visit. It was the very next morning. I was angry and frightened, all at the same time, when I saw him.

"Did I leave my cigarette case here by any chance?" he asked me.

I knew he was lying. I knew he had not lost the cigarette case. I wanted to shut the door in his face. I longed for the strength to take him by the coat collar and throw him out. It made me wild to think that because I was a woman he would take advantage of my weakness.

He came in and made a pretense of looking around a little.

"I'm quite sure it isn't here, Tom," I told him, trying to retain my dignity.

He came over to me and caught my hand in his.

"You are a wonderful woman, Barbara," he said, not unkindly. But I hated his words, and the very touch of his hand.

I pulled it away from him, and the color mounted to my cheeks.

"I don't suppose you will ever care a little bit for me?" he pleaded.

"You are being extremely foolish," I told him.

"If you could just care a little bit—because I care tremendously," he entreated, trying to catch hold of me again.

"Tom!" I cried angrily. "Don't touch me."

"Well, I'm as good as he is—as Kent," he taunted. "Do you know what he has been doing? If you did you might not be so blamed proud."

My heart nearly stopped beating.

"Don't you dare insinuate anything about Kent," I demanded, my face white, and my nerves pounding in my temples.

"It's not just an insinuation—remember that," he cried meaningly.

"Tom Barney, I refuse to listen to you if you talk like that," I said. I walked toward the door and opened it for him.

"Maybe you don't listen to me now, but some day you'll wish you had. I have it in my power—I know enough about Kent Armour to—to make it very disagreeable for him," he finished meaningly.

Tom picked up his hat. At the door he turned back and gave a little unpleasant sneer. In the weeks that followed that sneer remained in my memory to haunt me. When I was awake or asleep it would come leering up in front of me.

"You may be surprised when you find out the truth about your beloved husband," Tom said.

"You seem to forget that I am Kent Armour's wife," I answered him, and then I closed the door and heard him go on down the stairs.

I came back into the room and stood for a long time staring into space.

Tom Barney did know about Kent. My suppositions had not been false. I had to face the truth of it, and alone. I would not dare tell Kent. It might frighten him and change his determination to return the diamond.

ATTEMPT TO REGULATE GERMAN BOOSE TRAFFIC

DRINK CRAZE HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR CRIME WAVE SINCE WAR

BERLIN, Aug. 1. — Consumption of wines and liquors has been increased so rapidly in Germany since the war that the Reichstag has directed the drafting of a law, to be introduced at the September session, to regulate the traffic. The law also will check a growing increase in the number of saloons which, in Berlin particularly, has been so rapid that even the moderates say that the health and morals of the people are endangered.

The crime wave which as been sweeping the country for many months, filling the jails of every city and severely taxing the resources of the police, is attributed by many to the "drink-craze," and especially to the more general use, among the poorer Germans, of cheap cognacs, green whiskies, gin, and other "hard liquors." The Germans, in fact, are gradually losing their old reputation as beer drinkers, although an abundance of beer is obtainable.

Practically all the cafes and wine rooms of Berlin are installing "American bars," and even the high-priced cabarets, where once only the best wines were served at tables for which a charge was made, now have long mahogany bars, against which the customer may lean, with his feet on a brass foot rail, and drink as long as he has the price of a drink or the bartender will trust him.

There is no charge for a place at the bar, but to sit at the tables it is compulsory to drink champagne, or some other wine of similar price, with proportionate profit to the proprietor.

The consumption of champagne has outstripped all previous records during the past twelve months, mounting to more than 12,000,000 bottles. The principal rendezvous of the heavy and habitual champagne drinker is the "night saloon," which does not open until late afternoon or early evening, but continues serving its customers until early morning, although the official closing hour is 11.30 at night.

Publication of the statistics of champagne consumption recently brought a prompt demand from radical Socialists and Labour organisations for more rigorous control of this traffic which, it was alleged, represented the "privileges" secured by the profiteers and the moneyed foreigners who frequent the capital. There is also a widespread demand for enforcement of the closing law.

YOUR POSITION DEPENDS ON YOU

The tree that never had to fight
For sun and sky and air and light.
That stood out in the open plain,
And always got its share of rain—
Never became a forest king,
But lived and died a scrubby thing.

The man who never had to toil
To Heaven from the common soil,
Who never had to win his share
Of sun and sky and light and air—
Never became a manly man,
But lived and died as he began.

You can take a train in Peterborough today and be in Winnipeg, a distance of a thousand miles tomorrow.

But somebody must be in the cab with his hand on the lever before you can move a foot out of the Peterboro station. Somebody must guide and direct the rushing giant of steel which bears you on, and somebody must constantly feed it to sustain it in its flight.

But besides the engineer and the fireman, somebody must be aboard to look after the passengers, the signals, the mail, the baggage, the general safety. Conductors, brakemen, clerks, baggagemen, porters—all are necessary parts of the train crew. If trains are to run, somebody must fill these various places.

And back of these is an army of telegraphers, switchmen, mechanics oilers, wipers, laborers, clerks, and back of these are management and invention and capital or money with which to carry on and develop the business of railroading.

These are facts that everyone understands, but get the point firmly fixed in mind that at every turn the human element enters. Somebody must serve in various capacities that are necessary from section hand to president of the road.

Then apply the principle to the business of which you are apart. To run successfully, it must have people for a great variety of work. Somebody must work at the machines, somebody must attend to correspondence, somebody must do the odd jobs, somebody must look after the management. There must be workers, foremen, heads of departments, managers, executives.

Men are not immortal. As time passes changes are bound to occur, opportunities are bound to come up and always somebody must occupy the better positions just as somebody must fill the lesser positions.

Where do you stand at present? Where are you going to stand in the future?

Only one person can occupy one position, but somebody must occupy it.

A man is not born an engineer, a manager or an executive. Such positions are attained by hard work and definite purpose and individual effort counts most when a young man, who is ambitious desires to make a success of life in any field he may choose.

CHURCH SERVICES AT MARK STREET

The morning congregation was splendid, that of the evening larger than usual; and the music at both services by the choir much enjoyed.

"The Unpardonable Sin" was the theme of the morning sermon, and was founded on Matt. VII, 32, "Whosoever speaketh a word against the Son of Man it shall be forgiven him, but whosoever speaketh against the Holy Ghost it shall not be forgiven him." The following is an outline of the sermon:

A young man returning home late at night, and passing his little sister's room on his way to his own, heard her sobbing. Tapping on her door and asking the cause of her weeping, she answered, "Oh, I am such a great sinner." "And who told you that you are such a sinner?" asked her brother. "Oh," said she, "I have felt it ever since father prayed tonight." There you have it my friends. The voice that had been speaking to that little girl, for three hours, in that quiet room, was the same voice that spoke to the child Samuel at midnight in the temple of God. It was the voice of the Holy Ghost, and He speaks to the individual and He speaks to the nations of the earth with unquestioned authority.

What is the Sin Against the Holy Ghost?

To speak against Jesus was one thing, but to utter a word against the Holy Ghost was quite a different thing. I suppose just simply this: The Pharisees were, at that time, charging Jesus with being in league with the devil. They told Him He had an understanding with the devil, and they said to Him, "You have a devil," and finally they said, "You are a devil." As if Christ had said, "You can say all that about me and yet be forgiven, but when my Father comes down, and by His spirit bears clears testimony that I am His son and you reject that testimony, for that sin there is no forgiveness." The one is speaking against Christ in the absence of light, the other is speaking against Him in the full blaze of light.

This Sin is Not Some Particular Crime.

It is not profane swearing, nor stealing, nor drunkenness, nor even murder; all these sins have been forgiven. It is not even adultery; although this great crime is closely allied to the sin against the Holy Ghost. But there is something in the consequences of the unpardonable sin, worse even than any and all of the above transgressions. The sin against the Holy Ghost is the continued rejection of the Gospel of Christ. It is very simple. It is just like this: Whenever you hear the call of the Gospel, say "no," and go about your business;; you hear the call again and say "no," and you continue to do that until the first you know you are a sinner let alone. You haven't had conviction in ten years the spirit of God has gone. You have said "no" to God until conscience uses its function no longer.

How Did the Pharisees Commit This Sin?

If you carefully examine the mental attitude of the Pharisees toward Christ you will find from first to last, no matter what evidence Christ gave of His divinity, they said, "Away with it." It was the rejection of light, the rejection of evidence. Lazarus had been in the grave four days, and when the divine Christ by His own mighty power called the dead to life, and proved by His miracles that He was divine, the Jews denied His Messiahship. After that a girl of about twelve years old died. They laid her body out in an upper chamber. Christ went up, stood by the couch of death and bending over the corpse said, "Galitha cumi," which is "Maid arise," and she was restored to the rejoicing family. "Pharisees, have I given you evidence of my divinity? Will you take me?" Listen, "We will not, away with it, away with the evidence." The unshakable evidence of His divinity as He stands before Pilate, as He meets His enemies in Gethsamane, as He hangs on the cross, as He springs in eternal triumph from the tomb and as the Holy Ghost bears witness at Pentecost, all is trampled beneath the stubborn heel of the Pharisees, and so they commit the sin by rejecting the light.

Who Can Commit This Sin Which Has No Forgiveness.

Any person in the wide world who can deliberately say no to the calls and invitations of the Gospel is in danger, every time you say it, of never being called again. You may be a sinner let alone forever. Think of it; that splendid young man and that bright young lady rejected Jesus Christ 365 times last year, and every instance of rejection merits the wrath of God forever. Think of it, that splendid man has taken his boy away from his church and Sunday school fifteen times this summer, and has spent part of God's holy Sabbath day at the cattle ranch; that boy may see the day that he will curse his own father.

How Does the Unpardonable Sin Show Itself?

It locks a man up to indifference. A sermon like this never troubles him, it plays around an unfeeling heart, and the claims of God never appeal to him. The death beds of some wicked men fill us with surprise. "There are no bonds in their death; their strength is firm." They write their wills three hours before death, and their reason is utterly calm. He doesn't want the Bible or prayer, or the sight of a Christian. He is a sinner let alone. He will never repent. He will never hear the Spirit again; the drum of his spiritual ear is broken. Conscience is dead. The Spirit still calls, but he cannot hear.

How Can I Know That I Am Not a Sinner Left Alone?

Are you anxious to know? Have you the slightest desire to be a Christian? Have you one tender feeling towards God? Then remember, the Holy Spirit is the author of every good desire, every tender impulse toward God, and every longing for the better life. How can the Spirit of God be gone if you still feel His presence at all? Then thank God and take courage.

ANOTHER QUESTION.

The cinema producer was giving his final instructions for the production of part nineteen of "The Adventures of Annie."

"Mr. Daring," he addressed the curly-haired hero, "for realism purposes I have borrowed a live lion for this act. The animal will pursue you for five hundred feet."

Mr. Daring interrupted him. "For five hundred feet?"

"Yes," replied the producer. "No more than that. Understand?"

The hero nodded dubiously. "Yes, I understand; but—does the lion?"

CAPITOL BUILDING GEORGE STREET

Her Name Is Joy and She Was Born In City Where Everyone Has Charm

In the press matter which the Goldwyn publicity department so obligingly gives away, there are recorded the facts that Leatrice Joy is an actress, 5 feet 2 inches in height, with black hair and brown eyes, and that she was born in New Orleans, La., November 7th, 1897. But the uninspired record submitted merely proves anew the old adage that press agents have no souls, for who with one of those would try to compress the charm and the grace of Leatrice Joy into cold statistical facts?

Miss Joy's role of Bunty in "Bunty Pulls the Strings," develops all the humor and charm that her multitudinous friends have come to expect. For, after all, that is the really attractive quality in the Scotch lass who mended matters—charm, and it was for a person with that talent that Goldwyn looked to play the part, until the weary eyes of the casting director alighted at last on Leatrice, and brightened.

It isn't strange, by the way, that Miss Joy should possess that most elusive attractive thing which in Bunty allures the world. For she was born in a city where everybody has charm, an old-world inheritance, no doubt—New Orleans, famed for its levee, its women and its fizzes, the last, alas, now gone into that limbo which no Barleycorn ever returns. She was born in the far, fair city, on November 7th, 1897, and is one of the few actresses on any stage who doesn't hesitate to tell the date of her birth aloud. But, after all, the others have reasons for their diffidence, perhaps.

Leatrice was educated in the Sacred Heart Academy, in her own, native town, and it wasn't until 1915, just five years ago, that she entered a movie studio to work. A year later she interrupted her labors on the silent screen to play with a stock company in New Orleans, her roles being those she took in the films—ingenues. She has played with J. Warren Kerrigan in "A Dollar Bid," in "Man Hunter," with William Farnum, and in such productions as "The Miracle Man," "Blind Youth," "The Right of Way," and more. Her first work for Goldwyn was in "Bunty Pulls the Strings," and she was next seen in a Gouverneur Morris story written directly for the screen, "A Tale of Two Worlds." Following that she was immediately cast for two photoplays to be released in the fall, "Ace of Hearts" and "The Night Rose."

Incidentally, if you doubt that there is variety in the professional life of a movie actress, just consider that Miss Joy took the wide jump from Scotland, in Bunty, to China, in the Morris story, for in "A Tale of Two Worlds" she is to be seen as a Chinese maiden—that is, as an American maiden brought up as a Chinese maiden, which, as you admit, is quite a different thing. But her role required her to walk patter-patter and wear Oriental robes and consider the proprieties as expounded by Confucius.

Her hobby is bringing coals to Newcastle for she has had installed in her home a miniature moving picture camera and projecting machine, so that when she is through working in the studios she can return home and watch the screen for her pleasure. She admits also that she has an ambition, "to be starred." Certainly if she continues to rise at the same rate that she has been in the film firmament there doesn't seem to be any doubt but what she will win her heart's desire.

However, the best way to win one's heart-desire is to keep in good mental and physical trim, and Miss Joy does both. She reads poetry—Emerson is a great favorite with her—and short stories, and she plays golf and tennis, and she motors, being the owner of a car which can be seen entering the gates of the studios early in the morning and leaving late at night. Also, she has an Airdale which is a great favorite not only of hers but of the entire population of Culver City. So that with her work, reading, playing, and more, her life is full and busy, as a life should be.

But all this doesn't convey that special quality which the press agent so egregiously missed—the quality of charm, which makes her as popular off the screen as on and on as off. And is there a better quality for a woman and an actress to possess? Write it on the backboard: "No!"

Marie Prevost Saves Director; She Is Another Canadian Star

The recovery of King Baggot, whose critical condition resulted from concussion received in a double rescue recently, will permit further progress on his forthcoming feature, "Moonlight Follies." Mr. Baggot owes his life to the swimming prowess and physical strength of Miss Marie Prevost, Universal star, whom he has been directing in a screen version of Percival Wilde's novel. His assistant, Nat Ross, also can thank Miss Prevost for rescuing him from what might have been a tragic end.

Miss Prevost was in the swimming pool at the Coffin estate at Pasadena, Cal., performing some aquatic stunts for the camera. Ross, leaning over the edge of the pool, fell in and struck his head on the bottom. Immediately Baggot plunged in after him. But his head struck the side of the pool as he came up and started toward Ross, who was feebly struggling toward the edge. Baggot again slumped under, unconscious from the impact.

With swift strokes, Miss Prevost swam to Baggot and forced him above the water and held him up until others pulled him over the edge. She then devoted her energies to rescuing Ross, whom she pulled to the side of the pool, where he was taken out of the water safe though exhausted.

The day's program ended there.

Miss Prevost, a Canadian girl, until recently was featured in bathing scenes that gave abundant display to her attractive form and natatorial prowess. She was recently given a starring contract with Universal to permit her to engage in more serious forms of screen drama and seek fame through the worth of her acting rather than the renown of her limbs.

Star Dust

Priscilla Dean and eighteen members of her company are enroute to British Columbia, where the concluding scenes for "Conflict," her forthcoming Universal-Jewel production will be filmed under the direction of Stuart Paton. The unit will be camped in the Bull River district for several weeks.

Eddie Polo is hard at work on the opening episodes of his forthcoming serial, 'The Secret Four," a narrative by Anthony W. Goldewey, who wrote several of the star's recent serial successes. Albert Russell is directing. The star is supported by Kathleen Myers, Doris Deane, Hal Wilson and other popular players.

Mary Alden, who has the part of the mother in Rupert Hughes' photoplay, "The Old Nest," has been cast for an important role in another Goldwyn picture, "The Man With Two Mothers," by Alice Duer Miller.

The Italian film, "Theodora," which will soon be seen in this country, was made by Ambrosio and his staff, who also produced "Cabiria" and "Quo Vadis."

Irvin Cobb wrote all the titles for "Pardon My French," the latest Messmore-Kendall production, starring Vivian Martin. This is the first direct screen work Mr. Cobb has done.

Any two-fisted kid who tells Harry Carey that he wants a dog and assures the Universal star that he can give it good care, will be given a pup from the famous screen hero's ranch in the San Francisquito Canyon.

Harry Corey has thirty-three dogs, and he would probably be collecting them at the rate of one a day but Mrs. Carey, his pretty wife, has sent out a distress signal.

She, too, loves dogs, but she said today:

"As much as we love dogs it is not fair to keep thirty-three of them when there are hundreds of kiddies around the country who would like a pet."

Betty Compson In A New Role

Betty Compson, the young screen actress who leaped into fame with her acting of Rose in "The Miracle Man," and then went into production on her own account, appearing in the Goldwyn released picture, "Prisoners of Love," is not satisfied to play the same part in picture after picture. Ambitious to develop every phase of her acting ability, she has deliberately chosen a part in her new production, "Always the Woman," at the opposite pole in character from her previous roles.

In the new photoplay, adapted from a story by Perley Poore Sheehan, she acts the part of an unsophisticated young girl in a small country village who makes of herself a target for the suspicion and gossip of the neighborhood by befriending a gambler who has saved her from drowning.

"Always the Woman" was directed by Arthur Rosson, who directed "Prisoners of Love." Chief in her supporting cast is Lon Chaney as the gambler. His leap into fame was made in the same picture as Miss Compson's—"The Miracle Man." Others in the cast are Frank Campeau, Dick Rosson, Walter Morosco, Bert Woodruff and Camille Astor.

LOCAL BOYS LEAVE ON LONG TRIP ON WHEELS

ARE CYCLING TO BUFFALO AND NEWCASTLE, PA., A DISTANCE OF 425 MILES.

Three Peterborough cycling enthusiasts, Frank White, of White Bros., bicycle dealers, Hunter street, Jerry Loescher and Herb. Tranter, left Peterborough on Saturday afternoon on the longest cycling trip local riders have tackled in many moons. White and Loescher were headed for Newcastle, Pa., a distance of 425 miles, while Tranter accompanied them as far as Buffalo, N.Y. The three boys were mounted on Massey bicycles and travelled light, carrying only a change of clothing and a sweater coat and expected to make the long journey without any particular difficulty. On the return trip Tranter will be picked up at Buffalo and the cyclists intend to pedal as far as Rochester, and come over on the ferry to Cobourg.

Word was received Sunday from the trio that they reached Oshawa in good shape Saturday evening, and after spending the night there, went on to Toronto yesterday morning. They were leaving for Hamilton last evening, according to their schedule. By the time they reach Peterborough again they will have travelled about 1,000 miles on their bikes in two weeks.

GEORGE ST. CHOIR ANNUAL PICNIC

PARTY ENJOYED A PLEASANT SAIL TO HIAWATHA.

On Saturday afternoon the choir of the George street church journeyed to Hiawatha, where a fish supper was served. About two hunded took in the trip which was made on the Steamer Stoney Lake. A a preliminary canter to the sports programme a baseball game was started with two mixed teams. Somebody heard the supper bell, and the game was called in the third innings.

A list of miscellaneous sports resulted as follows:

Boys' race—R. Asquith, Arthur Legon.

Girls' race—Sybil Harrison, Dorothy Patterson, Viola Gibbons.

Ladies' backward race, Isobel Baird, Mrs. F. Turner, Mrs. Manning.

Men's 75 yard race, Messrs. Ferguson, Bailey and McKee.

Ladies' 50 yard race, Mrs. F. Turner, Miss Cole and Isobel Baird.

Blindfolded arce — This was won by Mr. Kerneghan. He was the sole entrant.

The judges were Messrs S. Oke and Gordon Bennett.

On the return trip a nail driving contest was perpetrated by Mr. L. Fraser and Mr. Stanley Thompson. The contestant were required to drive a ten inch spike in an oak log, which was smuggled on board at Hiawatha. Those disposing of the nail with the smallest number of strokes were declared the winners. Mrs. Richard Parnell landed the first prize with 16 strokes, and Mrs. Kennedy ran second with 18 strokes. Mrs. Oke secured third prize. In the men's nail-driving contest Mr. Wiliam Hill drove the nail home in 11 strokes and Mr. H. F. McKeown ran second with 12 strokes.

PETERBORO MEN CATCH BIG LUNGE

Messrs. James Price and Harry Lemming of Peterboro, who are holidaying at Rice Lake, caught a lunge this morning that weighed 20 1-2 lbs. lbs. and measured 45 inches. It is one of the largest fish reported this season.

FALL FASHIONS

Suits and coats are going to be very elaborately trimmed with fur for fall and winter. The models, which are now ready, leave no doubt concerning this. They will also have embroidery and stitching, which seems inseparable from soft materials such as duvetyn and velours. The colorings are on the soft cloudy browns with a few terra-cottas. In twills, navy is of course the predominating shade.

Coats, which are selling ahead of suits for fall, are of two or three varieties. One style has rather a close fitting body with sweeping skirt; another has a full back hanging from a shoulder yoke, a very large collar and sleeves with a deep armhole, while a third has a bloused body. But of the three, that which the full back is the most prominent in the same line at present. The sleeve and the collar appear to be the most important features of these coats. The wrap is included in the fall samples only for dressy occasions and evenings. The ultility coat has some wrappy features, such as the loose sleeve, which has a natural bend for the elbow to rest in, but the front hangs straight. The collar is allowed to go to any extreme it likes, apparently, for we find them cut like deep capes that roll up around the neck in the most comforting way and all but shut the person within it, from view. For this collar, the silky peltry of the Canadian beaver is the designer's first choice and from the number of beaver collars shown on the season's coats, one is tempted to say it is his only choice. However, there are others, as for instance, mole, sable and Australian opossum.

KEEP WIFE AMUSED, SAYS CHICAGO JUDGE

2,000 Marital Troubles Prompt Sabath to Advise Movies, Motor and Swimming.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Unique admonitions to husbands, wives and sweethearts were extended by Judge Joseph Sabath of the Superior Court, when he told of having disposed of 2,000 cases in the last ten months.

Judge Sabath said he found that women outnumbered men almost two to one in applications for the dissolution of their marital bonds.

Prohibition, he declared, had not shown any tendency to decrease the number of divorces. He advocated the publishing of the names of those who desire to marry, thirty days before a license is issued.

The following were among his suggestions to secure happiness: "Every man should see that his wife has plenty of entertainment, take her to the movies, auto rides, theatres, as often as you can afford it. Go swimming with her if she likes it.

"A husband should confide his business affairs to his wife and she should take an interest in them.

"Have children.

"Know each other well, before marriage.

"Realize the responsibility of the marriage relation, bear and forebear.

"Move away from each other's families. Don't live with them.

"It is better to live in a simple little dovenest alone than in a place with the members of the families of either one."

In the divorce cases disposed of before Judge Sabath, 1,456 were filed by women, as compared with 544 by men. Among the causes, desertion was put forward in 975 cases, adultery in 207 and intoxication in 201. The annulments numbered 135.

1,200 MUSICIANS GET NOTICES TO QUIT IN NEW YORK

Stage Strike May Follow If A. F. of L. Steps In.

NEW YORK, August 1.—About 1,200 musicians employed in Broadway motion picture and vaudeville houses received two weeks' notice of discharge on Tuesday night, bringing to a climax a controversy which has been developing for several weeks. A general strike of unionized theatre employes involving stage hands, motion picture operators and allied unionists may result, it was pointed out last night.

The houses affected are the Capitol, Rivoli, Rialto, Criterion, Strand, the Fox, Moss and Loew theatres and the several Keith vaudeville houses. Nearly all of the musicians involved are members of Local 310 o fthe Musicians' Mutual Protective Union, which recently was ousted from the Federation of Musicians, the national organization, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

The theatre managers have decided that the musicians must accept a wage cut of 20 per cent., or a return to 1919 scales, which would reduce the average earning of the musicians from $70 to $56. Their demand is an outgrowth of an unprecedented depression in the motion picture and vaudeville business, the managers say, and is moderate in view of the 100 per cent. increase in musicians' wages during the war period. In 1914 the theatre musician received $32. The last increase was received two years ago, when the scale jumped from $56 to $70.

Internal dissension has been rife within the musicians' organization. The managers' demand comes on the heels of the ouster from the National Federation and finds the local union split. The leaders of the radical group was removed by a majority vote of the unionists yesterday from a committee which is to approach the federation and request reinstatement of Local 310. The conservative musicians regard this as a step toward settlement of the internal difficulty.

Should the federation agree to take the local group back, it was said, it was fair to assume that it would back up the New York musicians in their fight with the managers and call out allied unionists if necessary.

The manager of a large Broadway motion picture house who asked that his name be withheld, said:

"The depression is the worst we have ever experienced. The managers and owners have been steadily losing money. I would hate to quote figures. The musicians must accept a wage cut. They benefited in the lush days of prosperity and they must suffer with us now."

SAYS REDS CONTROL BIG "TREASON" FUND

Head of Retail Clothiers' Association Declares They Are Raising $5,000,000.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 30.—The radical labor element, "which practically controls the clothing manufacturing industry, is raising a defense fund of $5,000,000 to continue and carry on their campaign of terrorism and treason," A. E. Burkhardt, President of the National Association of Retai Clothiers, declared tonight in an address before the convention of the Pennsylvania Retail Clothiers' Association.

This element had become a serious menace to the country, he asserted, and was attempting to "throttle and annihilate honest American labor."

Forms of terrorism, ranging from petty annoyances to physical violence, bombing and actual taking of life, have occurred with frequency in the congested manufacturing centres, he said.

"These people will stop at nothing which tends to their ends," Mr. Burkhardt continued. "They are becoming so brazen in their attacks that they sneer at those of us who seek to aid in upholding the ideals and traditions of our country, and ask what we are going to do about their further villianies."

The speaker said there was little cause to take issue with the American Federation of Labor, as it was fighting in common with American industry against the radical labor element, who would crush them.

Referring to the alleged intention of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America to come into possession of the plants of industry and then to seize them. Mr. Burkhardt said that this organization "would confiscate and subjugate capital and place labor at the helm of affairs, as the Bolsheviki hordes of Russia have done, entailing chaos and a return to a state of semi-barbarism."

"One of the most surprising things of recent years," he continued, "is the apathy and indifference heretofore shown by the American people toward these un-American and destructive organizations."

Survey of the retail clothing business of this country had shown that charges that the clothing merchants of America were profiteering and retarding deflation were false, he said.

CHICAGO BANKER TOOK TORONTO TRAIN, IS CLAIM

Woman Confidante of Spurgin Reported in Canada.

CHICAGO, July 30.—Police, detectives, assistant State attorneys, investigators, Pinkerton operatives and others conducting a nation-wide search for Warren C. Spurgin, absconding President of the Michigan Avenue Trust Company, were keyed to a high pitch of excitement Wednesday night by reports, as yet unconfirmed, that their quarry had been seen and identified in Toronto.

The Canada trail originally was based on the partial identification of Spurgin by description by a conductor on a Grand Trunk Railway train, it is said. Later the presence of such a man in Montreal was averred by numerous private detectives. Then the man was said to have fled the city, purchasing a ticket to Toronto.

The theory received added support when it became known to Assistant States Attorney James E. McShane and Chief Investigator Ben Newmark that a woman friend of Spurgin—said to have been not only his companion on many nights of wild automobile rides and cabaret dinners, but to have been his confidante as well—left Chicago for a two months' trip. The whereabouts of this woman is as yet undetermined.

WOMEN TO CALL HALT ON LOVE SOAKED VERSE

Evanston Will Have None of It for Schoolboys.

CHICAGO, July 30.—Evanston, intellectual crusader of the Chicago district, has started a new reform, and, as usual, the club women are the sponsors.

They have decided to declare a war on mushy poetry for schoolboys. The syrup will be saved for the morning waffles. The youngsters will be spared the anguish of memorizing swooning verse of the 'lily love" school. "The Landlady's Daughter," "Robin Adair" and other tender classic of the Golden Treasury are to be put in cold storage.

After this Evanston's knickerbocker citizens will recite only poems with a kick. The club women say verse of the anthology type is more nourishing for growing youths than the Victorian stuff.

ODD JERSEY BEAST IS "SOMERVILLE LION"

New Prowling Species Hunts Chickens and Operates Only by Moonlight.

FANWOOD, N. J., July 30.—Lion hunting has become the fashionable Jersey pastime of the moment, with Soverville, a few miles from here, the centre of activity. According to numerous reports, a ferocious animal, which has been classified as a "Somerville lion," has been seen but not definitely located.

The report placing the mysterious animal in this section comes from Edward Harding, a New York lawyer, who notified the police that the mysterious animal had been seen by an employe of his estate on Terrill road here. According to the man, the beast, which looked bigger than a big Newfoundland dog, invaded his chicken yard. He chased it away, but insisted that he had never seen an animal of the kind before.

Cranford, several miles from here, has also reported having seen an animal of large proportions and unknown species prowling along the banks of the Cranford River. Somerville is keeping armed moonlight vigil. No daylight reports of the prowling monster have been filed.

TERROR KILLS WOMAN; THUNDER GROWLS AND SHE TURNS ON GAS IN ROOM.

NEW YORK, August 1—Mrs. Elizabeth Lands, of Brooklyn, is dead to-day, killed by fear.

When the first distant thunder growls sounded in her ears the other night she cast an agonized look at the heavens, seized her 4-year-old daughter Gertrude by the hand, ran to her bedroom, and turned on the gas.

Her husband found her lying across the bed.

Little Gertrude will live, doctors announce.

Neighbors say Mrs. Lands was always afraid of lightning.

"I know it will kill me some day," she used to say.

"RENDER, THEREFORE, UNTO CAESAR THE THINGS WHICH ARE CAESAR'S"

SUBJECT OF SERMON TO ROYAL BLACK PRECEPTORY BY REV. R. B GROBB IN ALL SAINTS' CHURCH—THE ORGANIZATION CONTAINING THE GREATEST NUMBER OF RELIGIOUS MEN WILL BE OF GREATEST EFFECT.

"That organisation—let it be the League of aNtions, the Roman Catholic Church, or Orangeism—which has the largest number of religious members will have the greatest effect in this world," declared Rev. R. B. Grobb, rector of All Saints' Anglican Church last night.

The occasion was the attendance at divine worship in All Saints' of the Royal Black Preceptory, who, with visiting brethren, seventy-five strond, paraded to the sacred edifice headed by the Scottish Pipe Band, in full Highland regalia.

The reverend gentleman, taking for his text what he characterised as the great edict of Christ—"And he (Jesus) said unto them, render, therefore, unto Caesar the things which be Caesar's, and unto God the things which be God's" (St. Luke 20, v. 25)—in the course of a thoughtful and interest-holding discourse, strongly emphasised this teyt as an irrefutable pronouncement of Christ's intention as to man's duty toward God and toward the State, in which he, the speaker, evidently found a clearly defined dividing line. The organisation, he reiterated, composed of the greatest number of men who know how to pray, what it is to practice religion, and to render unto God the things which be God's, will lead in temporal effort. He also stressed the divine injunction that man must render unto Caesar the things which be Caesar's in terrestrial affairs.

In this connection Mr. Grobb congratulated Orangemen on the part their Order had played in that agitation which had secured from the Privy Council the ruling on the marriage question that no ecclestical body or religious creed shall interfere with civil authority, which is at all times to be recognised as binding. In the marriage law, he said, anything that has a tendency to weaken its bond leads to degeneration in the human race.

He appreciated, the reverend gentleman continued, that one of the principles of Orangeism is that civil authority has its obligatory claims, which cannot be abrogated by any religious creed or creeds. And in this, Orangemen have the countenance of God. Who has ordained that in some cases the State shall be supreme, because that is the only effective working principle which can be applied; when any Church interferes with State laws there at once arises endless trouble.

Turning to the varied faiths in Christianity, the speaker contended that we will never find all thinking alike religiously in this world, and any attempt to coerce man in that respect is manifestly wrong. For that reason no Church can ever have temporal power. The fundamental spirit of Orangeism, he understood, is to aid and assist all or any creed by protecting its or their adherents from violence or oppression, and he opined that that principle, as embodied in the precepts of Orangemen, wsa never more needed than to-day when all have got to guard jealously those great privileges of liberty which have been fought and bled for by the best men in this world.

Religious Faith.

In treating of this phase of his address, Mr. Grobb averred that religious faith is at the root of all the biggest movements in the world, and, he said, no purely temporal organisation has a ghost of a chance against one founded on faith in God. And here in support of this assertion he was broad and unbiased in his commendation, crediting the Roman Catholic Church as being the greatest and most perfect organisation on earth, because of its unwavering faith. That church, he continued, would go to pieces to-morrow by reason of her sheer weight, were it not for its members' supreme faith in Christ. And hence she begins to inculcate her doctrines in primary separate schools, recognising that you've got to feed a child's "soul," which cannot be fed on geography, history, arithmetic, or the exploits of great men. She knows that faith is the foundation of everything lawful in this world.

Then, what has sustained Orangeism for the last 200 years and more? Not its processions, nor the exploits of William of Orange and other great leaders, but Orangemen's religious faith, answered the speaker. Orangeism is, he declared, founded on the rock of faith in the things which are of God; and he, personally, thought tat a man, to be a consistent member of tis order, should educate his children in Christian faith, and himself to live as a backbone of the Church of the living God on weekdays as well as on Sundays.

In conclusion, te reverend gentleman said it behoves every man to stand firmly by the Church, which he qualified as the treasure house of the world's faith, and that great institution Christ established in preservation to us of that precious liberty of whcih we boast so much.

SEES PRAIRIES HEDGED AND DOTTED WITH GARDENS

WINNIPEG, Man., July 30.—(Canadian Press).—That the time will come when the prairies will be hedged and dotted with gardens and blooming flowers, of ripening fruits and of delicious vegetables, was the prediction made here recently by W. T. Macoun, Horticulturist of the Dominion Experimental Farms, who has almost completed a tour of inspection of the Dominion's Experimental Farms. Mr. Macoun is a son of Professor John Macoun of Ottawa, the famous naturalist and explorer, who died last year in his ninetieth year.

Mr. Macoun said that he had seen on the prairies some of the finest gardens that could possibly be seen anywhere in Canada. But before the prairies can have gardens they must have hedges for their windbreaks, Mr. Macoun added. "Set your hedge and you may look for your garden," he said. "The hedges are coming. The Dominion Experimental Farms have more, far more, than paid for themselves by the wide distribution which has been given to the caragana hedge, which the department at Ottawa introduced from Russia. It is indispensable to the small garden on the prairies. I attribute a great deal of the splendid results achieved in western gardening to the influence exerted by the experimental stations," Mr. Macoun declared.

Mr. Macoun said the present aim of the Department of Agriculture is to get earlier varieties of fruits and vegetables, and referred more particularly to the especial need for earlier varieties of all kinds on the swept prairies.

HELIGOLAND WANTS NO GERMAN RULE.

Residents Demand Return to British Control or Internationalization.

HELIGOLAND, Germany, July 30. — The people of Heligoland have sent a petition to the League of Nations asking for neutralisation of the island under protection of the League or reannexation to Great Britain. They express high hope that the September meeting of the League will relieve them of German control, which natives of Heligoland born under the British flag declare to be highly offensive and in violation of many of the terms of the agreement under which Britain ceded the island to Germany in 1890 in exchange for the island of Zanzibar, off the eastern coast of Africa.

A committee of sixty-two residents of Heligoland, comprising representatives of various organisations of the island, visited Berlin, under the chairmanship of August Kuchlenz, and conferred with the Allied Disarmament Committee, in an effort to correct what they declared to be the great error of the Allies in leaving Heligoland to Germany under the Versailles Treaty.

Recently the natives of Heligoland were much encouraged by the report of Chief Engineer Savers of the British Admiralty, who, after investigating the destruction of the fortifications of Heligoland, now in progress, was alleged to have declared that the island, even after being dismantled, should be taken from Germany, to prevent its possible refortification for use as a submarine and airplane base.

The destruction of the fort and naval harbour of Heligoland is progressing under the direction of Allied officers, but two years more will be required for the complete destruction of th fortifications and improvements upon which Germany expended 50,000,000 gold marks. The cost of destruction, which Germany also has to bear, is estimated at 4,000,000 gold marks.

Germans working on the dismantlement were sent from the mainland, and the islanders say the German officials are endeavouring to colonise so as to outvote the native population. The native Heligolanders, however, hold the balance of power, having elected six of the nine members of the island Council.

The civilians of Heligoland were all deported to Hamburg during the war and were given papers showing them to be of British birth. They were watched as spies. In January and Fepruary of 1917, when Cuxhaven, Emden, and Wilhelmshaven were frozen in, the Heligolanders say the German submarine operated from the Heligoland base alone. Consequently they insist that the base is so important to the peace of the world that it should not remain German territory.

The failure of Lord Salisbury, the British Prime Minister at the time Heligoland was ceded to Germany, to stipulate that Heligoland should not be fortified by the islanders, who say the British officials were so eager to acquire Zanzibar and carry out Cecil Rhodes' Cape to Cairo scheme, permitted a menace to the British Navy to be created.

WHEN PREMIER DRURY PLAYS HAY-FIELD GOLF

There are many empty chairs behind executive desks for short periods during the 'dog days." Few have better earned the right to set aside for the case of office for a few days than Ontario's Premier whose hours have been long, duties many, and responsibilities heavy since he was rather pre-emptorily placed at the head of the Provincial Government. But when Mr. Drury left his office for a couple of days last week he did not go to the lakes or the seaside, but to his farm at Crown Hill—and the golf they play there is with a pitchfork.

Has Premier Drury forgotten how to play hayfield golf? Hardly! On Thursday last he entered a timothy and clover handicap and after spending most of the morning on some rain-soaked hay bunkers he got down to form and pitched up eighteen loads before he called it a game. Next morning he finished the hay handicap by forking up another eight loads. And that was not the end of the harvest tournament. It was only noon, and half a day by agricultural time—union rules do not apply . A wheat match started sharp after lunch, and the Premier finished strong with a total of twelve loads.

When a man can pitch thirty-eight loads of hay and grain in two days (or rather a day and a half, farm time) after many weeks of indulgence in the strenuosities of public life, his opponents in the political, or any other, ring had better prepare for a long hard contest. And if there comes defeat—and at the mention of the word the Premier smiled healthily and sunburnedly on a brother agriculturist and politician (not the forgotten writer)—"why we farmers always have a job, even if we do lose a couple of thousand dollars on a season's efforts as I am doing on my farm this year." — Financial Post.

GIRL HATED TO LEAVE LINDSAY.

Constable Leith arrested a young girl named May Bradley at the Elsmure Hotel as a result of a message received from Chief Lavery, of Whitby. It appears that the girl was being taken to a provincial institution in Toronto when she escaped from a matron and was supposed to be making for Lindsay in a McLaughlin car.

Constable Leith placed the girl in the jail until the arrival of Chief Lavery from Whitby.

It appears, according to the girl's statement, that a number of female prisoner were being transferred from Ottawa to Toronto Mercer and when at Whitby she made her escape. She got a truck ride to Peterborough and came on by truck to Lindsay. She gave her name as May Boulanger at the Elsmure last night.

Chief Short received a telegram that Constable Scott, of Toronto, would be down for the prisoner.—Lindsay Post.

HEAVY MEAT EATERS HAVE SLOW KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy or have Bladder trouble.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing he kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatims, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation or scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

PREFERRED DIVORCE TO OKLAHOMA LIFE.

Daughter of Former Governor Haskell of That State Freed in Strange Action.

New York Lured Her.

NEW YORK, July 30. —. Mrs. Frances Haskell Niblack, beautiful and brilliant daughter of the first Governor of Oklahoma, Charles N. Haskell, is free of the husband who insisted that she must live in Oklahoma, the very thought of which made her faint. Friends of the Haskells, who live at No. 1 West Seventieth street, heard yesterday that one of the strangest divorce proceedings on record has been closed. Mrs. Niblack loses a husband but wins her beloved New York.

That was the crux of it. Until 1917, when the Governor moved to New York and traded his Oklahoma halo for the presidency of one of Harry F. Sinclair's oil companies, the daughter, whose beauty and spirit had made the whole young state gasp, had never seen Fifth Avenue. She was used to Guthrie. Guthrie, like its rival, Oklahoma City, has its good points, one is told, but it certainly is not New York.

Married in 1908, when only a slip of a girl to Leslie G. Niblack, an officer of the United States army, Mrs. Niblack knew only Guthrie and the joys of Guthrie. Suddenly she was transferred to the glories of Manhattan. For her thereafter Guthrie —Oklahoma—Indians in blue jeans and smelling of crude oil—oil derricks—flivvers—four story buildings and the wild dissipation of progressive euchre—simply did not exist. It was a closed cycle.

In the Movies for a Time.

Lovely enough to attract attention wherever she moved, Mrs. Niblack thoroughly enjoyed herself in New York until the war work urged called her. Thereupon she went into hospital service here for a time and then went to France as an A. E. F. nurse. Subsequently she became a canteen worker at Tours.Her friends have said that the record of convalescents in cases handled by this nurse was extraordinary. In the meantime, as scenarios say, Major Niblack, devoted Oklahoman, had been doing intelligence work in the morale section of the army and had finally got across to the Paris Peace Conference.

Then the Germans caved in and both Niblacks came back to America. To tentative suggestions that it would be well for her to return to dear old Guthrie, Mrs. Guthrie returned a spirited "No." She said the place made her ill. She said that a blind woman could not stand Oklahoma after living in New York.

About that time a motion picture producer, who found her photographs easy to look at, offered her a job at elevating the silent drama, but she did not care for the motion picture work and quit it after three or four months. Major Niblack continued to remind her that the Guthrie latchstring was still out for her. Then she sued for divorce on the ground of cruelty.

Then the Major Sued.

Coming down to cases, it appeared that the Majors "cruelty" consisted in demanding that she abandon New York and return to Oklahoma. Apparently to Mrs. Niblack it was very real cruelty and caused her unusual suffering. But the hard hearted court could not see that at all, and Judge Charles C. Smith out in Guthrie, denied the lady's plea and also her petition for a division of property and for the custody of her child.

Major Niblack, seeing nothing else to do, sued in turn, alleging abandonment. The court saw the facts his way and gave him a decree.. These facts have keenly interested his numerous friends and acquaintances of the former Oklahomans.

Mrs. Niblack's father was the big man of Oklahoma in his day, almost entitled to the credit of state founder. He went there thirty years ago, built a few railways, went into politics, made treaties with the Five Tribes, and became first Governor in 1908. He had a celebrated controversy with President Roosevelt over some land deals, and with Wm. Randolph Hearst. In 1912 he became the personal counsel to Harry F. Sinclair and in 1917 he organized and became president of the Middle States Oil Company. At that time he abandoned Oklahoma for New York.

TEETH OF FLYING FOX

Only Currency Known in Island of Solomon Group.

LONDON, July 30.—People who are still living in the manner of the stone age are found on Rennell island in the Solomon group, Melanesia, according to Dr. Northcote Deck, a missionary.

Dr. Deck says there are only about 500 inhabitants, and because of their isolation, through lack of ship's anchorage, even their dialect has never been studied.

The natives only had implements and weapons of stone and wood when Dr. Deck first visited the island. They showed great eagerness to barter home-made articles for anything made of iron.

"The men are great fighters and wrestlers. Their throwing spears have points made of human leg and ar mbones and tipped with a bone splinter designed to break off in the wound," says Dr. Dick.

"They semed to feel keenly the monotony of their isolation and showed a settled melancholy, both in their faces and the cadence of their voices. Their only sort of music, to which they dance, consists in the tuneless beating of a log."

The teeth of flying foxes which swarm in the caves on the island seem to be the only form of currency known there.

SIGHT OF SMALL LOST BY PUBLIC.

Governor, Wanted, Fails To Arrive at Home City; Wife Worries.

(By LAWRENCE M. BENNEDICT, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

CHICAGO, July 30.—Where is Len Small?

The indicated Illinois Governor, who stands charged with embezzling huge sums of State money, had dropped from sight today.

After consultation with his political friends and legal advisers, the Governor was supposed to have left here for his home at Kankakee last night.

The train Small is supposed to have taken on arriving at Kankakee was met by his wife and other members of his family. The Governor did not appear. Mrs. Small, apparently greatly worried, was meeting every train today, but the Governor has failed to show up.

Mrs. Small said the Governor was not in Kankakee and said she did not know where he was.

Friends and advisers of the Governor here said he had gone either to Kankakee or Springfield. The executive had not arrived at the State capital.

All Chicago newspapers who had squads of men trailing the Governor while he was here, admittedly lost track of the executive following the conclusion of his conference at the Congress Hotel yesterday.

In some quarters it was believed that the strain and worry of events of the past few days had caused friends of the Governor to advise him to seek some secluded spot for a few days of rest before taking his next step to fight the court order for his arrest.

PORT HOPE, WHO NOW LEAD THE LEAGUE, WILL BE HERE WEDNESDAY

The Port Hope Ontarios, who are leading the race in the second half of the Central Ontario League schedule, will clash with the Petes in a League fixture at Riverside Park on Wednesday evening at 5.30 o'clock, and the game should be one of the memorable battles of the year. Since they shook up their line-up, the Port Hope team have won three out of four games and they are playing fast ball behind Deer's good pitching, while the fact that they secured eighteen hits and twelve runs off Jack Oulette on Saturday demonstrates that Chalk and Compny are hammering the old apple for keeps. There is no love lost between the Port Hope and Peterborough teams because of the developments during the first half of the schedule, and the Ontarios would about as soon trim the Petes here Wednesday as they would win the Central League honours. Seeing that it is the first League fixture seen here since early last month, there will undoubtedly be a big crowd of fans out. Claude Wilson, of Oshawa, will be the umpire-in-chief.

GREAT RACE IN CENTRAL LEAGUE

FIRST WEEK OF SECOND HALF SEES EVERY TEAM IN THE LEAGUE BEATEN.

If the first half of the Central Ontario League race was exciting, the second half has started out in a manner that is nothing less than hectic. With the second section only a week old, every team in the League has already been beaten at least once, and Port Hope, the tail enders of the first half, are leading the parade with two wins in three starts, while the Petes are so far the only team that has won a game on the road. The defeat of Lindsay by Port Hope and of Belleville by Cobourg on Saturday, was a development that few fans expected, and the doings during the second half should keep the whole circuit in a turmoil. The Petes have two games at home this week, playing Port Hope here on Wednesday and Belleville on Saturday, and if they can pack those two fixtures in their bat bag, Saturday night will find the local crew at the top of the ladder.

Here is the League standing:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Port Hope	2	1	.667
Peterborough	1	1	.500
Oshawa	1	1	.500
Lindsay	1	1	.500
Belleville	1	1	.500
Cobourg	1	2	.333

PORT HOPE AND COBOURG WON

TWO BIG SURPRISES IN CENTRAL LEAGUE RACE ON SATURDAY.

Port Hope and Cobourg both pulled the unexpected on Saturday, and as a result there is bewilderment in both Lindsay and Belleville.

At Port Hope the re-organized Ontarios, after spotting Lindsay four runs in the first two innings, jumped on Oulette and his team mates in the third frame and hammered in seven runs. After that big innings the score remained at 7 to 4 to the eighth, when Port Hope came through with five more. Lindsay got two in the ninth, leaving the final figure 12 to 6. Port Hope got to Oulette for eighteen safe hits. The batteries were: Oulette and Bates for Lindsay, and Deer and Ware for Port Hope. Alex. Kay was umpire-in-chief.

At Cobourg, Manager Tyson's crew came from behind to beat Belleville out 6 to 4. Schafer pitched good ball for the winners and even Freddy Goyer's cunning could not save the day for the Belleville outfit. Tyson has the Cobourg team going strong and some of the other Central League teams will find the beans spilled for them if they don't watch their step when they meet the Lakeshore crew.

PATTON FANS ELEVEN BATTERS; PETES GET ONLY ONE COUNTER, WHILE OSHAWA GARNERS FIVE

LOCALS WERE RESTRICTED TO SIX SCATTERED SINGLES AND WERE HELD BACK WHEN HITS MEANT RUNS.

Unable to hit when singles meant runs, the Petes were turned back at Oshawa on Saturday, after an uncomfortable afternoon with Patton & Co. The Oshawan secured a fair measure of revenge for the drubbing the Petes gave him last year, when they batted his offerings all over the park and thereby gained the championship. By way of rubbing it in, the wily Patton took extra pains with the swatters of a year ago, striking out both Harrison and Murray in three consecutive trips to the platter, and getting Kirn twice. At the end of the performance Oshawa had the decision by the score of 5 to 1.

It was game free from the spectacular, from the Peterborough viewpoint. To the eight hundred Oshawa fans it looked much better. George Peacock's men were putting it over in a manner that tickled the home crowd, and Jake Solomon added the final touch when he went in to bat in the ninth. The crowd howled a welcome to the Boss Publicity Man of the circuit and went wild with delight when Patton struck him out. Jake "argued" with the umps, but it couldn't be changed. He took one strike that Patton had recorded against Walter Jackson before the Petes' leader stepped in. Then Patton pitched only twice. The first one was at the batsman's shoulders, the next at his knees. The ball each time went into Belding's mit.

It was masterly pitching by Patton. The Petes did not get an extra base hit, and Swanston was the only batter who repeated. The local backstop scored Ross from second for the only run. The Oshawa hurler struck out eleven batters, issued but one pass and hit L. Rose.

With Kirn pitching, Oshawa got the breaks on their hits. McElroy who took up the burden in the sixth was more fortunate, in that all batted balls were directed at the fielders.

First Innings.

Lornie Rose flew out to Jacobi. Ray Rose beat out a grounder to Rowden. Ross tapped to the pitcher, Patton racing to first for the putout. With R. Rose at second and Harrison before Patton, it looked like a Peterborough run, but the big first baseman fanned.

Rowden, leading off for Oshawa, hit the first pitched ball into left and was safe at third on a close decision following the return by L. Rose. Dobson hit into right, Jackson dropping the ball at the white line after a hard chase. Rowden scored and Dobson made second. He went to third on a wild pitch. Then he went out trying to get home on Dainty's infield tap. Murray, Holyman, Swanston and Harrison joined in the chase along the runway, Harrison finally tagging the runner. Dainty got to third and scored on Jacobi's fly to Ross, the throw being wide. Murray threw out Fair.

Second Innings.

Swanston tapped down third, Patton fielding the ball and getting the runner. Murray struck out. Jackson singled cleanly through second. Holyman fanned.

Gifford was thrown out by Murray. Wilson tripled along the line into left, the ball finally bounding under an automobile, delaying the return. Belding smashed a hot one at Murray, who threw to the plate, getting Wilson. It was close. Tommy Holyman pulled in Patton's fly.

Third Innings.

Kirn fanned. L. Rose fouled to Belding for a nice catch. Ray Rose went out, Rowden to Wilson.

Rowden flew out to L. Rose. Dobson was thrown out by R. Rose and Dainty singled into right. R. Rose worked icely on Jacobi's grounder, stopping him at the bag.

Fourth Innings.

Rose drew a pass, the first and only one of the game. He stole second. Patton sent Harrison back again. Swanston singled over second, scoring Ross. Murray failed to connect and Jackson flew out to Rowden.

On Murray's peg off Fair's grounder, Harrison dropped the ball. Gifford sacrificed, and Wilson hit over second, scoring Fair. Belding flew out to Murray and the pitcher threw out Patton.

Fifth Innings.

Patton fanned Holyman and Kirn. L. Rose went out on a grounder to Jacobi. Holyman was served with three straight balls, but Patton finally won out. Rowden's grounder went through both Murray and Holyman, both infielders trying to scoop the ball while on the run. Dobson singled into right. Dainty flew out to Ross. Dobson went out at second. Jacobi hit over second, Rowden holding third. Fair grounded to R. Rose, Rowden reaching the plate and Fair the first cushion. Murray grabbed Gifford's drive.

Sixth Innings.

R. Rose skied to Rowden. Ross singled between left and middle. Harrison fanned for the third time, and Swanston sent a fly to Dainty.

With McElroy pitching, Wilson, Belding, and Patton went out in order. R. Rose throwing Wilson out and Harrison getting the next two on line drives.

Seventh Innings.

Murray again failed to do anything with Patton. Jackson skied to Dainty, and Patton threw out Holyman.

With Rowden and Dobson gone, Dainty hit through the box and stole second. He went to third when Murray booted Jacobi's grounder, and scored on a wild pitch. Jacobi stole second and Fair fanned.

Eighth Innings.

McElroy beat out his smash to short. Had not Wilson dropped the ball, the runner would have been caught off first by Patton. L. Rose was hit. Right here opportunity presented itself to the Petes. Ray Rose tapped down third, Jacobi fielding the ball and Fair taking the base for a smart putout against McElroy. Ross hit to Fair, who touched L. Rose. Harrison ended it with a grounder to short.

Gifford struck out. Holyman threw out Wilson. Belding dropped one back of first, the ball just beating Harrison. Patton was safe on a close decision after grounding to Holyman, the runner to second going in unhindered. Rowden also grounded to Holyman, Patton going out at second.

Ninth Innings.

Swanston started it right, with a single over second, and Murray sacrificed. With one strike on Jackson, Solomon introduced himself into the game, and proceeded to watch the next two go over. Holyman was thrown out by Fair, and the Petes were beaten.

PETERBORO TIED WITH BRANTFORD IN THE PLENTY CUP COMPETITION

BRANTFORD HERE FOR A RETURN GAME—THE SCORE WAS 3-3 AT THE CLOSE.

Peterborough and Brantford tied —3-3—in the Alfred Plenty Cup soccer fixture in Brantford on Saturday afternoon. The game was played in Tuteta Park under a broiling sun, before three thousand spectators, who supported the home team vociferously, and were sadly huffed when Brantford, after tying with the Petes, failed to register a winning goal when Peterborough weakened. The Petes were handicapped by the long, tiring railway journey that necessitated rising at 3 a.m., and by the semi-circular nature of the field-making the flight of the ball uncertain, but gave Brantford a hard game and are confident of winning in Peterborough when the return game is played.

A Good Team.

Brantford have a strong team. The supposed air-tight defence of the Dufferin Riflers was placed en bloc on the Plenty Cup team, but Peterborough pierced this defence three times in the first 15 minutes. The forwards were Cockshutt and Massey, men much heavier than the Petes. The locals were far outweighed.

J. Carey of Brantford was referee. The line-ups were:

The Game.

The game got away at 3.15 p.m. Peterborough had complete control for the first 15 minutes. Chambers dribbled close in and gave the goalkeeper no chance with a terrific left-foot drive.

Peterborough was playing beautiful combination and McDougall was worrying the backs and finally broke through, and on a pass from Rorrison shot a lovely goal.

The third goal was the result of a beautiful combination; Bartley shot over, hitting the cross-bar, goal-keeper fisted the ball and McDougall hung on and sent it into the net.

Strong Defence.

Brantford were seldom in Peterborough territory, the Peterborough defence holding them easily. Once or twice only were they really dangerous, in the first half. Griffin threw himself across the goal mid-way through the first half and turned a very wicked shot from Hingley around the posts and conceded a corner. The Brantford forwards when they got possession seemed to bunch together and spoiled their few chances, which came to them in the initial period.

At half-time the score was in Peterborough's favor, 3-0.

Second Half.

Peterborough's goals were valuable, because the long, tiring journey to Brantford and early rising was beginning to show its effect upon the players. Turning round and facing the sun, Peterborough were holding their own until McDonald's leg gave out and he was seen to be in difficulties. This necessitated bringing Chambers back to help the defence and hold the now fresh and strong Brantford forwards who were playing typical cup tie football. The ground was on the small side and saucer-shaped, which made its difficult to judge the flight of the ball.

Chambers and Rorrison fed their wings good and Manders and Bartley were constantly beating the Brantford backs and placing the ball into the centre splendidly.

Frost made a fine effort to register a goal in the second half from just over the half-way line, the ball sailing about three inches over the bar.

Ralston was showing signs of fatigue, having the brunt of the defence work to do. Brantford was kicking the ball high and using their size and strength to rush the ball through and Peterborough men could not retaliate, being completely tired out.

McMillan was playing better as the game progressed. He was a doubtful starter and the managers thought they would have to use Hannah, the reserve man. He was taken to the doctor as soon as the team reach Brantford and Hannah stripped ready for action, but at the last minute it was decided to take a chance and play McMillan.

Brantford scored twice from corner kicks and the other from a penalty. Peterborough should have been awarded a penalty in the first half when a Brantford back brought down McDougall heavily within ten yards of goal. Peterborough appealed strongly but Referee Carey of Brantford gave the homesters the verdict. The homesters equalized the score with about fifteen minutes to go and Peterborough had a gruelling time until the final whistle blew.

REGATTA AT COWES RIVALS BRILLIANCY OF PRE-WAR EVENTS

ROYAL FAMILY PRESENT AND BATTLESHIPS GIVE OFFICIAL DIGNITY TO OCCASION.

COWES, Isle of Wight, Aug. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Regatta week started here to-day. It is expected that the six days racing will rival in brilliancy anything in pre-war years.

The King and Queen, Princess Mary, the Duke of York, the Duke of Connaught and other members of the Royal family are present. The British Battleship Squadron and and the U. S. Dreadnought Utah gave the Regatta an official dignity.

Great Britain to-day won the second yacht race for the British-American Cup in the six metre class by 20 points to 15. This, with the first race last Friday at Ryde, puts the British racers ahead of the Americans 42 points to 23. The British yachts Polly and Flya finished first and second respectively, and the United States entry, Sheila, finished third.

PETERBORO HAD STRENUOUS TIME

RETURN GAME IN RIVERS DE PARK —A GOOD TIME.

When the regulation ninety minutes' play was up in Brantford on Saturday and the Petes and the Brants were tied, 3-3, Peterborough had the choice of continuing or playing another game here. Tired out and on strange ground, they told Brantford they would have to come down here and play them. No date was mentioned. It was left to the local club to make the arrangements.

Riverside Park can be secured for a week from Saturday and it is likely the game will be played then. Secretary Muir, of the Ontario Football Association, advised the local secretary, Fred Sutcliffe, on the 'phone last night from Toronto "that it was up to them" when the game would be played. Aug. 13 seemed the most likely date to-day, as there is a baseball fixture on at Riverside between Belleville and Peterborough next Saturday.

Local Referee.

With regards to the referee, the Petes were advised they could use a local, as Brantford employed one of their "refs" on Saturday.

Enjoyed Themselves.

The footballers had only the best to say of their reception and treatment in Brantford. Thy were made at home, the boys said, and took complete possession of the G.W.V.A. Hall. After the strife an impromptu concert was given in the hall. The footballers found they possessed unknown proficiency in various musical instruments. Under Conductor Ralston, the jazz band, rivalling Art. Hickman's in volume and intensity, embraced the following: J. W. Worth and "Jim" McDonald at the piano, Stewart McMillan, bass drummer, "Alf" Manders, snare drummer, "Jack" Chambers cymbals, Harold Burrows, triangle, "wee Bobbie" Hannah, Tom Hawk whistle, and "Jock" McDougall tambourine.

When "Ted" Bartley could make himself heard above the uproar, he managed to get in several fine solos, but it was hard to stop the orchestra once it got into crescendoes.

The team were given a rousing send-off at the station at eight o'clock and got into Peterborough again at 1 a.m. Sunday looking like men coming out of a three weeks' spell in the trenches. They had been 22 hours away, had covered 320 miles of railway, had played a terrific game of football and had been on the rush continuously. They had good reasons for being "played out."

CHAMPIONSHIP IN JUVENILE SERIES

BANKERS AND LAKEVIEWS PLAY FIRST GAME TO-MORROW EVENING AT 5.30.

Bankers and Lakeviews, winners of the first and second sections of the Juvenile series, start on the home stretch for championship honors at Riverside Park to-morrow evening. The teams are billed to get away at 5.30 o'clock.

As in the schedule games, the Bankers will rely on "Lefty" Turner, and Shaughnessy will serve them from the hurling heap for Lakeviews. The game will go nine innings, unless called sooner by the "umps" on accounts of darkness.

The team winning two games will be champions.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

The big sensational underworld melo-drama 'Someone in the House" will be the feature picture at the Capitol to-night, lots of good comedies, etc., will complete an excellent program.

To-night the Capitol presents a big and very excellent show to its many regular patrons, a funny two-reel Mack Sennett comedy, Pathe News Weekly, Topics of the Day, 13th Episode of the Avenging Arrow and another of the always popular and funny Pollard comedies, the special feature picture is the big 6-reel underworld crook drama—"Someone in the House".

Playing the innocent beauty in pictures dealing with high class crooks of the polite underworld, is becoming almost a habit with Vola Vale, who enacts one of the featured roles in Metro-all-star production of "Someone in the House".

In Miss Vale's previous engagement with Metro, she appeared as the leading woman for Bert Lytell in "Alias Jimmy Valentine," the crook drama by Paul Armstrong. In this picture Miss Vale played the character of the banker's daughter whose love for Jimmy Valentine finally brings about his release from prison and starts him on the upward way.

Again in 'Someone in the House" Miss Vale enacts the role of a beautiful daughter of a wealthy family who is first attracted by, and then loves, the society crook who is coldly planning to steal a famous necklace, the property of her family. Miss Vale's beauty and grace make her usually fitted for the difficult roles required as the innocent heroine in a drama with a crook setting.

Miss Vale began her stage career in amateur theatricals in Rochester, N.Y. and then played leading parts for two years with Biograph. She appeared with Universal in "The Adventure of the Last Cigarette", "The Woman He Feared," "The Price of Silence" and "Eagle's Wings." She was in the Lasky production "Each to his Kind"; Paramount "The Son of his Father"; Ince-Artcraft, "The Silent Man", and "The Bloodhound."

"Someone in the House" was adapted for the screen by Marc Robbins and Lois Zellner from the stage play by Larry Evans, George S. Kauffman and Walter Percival. It was directed by John E. Ince, G. K. Hollister was cameraman. Special art interiors by Earl P. Olin.

NEW CHAMPION DOUBLE SCULLER IS NO STYLIST

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 1. — Canada has a new single sculling champion—a new champion with a new style and new methods. Hilton A. Belyea, fisherman, of St. John, N.B., who beat the best oarsmen the country could produce, is a waterman of parts, having been born on the Atlantic coast and raised within sight and sound of the sea. He recently won the sculling championship of the New England States regatta at Boston.

Belyea, who is about 40 years of age, pays no attention whatever to the accepted theories and practices of rowing. His home-made shell is rigged quite differently from any seen hereabouts in years, and the champion uses seven-inch sculls, which he whips through the water with a short, sharp stroke, rowing about four to the minute faster than any of his competitors. He is a powerfully-built man and fully justified the predictions he made before the race, that anybody who beat him would have to row a remarkable race.

Built By Cobbler Brother.

Belyea's shell is a home-made affair, not built by a boat builder, but by his brother, a cobbler. Her lines differ from those of boats made by the well-known builders, and she is longer and heavier than most shells used by the scullers of to-d . She was constructed somewhat after the model of an old ten-inch Clasper, and she certainly served her purpose on Saturday.

Belyea is not a stylish or a stickler for form, as was shown in the quarter-mile dash, in which he was beaten by Dibble, Dons; Butler, Argos and Gilmore, Bachelor Barge Club, Philadelphia. The opinion was freely expressed after that race that he would "not get very far" in the senior singles championship, but he fooled everybody and won with consummate ease. His victory is the sensation of rowing circles.

There were six starters in the senior singles. Bob Dibble was favored to win, with Johnny Durnan second choice. Dibble was done after rowing a half-mile, and Durnan, suffering from a heavy cold, was never in the contention, finishing fifth. Steacy, the young Brockville oarsman, assumed the lead soon after the start, but was overtaken by Belyea. The race finally became a struggle between Belpea, Steacy and Gilmore, of Philadelphia, but Belyea soon had the contest well in hand, and was not exerting himself at the finish, where Gilmore had pulled up to within two lengths of him. Dibble was third, and Steacy, who found the pace too fast, fourth. It was a mere procession at the finish.

LINDSAY BEATEN BY PORT HOPE

PORT HOPE, Aug. 1.—Bunching their hits in the third and fifth innings, Port Hope beat the second Lindsay team on Saturday afternoon by 12 runs to 6. Lindsay started off with two runs in the first and second innings, and looked so good that when Port Hope opened their half of the third Ouelette thought he had the locals eating out of his hand. Moise started the fireworks, and every man up took a swat at the pill, seven runs crossing the plate before the side were retired. Port Hope were the better ball team on the day's play. Deere was steadier than Ouelette, while Young behind the bat played errorless ball. Johnny Rowden had three hits which counted, and Alex. Hill's two-bagger in the fifth sent across three runs. It was a scrappy game, and Port Hope are settling down to win this half of the series.

CRESSMAN'S MEET C.G.E. THURSDAY

The second game in the O.B.A.A. Intermediate semi-finals between C. G. E. and Cressmans will be played at Riverside Park next Thursday evening, commencing at 6.30 o'clock.

Cressmans are still hopeful. In their favor it must be said that the breaks in the first game went to the Electricians. The store nine will be back in good fighting trim.

Manager Webb may send Eddie Foley to the firing line.

"Mr. President, when Canadian wheat, following the natural line of travel, comes into the United States and is milled there, does it affect the American market to any material extent? The answer to this is that when Canadian wheat reaches the United States it finds a market which is already over-supplied. That over-supplied market, whether the Canadian wheat comes in or not, must relieve itself by shipments abroad. A large percentage of Canadian wheat must go from Canada, ultimately to be consumed in Great Britain and other European countries. Likewise there goes from American ports a steady stream of American wheat, which must be consumed in the identical countries where the Canadian wheat must find its ultimate markets. There the two wheats meet; they are sold in competition, and the prices in the markets of Liverpool and Berlin fix the prices of the Canadian wheat and of the American wheat."

Senator Reed took the position that the reports of Canadian wheat shipments to the United States in 1920 were overstated and that the effects on American wheat prices were greatly exaggerated.

CANADIAN NORTHERN CLOSE THEIR DEPOT IN NORTH OSHAWA

OTTAWA, Aug. 1.—Following a general policy of avoiding duplication in train service and the consequent reduction in operating expenses, the Canadian Northern depot in North Oshawa has been closed. This mater will come formally before the Dominion Railway Board, and objection to the closing may be heard from any municipality affected. Farmers in East Whitby will find the closing to their detriment, but the railway officials have doubtless anticipated the objections which are likely to be raised, and have counter-arguments to make. There were two trains per day making connection with North Oshawa. While the closing of the station at North Oshawa makes little difference to shippers in Oshawa proper, the farmers in the north will find themselves up against a considerable inconvenience in having to go to the C.P.R. or the Grand Trunk in Oshawa.

"Let the world roll blindly on!
Give me shadow, give me sun,
And a perfumed day as this is;
Let me lie
Dreamfully,
When the last quick sunbeams shiver,
Spears of light across the river,
And a breeze which seems the sigh
Of a fairy floating by,
Coyly kisses.
Tender leaf and feathered grasses;
Yet so soft its breathing passes,
These tall ferns, just glimmering o'er me,
Blending goldenly before me,
Hardly quiver!"

HAVE LOVE OF SOIL AND SIMPLE ARTS

Love of the soil is one of the marked characteristics of the Czecho-Slovak people that goes far to cement their national unity. Combined with it is a love of the simple arts which goes back equally far. Groups of villagers, says the Survey may still be seen in West Bohemia, on any fine summer evening, when the last chores of farm and home are finished and men and women, the latter incapable of resting with idle hands, assemble on the village green to hear some tale of long ago, usually from the lips of one of the oldest among them. The men of these villages, formerly guardians of the frontier who still wear their historical costumes—their emblem, the head of a watchdog on a white field appears in many conventional designs—have many stories to tell of ancient privileges upheld against greedy landlords, of royal courts held in the district, when Bohemia was yet an independent kingdom, to adjust local disputes, and of battles with robbers and wolves.

In Moravia, more especially, old peasant customs have survived to a remarkable degree. Women and children work in the fields with their men-folk and the picturesque clothes of the women are not only put on for festive occasions. Many people, especially in the eastern section of the republic, still wear the traditional embroidered peasant clothes which may be seen on the outskirts even of the second largest city, Pilsen.

It is still a long way to normalcy when a lot of girls who were satisfied with porch swings last year are insisting on automobiles.—Sacramento Union.

ICELAND CALLED "LAND OF ICE AND FIRE"

The inhabitants of Iceland live mostly in the lowlands along the south and southwest coast, where the climate is not so harsh. But even there the average summer temperature of 48 degrees is but 16 degrees above the average winter temperature. Grass is fairly abundant, and the raising of cattle, sheep and horses is the chief industry. Agricultural schools have been established, and certain quick-growing vegetables do well in sheltered locations.

The only trees, the birch and the mountain oak, do not grow large enough to be of any use, so there is no lumbering. There are no manufactures, and no minerals, except sulphur, of no value. But there are all kinds of fish, and the hardy Ice landic fisherman puts to sea in his little open boat in all sorts of weather.

The country has been called "the land of ice and fire," because of its ice caps and its volcanoes, its glaciers and its geysers. The whole island has been built up by the outpourings of volcanoes, and the central plateau still is a wilderness of lava beds and deserts, with almost innumerable craters rising above the surface.

MOORS FATTEN GIRLS FOR MARRIAGE MART

In Egypt a quaint wedding custom is the visit paid by the bride and her friends to the bath. The progress to it partakes in the nature of a procession, headed by Arab musicians, with tambourines, flutes and other instruments. The bride is usually seated on a camel and covered with a sort of tepee from the top of which the greatest palm leaves obtainable are projected. Over the door of the bathhouse a handkerchief is hung to denote that only women may enter. After the bride and her friends have bathed, they abandon themselves to the enjoyment of the entertainment provided by the musicians, story tellers and singers.

Among the Moors, girls are fattened for the marriage market much as the poultry farmer treats his livestock. The staple food of the women is bread, and it is chiefly with this that they are fattened. Long-shaped pellets of it are constantly forced down their throats for a period of about three weeks before their marriage.

The bride has to be put through a strange ordeal. She is placed into an ill-ventilated wooden cage, usually white-washed, and is taken in it in procession through the streets to the bridegroom's dwelling. After a two weeks' honeymoon the discarded box is placed on the roof of the house in a prominent position so that all may see it. This is an official intimation that the newly wedded pair are ready to receive friends.

MAN-EATING TREE ON ROGER WILLIAMS' GROVE.

The memory of Roger Williams, founder of Rhode Island, long was neglected. He died in 1683, and for 183 years not even a rough tablet marked the spot wherein his ashes rested. Then a movement was set afoot to locate the grave, and after much research, the place was established.

When the last resting place of Williams was opened it was found that everything had passed into oblivion. The shape of the coffin could be traced by a black line, definitely defining the sides and edges of the wooden covering. There was a bit of rusted material—hinges and nails, a fragment of wood, and a single round knot.

Near the grave stood a venerable apple tree. This tree had sent two or its main roots into the graves of Williams and his wife. The larger root, following his grave, had pushed through the earth until it reached the precise spot occupied by the skull of the dead man. Making a the direction of the backbone to the hips. There it separated, sending sub-roots along each leg which in turn, bent upward about the toes. One of the roots formed a slight crook at the knee. The whole bore a close resemblance to the human form.

Not a particle of human dust was left. Chemistry makes plain that all flesh and the gelatinous matter giving consistency to the bones are resolved into carbonic-acid gas, water and air, while the solid lime-dust remains. In this instance, even the phosphate of lime from the bones had vanished, taken up by the tree in its growth, during which it had formed a counterpart of the skeleton of the man whose grave it robbed.

ALMOST ENDLESS PROCESSION DECORATES WESTMINSTER CENOTAPH.

LONDON, August 1 (Canadian Press). — Though it is estimated that four millions of London's population tok advantage of the Bank Holiday and made week-end trips to the country and the seaside, the Metropolis itself was crowded with visitors

It is notable that the Mecca of a great majority of the visitors apparently was Westminster, where the grave of an unknown warrior was the great centre of attraction.

GIRLS WITH EARS MUST SHOW 'EM.

CHICAGO, August 1. — The National Hairdressers' Association, at its first annual convention, which opens here this week for a three-day session, will fight to make the United States safe for ears.

Ear muffs must go. The ultimatum was issued yesterday by several delegates. Ears will come out. They will not emerge timidly and reluctantly. Neither will they be half revealed, half concealed by curls. But the ear, the whole ear, singly and in pairs, will come right out into the open and declare itself.

A return to the high, "dignified," carefully-constructed coiffure is predicted. Bobed hair will be permissible only for the flappers.

HEAT DRIVES AGED WOMAN TO TAKE HER OWN LIFE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—A leap from a twelve-story window at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel early yesterday instantly killed Mrs. Ella Van Nostrand, 80, believed to have been demented by the intense heat of the last few days.

Mrs. Van Nostrand was the widow of James Van Nostrand, one of Brooklyn's leading men in Civil War times, and in whose memory a street and park have been named.

Before her fatal leap she scribbled a partially incoherent note, in which she said she was unable longer to stand the heat.

20 MONTHS OF FIGHTING.

Spaniards Have Had Many Defeats in Their Warfare With the Moors.

The story of Spain's attempt to pacify the northern littralo of Morocco has for the last twenty months been full of gallant fighting, prolonged waits made dangerous through inadequate scouting, and, on the part of the tribesmen, sudden assaults, ambushes and the cutting of lines of communication with constant drain on life and morale of the Spanish troops as well as of their native auxiliaries. As an introduction to the present defeat, there was, in the first week in June, a mutiny of six native companies, whose members slew their Spanish officers and then joined the tribesmen.

The presence of Spain in battle array in the northern part of Morocco is due to a protest which the Madrid Government made to the Algiceras Conference in 1911, which practically made all Morocco a French protectorate, this being confirmed a year later by a treaty signed at Fez by which the Sultan Mulai Yusef accepted the protectorate.

Then France and Spain got together and signed at Madrid, November 27, 1912, a treaty by which France acknowledged the right of Spain to exercise her protectorate in a zone extending along the northern coast opposite Spain, from the Atlantic east to the frontier of Algeria, and, on the average, fifty miles broad. This zone was to be administered by a Spanish High Commissioner. But, aside from her protectorate, France also secured from the Sultan a similar zone south of the Spanish one, which was to be administered by a French High Commissioner.

During the world war little attempt was made to administer the Spanish zone, while both within the French zone and at Fez the Moorish chiefs gave many evidences of their sympathy with the Entente cause, particularly after their co-religionist, the Grand Shereef of Mecca, had revolted from Turkey.

In January, 1920, it was decided, both in Madrid and Paris, to make military demonstrations in the respective zones with the idea of introducing civil government with the support of the most intelligent tribesmen as soon as practicable. By September General Poeymirau, the French Commander, was able to report to General Lyautey, the French High Commissioner, that the French zone had been practically pacified. At first, the expedition under General Sylvestre, although more militant, was similarly successful. He had marched on, leaving detachments at Larache, Ceuta, and Melilla, had left a covering force at Tafer Sit, half-way between Melilla and Alhucemas, and by October 1 had invested the stronghold of Sidi Dris, eleven miles to the north of Tafer Sit, which later surrendered.

When winter came comparative quiet reigned in both zones; but, while the French remained alert and were constantly breaking up suspicious gatherings and reinforcing their lines of communication, the Spaniards remained in camp and were said to have paid little attention to the movements of the tribes.

Both expeditions, although in differing degrees, showed a departure from old methods of pacification. By a display of force and ceremonial they gained what formerly had been achieved only at the cost of many lives. But, while this method produced for the French lasting results, for the Spaniards the results were not so permanent, and in the present year General Sylvestre returned to the old method and found El Raisuli prepared to meet him on that ground.

TUNNEL SCHEME OF FLEEING BANK HEAD

$450,000 Leather Speculation of Spurgin Unearthed

CHICAGO, July 30.—Discovery of a $450,000 leather speculation of Warren C. Spurgin, missing President of the closed Michigan Avenue Trust Company, was reported today by the State Attorney's office.

The leather, it was stated, was found in the warehouse of a local warehouse leather dealer and was in Spurgin's name. An effort will be made to list it among the assets of the missing bank President, it was stated.

With indictments out and a search for Spurgin leading from Canada to Mexico, a second discovery was announced today by the State Attorney's office whose operatives have found an apparent plot to tunnel into the building of the defunct bank. A hole six feet square and four feet deep was discovered just outside the wall of the vault, it was stated.

Mrs. Spurgin and her daughter Vivian, who returned here from Detroit, have been released after close questioning by State's attorneys.

W. C. Burns, Chicago representative of Lloyds, which carried a $100,000 policy on the bank, said today that his best tip so far was Montreal. He has detectives there and in El Paso, Mobile, Ala., New York, he said.

An informative man from a detective agency saw a man whose description tallied closely with Spurgin's in Montreal and discovered the man came from Detroit, Mr. Burns said.

NECESSARY PRELIMINARY.

A recent experience of a Virginia clergyman throws light on the old English law requiring that marriages should be celebrated before noon. A coloured couple appeared before him, asking to be married, the man in a considerably muddled state. The minister said to the woman, "I won't perform this ceremony."

"Why is dat, boss?" she queried. "Ain't de licenses all right? An' we is of age."

"Yes, but the man is drunk. Take him away and come back again."

Several days later the couple again presented themselves, the man once more obviously intoxicated.

"See here, I told you I wouldn't marry you when this man was drunk," the minister said testily. "Don't you come back here till he's sober."

"Well, you see, suh," the woman replied apologetically, "de trufe is dat he won't come less'n he's lit up."

SMALL, BUT SELECT.

A poet went to stay at an hotel. He was short of money, but was expecting a check daily. One morning he rang the bell of his bedroom.

"Boy," he said, "have you seen anything of my laundry?"

"Your laundry!" said the boy in astonishment. "Why, you've only had one shirt since you've been here."

"That," said the poet, with overwhelming dignity, "that is the one to which I refer."

MINERAL OIL

FOR CHRONIC CONSTIPATION

By buying this produce from us, you can get the Highest in Quality that can be procured at an ESPECIALLY LOW PRICE.

There are many thin Oils on the market that are not suitable for internal use; other Oils have irritating qualities which render them also unsuitable. The one we are selling is Guaranteed thick and entirely pure.

It is recognized that a good grade of Mineral Oil is one of the best remedies for CHRONIC CONSTIPATION that is being used. It acts mechanically and does not irritate the intestinal tract, nor does the dose have to be constantly increased as is the case with ordinary purgatives.

It is much better and cheaper than Castor Oil as a laxative for Children, since Castor Oil has two effects, the first of which is purgative and the second or after-effect, which is Constipating.

IN MEMORIAM.

STABLER.—In loving memory of Amelia Ann Westlake, wife of J. K. Stabler, who departed this life July 31, 1920:

One year has passed and gone
Since one we loved so well
Was taken from her home on earth
With Jesus Christ to dwell.

Sleep on dear one, thy suffering o'er
Thy willing hands shall toil no more.
God took you home, he thought it best
To give you a sweet, peaceful rest.

Only gone a while before us,
We shall meet her bye and bye.
If we are prepared to enter
That bright mansion in the sky.

"SUNNY JIM" IS DEAD

WELL KNOWN JUNK DEALER WAS A FAMILIAR FIGURE IN PETERBORO STREETS.

James Wilson, familiarly known to many citizens as "Sunny Jim," died at the Nicholls Hospital on Sunday afternoon from asthma and its effects. He was 52 years old and had lived in Peterborough many years. In his regular rounds as a dealer in junk there were few homes in the city unvisited by "Sunny Jim," and some years ago it was his custom to drive through the streets calling his trade with its universal cry, "Rags, bones and bottles." "Sunny Jim" was something of a local character who in his own way will undoubtedly be missed in the homes at which he was a more or less frequent caller as he presented himself at the back door with his empty burlap bag, his impassive face and his quiet manner. As far as is known he hadn't a single enemy. In fact he was a general object of pity and sympathy, sentiments that were aroused by the realization that "Sunny Jim" was himself his only enemy. Last week he was noticeably in distress, and Adjutant Buntin, who followed the example of his predecessors in charge of the local corps of the Salvation Army visited him on Friday at a house on Elm street, where he found a kindly refuge in his suffering. The Adjutant arranged to have "Sunny Jim" taken to the hospital on Saturday afternoon, and probably under a premonition of death, Jim hitched up his old horse for the last time on Saturday morning, dragged himself up to the seat and drove to the market where, undoubtedly in the throes of the pain that must have wracked him, he tried to dispose of the dumb friend that helped him to maintain his independence to the very end.

Adjutant Buntin was with "Sunny Jim" on Saturday afternoon and again on Sunday.

"Do you think I have a chance to pull through?" he asked the Adjutant at the beginning of his call yesterday.

"I don't know Jim," the Adjutant replied, "but if I were you I wouldn't waste any time getting ready to meet your Maker."

Speaking words of spiritual comfort, Adjutant Buntin remained with "Sunny Jim" nearly two hours and shortly after he had gone from the hospital "Sunny Jim" died.

His funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon from Belleghem's undertaking parlors to the Little Lake cemetery at 3 o'clock. Adjutant Buntin will conduct the service.

James Wilson is survived by one brother, Walter Wilson, at Brownhill, near Toronto. His wife predeceased him fifteen years ago, and his daughter died from injuries received in an accident.

If "Sunny Jim" did not make his mark as a citizen of prominence, he was at any rate well known to a great number of the people of Peterborough, including the little folk, and in his business of buying junk from home to home it was never said of him that he was anything but honest, and in his quiet aloofness he held a measure of the public's respect that was attracted to some innate sense of dignity that was part of his nature and not simply a superficial acquirement as found in many who attain high places.

NEW ORLEANS, August 1 (Canadian Press). — The lowest condition report on the growing cotton crop ever made for July, 64.7 per cent. of normal, and a forecast of the smallest crop in a quarter of a century, resulted in a bulge in the price of cotton of $3.00 a bale and more here to-day.

AND SO FORTH.

Is it possible to have five consecutive "ands" in one sentence?

Yes! A man in the Black country had his public house redecorated. The sign was painted thus: "The PigandWhistle." When he saw the newly-painted sign, the landlord said:

"It won't do. I want more space between Pig and and and and Whistle."

WEDDING BELLS

McBRIDE—WHITE.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George White, Elm Grove Farm, Hampton, when their elder daughter, Miriam Evelyn, was united in marriage to William Charlton McBride, of Peterborough.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. O. Totton and Rev. W. W. Jones.

To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss Alta Bentham, the bride entered the drawing room leaning upon the arm of her father and took her place under an arch of evergreens and flowers. She looked very pretty in an embroidered ivory Duchesse satin dress and veil caught with pearls and swainsonia and carried a bouquet of sunburst roses and swainsonia. Her only atendant was her little sister Ruth, who acted as flower girl and wore a white silk and lace dress and carried a basket of sweetheart roses.

During the signing of the register Mendelssohn's wedding march was played.

The groom's gift to the bride was a seal shawl tie; to the pianist an onyx and pearl ring; to the flower girl a signet ring.

Dinner was served by eight girl friends in the dining room, which was tastefully decorated in pink and white. Immediately after Mr. and Mrs. McBride left by motor for Rice Lake, the bride travelling in a suit of navy tricotine with mohair hat to match.

The young couple were the recipients of many useful gifts, among them a beatuiful silver service from the Hampton young people.

On their return they will reside in Peterborough.

ABSCESS ENDS LIFE OF GREAT TENOR, CARUSO

FAILED TO RALLY FROM OPERATION THIS MORNING TO REMOVE GROWTH ON DIAPHRAGM RESULTING FROM LAST ILLNESS.

HAD RECENTLY OFFERED THANKS FOR RECOVERY

NAPLES, Aug. 2.—(Special despatch to the Examiner).—Enrico Caruso, the world's greatest tenor, died here at four o'clock this morning. His golden voice was still forever when he failed to ralley from a relapse following an operation for an abscess.

Physicians had no hopes of prolonging Caruso's life beyond to-day Prof. Desoto announced after a consultation at the bedside. The operation left the singer very weak, he said and the heart was kept beating only by frequent injections.

Caruso's pulse was barely fluttering. He sank steadily from the time he was brought from the operating table.

Desoto said the subphrenic abscess, which operations in New York had failed to remove entirely had caused puss to form between the lived and diaphragm.

Caruso's death was expected for several hours before the end came. He never had completely recovered from the effects of an operation for pleurisy which he underwent in New York last winter. As a result of this operation physicians states he suffered from a diaphramic abscess.

Another operation was performed in an effort to remove the accumulated puss, but it left Caruso badly weakened and he rapidly sank.

Last Thursday the famous tenor and his wife, the former Dorothy Benjamin, went to a Sanctory in the Pompei valley, where he offered prayers of thanks to the Virgin for the recovery of his voice, heard a mass and gave 200,000 francs as a thanks offering. Afterward Caruso visited the excavations at Pompei on Saturday. He felt pains in his abdomen. Those were the first warnings that the final illness was at hand.

He called a physician who advised him to go to Naples and consult a specialist. Arriving in Naples on Sunday night Caruso called Professors Sorgi, Caronzanzacodo and Moscati.

After a long consultation these specialists diagnosed his case as acute peritonitis with a tendency to spread. They decided to operate. Caruso, whose fortitude when suffering great pain was considered remarkable, continued to keep up his good spirits.

However, he sank steadily. His agony increased, his strength waned. Injections of camphor were required every two hours, to stimulate his fluttering heart.

His breathing was difficult and became exceedingly labored. His wife, who also maintained her courage, remained at the bedside for hours. She saw her husband steadily drawing nearer to the gates of death, but remembering the successful fight he made against what were considered overwhelming odds during his previous illness in New York, she maintained her composure and confidence that he would again weather the storm.

The operation originally had been planned for some time to-day but during the night the specialists saw Caruso falling so rapidly that they

Gotham Mourns Great Caruso

"CARUSO IS DEAD," SPOKEN AS THOUGH HE WERE A PERSONAL FRIEND—"LITTLE ITALY" IS STRICKEN.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—"Caruso is dead." This word slipped through New York to-day, and New York mourned. "Little Italy," dismal beneath a steady drizzle of rain, paused in its work and heads were bowed in sorrow.

The message went through hotel lobbies, through the corridors of great office buildings, from lip to lip among the traders in Wall Street, from one chauffeur to another, through the offices of great producers, in the theatre district and down into the dark cellars where "Joes" and "Franks," as the Italian vendors are known, conduct their little ice and coal business. Two brokers, meeting in the Stock Exchange, where there was plenty of excitement, there being a fire in the building, forgot their own troubles long enough to ask each other, "Did you hear that Caruso is dead," and the question was asked in a lowered tone as if the death were that of a personal friend.

Two street sweepers, the "white wings," of New York, paused as their beats convoyed, and passed the word along.

Down in "Little Italy," the blinds in some of the old world groceries and fruit stands were drawn and crepe draped over the doorways. In that district, news of the death came with the shock of an actual bereavement. Here and there, flags limp in the rain, were hoisted half mast. The feeling of depression was intensified by the gloom which settled Manhattan with a pall of mist, settling so low that the towers of the famous skyscrapers were lost in it, like mountain peaks piercing the clouds.

CHARGE GREAT THEFT AGAINST AGENT OF REDS

ITALIAN, SAID TO BE MOST AMAZING FINANCIER NEW YORK HAS KNOWN, ALLEGED TO HAVE STOLEN $135,000

MONEY PROPERTY OF SOVIET GOVERNMENT

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Jacques Gibrario, aged 32, master of twelve corporations, owner of a rich apartment, expensive automobiles and half a million dollars in bank accounts, was arrested yesterday, charged with grand larceny of approximately $135,000 of funds of the Russian Soviet Government.

Miss Rose Weiss, counsel for the Soviet Government, swore out the affidavit.

The claim is that Gibrario had a contract with the Soviet to buy motion picture aparatus with which to instruct Russian peasants. He had credit in a New York bank for a million dollars of Soviet funds. It is in connection with the purchase of films that the larceny is charged.

New York papers refer to Gibrario as one of the most amazing young financiers the city has known. Born in Italy of poor parents, he started as a clerk in London. He was in hard straits in Moscow as late as 1918, when he first got a job in motion picture work with the Soviet officials, and had made a vast fortune since.

BRITAIN DROPS PLAN OF EARLY PACIFIC TALKS

PRELIMINARY CONFERENCE AGITATED FOR BY EMPIRE PREMIERS HAS BEEN ABANDONED BY BRITAIN.

EMPIRE AIR SERVICE PLAN SEEMS HOPELESS

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The British Government has dropped the project of a preliminary conference to President Harding's proposed disarmament congress, it was officially stated to-day.

The conference of British Premiers which has been agitating for such a preliminary meeting to discuss the Pacific problem has finished its work and will adjourn soon. Premier Meighen of Canada already has withdrawn and is en route to Canada.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—(By Reuters)—Papers here emphasize the eminently satisfactory results of the conference of the Premiers of the British Empire but regret that there seems little hope of saving the British and Dominion Airship Service which it was announced in the commons yesterday would be discontinued, presumably on account of the heavy cost.

The Chronicle learns from inner circles that the conference is confident of an agreement being reached for an early meeting of statesmen of the British Empire with those of the United States and Japan, making the disarmament conference a certain success. The Chrinicle understands that Lloyd George, Meighen of Canada, Hughes of Australia and Massey of New Zealand are willing to proceed to a convenient spot in the United States if the Washington and Tokio authorities are agreeable.

TO CLEAN HULL OF IMMORALITY

INVESTIGATION OF POLICE FORCE ALSO PLANNED.

OTTAWA, Aug. 2. — (Canadian Press).—The formation of an independent morality squad in an attempt to rid Hull and the vicinity of immoral houses and disorderly dance halls was ordered last night by the Hull City Council, which also decided to investigate the conduct and management of the police force.

THE WEATHER

The thermometer was down to 44 deg., last night, and it is quite possible there was white frost in places, although I did not notice any myself. Yesterday's highest was but 71 degrees—a long distance from the altitude attained a few weeks ago. —W. P.

FINGER MANGLED INVESTIGATING ELECTRIC WASHER WHEN CURRENT SUDDENLY CUT OFF BY LINEMAN

A letter was received from S. T. Medd at last night's meeting of the Utilities Commission, claiming compensation of $500 for Mrs. Hannah Filkin, 296 Frederick Avenue, who, on May 23, had the end of the first finger on her left hand so mangled that it had to be amputated at the first joint, while examining an electric wringer which had suddenly stopped, when the current was cut off by the linemen making some change in the wires, and began to work again when the current was turned on.

The Circumstances.

Mr. Medd stated that Mrs. Filkin was operating the wringer on an electric washer in her residence. The machine ceased to operate without any apparent cause. She raised the safety device to withdraw the clothes and examine it, when the machine immediately started again, and the finger was so mangled part of it had to be amputated.

Mr. Medd claimed the accident was caused by the men doing work on the lines without giving notice. He stated the accident had maimed Mrs. Filkin, and had cost her $75 in hospital and doctor's fees. Without prejudice and for the purpose of avoiding litigation, he stated he would recommend Mrs. Filkin to accept $500 compensation, though, as a matter of fact, she was entitled to a much larger sum.

Very Unusual.

According to H. O. Fisk, manager of the Utilities Commission, this is a most unusual accident and without precedent in Peterborough. The men had been changing a transformer in J. M. Green's residence on King Street, and the current was cut off for at least 15 minutes. Mr. Fisk told Mr. C. Sisson when he asked him on this point, that notices were not given of brief disconnections. There were others affected, he said. There was considerable discussion of the accident. Mr. Fisk has discussed the accident with W. W. Pope, secretary of the Hydro, Toronto, and E. H. D. Hall, solicitor for the Utilities Commission has given an opinion. No action in the matter was taken by the Commission yesterday.

Short Skirt to Stay in Style

NATIONAL WEARING APPAREL PLANS STRAIGHT LINES AND FLOWING SLEEVES—EARS AGAIN POPULAR.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2—(Canadian Press.)— A revolution in women's styles involving everything except short skirts was indicated for the winter by members of the National Wearing Apparel Association in convention here to-day.

Straight lines, flowing sleeves, coats almost to the knees, will be worn this winter. Practically everything shown by the models was black with profuse trimming of monkey fur.

The Hair Dressers Association also is meeting here. Delegates say ears will be popular for women again this year. Bobbed hair has to stay they insist.

THE MEN WHO WRITE THE NEWS YOU READ

BAILLIE

Hugh Baillie, New York manager for the United Press, is a native of Brooklyn, but came to the United Press on the Pacific coast, where he had been doing general staff work on the Los Angeles Record. He served in various coast bureaus and as assistant manager of the Coast Division before going east. He held the managership of the Washington bureau before going to New York.

Baillie's speed in handling news and his coolness "under fire" when big news is "breaking," have long been noted in the New York office. This was demonstrated many times during the stirring days of 1918 when the World War was ending.

In June of this year, Baillie went to France, returning on the new liner "Paris" on its maiden trip.

PROGRAMME FOR BRIDGE OPENING

HON. DR. REID WILL BE PRESENT ON CIVIC HOLIDAY MORNING.

The programme of the ceremony attending the formal opening of the Hunter Street Bridge on Civic Holiday morning by the Hon. Dr. Reid, Minister of Railways and Canals, is beginning to take definite form. Ald. Hamilton told the Council last night that there was nothing elaborate about the plans. The G. W. V. A. Band has been engaged for the occasion. The addresses in connection with the event will be delivered from the new platform to the Quaker Oats warehouse. Mr. Ingram, of the Railway Board, has also been invited, and the Council last night decided also to send invitations to the Russell-Townsend Company and to Mr. Frank Barber.

Following the suggestion of the Chamber of Commerce, an incident of the procedure will be the presentation of the Royal Humane Society's honors to Iris Payne and Arthur Sayer for the rescue of L. Howland from drowning near Inverlea Park. The Council will have the accompanying certificates, framed, but the proposal that the city bestow an additional medal was regarded by Ald. Turner unnecessary, in view of the Royal Humane Society's enviable recognition of the brave deed performed by these young folk.

FLORISTS GET $100 FOR THE CONVENTION

PXCEPTION MADE BY COUNCIL TO EOLICY ADOPTED THIS YEAR.

The council made an exception last night with the request of the local florists for a grant of $100 to assist them in entertaining the delegates to the convention of Canadian Florists and Gardeners, which will be held here on August 8, 9 and 10.

Ald. Crowe's objection was smoothed away by Ald. Turner who pointed out that in the case of fraternal societies there was a membership of at least one hundred, and usually many more than that, to bear the expense of the convention, but there were only three retail florists in Peterboro upon whom the cost of the customary entertainment would be a burden.

"Will the public understand this technicality?" Ald. Crowe asked.

Ald. Turner—The report will appear in the press and I suppose the people will understand our position.

Ald. Jones seconded Ald. Turner's motion that the florists be granted $100.00.

MAY TOUCH OFF WEST VIRGINIA POWDER BARREL

SPIRIT OF FEUDISM REVIVED BY KILLING OF HATFIELD IN INDUSTRIAL STRIFE IN COAL FIELDS.

PREPARATIONS MADE FOR GREAT BATTLE

MATEAWAN, W. Va., Aug. 2.—(By United Press).—Sid Hatfield, picturesque Cumberland mountain gunman, came home to-day from his last battle.

Work in the mines was neglected. Stores closed and mothers and their babies clustered about the rickety little railroad station here, where the body of the fallen chieftain arrived from Welch, where "smiling Sid" and his Lieutenant Ed. Chambers fell in a pistol fight. There were ugly looks and threats from women and men alike as the mob milled in the dusty railroad yard while the body of the leader in the Mingo County mine war in a rudely constructed pine coffin, slid down a plank to the station platform.

Reeve Chambers, father of one of the victims, stirred about with muttered threats. His giant frame quivered as he glimpsed the body of his 22 year old son with a bullet hole in the forehead.

The spirit of feudism flared again in the breast of the gaunt mountain folk, when they crowded about the two coffins. The score will be evened at the first opportunity, many openly said. Spark of renewed war fare may touch off a dynamite situation up and down the hillside. Since the three days battle two months ago in which the Kentucky and West Virginia hills were raked with machine gun and rifle by hidden snipers, the vantage points have been maintained and preparations made for a battle on a larger scale. The crowd churned around the two coffins until Hatfield's widow ordered his body taken across the street to the first floor of her store. Ed. Chambers' body was carried away by his father and two brothers.

Burial plans were made for tomorrow when the two youths will be laid to rest on the hillside overlooking the town along side "Devil Anse".

FLOATING EXHIBIT OF WARES OF BRITAIN MAY BE SENT ON CRUISE OF WORLD

Company organized in London to Build Vessel of Special Type.

LONDON, Aug. 2. — A company has been organized to build a large special ship of a type that has never yet been constructed, says "The Times," and to send her on a cruise of the world as "a floating exhibition of the manufactures of the United Kingdom."

The officials of the company include Sir George B. Hunter and other directors of the firm which built the Mauretania, as well as the Duke of Northumberland, Earl Grey, Beaumont Pease, deputy chairman of Lloyds Bank, and other business men. The vessel will be known as "the British trade ship."

FIND GEMS SEWED IN COAT.

Officials Take $70,000 Jewels From Alleged Los Angeles Smuggler.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Ripping open a small bag found sewed in a coat lining, Federal investigators said today they found unset diamonds and jewelery valued at $70,000. The coat, they said, belonged to Ryman Finerman, a Los Angeles jeweler, who was arrested yesterday charged with smuggling. The gems included three diamonds, each weighing about ten carats and valued at $40,000.

When Finerman was arrested diamonds valued at $1,800 were found on his person. Arraigned on a charge of smuggling, he was held under bonds of $2,000.00.

Fear Gunmen to Join Harvesters

INFLUX OF HOLD UP MEN TO WEST ANTICIPATED AND FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS TAKE PRECAUTIONS.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

WINNIPEG, Aug. 2.—Warnings to be fully prepared for the visits of hold-up men have been issued by the police to all financial institutions in Winnipeg. These warnings have been transmitted to the head offices of the various institutions with the request that it be passed along to all branches so that every precaution may be taken to ensure a warm reception to gun-men who may seek to obtain cash by such a route.

The warning is issued as a precautionary measure, and is partly the result of the recent epidemic of bank robberies and hold-ups prevalent for the last few weeks in the Western States and Eastern Canada.

With thousands of harvesters coming into the west during the next few weeks, it is thought that some of the desperate characters operating in other cities, and now finding their present location becoming uncomfortable, will take advantage of the excursion and drift to the West. Revolvers that have reposed in tellers' cages for long periods as adornments or paper weights have been replaced by the latest type automatics. In addition, the tellers' cages in the banks have been put under a special watch, and the men handling large sums of money are given every protection.

NEW INDUSTRY HERE IF STOCK IS SUBSCRIBED

BYRON LEDERER, REPRESENTING BIRMINGHAM MOTORS, EXPLAINS PROPOSITION TO CITIZENS' MEETING.

REQUIRE $500,000 TO ESTABLISH HERE

NE WINDUSTRY ....

To a gathering of about eighty business and professional men, bankers, and expert machanics in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms last night, Byron Lederer, representing the Birmingham Motors, of Jamestown, N.Y., explained the car this company is manufacturing and the possibility of locating a Canadian branch in Peterborough.

W. R. Morris, in the absence of the President, J. J. Duffus, was chairman.

Explained Proposition.

By means of lantern slides, Mr. Lederer made the explanation of the car, which embraces new principles in spring suspension and chassis design clear. While they received a a hearty endorsement of the car last night, Mr. Lederer stated to-day that a greater interest would have to be shown by the business men of the city to bring about the establishment of a plant here.

Stock Issue.

The company's representative stated that 500,000 of stock would have to be taken in Peterborough, and this augmented by funds to twice the amount from the United States would give the necessary capital. The money subscribed here, he stated, would be used solely for buying the property and equipping the plant. None of the stock is to be paid for, he said, till all the issue is sold, and then not until a committee of subscribers has gone fully into the affairs of the company. The stock will sell at 20.00 a share, only to the amount of $500,000. If any is sold in excess of that amount, it will be $30.00 a share, he explained.

Mr. Lederer stated that the Canadian branch would be a subsidiary of the American, but all moneys

"DEATH MARCH" LIKE SWEEP OF VANDAL HORDES

KERENSKY SAYS 15,000,000 WILL PERISH IN RUSSIA OF HUNGER UNLESS IMMEDIATE AID IS EXTENDED.

PROPOSE ALLIES MAKE INTERNATIONAL LOAN

(By Edward Hullinger,)
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Aug. 2.— Fifteen million persons in Russia will perish of hunger and disease this year if immediate aid is not extended, Alexander Kerensky declared to-day in an exclusive interview with the United Press.

"Never in the history of the world has such a calamity confronted a nation," Kerensky declared. "Never was there such a mass of people left without provisions, exposed to disease, famine and plague.

"Even the great famines of China and India are not to be compared with Russia."

The former premier returned today from Prague where he has been exhorting the Czecho-Slovakians to aid the Russians. He said refugees encountered there gave him information on which his statements were based.

"A minimum of 11,000,000 tons of wheat is necessary to save Russia" Kerensky declared.

"Without betraying triumph in any word, Kerensky, who was driven from Russia by the Bolsheviki, declared the famine will lead to the elimination of Moscow's radical leaders and the ultimate reorganization of the government.

Kerensky graphically depicted the "Death March" across the Russian Steppss. Over 10,000,000 persons, he said, have joined the great caravans which toil over the dusty plains in search of food. Thousands dropped by the way side, he said. These caravans, Kerensky said, do not always follow the roads, but spread over the country.

"It is a dust covered swarm", he said, "Preying on the countryside, dying and causing death for the sake of food. There are innumerable sights as the invaders strip the homes of peasants they encounter. The home owners vainly try to protect their small food stores.

"The death march is worse than the invasion of the vandal hordes of the twelfth century, except that these invaders are dying men and the first invaders were fighters and conquerors."

Kerensky praised the action of Secretaries Hoover and Hughes in clearing the way for relief work but declared that the stocks in Hoover's control will be insufficient." This catastrophy is so great, he declared, "that only international action can help."

Liberal Russians here, of whom Kerensky is the leader, proposed that the allies shall offer Moscow an international relief loan of several billion dollars. In return, they suggst that the Allies demand guarantees including recognition of debts contracted under the Czarist Government. Kerensky and others believe that any fund for relief should be expended under the direction of Hoover as in Belgium.

FIREMEN MUST NOT ENGAGE IN OTHER BUSINESS

CARTERS COMPLAINED TO COUNCIL THAT TWO OF THE MEN WERE COMPETING AGAINST THEM.

That several firemen had been carrying on a carting business while they were supposed to be working for the city, that in the course of this "side line" they had worn their uniforms, had gone far beyond the city's limits, although under the two platoon system they were supposed to remain in the city so as to respond promptly to any alarm, and that they had kept their truck for a time at the Fire Hall, were charges made to the Council last night by a deputation of irate carters.

"What we are asking," said Archie Barbeau, who was quite evidently the spokesman for the deputation, "is that if they are going to be firemen let them be firemen, but if they're going to be truckers, let them be truckers. We don't think it is fair that men engaged by the city should be allowed, while working for the city and being paid for it, to run another business in opposition to us, who are helping pay their salaries."

A motion by Ald. Gordon, seconded by Ald. Phelan, that Chief Grange be notified that none of his staff shall be permitted to engage in any business such as carting, sent the deputation away entirely satisfied.

According to the statements of Mr. Barbeau, the truck which had been seen at the Fire Hall was owned by Fireman Ward, but had been sold to Perdue.

Not in Business Now.

Ald. Morrison replied that the men were not running the business now.

Mr. Barbeau—When did they stop running it?

Ald. Morrison—Go and ask the people who issue the licenses.

Mr. Barbeau—I don't think the license has been transferred. I think they are beating the city out of $2.

Ald. Morrison said that as long as the men were doing their duty to the city there was nothing wrong with their "speculating" the same as the carters were doing.

Mr. Barbeau—We might as well work for the city too.

Ed. Reid—On the 21st of July they were seen with the truck out in the long swamp near Chemong.

Mr. Barbeau—And they made a trip to Lindsay.

Ald. Morrison—But they didn't go without getting leave.

Mr. Barbeau—I don't know about that.

Ald. Morrison—Well I know they don't go without leave.

Mr. Barbeau—Our complaint is that we stay in this game the whole year round, taking the cold weather with the warm, but these fellows start into carting when the fine weather comes. Since they heard we were going to make a complaint they say that the truck is young Warde's, and they are telephoning from Archie McBride's house.

Ald. Gordon—We object to these men going out of the city when they are expected to be close by, and to using uniforms in their private affairs. Their telephones and uniforms are paid for by the city.

To Ald. Phelan's criticism along the same line, Ald. Morrison replied that the firemen had a man hired to drive the truck.

Ed. Cooney said that the truck had been at the Fire Hall, for he had loaned them a jitney top and got it back just a short time ago.

Ald. Crowe—Didn't we always suppose that when the firemen got their salaries that was sufficient.

Mayor McIntyre—I think that's right.

Ald. Crowe—I think they are getting enough to serve the city, and we don't want them going into other business while they are working for us.

COUNCIL HAS SPARED MR. BORLAND'S TREE

RESCIND MOTION FOR ITS REMOVAL AT OWNER'S PLEA.

Mr. G. A. Borland won his appeal to the council last night against their previous order for the removal of a maple tree from in front of his residence on Aylmer street. "I am willing to have it trimmed, but I do not want it cut down," he said, asking the members of the council to consider themselves in his position for the moment. His plea continued without interruption until he remarked — "People are asking why this Hunter street barber can go up and down the street saying this tree goes and this one stays."

At this point Ald. Gainey protested to the Mayor that there was no reason for introducing personalities, and Ald. Hamilton was rapping on his desk.

Ald. Gainey moved, seconded by Ald. Gordon that the council's previous order be suspended until the members had an opportunity of examining the tree and its surroundings, and that they report back at the next meeting.

Ald. Turner's amendment, seconded by Ald. Hay, that the tree be not removed, and that the former order be rescinded, carried by a vote of six to three.

CONTROL ARMAMENT BY CONTROLLING MONEY

ENRICO CARUSO, FAMOUS SINGER, DIES IN ITALY

GREAT TENOR WAS FOR MORE THAN 25 YEARS CELEBRITY IN WORLD OF SONG, IDOLIZED BY MILLIONS.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

NAPLES, August 2. — Enrico Caruso, operatic tenor, died here to-day.

Enrico Caruso, for more than 25 years a celebrity in the world of song, the tenor with "the golden voice," idolised by millions in America and abroad, had an artistic career as well known as that of any famous statesman or military leader. He was born in Naples, Italy, on 25th February, 1873, the son of Marcellius Caruso, a mechanic, who detested music, but was persuaded to permit his son, when eleven years old, to sing in the churches of his native city. An unpromising pupil, for three years he studied under Guglielmo Vergine, pledging his teacher that when ready for a professional career he should pay him one-quarter of his earnings for the following five years.

He made his debut in "L'Amico Francesco" at the Nuovo Theatre, Naples, in 1894, later toured Italy and Sicily, and was engaged for four seasons at La Scala, Milan. Subsequently he sang in Petrograd, Moscow, Warsaw, Rome, Lisbon, Paris, London, and leading cities of Germany. When he came to the Metropolitan Opera House in New York on 23rd November, 1903, the critics did not go into ecstacies over him. One of them wrote, on the opening night: "Signor Caruso (as the Duke in 'Rigoletto') has many of the tiresome Italian vocal affectations, and when he neglects to cover his tones, as he always does when he becomes strenuous, his voice becomes pallid."

It is interesting to observe that when Caruso made his Naples debut he sang the title role four times, for which he received 100 francs, a pair of stage shoes, a suit of fleshings, and a neckerchief. Some years later Maurice Grau, the impressario, negotiated with him to sing in America for $700.00 a month, but thought the salary excessive, and the deal fell through. Grau was quick to perceive the opportunity he had lost, and finally engaged Caruso for fifty performances at $1,000.00 a night. But Mr. Grau became ill, and Caruso, when singing in Lisbon, received the word that again he must abandon his hope of singing in America. Heinrich Conried, who followed Mr. Grau at the Metropolitan, however, cabled Caruso an offer to cross the Atlantic, and his ambition at last was realised.

Although no official statement of his earnings was ever made public, it is known that Caruso, at the height of his Metropolitan career, was receiving an average of $3,000 for each performance.

On special occasions, such as his 1920 season in Havana, he was paid $10,000 a night.

FREED FROM ABSENT WIFE.

"Spiritual Marriage" Bride Who Omitted "Obey" Refused to Return.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—A recommendation for a divorce for Robert K. Crane of 835 Pavonia Avenue, Jersey City, from Mrs. Mary Caroline Crane, Amityville, L.I., on the ground of desertion was made to the New Jersey Chancery Court yesterday by George R. Beach of Jersey City, a special Master in Chancery. The couple were married in 1908 and separated in 1913, when they lived at 1503 Pacific Street, Brooklyn.

According to evidence given by Crane's mother, Mrs. Mary Lepine who lives with him, the word "obey" was omitted from the marriage ceremoy and the wifes' mother informed Mrs. Lepine it was "a spiritual marriage."

Crane testified he suffered a "nercous breakdown" shortly before his wife left him. That day she went shopping, and he met her and suggested a walk in a Brooklyn park. She declined the walk but asked him to get her some chewing gum. When he gave her the gum she said she was going to call on a woman friend and boarded a car. He called on her at Amityville, he testified, and wrote to her asking her to return to him. She never accepted the invitation, and finally wrote: "The only answer I can give you is this "I cannot go back to a condition I have outgrown, and so you can act accordingly."

KEEP NATIONS FROM GETTING MONEY TO WAR

IF THIS IS DONE PEACE AND ARMAMENT PROBLEMS ARE SOLVED, BELIEVE EDISON, FIRESTONE AND FORD.

BY KARTA BICKEL

(General News Manager, United Press).

(Copyright, 1921, by the United Press).

BELINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 2.—Keep the nations of the world from obtaining money to prepare for "The War." If this is done—and America has the power to do it—President Harding will succeed in the conference he has called for limitation of armament.

In that manner the situation was summed up to-day by Thomas A. Edison, Henry Ford and H. S. Firestone as they sat on the shady bank of a rippling West Virginia mountain brook, munched sandwiches, frizzled bacon and talked about disarmament, prosperity and golf.

They issued a warning that President Harding, "Must look out for the cars."

The enemies of disarmament, they said, already are busy. The conclusion was that the success of the conference depends upon the foresight courage and determination of the President.

Six cars and two trucks of America's most famous camping party were stretched down a country lane. At the improvised camp stove, Fisher, the cook, was putting a permanent wave in another batch of bacon and the aromatic smoke of the camp fire drifted over the heads of the party as they talked.

Edison leaned against the side of his car; first one sat upon the running board. Ford as vital and eager as a boy of ten, his coat and hat off, his mop of fine white hair thrown back from his well tanned forehead, moved restlessly about; sometimes reclining upon the ground, picking at the grass, or if stirred by the talk, springing to his feet, making his point and then dropping to the ground again.

"Do you think Harding can put his disarmament programme over?" Ford asked Edison.

"I don't like to answer that off hand," replied Edison. He was the only man in the group who was smoking and as he spoke slowly he shook his head slightly. "I'd rather hear you say it off hand," retorted Ford.

The man who first evisaged the electric light was silent for a moment. Then he spoke.

"I think it will depend upon money," he said.

"If the money can be found to keep on maintaining armies and navies, I think the conference will fail. Only the absolute lack of money and the inability to see where they can get any more funds to pay for the expense of war preparedness will force the military element to accept real disarmament. If Harding can keep them from getting the money he will succeed with his program. It pretty largely rests on him."

The common people of the world will back him up on that", interjected Ford swiftly.

"They are sick and tired of spending money on old wars and new ones They are tired of the clap trap talk of "The next war." We have received as many as 2,500 letters in a single day about it. Letters from everywhere.

"People rarely object to taxes if they feel they are getting something back for their money. They know now that military expenditure means waste.

The estimated military expenditures of the United States for the next year," I am told is over a billion dollars.

"If I could have one half of the expenditure of the United States Government for a single year in preparation for wars to come alone I would be able to put a power plant on every waterpower site in the country and provide the nation with enough electric power to move the trains, light the homes, public buildings and schools."

A SOURCE OF DANGER.

The new traffic regulations published last week fail to deal with one nuisance and source of danger that exists by reason of the parking of cars near the intersection of George and Charlotte streets. The traffic at this corner is the heaviest in the city, and because of the street car lines occupying a considerable portion of the roadway, a motor car left standing near the curb becomes a menace to the safety of other motorists. Several very narrow escapes from bad accidents have been recorded recently at the intersection of Charlotte and George streets, and as far as possible automobiles should be prohibited from stopping alongside the curb for a distance of at least sixty feet from the corner. Such a regulaion would render the conditions safer and more comfortable for all automobile owners, and with a traffic officer on duty it would be an easy matter to see that the order was carried out.

THE UNEMPLOYMENT CRISIS.

Senator Robertson, Minister of Labour, admitting that Canada is facing a still more serious unemployment situaion than was experienced last winter, declares that the people of the Dominion can alleviate to a considerable extent the crisis by buying only Canadian goods when they are available. There is much truth in that statement, for it is clearly a mistake to continue to buy articles made outside of the Dominion when Canadian factories are decreasing their working forces because of lack of orders, and yet to the thousands of men who have been out of work for some time and see little prospect of employment, it must seem rather farcical to be told to buy "Made in Canada" goods when they have not the price to buy goods made here or anywhere else. Senator Robertson's advice is good, but to those unable to get employment the words of the Minister of Labour are but scant comfort. They would rather hear him tell of the plans the Dominion government propose to adopt to meet their responsibility in regards to the industrial crisis.

THE LURE OF THE TRENT.

That the efforts being put forward to attract tourists to the wonderful beauty of the Trent waterway with its charms of beautiful lakes, are bearing fruit, is evidenced not only by the number of visitors to the city as well as by the fact that in many publications articles are appearing telling of the scenic charm of the Trent system. For instance, the Sunday World this week contains two most interesting articles on the canal as a halcyon resort for motor boat owners, canoeists, anglers and nature lovers. Publicity of this kind means much to the municipalities situated along the Trent waterway, for it will eventually result in more and more people visiting this district each year. There is no finer, more varied or more beautiful motor boat trip than the journey from the Bay of Quinte to Georgian Bay, and the hundreds of visitors who have seen a section of the canal or who have travelled from one end to the other are each one an advertising medium who will induce others to come. The influx of visitors has been above normal this year, but 1922 should establish a new record in that respect.

CHECK STAMP TAX TOO HONEST.

When a leader or any member of Congress says he opposes a stamp tax on bank checks for the sake of the public he does not mean what he says. The legislator that talks that sort of humburg does not care a tinker's dam about the desire, the convenience or the interest of the public. What he is thinking about is making a political record for himself, whether it is an honest record or a sham record. What he means is that he wants to fool the public as to who pays the taxes and how much.

It is because every time a man writes a check he knows he is paying a tax that the Congress objector does not want that stamp tax adopted.

It is because every time a man sticks a stamp on a check it reminds him that the tax he then pays is going into spendings appropriated by Congress that the legislative scruple against it is so conscience biting.

It is because when a man has a concrete example before his eyes ten, twenty, fifty times a day of how taxes go on running like the ticking of a watch he may get up and do some rough house work about it at the polls that the Congress protester is so fearful of the annoyance it might cause the public.

A revenue stamp on every letter, on every bank check, on every receipt and document to which it can be stuck would put tens and tens of millions of dollars of revenue into the yawning Treasury. It would be the simplest and the easiest tax for the taxpayer to pay. It wold be the quickest and the cheapest tax for the tax collector to collect. It would require no complicated accounting system, it would call for no hordes of administrators on the Federal payrolls and it would be a straight, clean, effective tax operation all the way from taxpayer to tax layer.

But it would be a clamorous tax truth teller. It always would stand out in the open to teach the tax lesson against reckless appropriation of the public's money. It would be a constant danger signal against squandering the public's money after it was appropriated by Congress. And that is why, when you talk about an honest and above board stamp tax out in the broad daylight for everybody to see, the statesman who is a political fox hunts his hole. —New York Sun and Herald.

FLANDERS' POPPIES.

From a sentimental standpoint the proposal to introduce the Flanders' poppy into Ontario as a perennial memorial to the Canadians who died on the battlefield seemed entirely fit and appropriate. The suggestion met with a ready response from the general public, to whose sentiments and sympathies it naturally appealed. But our farmers, however much they mght and did appreciate the motive that prompted the proposal, saw in the poppy somthing more than a beautiful reminder of the soldiers who rest in Flanders' fields. For the plain and prosaic fact is, as the apprehensive farmers pointed out, that the poppy, though a beautiful flower and seen to the best advantage when it flutters among the golden grain, is an agricultural pest, whose presence is far from welcome. Poppies abound in Flanders because the farmers of that country find it impossible to rid themselves of the plague that long ago passed beyond their control.

Dr. Arthur W. Gilbert, Commissioner of Agriculture for Massachusetts recently issued a warning to the people of the Bay State against the cultivation of this gay adornment of the French and Flemish countryside. He recognizes and appreciates what is prompting those who are bringing from overseas and planting poppy seeds around the old homes of the lost husbands, sons and brothers so that the flowers may be beautiful and perpetual reminders of the dead. Nevertheless he is constrained to beg that no more poppy seeds be imported and planted in Massachusetts. He lays stress on the fact that the flower's reproductive possibilities are prodigious, and that, given anything like a fair start, it would in no long time overrun the harvets fields. The farmers of this continent, he insists, have surely enough to do contending with their present injurious weeds without introducing new ones, no matter how attractive their appearance or the extent of their sentimental appeal. Dr Gilbert asks Massachusetts people to consider the daisy and how it has grown and multiplied. Burns has immortalized the "wee modest crimson-topped flower," and countless other poets have glorified its gentle beauty and hailed it as the sunny little day's eye. Imported into the United States about a century ago, it now swarms in smothering multitudes over many fields and pastures, making them all but hopeless, agriculturally speaking, save at a staggering cost, prohibitive, indeed, to most farmers. The annual damage done to hay alone, it is estimated, would run into formidable figures. As it has been and is with the daisies, so would it be with the poppies, were the present rate of planting and propagation to be kept up for only a short time longer. To farmers it would become the same perennial pest that it has bene for many years to the tillers of Flanders' fields. Therefore, however, much of sentimental appeal the poppy may carry, the utilitarian argument must prevail and the Flanders' flower stand condemned.—St. Thomas Journal-Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

According to Hon. Manning Doherty, those who criticize the Drury government are "Whistling Willies." But Mr. Doherty must admit that some of them whistle as loudly as a calliope.

Mr. Biggs should understand that good roads were meant to be run down.

With the cotton crop the smallest in twenty-five years, there is natural wonder as to what they are going to make woollen garments out of this year.

Lord Northcliffe says he couldn't find prohibition in the United States. But perhaps he was not looking for it.

It is only forty-three days until the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition. Soon the frost will be on the pumpkin.

A movement is on foot in the local branch of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to O. T. A. Breakers to present fountain pens to their favorite medicos.

And as the Winnipeg Free Press observes, if some of the people who criticize short skirts were as sensible as the skirts it might help some.

Three men started out to discuss the Irish situation at nine this morning in a local barber shop. Up to the time of going to press they had not decided what should be done about it.

An editor in Michigan has been awarded $500 damages from a man who took a pot shot at him. There's money in the newspaper business if you only know how to go about getting it.

A shaky, weak-kneed individual felt his way along the rail and came to a stop alongside the important one.

"Shay," he inquired. "D'ja ever have the delirium treemens?"

"No," thundered the vociferous one. "Certainly not."

MISSING WOMAN SOUGHT.

Fear Her "Double" Was Seen on Boardwalk in Atlantic City.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. Y., Aug. 2.—The reports that Mrs. Anna C. Oakley, missing from an Atlantic City hotel since the last day of June, had been seen on the Boardwalk, brought to this city today Simeon J. Feeney, a private detective, who has begun an investigation. He fears that the person supposed to be the missing woman was her double.

Mrs. Oakley came to Atlantic City for her health and with her sister registered at the Dudley Hotel on Pennsylvania avenue. She occupied her room one night. The next morning she started for the beach at 8.45 with a black overnight bag in which she had a bathing suit. That was the last seen of her. At first it was feared that she had been drowned, but no body came ashore and the hope was entertained that she had wandered away.

The death of an only child, followed by a long illness, affected Mrs. Oakley mentally. A reward of $500 has been offered by the husband, Lawrence C. Oakley, 80 Union avenue, Mamaroneck, N. Y., for information. It was said that she might apply for a position as a child's nurse, as she was very fond of children.

BARBARA TRIES DUPLICITY.

Chapter 27.

The more I thought about Tom Barney's visit and of what he had implied about Kent, the more unnerved and frightened I became. I could not close my eyes to the haunting memory of that insinuating sneer.

I was torn with emotions. I did not know whether to ignore what Tom told me and risk the possibility of his not telling anyone else about Kent, or to go to him and talk it all over and find out just how much he knew.

I realised the danger of waiting, and yet I dreaded the thoughts of going to Tom. I knew also that that move might be equally dangerous. I could not be sure of what he would do. I had every reason to believe that he wanted me to talk. I felt that he had tried to force me into conversation on the subject.

It was terrible having to think it all out by myself. The responsibility was tremendous. I longed to tell Kent everything, but I knew that was impossible. I had to fight it out alone.

Then an idea came to me. If I could say just enough to Tom Barney to prevent his doing anything right away, maybe I could delay his actions. Then Kent, in the meantime, might have a chance to return the diamond. Oh, if Kent could only get that diamond back, then Tom could not hurt him — he couldn't prove anything then!

But the next question was how to see Tom Barney. He had a position in a broker's office in Wall Street. I could not parade the streets down there and hope to run into him at the lunch hour. He would fathom that easily. And besides, my own pride would not sanction such an act.

Then I thought of the tin stock he had spoken of the other evening. I could use that as an excuse. So one morning I looked up his telephone number and got him on the wire.

"I was wondering about that tin stock you spoke of the other evening. I don't want Kent to know, but I wondered if you thought I might make a little money on it?" I asked. I felt sheepish and my cheeks reddened at the thoughts of my deception. I loathed the thought of having to pretend to Tom that I would deceive Kent when it was the last thing that I would ever think of doing. I would not make the tiniest money venture without Kent's approval. But it seemed the only plausible reason for approaching Tom. I had to make up some excuse. I did not stop to think how it might end.

"It's good, but I'd hate to see you lose, Barbara," Tom answered. "I'll stop in this afternoon and talk it over with you, if I may," he finished.

"All right. Thank you," I returned. I put down the telephone receiver with shaking fingers. I dreaded the task ahead of me. Yet I had determined to play the game for Kent's sake.

For the rest of the day I thought and planned out my course of action. I wanted to say just enough to keep Tom quiet. Yet I must not commit myself. It would have to be a woman's wits pitted against a man's But why had Nature given a woman this power over a man if she was not intended to use it. I felt the tiniest little thrill grip me.

Tom came at 4 o'clock. His manner was quite different from the other morning. I was thankful. I felt he would be easier to deal with in his present mood.

We talked about the tin stock. He explained it all to me, and thought it would be better if I waited a little while.

"Just now the market is rather uncertain," he said. 'and I'd hate to have you lose anything, Barbara, especially on my recommendation."

"Tom," I said suddenly, changing the trend of the conversation, "I don't want to be cross with you — but you remember the other day you said some queer things about Kent, some things I didn't understand. Well, if you and I are to be friends, good friends, you must not say those things. It would just kill me to have anyone say or do anything to harm Kent. If you do care for me as you say you do, you'll understand," I told him.

I watched his expression to see the effect my words had had on him. And then the front door bell rang. I jumped to my feet. My God, could it be Kent? How would I explain!

Tom stood up, too, and waited. He understood my feelings all too plainly. I was furious with myself for ever getting into such a trap.

SEES DRY LATIN AMERICA.

Mss Gordon, Back From Tour, Says It Is a Live Issue There.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 2.—South American countries will eventually join the United States in its "blessing of prohibition," Miss Anna Adams Gordon, President of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union, predicted today. Miss Gordon, who has just returned from a visit to five South American republics, asserted that prohibition was a live issue in many Pan-American countries, especially Chile, Argentina, Brazil, Paraguay and Uruguay.

"With admiration and hope the leading men and women of South America have watched North America's deliverance from the legalized liquor traffic," she said. "We prophesy that not many years hence the blessing of prohibition will come to the twenty sister republics of the Pan-American union; will come to the Orient with its unawakened millions; will come to Europe; will come to Great Britain and her sturdy colonies, because the United States will have made good in the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment, the securing of which is one of the greatest moral victories the world has ever witnessed.

"Until making this survey of five republics, we had not adequately realized how energetically and intelligently leaders in educational, government, church and social reform circles were pushing anti-alcohol propaganda."

LOST 29 POUNDS DYSENTRY WAS THE CAUSE

Mr. G. H. McVagh, Mawer, Sask writes:—"About eight years ago I had a severe attack of dysentery. I was sick for three weks. I weighed 154 lbs. when I took sick and 125 when I got it stopped. I think I tried every medicine on the market. but did not find relief until I used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Straw berry, and one bottle did it. I think there is nothing like it for diarrhoea or dysentery. I always keep some on hand as a person does not know when he will need it."

Yale Medical Experts to Remove Piece of Bone That Makes Brooklyn Youth Bad.

Since he was injured by falling off a tree when a boy he has every spring acted abnormally and criminally.

His latest escapade occurred in June, when he was accused of having stolen money order blanks and stamps at Jamaica, L. I.

CITY TO SPEND $200 ON IMPROVEMETS TO BATHING BEACH AT INVERLEA PARK

MORE THAN HALF THE TAXES PAID DURING JULY—ATTORNEY GENERAL SUGGESTS SUPERANNUATION OF POLICE MAGISTRATE DUMBLE—SEWER NEEDED FOR NEW HOSPITAL.

Calling the Council's attention to the low level of the river at Inverlea Park just now, Ald. Turner recommended last night that $200 be spent by the Parks Committee on improvements to the bathing beach. He suggested that some of the stones could be removed from the wading place within the concrete wall, or that sand might be dumped there, and also that the wall be repaired. The Council gave its assent to these improvements. Incidentally, Ald. Gainey reported that the caretaker at the Lake Street Beach had turned in $40 for July and $25 for June, the receipts from the rental of the lockers.

Fire Protection in Exhibition Park.

Arguing that the city had money invested in the Exhibition Park, and should therefore endeavor to protect its interests, Ald. Turner moved, seconded by Ald. Hamilton, that Ald. Morrison, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, report on the cost of a hydrant to be set up in the grounds.

Fire Chief's Report.

Fire Chief Grange's report of his department's activities during July showed that there had been 15 fire alarms, 350 feet of hose had been laid, and the apparatus had travelled 17 3-4 miles. The first loss for the month was $570, and there were five drills.

Suggests Superannuation.

The following letter from the Hon. W. E. Raney, Attorney-General, was referred to the Finance Committee:

Toronto, July 22, 1921.

Dear Mr. Mayor.—I am in correspondence with Police Magistrate Dumble with reference to his retirement from the Police Magistracy, the burden of which is increasing as his age and the infirmity of his hearing have advanced.

I have no doubt your City Council will desire to avail itself of the power given by the statute of last year to vote a superannuation allowance to Mr. Dumble, who has served Peterborough for more than a generation in much the same way that Colonel Denison has served Toronto.

Yours sincerely,

W. E. Raney.

Petition For Sewer Connection.

Monsignor McColl representing the Roman Catholic Episcopal Corporation, requested that the city provide a proper sewer connection for the new wing of St. Joseph's Hospital that is now in the course of construction.

"We are making an important public utility, and will spend some $160,000," said Monsignor McColl. "We are not asking for a grant, although municipalities have made grants to hospitals. All we ask is for a proper sewer connection. There is a sewer on Rogers Street, but to reach it from the hospital a connection would have to be carried diagonally across the property for a distance of four or five hundred feet. We are asking for a connection on Armour Road. The new hospital is actually on the lots that front on that street."

Ald. Turner moved, seconded by Ald. Crowe, that this request be referred to City Engineer Parsons for a report.

THE OLD STORY.

"To-morrow," he promised his conscience,
To-morrow I mean to be good;
To-morrow I'll think as I ought to;
To-morrow I'll do as I should;
To-morrow I'll conquer the habits
That hold me from heaven away."
But ever his conscience repeated
One word, and one only, "To-day."
To-morrow, to-morrow, to-morrow,
Thus youth like a vision was gone;
'Till age and passions had written
The message of fate on his brow,
And forth from the shadows came death.
With the pitiless syllable, "No."

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

"Famous Author Stuff Bunk" Says Universal President

What have famous novelists and popular fiction writers done for the screen?

"Almost nothing," says Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Company, the largest independent motion picture producing concern. "Certainly not nearly so much as the screen has done for them."

The prediction was freely made several years ago that the advent of the popular novelist, the trained fiction writer, would revolutionize the motion picture industry. Their interest in the movies was hailed by many as the beginning of the screen millenium. It was believed that moving pictures from their novels and stories would be the masterpieces for which the American public was waiting. In this new "golden age" people shook their heads at the sad fate awaiting the mere motion picture authors who had grown up in the business. They surely would become the "hack writers" of the screen. Have these predictions come true? Let Mr. Laemmle answer the question.

"Famous author stuff is largely 'bunk.' Nine-tenths of it can easily be shown to be selling talk and box office angle. As such it is a rank failure. Famous authors seldom deliver the goods to the screen or draw patronage at the box office. There are only three names in the entire list of popular American writers which mean anything to the moving picture exhibitor or to the public to which he caters—Rex Beach, Zane Grey and Oliver Curwood. And their position has been created because they were advertised and 'put over' as producers, manufacturers, if you like, of photoplays—not as authors only.

"More than that, when their productions were flashed on the screen they bore only a nominal resemblance to the original story. They had been built up, changed about, whipped into shape and rearranged by a corps of scenario writers, adapters and title writers. Had they been filmed as written, they would have fallen flat.

"Every film company maintains a staff of skilled, trained men to do nothing else save adapt, change, build up and strengthen the works of famous authors to whom their employers have paid ridiculous prices for best sellers. They have to. The results would be appalling if they didn't. These men usually have their work cut out for them, too.

Best Sellers No Good For Screen.

"By the time the director is ready to shoot, the price of the story has been greatly increased and the efforts of the men who might have turned out a fine moving picture story have been circumscribed by the natural desire of the producer to have some of the original story let in. If people saw on the screen nothing of the original story by famous author but the names of his characters they naturally would think they had been fooled.

"In a way it is a pity that producers did not let many famous authors stand or fall on their merits and the merits of their own stories. The producers would have saved a lot of money and the famous authors would have become awake to themselves more quickly. As it is, it proved pretty soft for the famous authors and mighty costly for the producers. It has taken three years for producers to discover that they themselves were the only ones being fooled, and a lot of them don't know it yet. But the public knows it. It unfooled itself long ago. People don't expect any more to see a best seller a success on the screen. They don't just know why; but they know they don't. They certainly have no prejudice in the matter. They wanted it. They paid their money. That was all they could do about it. The fact remains that in the great majority of cases the stories of best sellers are no good for the screen.

"But the advertising value of the names of famous authors and the tremendous circulation of their books, which are the bases on which they charge the big prices, are the biggest nonsense of all. Let's get down to facts and figures. If a book is read by a quarter of a million persons it is the hit of the year. That number of persons is only a drop in the bucket for a successful picture. If twenty times that many persons did not pay to see a really big picture it would be a failure. In other words, one-twentieth of the total attendance presents the possibility of having been influenced to attend because of the book. As a matter of speculation it would be interesting to know whether more persons are induced to attend or are dissuaded from attending a moving picture through having read the story first in book form.

"But, be that as it may, let us assume for the sake of the argument that they all wanted to go. There is a ready made audience of two hundred and fifty thousand persons. If you don't know anything about it, you may think that quite a number. All right, I'm just going to show you how much the producer cares for those two hundred and fifty thousand persons—that ready-made audience which is the only logical reason for his 'forking over' twenty-five or fifty thousand dollars for the famous author's story. This is how much he cares for the quarter million persons. Right away he changes the title. Now I ask you how many of the 250,000 will ever find their way, except by the usual advertising appeal, into the theatre that shows the effort of the famous author? The Charge of the Light Brigade."

MONTREAL TEAM WINS FIRST AID COMPETITION

Chamberlin Trophy Awarded to Point St. Charles Shops of Grand Trunk.

Dr. Chas. A. Hodgetts, Director General of the Canadian Branch of the St. John Ambulance Association, has just concluded an examination of the first aid teams from the various branches of the Grand Trunk Railway System. Thirteen teams from Montreal, London, Stratford, Guelph and Lindsay were entered in this competition, the winners being entitled to hold the Chamberlin Trophy, presented by Mr. E. J. Chamberlin. Dr. Hodgets announces that the trophy has been won by team No. 1, from the Montreal Shops of the Company at Point St. Charles, while second honors go to the team of the Stratford station of the railway.

The team work was judged in a most thorough manner and later the individual competitors were called upon to pass examinations to demonstrate their ability to handle accident cases. Dr. Hodgetts states that the work of all the teams was most commendable and that the interest shown by the executive officers of the Grand Trunk Railway System has had a very marked and beneficial effect upon the development of first aid work. There are now several hundred first aid men on the various divisions of the railway well qualified to deal with accident cases of all kinds. The Grand Trunk maintains an instructor to teach the rudiments of first aid work to the employes, this instruction being given under the auspices of the St. John Ambulance Association.

ROME, Aug. 2. — (Canadian Press.)—Heat around one hundred degrees in Italian cities yesterday caused 17 deaths.

BUMPER CROPS FOR ALBERTA

WILL BREAK RECORD, SAYS B. E. CANNIFF OF CALGARY.

"The crops in Alberta will be an eye-opener this year for the rest of Canada, in fact a record-breaking harvest," declares Mr. B. E. Canniff, of Calgary. "There has been just sufficient rain," he says, "for the grain, which in weight of head and quality promises to go over any productive peak yet reached, notwithstanding any reports to the contrary you may hear."

Mr. Canniff, at one time resident in Peterborough, left this city eleven years ago for the North-West, where he established with his present partner, Mr. A. G. O'Brien, formerly of Perth, Ontario, the Calgary publishing business, with which he is still connected, and reports business good. He and his wife, and brother, Mr. S. W. Canniff, electrical engineer of Ottawa Hydro-Electric, his wife and son, are holidaying at Boshink Narrows, guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Canniff, of Toronto, who opened their summer cottage at Boshink on July first.

These two brothers were in town yesterday, calling on old friends and incidentally to purchase a net for landing the two to five-pound bass which they say are plentiful at and around the Narrows, where fishing is better than in the past ten years.

Mr. B. E. Canniff, when living in Peterborough, held a position on the Morning Times. Since going to Calgary he has visited here once, seven years ago.

Removes Hairy Growths Without Pain or Bother

(Modes of To-day)

It is not necessary to use a painful process to remove hairy growths, for with a little delatone handy you can keep the skin entirely free from these beauty destroyers. To remove hair, make a stiff paste with a little powdered delatone and water. Spread this on the hairy surface and in about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. To guard against disappointment, be careful to get real delatone. Mix fresh as wanted.

ROME, Aug. 2. — (Canadian Press).—The Post Office building at Bari, South-Western Italy, on the Adriatic, collapsed Monday as a result of an earth tremor. Eight bodies so far have been recovered; many are reported killed and injured.

MAY ATTEMPT TO DEPRIVE DE LA BARRA OF CITIZENSHIP

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 2.—Acceptance by Francisco, Leon De La Barra, former President of Mexico, of an official commission by the French Government, it is reported, will be discussed by Congress here with a view to depriving him of his citizenship. Mr. De La Barra has resided in Paris for several years, and has acted as counsel for the French Government, but the mission to which objection is raised here would take him to Vienna for an indefinite period. It is contended that before accepting he should have secured permission from his home Government.

TO INVESTIGATE CHARGES AGAINST COUNT KAROLYI.

Is Now in Exile As Result of Accusations.

BUDAPEST, Aug. 2. — Count Bethlen, the Hungarian Premier, has set in motion an investigation of the various acts of which Count Michael Karolyi, "the grand old man of Hungary," now an exile from his native land, stands accused. These include the allegation of high treason made before the National Assembly by Prince Louis Windischgraetz in connection with the organization of the Hungarian revolution.

Several members of the Independence party are involved in the same accusation, which is based, partly upon the text of memorandums that Karolyi is declared to have addressed to the Entente Governments during the war.

Prince Windischgraetz cites Clemenceau's replies to interpellations in the Chamber of Deputies, in which the French Premier said he had proof that Karolyi entertained close relations with the Soviets. From all the documents and evidence which Windischgraetz has handed over to Premier Bethlen, he deduces that Karolyi volunteered to Entente Governments to start a revolution in Hungary, and that he conspired to that end with revolutionary elements in different countries.

The CRESSMAN Company Limited

COST OF EXTRA WORK ON THE HUNTER ST. BRIDGE $105,879

RUSSELL-TOWNSEND COMPANY HAS FILED STATEMENT WITH COUNCIL—NO REFLECTION ON COMPANY INTENDED IN INSTRUCTIONS TO WIND UP WORK

The cost of the extra work performed by the Russell-Townsend Company in the constructon of the Hunter street bridge, and upon which they base their claim for compensation over and above their commission of $29,000, as fixed in the contract, amount to $105,879.29, according to a statement which the contractors have submitted to the council.

Last night Ald. Turner moved, seconded by Ald. Crowe, that this statement be referred to Mr. Frank Barber, the city's engineer on the work, to be checked over by him, and reported back to the council; also that Mr. Barber and Mr. Frank Christie, who has been inspector on the work, be invited to attend the conference which the council purposes holding when the statement is returned by Mr. Barber.

Will Limit Chipping.

Mayor McIntyre said he understood that the workmen were now chipping on the north side of the bridge, but Ald. Hamilton explained that only the exterior face of the handrail had been chipped on that side.

Ald. Turner moved, seconded by Ald. Jones, that the chipping be confined to the south side, the hand railings and the panels, and that the north side be not chipped except the railing and panels; and further, that copies of this motion be sent to Frank Barber and the Russell-Townsend Company.

Apology to the Company.

Referring to the indefectible resolution adopted at the special meeting last week, notifying the Russell-Townsend Company of the Council's wish to terminate the contract, Ald. Turner said that the wording of the notice might have done an injustice to the contractors.

"It has occurred to me," Ald. Turner explained, "that we might have done them an injustice in saying that the work was not finished within the required time. If any damage has been done the Russell-Townsend Company, or if we said anything inadvertently that reflected on them as contractors, I as one member of the Council, wish to offer them an apology, and to withdraw anything that might be construed to mean that they haven't carried out the contract to the best of their abilities and within the time limit."

"There is no desire on the part of any member of the Council to reflect on the integrity or the ability of the Russell-Townsend Company, to carry out the contract well and properly," Ald. Gordon remarked. "We wanted to terminate certain overhead expenditure and to wind up the work as soon as posible. In that there was no reflection upon the company as contractors. They have done the work cabably and very well. The only complaint that I heard was that the work was being drawn out and should be concluded as early as possible in the interests of the ratepayers. There was no suggestion at any time that the contractors were other then men of standing and capability. As far as I have been able to ascertain the work has been very well done."

Mr. C. J. Townsend entered the Council Chamber just prior to the introduction to Ald. Turner's apology.

LAKEFIELD AND DISTRICT NEWS

LAKEFIELD, August 2. — The following is the result of the field crop competition, conducted by the Lakefield Agricultural Society.

There were 15 entries and of these the best seven received prizes as follows 1 T. H. Northey, 2 Gordon Mann, 3 T. Garvey, 4 W. G. Charlton, 5 H. J. Abbott, 6 B. Q. Dench, 7 John A. Crowe.

Lakefield House.

The following guests registered at the Hotel Lakefield this week:

G. W. Savage, Belleville; W. H. Turney, Trenton; Mrs. C. W. Goodman and two children, Autifagasta, Chili; H. Wood, Ward Patterson, Peterboro, J. A. Currie, John Sentard, Toronto; W. C. Booth, Ottawa; W. J. Stewart, J. P. Johnston, Toronto; John Crane, R. Sheehy, F. Whitehouse, H. Lemberg, Peterboro; George C. Mackenzie, wife and family, Welland; J. F. Diamond, Peterboro; A. Reesor, Agincourt; T. C. McRae, Norwood; R. A. Burdett, H. B. Rome, Toronto; C. E. Gank, W. O. Fuller, E. A. Jergler, W H. McClure, Medina, Ohio; Alex. Sharp, Ed. Sharp, Lakefield.

The New Rink.

Work on the new rink is being rushed and the past week has seen great strides in the work. The timbers are being laid on the cement piers which are already in place and the ground is being levelled and put into first class shape.

Arrived Safely.

Mr. G. G. Ogilvie received word last week of the safe arrival of his son, W. G. Ogilvie, at Fort Norman. He left Toronto the first week in May and made the long trip from Edmonton by Motor boat. He reports wonderful scenery and a magnificent country.

Picnic Party.

A large picnic party spent the afternoon and evening at Hague's Point on Thursday. The two points so easy of access from the village are becoming more and more popular for picnic parties. Lakefield is very fortunate in possessing so many beautiful places and the people are waking up to their advantages and making greater use of them on these summer days.

Union Services.

The union services for the month of August will be under the direction of Rev. S. F. Dixon and will be held in the Presbyterian church in the morning and the Methodist church in the evening.

Next Sunday evening there will be communion in the Methodist church at 7.30.

Summer Sports.

The hot weather has increased the popularity of the river as a place to swim. Scores of people every day are swimming or bathing in the river at Lakefield and there is pressing need of dressing rooms to accommodate both sexes. At the present time there is little chance of the municipality being in a position to assume the financial responsibility but could not a private corporation do something, as the new rink is the result of the love of winter sports in some citizens? Could not those interested in aquatics form a company and erect cheap dressing rooms?

New Pavilion.

Mr. A. G. Lawless of the Hotel Lakefield will open his new pavilion on Tuesday evening. The pavilion is the largest and most up to date of any in this region and will be very popular. It is 50 x 80 feet, and has a good hardwood floor and is lighted with electricity. This will be an additon to Lakefield and will fill a long felt want.

The Riverside pavilion has a picturesque situation under the pines on the river front.

Personals.

Mr. Harold Kidd of Toronto spent the week end with his parents in Lakefield.

Mrs. Aubrey Larke was in the village from Viamede on Saturday and was the guest of Mrs. W. M. Graham.

Mrs. (Capt.) Johnston and family have returned from a visit to relatives in Young's Point.

Mr. H. Middleton of Lindsay was the guest of his sister, Mrs. G. E. Donaldson, on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hurl, and Miss Jean Hurl of Peterboro, visited Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Charlton, of Smith, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Northey, Miss Lauretta and Gwenyth Northey, and Mrs. McConkey and Miss Clara Kidd, motored to Fraserville last week to visit friends.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Morris, Miss Willa Morris and Mr. and Mrs. Sheffield of Brockville, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Northey.

Dr. and Mrs. S. J. Gilson, Miss Loretta and Master Jack and Miss Young and Mr. C. Young, of Peterboor, are spending a few weeks at Deer Bay.

Mr. H. G. Simpson of Toronto, motored to the village to spend the week end with his mother, Mrs. T. Simpson.

Mr. George Balsdon of Kenora, is visiting his sister, Mrs. James Mahood.

Mrs. Killaly and children of Peterboro, passed through the village on Friday en route to Stoney Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl McKercher of Peterboro were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Charlton last week.

ELIMINATE SALE OF LIQUOR BY DRUGGISTS

CALGARY, Alta., July 30.—(Canadian Press).—Three-fifths of the members of the Pharmaceutical Association of Alberta are in favor of eliminating the sale of liquor by druggists, absolutely, according to the result of a ballot taken after the recent general meeting of the association.

A large majority are against limiting the quantity, which may be supplied by druggists in this Province to eight ounces. One hundred and fifty-nine ballot papers were returned.

LADIES! LOOK YOUNG, DARKEN GREY HAIR

Use the Old-time Sage Tea and Sulphur and Nobody Will Know.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous and you appear years younger.

IS POVERTY A CRIME?

(By T. TOOMS, M.P.P.)

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—If poverty is a crime, it is the duty of everyone, man or woman, to call attention to it, to help relieve it and to do away with it if possible, for each one of us is responsible, let us be workingmen, manufacturer or minister of the church.

The different governing bodies of this Province and Dominion have issued the warning, "Be prepared," for the coming winter. There will be an abnormal amount of unemployment, thus distress. Are we as individuals and organizations doing our duty to our brothers in this matter? I agree with Henry George when he says poverty is a crime. A man who is in poverty I look upon not as a criminal in himself so much as the victim of a crime for which others, "as well as himself, perhaps," are responsible. Poverty is the bitterest of curses we all know. It is to escape this hell that we strain and struggle. The curse boon of poverty is not confined to the poor alone; there cannot be suffering in a community from which any class can totally escape. The vice, the crime, the ignorance, the meanuss born of poverty, poison so to speak, the very air which rich and poor alike must breathe; and this condition is chiefly imposed by society at large—it is a social crime. Therefore, all are responsible. Surely people cannot say poverty is decreed by the Almighty. No; but it is because of our own injustice, our own selfishness, our own ignorance, that this scourge, worse than pestilence, ravages our civilization, bringing want, suffering and degradation, destroying souls as well as bodies.

Two thousand years ago the word went forth to a small body of men upon whom the Christian church today bases its whole fabric. 'Behold, I will make you fishers of men. Upon this rock I will build my church." These men of two thousand years ago were instructed to fight this great social evil, which is worse today and getting worse than at that time.

The real dangerous man to society is the man that says that all is as it ought to be.

"Consider the lilies how they grow;" they toil not, neither do they spin." In a really Christian community in a society that honored not with the lips, but with the act, the doctrines of Jesus. No one would have occasion to worry about physical needs any more than do the lilies of the field. There is enough and to spare, but in the mad struggle we trample it in the mire, while we tear and rend each other. Look the world over today; poverty everywhere. The cause must be a common one; you cannot attribute it to tariff and government altogether. Did you ever think of the utter absurdity and strangeness of the fact, that all over the civilized world the working classes are the poor class? We talk of over production. How can there be such a thing as over production while people want? All these things that are said to be overproduced are desired by many people. Why do they not get them? They do not get them because they nave not the means to buy them, not that they do not want them. Why have they not the means to buy them? They earn too little. When great masses of the people have to work for less than it costs to live it is no wonder that great quantities of goods cannot be sold. The mass of unemployed drive wages down to a point of bare subsistence. Think, is it not a strange thing that men cannot find employment? Adam or Robinson Crusoe neither had difficulty in finding employment. Men cannot find employment because they have been robbed of the natural opportunities of employing themselves.

We must adhere to the laws of God and nature for peace and justice. Therefore, to my mind, it is to the advocates of God's laws, the Christian church. The great Christian organizations who during the war got busy preached thrift, patriotism and economy, helped raise the great Canadian army through their enthusiasm and(again, the great social organizations who started the temperance and prohibition question to a point of fanaticism and made the ,country "bone dry," is but an earnest of what can be done if they will. Yet, here we are faced with a problem that takes a greater toll of human life than the great European war, than all the drink of spirituous liquors every year—in fact, every day it is breeding more vice crime, and ignorance, which contaminates and creates environment. Surely this question is of paramount importance to the church to get busy, as it did on those previously mentioned occasions. Set the example, others will follow. The great crisis has to be faced this winter—this aftermath. Are we big enough and broad enough to be fair? Everyone is called upon to make some sacrifice in order to alleviate the unemployment of the coming winter—Governments, Municipal Councils, manufacturers, workingmen, etc. But let us see that the brunt of the whole situation is not borne by one class of the community, and hope that out of it all the church may take this opportunity of bringing our social life to that higher standard of brotherhood ahead of commercialism.

GALLIPOLI EXPEDITION ENDED BY PAPERMAN'S EXPOSE OF SITUATION

NORTHCLIFFE CREDITS KEITH MURDOCH WITH CAUSING RE-MOVAL OF TROOPS.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Lord Northcliffe recently revealed an interesting bit of war history concerning the evacuation of Gallipoli. The hero of the story was Keith Murdoch, an Australian journalist, who is returning home to become editor of the Melbourne "Herald," and the occasion of the telling of it was a luncheon given to Mr Murdoch by the "Times."

"It is an open secret," said Lord Northcliffe, in proposing Mr. Murdoch's health, "that it was due to his initiative that the Australians and the rest were removed from Gallipoli. Coming to Europe for the first time, he went to Gallipoli Peninsula, and for the first time the truth was revealed.

"He brought a despatch, a very terrible despatch, which, I believe, was intended to be sent to Australia. He showed that despatch to me, and I suggested that the time which would be spent in carrying that ghastly record to the Antipodes could be better used for the purpose of immediate action.

"I asked him to take it to Lloyd George, and one of the finest pieces of work the Prime Minister did in the war was to circulate the document to the whole Cabinet, which then consisted of 20 persons. As a result of Keith Murdoch's despatch, immediate action was taken and that horrible story was concluded."

PERLEY IS HOME; PRAISES MEIGHEN.

No Political Significance to Trip, He Says.

OTTAWA, Aug. 2.— (Canadian Press.)—Sir George H. Perley, Canadian High Commissioner to Britain, who some time ago announced him impending retirement, is here with Mrs. Perley. He stated no political significance was attached to the trip. He returned to attend to his own business for a time. He said Premier Meighen had created a favorable impression in London. While standing strongly for all Canadian interests, he impressed the British people with his fairness.

FRANCE AND VATICAN RESUME RELATIONS.

Broken Off in 1904 When France Limited Religious Power.

PARIS, Aug. 2. — (Canadian Press.)— Diplomatic relations between France and the Vatican were resumed yesterday with the arrival of Archbishop Beneventura Cerretti.

Relations between this country and the Holy See were broken off in 1904 as a result of the controversy arising out of the French Chamber of Deputies passing a bill limiting the power of religious associations in France.

PETERBORO MAY HAVE FLOWER SHOW IN THE NEAR FUTURE

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY HELD A MEETING LAST EVENING.

With the added interest shown by the citizens in the beautifying of their homes and surroundings, there should be a considerable number of entries in this year's annual lawn and garden competition, held under the auspices of the Horticultural Society.

It was decided at the Board of Directors' meeting last evening, held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, that the competition will be held earlier this year, and Wednesday, August 10th, has been set aside for the judging.

Owing to the decrease in the Provincial grant to the Horticultural Society, and the added expenses to the society in beautifying areas throughout the city, it was found impossible to give prizes equal to those of the previous year. It is felt, however, that this will not decrease the interest shown in the competition, but rather that a greater encouragement will be given to the Horticultural Society to increase their activities in beautifying the city.

As in previous years there will be 8 classes, as follows:

Class A.— Open to all for best grounds surrounding premises. 1st prize, the F. W. Adam's Cup for one year; 2nd prize $3.00, and 3rd $2.00.

Class B.—Amateurs only, for best lawn and surroundings. 1st prize, $3.00; 2nd $2.00, and 3rd, membership for coming year.

Class C.— Workingmen only, for best gardens and surroundings. 1st prize, $3.00; 2nd, $2.00, and 3rd, membership for coming year.

Class D.—Best display of window boxes, hanging baskets or urns. 1st prize, $3.00; 2nd, $2.00, and 3rd, membership for coming year.

Class E.—Best flower-bed, cared for solely by boy or girl, 16 years of age or under. 1st prize, $3.00; 2nd, $2.00, and 3rd, membership for coming year.

Class F.— Best kept factory grounds. 1st prize, $3.00; 2nd, $2.00, and 3rd, membership for coming year.

Class G. — Best kept church grounds. 1st prize, $3.00; 2nd, $2.00, and 3rd, membership for coming year.

Class H. — Best kept school grounds. 1st prize, $3.00; 2nd, $2.00, and 3rd, membership for coming year.

Entries.

All entries to the competition must be made in writing and forwarded to the secretary of the Society, 358 George street, not later than Tuesday noon next, August 9th, and must show the contestant's name and address, and the class or classes for which the entry is made.

All citizens, whether members of the Society or not, are eligible to enter into the competitions.

Judging.

The executive is endeavoring to secure the services of a number of the delegates who will be attending the Canadian Florists' and Gardeners' Association Convention on August 9th and 10th and Classes 'F,' 'G', and 'H' for factories, church grounds and school grounds, will be judged separately from Classes 'A' to 'E.'

There were nearly 50 entries in the various classes last year, and the Directors of the Society are expecting a considerable increase on this number.

Flower Show.

A special committee was appointed from amongst the Board of Directors, comprised of Walter Stocker, W. H. Young and the Secretary, to secure full detail in connection with the staging of a flower show in the near future, and all citizens interested in flowers should particularly keep this in mind. Within all probability the Society will make the qualification that only members of the Society will be able to make entries in the flower competitions, and those who are not already members and wish to enter any classes in the Flower Show, which will likely be held during the 3rd week of August, are advised to secure their memberships as early as possible.

Beautification.

A resolution of commendation was passed by the Directors at their meeting, congratulating J. J. Turner & Sons for their excellent work in beautifying the bank at the sign boards located on George street, north of Brock. The President, Dr. J. E. Middleton, emphasized the fact that with very little expense on any unslightly piece of ground, a considerable improvement could be made, and would make our city exceedingly more attractive.

A resolution was also passed to the City Council and Board of Works, for their co-operation in placing the three corner curb at the south-west corner of Inverlea Park, but it is regretted that, owing to the financial condition of the Society at present, it is found impossible to place the necessary filling at this place and plant it, but it is the expectation that, with added support to the Society, a bed of bulbs will be placed at this spot during the fall, under the supervision of Mr. J. Wells Fraser.

Membership.

The membership of the Society is now 300, and any citizen wishing to support the work of the Society for the remaining part of the fiscal year will receive two options of fall bulbs, which will be supplied to all members about the middle of September.

Early Competition Entries.

The President, Dr. J. E. Middleton, particularly urges that all citizens making entries in the various classes in the competition will make them as early as possible, so that a systematic route may be made of the city to make the work in judging as light as possible. All entries must be in by 12 noon, August 9th.

UTILITIES COMMISSION REPORT GOOD DEMAND FOR POWER

LOCAL DEMAND IS ABOVE THE WAR TIME PEAK—WATER SERVICES.

The Utilities Commission left with R. L. Dobbin, Waterworks superintendent, at a meeting yesterday afternoon, the responsibility for having the residents of Euclid Avenue, who so fervently desired a water main not so long ago, but have backed down when it came to signing the contract, interviewed again in the hope the seven against it are now more conciliatory.

Eleven Homes.

There are eleven houses in the section that would be served by the main. it is said all supported a petition for water, but only four out of the eleven would sign an application for water, the others, much to the surprise of the Commission, strenuously opposing the main and taking a complete "right about face" attitude in the matter. R. L. Dobbin had a letter from F. A. Dallyn, Provincial Sanitary Engineer, saying that, if wanted, they were prepared to issue an order under Section 96, forcing the laying of a main whether the Commission were guaranteed 10 per cent. of the cost of construction or not. "Who's going to pay for it?" the Commissioners all wanted to know. Finding no one to whom the payment could be fastened, it looked as if they would have to pay everything themselves, and it would be a strange situation to ask for an order that would force them to do work at an evident loss. As the local Board of Health have this matter under consideration, no action was taken on the letter received by Mr. Dobbin.

Water Service Inspectors.

If it would be advisable to engage one or two men to make an inspection of the water services in the city and determine if they are paying too little or too much, entered into the discussion at the meeting. Nothing was done. Chairman R. Hicks was of the opinion that many people were not being assessed right, and the inspectors could straighten the books up to date. Mr. Hicks felt it would pay. R. L. Dobbin ventured his opinion it would not pay, for as many people would be found paying too much as too little and "it would just about balance up." The main thing is to get the rates on a proper basis, and that is all we want, said Mr. Sisson.

Estimate on Main.

R. L. Dobbin promised the Commissioners an estimate of the cost of laying an eight-inch water main up King Street from George to Louis and up Louis to Charlotte to connect with a hydrant, ensuring the fire protection Chief Grange has asked for. Regarding the hydrants being too low for efficient fire-fighting, Mr. Dobbin said it would cost a great deal of money to take out all these short ones and put in long ones. It could be done, however, and the low ones used in sections where the mains are not laid deep as on Lansdowne Street. The superintendent ventured to say (with a smile) that "the wrenches might be cut off a little so they could turn easily." As far as painting went, they were ready to paint them red if desired, but practically everywhere else they were green.

H. Wilson Engaged.

R. L. Dobbin advised the Commissioners that N. Trotter had resigned at the pump-house, and H. Wilson engaged at $80 a month.

Three Houses Pays for Four.

In 1913 W. J. Byers, of Brownton, built three houses on four lots on Chamberlain Street. He had water services put into the houses, and, on the advice of the men who laid the mains, so he has stated to George Henderson, the Commission's accountant, who told it to the Commissioners, he put the water also into the fourth lot, expecting to build there. He has never built, and for eight years has paid for this service, for which he claims he has got no benefit. The new rates bring his charge to $7.38 a year, and he has now complained to the accountant. It was suggested at the meeting that the extra service may have been signed for to get the service. The accountant said he did not think so, but would look into the matter.

Business Good.

Despite business depression, Mr. H. O. Fisk reported that the first six months of this year had shown an unusual demand for power. He believed this due to an increased domestic consumption. More electrical appliances were being used, and many new services put in. In an electrical way, he said, things were very brisk, and the men were busy. The Sanitary Ice Co., the Peterborough Milk Products, have all asked for more power, and Nicholls Hospital requires more with the recent installation of electrical stoves and other appliances. "We've never had as good a year as this." The half-yearly report of the electrical department indicated a successful six months, and the Commissioners were all gratified at the showing in the face of a season of difficulties. Mr. Fisk said they were now far above the previous munition peak. He advised "going after" domestic business aggressively by putting in new lines, and the chairman coincided with this view.

Mr. Hicks was in the chair, with E. F. Mason and C. E. Sisson also present.

The Agreement.

The agreement which the stockholder enters into with the company is as follows, in its entirety:

We, the undersigned, hereby subscribe for the number of shares of the Birmingham Motors A Trust, of Jamestown, New York, U.S.A., set beside our names at $20.00 per share, with the following agreements:

2—The subscribers shall as soon as possible select a committee from amongst themselves to make a thorough investigation of the claims and representations of Birmingham Motors, and when such report has been made and accepted by the undersigned subscribers, the balance, or 75 per cent. of these subscriptions, shall become due and payable, as called for by Birmingham Motors.

3—Birmingham Motors agrees to deliver to these subscribers shares of Birmingham Motors A Trust, of Jamestown, New York, U.S.A., to the amount of $500,000, at $20.00 per share (the present selling price), and further agrees to enter into a contract that not less than 75 per cent. of the amount herein subscribed and paid in shall remain in a bank or in banks in Peterborough, Ontario. This money to be used for the following purposes:

1—To acquire by purchase, or to build a factory site for assembling Birmingham Motors, and to equip said factory.

2—To purchase parts, etc., necessary to build cars.

3—For payrolls and other expenses incurred in the making of Birmingham cars in Peterborough factory.

It is further agreed that Dominion Motors A Trust will enter into a contract with the subscribers hereto, whereby 50 per cent. of the net profits from each car made and sold from the Peterborough factory, beginning with first car sold, shall be set aside in a separate fund, and shall be paid to the subscribers hereto every three months, pro rata for each share, until the entire $500,000 has been paid back to the original subscribers or their assigns, at which time this contract shall have been fulfilled, and automatically ceases. It being understood that the shares of Birmingham Motors which have been issued to the subscribers shall be the property of the subscribers.

Birmingham Motors agrees that an efficient financial manager will be retained, who shall be recommended by the subscribers.

It is further agreed that, when the terms of this subscription are fulfilled and accepted, the money in the keeping of the trustee shall be paid into the account of Birmingham Motors A Trust, and all further payments under this subscription, as called for, shall be paid to Birmingham Motors A Trust, which moneys are to be used exclusively for the Peterborough branch.

That other industries tributary to the automobile business would likely establish here if Birmingham Motors had a plant, was stressed by the speaker. All lines of trade would benefit from an industry of this kind, he said. The automobile business was staple and not readily affected by depressions, he said, and the employment of 300 or 400 men, twelve months a year, could be guaranteed.

Subscription Lists Opened.

The subscription lists were opened following the meeting, and blocks of stock were taken by several prominent business men.

Mr. Lederer will remain in Peterborough for several days longer, and all interested in this company may see him at Room 77, Empress Hotel, or at the Chamber of Commerce.

FASHION WORLD

Lady Duff-Gordon, the "Lucile" of the fashion world, says that nature inspires many of her beautiful creations. Her garden, the dawn with its wonderful color combinations, twilight, misty days; all these give her ideas for lovely costumes.

A dress called "Starshine Through a Mist," is composed of metal brocade, draped in loosely drawn folds at the waist. Heavy galloon lace edges the corsage on one side and is repeated in long ends at the side of the skirt in front. This trimming ends in long, broad, flat tassels. A scarf cape of maline embroidered in metal thread leads from the right shoulder and falls as a train at the back.

An evening gown of misty atmosphere is of metallic tulle of contrasting colors. The high belt, the sleeve edges, the shoulder straps and corsage ornaments are of brocade satin. The mist-like tulle is drawn into a fulness at front, near the waist. A veil, also of metallic tulle, is draped about the head, droops over the eyes and falls in sweeping folds in a long, wide train, edged with metal ball fringe. From the belt in front hang two long metal ribbons. Metallic ribbon borders the veil in a narrow band. There are Egyptian motifs of ribbon and an Egyptian ornament confining the veil.

Another gown is of satin, draped in an Oriental manner which gives a suggestion of Turkish trousers. Over this is worn a robe of chiffon, high and straight of line at the neck, where it is finished by a border of rhinestones set in steel. It falls in rich folds from the shoulders, and what seems a tenuous border of rhinestones, and is clasped at the waist with a broad, flat satin girdle ornamented with steel thread and rhinestone embroidery.

POLICE CLASH WITH RIOTERS.

Fifty Wounded in Strike Fights in Japanese City.

KOBE, Japan, Aug. 1.—The strike situation here continues menacing. The Municipal Assembly has adopted resolutions condemning the police for using their swords on the strikers.

Many of the newspapers attack the Government for alleged favoring the capitalists in the Kobe labor troubles, which they think will have serious consequences. The dispute has again been marked by bloody fighting.

Rioting occurred Saturday in which it is estimated that at least 50 persons were wounded, and a sanguinary clash occurred yesterday, when, disregarding the ban on any public demonstrations, 7,000 shipyard strikers paraded to a local shrine singing Labor songs and shouting condemnation of the action of the authorities during Saturday's affair, which was denounced as oppressive.

TRAFFIC BREAKDOWN IN RUSSIA IS SERIOUS

Unable To Move Surplus Grain From South To North.

WARSAW, Aug. 2.—(Associated Press).—Railroad service between Moscow and Kiev, Russia, has been reduced to an average of one train a week for freight and passengers.

Russia's transportation difficulties, because of the general deterioration of the railroads under the Bolsheviki regime, according to Moscow reports, have brought about other odd situations. While Southern Russia has a surplus of corn and has been endeavoring to export it to Italy, Northern Russia has been buying the same kind of grain from foreign countries. The traffic situation all over Central Russia is said to be particularly serious.

The metal production of Russia is reported to have reached only two per cent. of the pre-war figures, the coal production about 20 per cent. and the oil production 40 per cent.

BANDITS BEATEN BY SPEED FIENDS

GUNMEN MAKE POOR SHOWING IN TORONTO, LOSING BY 86 TO 2.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

TORONTO, August 2. — "The speed fiends in Toronto are worse than the bandits if you ask me," exclaimed Mayor Church to-day, in reporting to the Controllers that the Police Board had refused a permit for the motor car races at the Exhibition on Veterans' Day.

"The citizens of Toronto need no education in motor speeding," said His Worship. "We have had two people killed by bandits and 86 by speed fiends. The bandits lost by 86 to 2."

He said that it would be dangerous to allow the races on the track.

FIRE STOPS TRADE ON STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK EXCHANGE DAMAGED BY BLAZE THIS MORNING.

(Special Despatch to the Examiner)

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.— Fire broke out in the New York stock exchange to-day. The ennunciator board at the north end of the exchange was ablaze. Several lines of hose were brought into the building The smoke was so dense that after a formal opening at 10 a.m. the Board of Governors postponed all trading until 11 a.m.

Crossed wires were believed to have started the fire. New wooden landings behind the ennunciator board were ignited. It was anounced that stock ticker wires were not affected. When the gong sounded at 10 a.m. the floor was crowded with traders in spite of the thick smoke.

MOTORISTS FOUND DRIVING CHILLY, UNLESS THEY HAD A CLOSED CAR.

There was little pleasure in motoring last night unless one drove a closed car, and the roads about the city were all but deserted. The cold increased as the moon rose, and early in the morning it was as cold as a November evening.

Motorists who had hesitated between a touring car and a sedan wished they had chosen the air-tight model that would have kept out those fierce draughts that drove the blood to one's face. It was a cold night, and the thermometer went down to 44 degrees—only 12 degrees above freezing!

Fruit and vegetable growers shivered in the cold and in fear of frost; but the steady breeze, it is said, kept the cold from becoming more intense, and saved the crops.

SAYS FARMERS PAY ONE PER CENT. OF PROFITS TAXES

DR. EDWARDS, M.P., ANNOUNCES RESULT OF HIS INVESTIGATION

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

KINGSTON, Aug. 2.—Dr. J. W. Edwards, M.P., has been looking into the question of income and business profits taxes, in view of the erroneous ideas that prevail with regard to their operation. The doctor in a letter gives the official figures for the past three years, which show that the farmers hfave paid in these taxes less than one per cent. and that the cost of collection has been decidedly small. He says for three years there was collected from both taxes $193,951,931.56 and the cost of administration was 1.61 per cent. of the amount collected.

"It may also be noted that of the grand total collected in the three years, $1,743,232 was from farmers and $192,208,699 from all others, or in other words the farmers contributed considerably less than one per cent." he says.

NEW STENOGRAPHER FOR LOCAL COURTS

W. F. JOHNSTON FORCED BY ILLNESS TO RESIGN—POSITION MUST BE FILLED SOON.

Mr. W. F. Johnston, who has been for years stenographer in the county and surrogate courts, has been compelled by illness to relinquish his position, a deputation from the Peterborough Law Association, composed of Messrs. F. D. Kerr, R. R. Hall and G. N. Gordon, told the County Council at their special meeting on Monday afternoon. They pointed out that it was imperative that another stenographer should be appointed by September 1st. It was impossible, Mr. Kerr said, to get a man qualified for the work, but the deputation had in mind a young woman now engaged in Toronto who had extensive experience in court work and who might consider the position if it was definitely offered to her. Her salary should be at least $1,000, part of which the ciity paid in its share of the cost of the administration of justice in the county.

Reeves Nicholls and McIntosh were appointed by the Council to cooperate with the committee of the Law Association and were given full power to act.

COUNCIL DEADLOCKED ON NEW COMMISSIONER

A tie vote in Council last night held up the appointment of a City Trust Commissioner in succession to the late G. Walter Green. On Ald. Turner's motion seconded by Ald. Gordon, Mr. R. G. Kingan, was nominated, and Mr. A. H. Stratton was proposed by Ald. Morrison seconded by Ald. Hamilton. Aldermen Crowe, Gainey and Mayor McIntyre voted for Mr. Stratton and Aldermen Phelan and Hay for Mr. Kingan. Ald. Jones, presiding in committe of the whole during the second reading of the by-law making the appointment voted for Mr. Kingan and created a tie. Ald. Turner was willing to switch his vote, in order to prevent a delay until September, but a motion for he Committee to rise and report progress appealed to a majority of the Council.

NORTHCLIFFE COMING TO QUEBEC LATER ON

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

QUEBEC, August 2. — Lord Northcliffe is to visit Quebec and the North Shore on his return from the West, according to reliable information given this morning.

The proprietor of The Times will proceed to Clarke City, where he has interest in the pulp and paper industry of the region since last year, being the owner with other interests of vast properties which are supplying newsprint to his papers.

The date of the visit has not been announced, but it as admitted that the visit to that section of the Province has been one of the dominant motives of his visit to America.

CONDITION OF GOVERNOR IS CAUSING ANXIETY

TORONT, Aug. 2.— It was announced from Government House this morning that Lieut. Governor Clark has not rallied from his recent operation as well as expected; and his condition now is causing considerable anxiety.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press.)—The New York Stock Exchange postponed its opening until noon to-day because of fire in its new addition. The fire did not reach the exchange itself, but the smoke permeated the building, making trading impossible.

Prices were higher on the Stock Exchange to-day, when trading was begun at one o'clock after a postponement on account of the fire. Dealings were diversified and more active, the market apparently reflecting a more optimistic feeling. Shares which were conspicuous in yesterday's rise, were again absorbed freely, especially Sugars, Equipments, Steels and the Gas groups at advances of 1 to 1½ points. Oils, Textiles, Tires and high-grade Railroads were also in demand. The renewal rate for call money was marked up to five per cent.

Trading became confused later, speculators taking profits hastily in spots when weakness developed in half a dozen specialties. Harvester, United Drug, Chandler Motor and Central Leather fell a point each. Elsewhere the better class of stocks were pretty well sustained, the strength shown by dividend-paying railroads like Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Louisville - Nashville and Soo having a sustaining effect. Minor Motors and the high-priced Tobacco shares were especially strong.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press,)—The feature of trading on the local exchange during this morning was the five point advance in Spanish River, which after closing at 55 on Friday last, appeared at 60 this morning. Other issues were also stronger, Abitibi being up half a point at 31, and Brazilian a point at 23. Brompton, too, was stronger, advancing a half to 20. Laurentide remained unchanged at 68, but National Breweries was stronger by seven-eights of a point at 53 1-2.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Fresh strength developed in the wheat market to-day. Scantiness of rural offerings appeared to be largely responsible. Besides, talk was current that liberal export buying would be natural after two days' interruption. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to ¼ higher, with September 1.24½ to 125 and December 127 3-4 to 128, were followed by a material upturn all around.

Rains put the Corn Market on the down grade. After opening 5-8 to 1 5-8c lower, including September at 58 3-4 to 59 1-8, prices showed but little power to rally.

Oats were depressed by the big visible supply, starting unchanged to ¼c down, September 38 to 38 1-8, and then undergoing a general sag.

Higher quotations on hogs gave firmness to provisions.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Sterling exchange steady; Canadian dollars, 10 11-16 per cent. discount.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press).—The volume of business on the local Stock Exchange this morning was of very small proportions, the accumulation of orders over the triple holiday apparently being light.

Material gains were scored in a number of issues, with gains of one point being registered by Abitibi. Brazilian and Steel of Canada at 32, 23, and 48 respectivelv. Steamship Preferred, at 49 3-4, showed a gain of 3-4 over the last sale, and General Electric's advance to 88¼, carried it 1 1-3 points above the last sale on Friday. A ten share lot of Spanish River changed hands at 54, a loss of 1¼ from the last sale.

War bonds were at or near the low quotations for the morning when the exchange closed.

AWAIT CALL TO APPROVE TERMS OF IRISH PEACE

UTMOST SECRECY SURROUNDS ALL DEVELOPMENTS IN IRELAND.

(Special Despatch to Examiner.)

DUBLIN, August 2. — A call for a meeting of the Sinn Fein Parliament to approve President DeValera's and the Cabinet's acceptance of the peace terms, was awaited here to-day.

The utmost secrecy surrounded all the developments in the Irish situation.

LONDON, August 2. (Canadian Press.) — Austen Chamberlain, the Government leader in the House of Commons to-day, stated that Lloyd George and Eamonn DeValera had agreed at the recent London conference that if negotiations collapsed, there would be reasonable notice of the termination of the truce.

RIVERSIDE PARK DANCING PAVILION.

The Riverside Park Dancing Pavilion, which has been erected at the water's edge of the river at Lakefield, near the Lawless Hotel, will be opened this evening with the Syncopated Four Orchestra from Peterborough supplying the music. Mr. Lawless has now one of the best dancing pavilions on the lake. An excellent hardwood floor and pavilion, beautifully situtaed.

There have been no facilities for dancing in this locality, and dances to be held every Tuesday and Thursday evenings, Mr. Lawless expects, will be well patronised. The dances will be conducted in a thoroughly careful manner. Excellent music will be provided, and the convenience of the patrons always considered.

GEORGIA TO TAX SINGLE PERSONS.

Bachelors and Spinsters May Pay $5; Asks If It Is Worth While.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 29.—"Is it worth $5 to be single?"

That's the question in the mind of Georgia's bachelors and spinsters today. The problem is the result of an amendment to the general tax act passed by the Lower House of the State General Assembly.

The amendment imposes a tax of $5 on all unmarried persons of sound mind who are more than 30 years old.

RUMOURED BURGLARIES MUCH EXAGGERATED

KAWARTHA PARK HAPPILY FOUND EVERY COTTAGE JUST AS HAD BEEN LEFT.

STONEY LAKE, August 2. — The disappearanec of a basket of goods from the store at Kawartha Park last night aroused a flurry of excitement, and gave rise to stories that several cottages had been robbed. The basket, which belonged to Mr. Sam Charlton of Lakefield, who came up to help his brother, Mr. Dave Charlton at the Park store, was found in the woods back of the store this morning, with everything in it just as it had been left on the store platform. Apparently it had been taken by mistake. Mr. Wellington Hill, the county constable, was called, but there was little for him to do.

The rumour that some of the cottages had been entered and robbed was entirely unfounded, according to reliable reports form Kawartha Park.

PITTSBURGERS HAVE THE CLUB SPIRIT.

When the season opened Pittsburg's revised and re-edited Pirates were figured strong contenders for second place.

Since that April date they have not only put forward a better display of talent than many thought they owned, but they have also proved again the rare value of club spirit and enthusiasm for the job at hand.

They have been playing ball to win where a number of their rivals have been playing ball to help kill an afternoon. The addition of Rabbit Maranville was greater help than even his admirers thought it would be. The Rabbit has been a vital spark in the Pirate machine—perhaps not another Wagner—but as close to the same any one could expect.

NEW YORK YANKEES NOW TALK PENNANT

NEW YORK, July 29. — Back home after the second invasion of the west, the New York Yankees to-day were talking pennant.

"We'll have to fight the Cleveland Indians clear to the wire, but I believe we are better fortified for the battle," Manager Huggins said. "With the exception of Piercey, all our pitchers are in good shape. Cleveland's chances depend in large part on Coveleskie and Bagby. If they can come back the Indians will be hard to beat."

ABCESS ENDS LIFE OF GREAT TENOR

feared he could not survive until dawn. It was decided to operate at once. Following the operation the surgeons stated that Caruso's death was only a matter of hours. At 4 a.m. his heart ceased to beat.

His relapse was sudden and unexpected, especially in view of the fact that he had been feeling unusually well and that he believed he had regained his voic.

Only week ago he received a visit from the celebrated tenor, Montenani and the Hophrano Desililalgo before whom he tried his voice. They agreed that it retained all its former beauty.

He declared he had made a fresh start and that it would be many years before another man could claim the title of "the Greatest Singer."

Arrangements for the funeral were not completed to-day. The singer's American wife was almost prostrated after her long vigils at the bedside, but Caruso's relatives and employees stood ready to take charge of most of the details.

The death hardly had been announced than condolences were pouring in by wires. These came from all classes, from the humblest peasant to rulers who had declared himself. It was expected that Caruso will be buried after one of the most impressive funeral services ever conducted in Italy. Naples speculated but little over that. Caruso was dead and Naples grieved. The only consolation was that the magnificient singer claimed in every city of the world for its own favorite, had come home to die. New York, Buenos Aires, Paris and London enjoyed his gifts but in the end he came back to die at home, his own native home.

Italy Sorrow Stricken.

All Itay was saddened by the death, but in Naples the grief was most profound. Many people had kept an all night vigil near where Caruso lay dying. At dawn more were recruited to the crowd, only to learn that the golden voice was stilled. Women wept as the word sped. Men removed their hats and crossed themselves. The last word had been that Caruso was determined not to die.

His worshippers did what they could. Hundreds offered prayers for his recovery. The gifts they tried to send to his chamber started from the cheapest flowers to the most magnificent offerings. The last picture many had of the singer was when he first arrived, his face slightly tanned by the sun, his shoulders well back and the ever present smile on his face.

That was when he was well, confident that his voice had not been impaired, and when he was on the way to Pompei to offer thanks for his recovery. The next that Naples heard was that he was again threatened with death.

The general confidence that Caruso's glorious voice again would ring from the opera stage in the passage from "Samson" or sob through "Pagliacci" was enhanced by teh singer's own confidence.

As he stepped from the "President Wilson" on arrival here last May, his step was sprightly, he declared he had tested his voice during the steerage from New York and that he was a well man. "A summer at Sorronto will be enough," he said. He went to his villa there. He took his usual keen joy in life. Devoting some time to music, more to his little daughter Gloria and a great deal to resting. He declared that he could feel his strength growing. Visitors were informed by his own assurance and carried the word that Caruso the great was himself.

Occasional stories which reached the outer world that Caruso was discouraged and that he confessed a doubt as to his recovery, were denied promptly. On one occasion he sent a cablegram to the United Press denying a story which had been carried to America. That story, now proven true, was that never again would the great tenor wait for the curtain rise that he might dash out from the wings to receive the tumultuous applause of his admirers.

Ill Luck Pursued Him.

In the last weeks at Sorrento, Caruso convinced himself that he had shaken off the ill luck which pursued him from the time an effort was made to bomb him at Havana.

That incident was followed by the theft of jewels. On the stage in the Metropolitan opefa house he was injured by a fall and still later he burst a blood vessel in his throat.

Then came the long and serious illness in New York. When he recovered from that and come here he was confident that all his troubles were over.

PETERBORO PLAYS BRANTFORD SATURDAY

KICK-OFF AT SIX O'CLOCK SHARP AT RIVERSIDE PARK.

At 6 p.m., Saturday, the Peterboro Plenty Cup Team will play off with Brantford in the Albert Plenty Cup Competition at Riverside Park—that is unless something unforeseen happens.

At the executive meeting in the G.W.V.A. hall last night, Thursday night was picked upon, but at 12.20 to-day Acting Secretary Fred Sutcliffe received the following telegram from J. Hutcheons, of the B. and D. F. A.:

"Impossible to play Thursday; have been in touch with Muir. Can play Saturday or the following Saturday."

The executive last night being in favour of Saturday, if Thursday did not suit the Brantford team, Fred Sutcliffe wired back this afternoon, fixing the game for Saturday, and the executiev will immediately start setting the stage to have a big crowd on hand on Saturday. J. L. Howarth will referee. This was decided at the meeting last night.

Presentations.

A feature will be the presentation to the G. W. V. A. teams of the Clarke shield and the Phelan Charity Cup in the interval between periods.

Plenty Cup Players are reminded of the practice game that will be staged at the oval on Thursday night to keep them limbered up. A scrub team will be put up against them; kick-off sharp at 6:30 p.m.

Mr. Alxe. Dick requests that the Plenty Cup team and the selected team that gave them a practice game last week turn out at the Oval on Thursday at 6.30 p.m., sharp.

TESTS OF INTELLIGENCE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—A champion has appeared at last to deny the popularly acclaimed superiority in intelligence of the son of a grocer to the son of a professor, in the person of Dr. Clara Chassel, conductor of the recent intelligence tests at Horace Mann School. The growing conviction in the heart of the public that the road to intellect lay behind the grocery counter rather than behind the lecture platform, was vigorously attacked by Dr. Chassel, who says that we cannot generalize in the two cases, since environment and heredity would govern the result in either case.

"Intelligence tests which seem to show a superior intelligence on the part of the grocer's son as compared to the professor's son, show no such thing," she declared indignantly. "The higher intelligence is approximately five times as common among children of superior social status as among children of inferior social status."

In many schools the Stanford Revision of the Binet-Simon Measurement Intelligence Test is used as a basis for classification. Although this use is not universal, it is gaining more and more recognition. It aims to determine the child's status at the time the test is given, and usually the variance of this average as the child grows older is not marked.

About 60 per cent. of all school children test between 90 and 110 IQ. and 40 per cent. between 95 and 105 IQ. Edward Rochie Hardy, Columbia's much-discussed prodigy, has hit the bell here with a figure of 187. The children of the higher rank, composed largely from the professional classes or the fairly successful mercantile classes, approximate an intelligence quota of 110 to 120.

Careful psychologists who have given special study to the subject are required to administer these tests, which include many branches of knowledge. A list of fifty words is offered, starting with such simple words as "gown," and gradually increasing to more difficult words on which an adult would fail. Fables are also sometimes read by the examiner, and the child is asked to give his interpretation of the lesson.

THE CLEVELAND INDIANS ARE IN IMPORTANT SERIES WITH YANKEES

(By Henry L. Farrell, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, August 2. — There may be some concern out in Ohio about the Cleveland Indians, but there are no worried frowns on the faces of Chief Tris Speaker and his tribe.

The world's champions, here for a "croocial series," that might decide the pennant in the long run, are showing no more concern than if they were to meet the Athletics in an exhibition game.

"How about the Indians? Well, we are still on top, and I don't know as any of the boys are figuring on straying very far from there," Tris Speaker said to-day.

"We're not thinking we're too good, however. We know we have a tough fight on our hands and that's what we like. It takes a close, tight ace to keep us on our toes, especially in this hot weather. We went through the same thing last year, and we're kind of used to it by this time.

"Bad luck? Well, we haven't had the best of the breaks, but it all comes to a ball club. In a long season, every team runs into accidents. It's impossible to avoid them when nine men are on the field willing to take any kind of a chance to win.

"I don't make a practice of winning pennants in hotel lobbies. It's a bad habit to get into. All championships are decided on the field. We're all optimistic, however, and we wouldn't be a ball club if we didn't think we could win.

"The fans around the circuit have been saying that our pitchers have been a great disappointment this season, but they are winning games, and that's all that is necessary. Bagby, who hasn't been in the best of shape, is showing signs of coming around as well as the rest of the staff. I think we are well fortified to go through the last hard stretch. Since we had to have some accidents, perhaps it is best that we ran into them early in the race."

SPORT COMMENT

Jimmy Goodrich in his recent fight with Herman Smith pleased the fans better than at any time since he began his fistic career. He displayd excellent generalship and he fought with more confidence and delivered his blows with better effect than ever. The best punch he used that night was his left hook, which he sent home backed up with tons of real stuff in it. He dropped the veteran cleanly in one of the early rounds and shook him up perceptibly later, writes Walter C. Kelly in the Buffalo Courier.

Considering that "Uncle Herman' is the most experienced and craftiest ring general in these parts, Goodrich is entitled to much credit for the skillful manner in which he got by the old pike pole and got home so many clean and snappy blows. I also noticed from a close-up view of the proceedings, that Goodrich got his right across to the jaw a few times as Herman started to lead. That was some accomplishment, for it is difficult to cross the right on a crafty ring general's lead.

Now that Goodrich has discovered that he can reach the most skillful of these junior lightweights, it behoves him to become more aggressive, and to send his full power into his favourite punches. It is all right to go along jabbing, hooking and crossing neatly for a portion of each round in order to pile up points, but change of pace, the asset that made such champions as Tommy Ryan and Bob Fitzsimmons famous, is necessary in the makings of a top-notcher. Goodrich should take more chances in order to demonstrate to the public that he is a fighter of sufficient hitting power to win fights in more decisive fashion. That Goodrich has it in him to win by kayos, there is not a shadow of a doubt. When a fellow can knock one good boy down, he can knock one out with the same blow delivered with more confidence and with correct propulsion. In order to bring curtains in a fight the would-be knocker-out must slow down a trifle and set, if only for an instant, in order to catch the other with full force as he comes in.

Australian racing circles are all worked up over the prospective meetings between the two great thoroughbreds of that country—Gloaming and Eurythmic—in the coming spring stakes, soon to be decided at Sydney. Advices from the latter city indicate that the race will prove the biggest betting affair in the history of the island domain.

Gloaming has a phenomenal record, and although Eurythmic leads him in respect to prize money, the Welkin gelding's record is actually the better, as out of 35 starts he has only been once unplaced, and that was no fault of his, as the barrier caught him and brought him down. He has won 31 races outright and has been second three times, while he has not been beaten since Poitrel downed him in the A. J. C. spring stakes of 1919, winning the last 17 races he has taken part in. Gloaming cost his owner 250 guineas as a yearling, and has since won in purses £22,703.

Like Gloaming, Eurythmic was a cheap yearling, Lee Steere getting him for 310 guineas, and, as everyone knows, his early racing was done in his owner's home state, Western Australia. He has only started three seasons, and, as he has already won a place in the list of noteworthy Australian horses, being below Carbine, Cetigne, and Poitrel, he appears to be more likely than the New Zealander to down Carbine's long-established record of £29,676. As an early two-year-old Eurythmic was ordinary; but he soon developed form, and accounted for the Karrakatta Plate and Sires' Produce Stakes, sharing with Eragoon the honour of being Western Australia's best youngster. He quickly demonstrated his worth as a three-year-old, as, besides winning Derby, St. Leger, and W. F. A. races, he dead-heated with Rivose in the Perth Cup.

THE KAWARTHA PARK REGATTA WAS ACCOUNTED FOR YESTERDAY

SPLENDID COMMUNITY SPIRIT SHOWN BY COTTAGERS—THE TEST OF EVENTS.

KAWARTHA PARK, Aug. 2. — The annual regatta of the Kawartha Park Cottagers' Association was held yesterday at Kawartha Park and was an unqualified success. As one of the pioneers of Kawartha said, "It was the best regatta on these waters.

There were no hitches in the arrangements and the events followed one another smoothly, which added greatly to the enjoyment of the large crowd of spectators, which numbered between four and five hundred.

There was no lack of interest and the splendid community spirit shown by the cottagers helped to make August first a red letter day in the annals of Stoney Lake. There were plenty of entries for every event, which increased the interest in some events no less than ten entering.

Rev. (Dr.) J. H. Edmison, president of the Kawartha Park Cottagers's Association, presented the prizes at the concert in the evening.

The Concert.

The concert was short, as the young people were eagerly awaiting the opening of the dance, which to them, at least, constituted the real entertainment. The programme of the concert was exceptionally good, as the talent was of a high order. The following contributed to it: Mrs. Blackmore, Misses Morphet, Miss Evelyn Graham and Miss Pearl Brock and also Miss Hazel Davidson.

Dr. Edmison made a few remarks, expressing on behalf of the cottagers, great satisfaction with the day. Everyone did their bit and the result was the best regatta Kawartha Park has ever known and their regattas have a reputation for "pep" all over the Kawartha lakes. Mr. Charlton's new dance hall was much admired and appreciated and his enterprise commended by one and all, as having filled a real need of the community.

The weather man did his best for the occasion, as the weather was ideal and the verdict of the spectators is the wish "many happy returns of the day."

COMPARING TWO SPORTING STARS.

Does Carpentier or Mlle. Lenglen Excel in Skill?

Some earnest searcher for an unimportant truth has a query to advance. Possibly a bet to settle. He wants to know whether Carpentier as a boxer is as far advanced or as skilful as Mlle. Lenglen is as a tennis-player.

There is very little to this debate. Mlle. Lenglen is far more of a sensational product.

Carpentier is merely good. The other is unusually excellent.

Carpentier as a heavyweight has many weak spots. He isn't rugged, he is'nt especially powerful, he has only a fair left and he isn't built to take a lot. He is a good long, range boxer, but not a great one, up and down the line. As an infighter he is only fair.

Against which Mlle Lenglen is the nonpareil of her league, a phenomenal product with hardly a deficit that one could hold against her.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

"Someone in the House," presented at the Capitol Theatre for the first three days of this week, was received with a crowded house last night. It is an interesting and thrilling story of a modern Raffles, and Edmund Lowe does some good work as "The Dancer," the crook who baffles the brightest lights of New York's detective department. He is a high-class thief, and most of the scenes are staged in the home of the millionaire, Percy Glendinning, whose fad for amateur theatricals gives "The Dancer" his chance to appropriate the famous diamond necklace of Molly Brent. Vola Vale enacts Molly, and brings the picture to a happy but rather surprising ending. Altogether, this is an entertaining portrayal of the world of polite crookdom, with a fat policeman to add a little comedy touch.

Percy and Ferdie in "High and Dry," a Prohibition scream, and a Mack Sennett comedy, "Astray from the Steerage," provide something new and funny in the laughing line, and the serial, "The Avenging Arrow," offers a thrilling episode.

The new Capitol Orchestra, which performed for the first time last evening, under the leadership of Mrs. J. Foster, is better and brighter than ever. The overture from "Raymond" was accorded loud applause, and the different charming selections rendered throughout the evening were most welcome after the gap in the musical programme which has been so noticeable during the last two or three weeks. Two selections from "The Golden Girl" and from "Mary," the "March Slave,' 'and tuneful renditions of popular music, were among the numbers which delighted the Capitol audience last evening.

PORT HOPE TEAM HAS VISION OF WINNING SECOND HALF OF RACE

WILL BE FULL OF FIGHT IN GAME WITH PETES TO-MORROW EVENING AT RIVERSIDE PARK—FIXTURE PROMISES TO BE MOST INTERESTING OF SEASON.

To-morrow's Central Ontario League game at Riverside Park between Port Hope and Peterborough, the opening home game in the second half of the League race, has been called for 5.30 o'clock as the hour most convenient for the majority of fans. It promises to be a scrappy affair, for the Ontarios, intoxicated by the unexpected sensation of leading the league, have actually been entertaining visions of staying there for the balance of the season, while the Petes of course, have to win to-morrow night's fixture to have much hope of figuring in the play-off at the end of the schedule. The Port Hopers were badly beaten the last time here, but their team has been re-organized since and they have won three out of their last four games, beating Peterborough, Cobourg and Lindsay, and they will be out there to-morrow night with every man doing his best to beat the Petes. The two teams are on the same friendly terms as Lloyd George and Northcliffe and the game should be numbered among the most interesting of the season.

MIKE GIBBONS TO FIGHT FOR TITLE IF HE WINS NOW.

To Challenge Wilson If He Beats Ratner To-Night.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press.)— Should Mike Gibbons, of St. Paul, who recently returned to the boxing game, defeat Augie Ratner here to-night he will seek a match with Johnny Wilson for the middleweight championship.

IN GOLF STICK TO REGULATIONS

Not Good Sport to Keep Opponent Waiting.

In the recent open golf championship in the United States something like sixty entries were admitted after entry day had passed.

At least one prominent golfer had his starting time switched after the draw.

The only procedure in this case that will check all criticism is to have the regulations in the case followed strictly. Last fall in the amateur championship two well-known golfers kept their opponents waiting something like an hour. In all championship the limit should be fifteen minutes unless the late arriving contestant can submit a worthy excuse in writing. Keping an opponent waiting may be shew tactics, but it isn't any part sportsmanship as those guilty of such acts bally well know.

FOOTBALL MEETING

REMEMBERED CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY

The late Henry Edwards, who resided with his brother Samuel, on the Warsaw road, near the canal, has remembered the Children's Aid Society in his will, leaving them $100. This is only another evidence of Mr. Edwards' interest in this society and all good causes where sympathy and money could assist in the work.

Mrs. Etta A. Travers, of London, has also sent the Society a donation of $25 to assist in the work, which is very much appreciated, coming from an old resident of Peterborough, who was an active worker in all good causes when here.

YANKS DO WELL WITH RAW FORCE.

Times When Strategy and Tactics Fail.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Griffith, Stalings, Chase, Chance, Wolverton Donovan and Huggins are a few of the managers, who have attempted to carry the New York Yankees to the peak in the last two decades. Griff came closer than any of the others, but couldn't quite make the grade. Whereupon the two highly wrought owners, Colonels Jake Ruppert and Til Huston, decided to round up enough talent to win out no matter what happened. If the Yankees can't win this season we don't see just what they are going to do about it. They have enough talent scattered around to win a pennant and two additional yards of cheese cloth tossed in. There are times when strategy and tactics fail that it is just as well to fall back on old fashioned power and raw, untamed force. The Yanks of late have done very well with this ingredient. Perhaps they have discovered that the time for 'fighting 'em clever" has passed.

ASTRONOMICAL PHENOMENON HAILED AS OMEN OF VICTORY

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 30.—The occultation of Venus with the crescent moon, which was seen here at full moon on July 2 was hailed by the Turks as a good omen in their campaign against the Greeks, for the crescent moon, with a star between the horns, has been used by the Ottoman Turks as their military and religious emblem since the 13th century.

The crescent itself has played a conspicuous part in the history of that part of the world for over 2,000 years. It was made the badge of Ryzantium in 339 B.C. when the sudden appearance of a crescent moon revealed the approach of a Macedonian army.

AID OF ROCKEFELLER DENIES HE WILL WED

NEW YORK, July 30.—An astounding report that John D. Rockefeller, Sr., the world's richest man, is contemplating matrimony, when spread through high financial and social circles, was denied by the old king's Secretary at his Tarrytown estate.

When the report was told the Secretary she said: 'That is perfect nonsense. Mr. Rockefeller is all right. If you want to find out more call up No. 26 Broadway."

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was reported "in the country," but his Secretary said he had not heard that Rockefeller was to marry and that the report was too filmsy to warrant calling the oil king's son in reference to it.

CATCH TWO IN CHASE; SAVE $2,500 IN RINGS

Jeweler Fires Pistol as Negro Thieves Flee in Sixth Avenue.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Quick action by Barnett Nemets, a jeweler at 680 Sixth avenue, corner of Thirty-ninth street, and Patrolmen Carey and Kelly of the West Thirtieth Street Station, yesterday afternoon, resulted in the capture of two hold-up men and the recovery of $2,500 worth of rings.

Madison Johnson, 30 years old, of 14 West 131st street, and James Dickerson, 25, who says he has no home, both negroes, entered the store about 3.30 and asked to see two rings.

"We picked up $3,000 on the races, Mr. Proprietor," Jonnson is reported to have said, "and we seeks to leave it here. I want a ring for my wife and my friend wants a nice ring for his sweetheart."

Nemets produced two rings set with diamonds, and the men demanded a magnifying glass. Nemets said that he was suspicious of these would-be purchasers, and instead of getting his glass he seized his revolver under the showcase and straightened up in time to see the negroes running out the door with the rings.

"I ran after them, shouting and firing my gun in the air." Nemets said, "and they can around the corner east into Thirty-ninth street."

Patrolman Carey was standing across the avenue from the store when the shots were fired. Drawing his revolver, he fired into the air and pursued the hold-up men, who ran almost into the arms of Patrolman Kelly. Kelly grappled with the robbers, but one got away, only to be seized by Carey after a chase. The two negroes were held in Thirtieth Street Station, charged with grand larceny.

RAILWAY WAGE CUTS COMPLETE

PROGRAM MOOTED IN JUNE FINISHED WITH ASSESSMENT AGAINST CLERICAL STAFFS.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

MONTREAL, Aug. 2.—Wage reductions to be assessed against the clerical staffs of the Canadian railways in conformity with the general reduction made effective July 16 have been worked out. Clerks and all those coming under that general classification will be reduced by $12.24 per month and those classified as office boys by $10.20. It is stated that approximately 35,000 workers will be affected by these two changes.

The reductions have not been made on a flat basis of 12 per cent., but have followed the same practice as was adopted when the upward revisions were made under the McAdoo and United States Railroad Labor Board award with the result that an equal reduction in dollars and cents and not in percentage has been ordered. Notification of the new rates of pay has been forwarded to those affected. Announcement of the detailed reduction of clerical forces complete the whole programme of tentative wage changes first mooted in June. They will remain in effect, the railways state, pending final negotiations or arbitration on working and wage conditions between the companies and their employes. Such negotiations or arbitration may be taken up individually by each branch of labor and no final agreement is anticipated until well along next fall.

VOL. XLIX., No. 28 — PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 3, 1921 — PRICE THREE CENTS

DEMOBILIZING BY SINN FEIN REVIVES HOPE

THIS STEP CONSIDERED FURTHER INDICATION THAT PEACE TERMS PRACTICALLY AGREED ON IN SECRET.

DAIL EIREANN APPROVE ANY STAND OF LEADER

(By United Press).

LONDON, Aug. 3. — The Irish Republican Army has virtually been demobilized, it was learned here to-day.

This was considered a further indication that the peace terms between the Sinn Fein and the British Government have been practically agreed upon in secret, and that only a formal announcement remains to be made.

It is expected that the Sinn Fein Parliament will approve any terms satisfactory to President De Valera and other leaders. The British Parliament is still "in the dark" as to the peace negotiations to-day. The Cabinet refused to divulge the terms to the Commons, even in a secret session.

DUBLIN, August 3. (Canadian Press.) — The reason for the delay in the Sinn Feins reply to government's Irish peace proposal, it is authoritatively stated, is the attempt being made to secure the adhesion of Ulster to the peace plan before returning to the negotiations with Lloyd George, so he could be met by a united Ireland.

BY ED. L. KEEN,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Aug. 3.—I am informed from a most authoritative source that the De Valera Cabinet and the Dail Eirrean have decided, with immaterial changes, to accept Premier Lloyd George's peace proposals as a basis of discussion. The lobby correspondent of the Daily Sketch wrote to-day: "It is expected that the full body of the Dail Eireann will endorse the Cabinet's decision. The most difficult step now is to get De Valera and Craig together.

THINKS GOVERNMENT WOULD RE-CONSIDER CANTEEN FUND ACT

WINNIPEG M. P. FAVORS USING FUND FOR RELIEFOF DISTRESS.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press).—The Dominion Government would reconsider the composition of a board which would administer the balance of the Overseas Canteen Fund allocated to Canada, Dr. R. N. Blake, M.P. for North Winnipeg, stated at a meeting of veterans here yesterday.

He thought the two million should be invested and interest used to relieve distress in the first instance. Later the interest could be utilized for the creation of annuities. He strongly disapproved of the money being distributed by grants to individual organizations.

LEADING PAPERMAN OPPOSES IMPERIAL WIRELESS SERVICE

SHOULD BE PUT IN THE HANDS OF INDEPENDENT NEWS AGENCY.

LONDON, Aug. 3. — (Canadian Press.)—Robert Donald, well known British journalist, writing in the Times, says as other countries are using wireless largely for propaganda purposes, we should do the same. As newspapermen instinctively suppress news selected for them by a government department, he suggests that the selection of a wireless news service to foreign countries be handed over to an independent news agency.

"Society Walk" Is Latest Dance

(By United Press).

NEW YORK, Aug. 3. — To get away from the evil of indecent dancing, the National Association of Dancing Teachers, assembled in convention here from every section of the United States, has decided to inaugurate a new reformation dance, "The Society Walk."

"We have found a dance that cannot be done indecently," L. P. Christensen, Salt Lake City, told the United Press here to-day. He is chairman of the Normal School Committee of Dancing Masters.

"There is no such thing as an immoral dance," he said. "There are immoral people who dance immorally, but that does not make the dance immoral. If a girl chewed her gum immorally—and she can—you wouldn't call it immoral chewing gum. And yet some people use the expression, 'an immoral dance.'

"'The Society Walk'—the latest creation which will not be officially sanctioned until the end of our convention—embodies all the spirit of youthful exertion and enforces the law of decency.

"The spirit of the dance is a spirit of play and the urge of self-expression, and therefore of the law of health and happiness, made useful by control of rhythm and purpose. This new dance, 'The Society Walk,' is simply that. Some people might call it 'putting on the dog.' You merely step around with an agitated, over-joyed happiness, using the old step, but for a new expression, you smile and radiate happiness—you don't look mean and wiggle your hips. Some people might call it a sissy walk.

"The shimmy and the Chicago and all these body gesticulations were never dances. The clever boys never did fun. There is a place for everything.

"A ball-room floor is no wrestling mat and no place for lovers to spoon in arms.

"If a man wants to do a little loving, he can't dance, but he can't love and do this new dance.

"The shimmy and the toddle are dead."

NORTH OXFORD BATTLE TO SEE THREE IN FRAY

LIBERALS AND CONSERVATIVES BOTH PLAN TO CONTEST RIDING AGAINST CANDIDATE OF DRURY GOVERNMENT.

FARMERS ARE PLANNING A VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN

(Special Despatch to the Examiner.)

WOODSTOCK, August 3. — The three leading politial parties in North Oxford are now beginning to take serious stock of the situation, in view of the coming by-election for the vacant seat in the Legislature. There is only one certainty, and that is that there is a contest, at least there will be a three cornered one.

The conservatives are looking around for a suitable candidate and the choice seems to lie between Alderman Homer B. Neeley, barrister of Woodstock, and E. A. Rea, a Woodstock druggist, and the president of the local Board of Trade. Mr. Neely is the head of the present Conservative organization, and is named as the most likely candidate.

In Liberal circles the name of Mr. George F. Mahon is most frequently mentioned and he is sure to seek the nomination when a convention is held. Dr. Sinclair and ex-Mayor J. A. Gahagan are also probable starters in the Liberal field.

Things are stirring up in the U. F. O. campaign. Preparations are being made for a visit to the riding of J. K. Morrison and Hon. Manning Doherty, with a view to arranging for a convention. W. E. Thompson is the latest addition to the list of possibilities for the U.F.O. nomination, and there is sure to be keen competition when the convention is held.

LORDS DESERT RACES TO FIGHT MOTION TO GET EXTRA SESSION

MALCONTENT PEERS OBJECT TO HEAVY VOLUME OF BUSINESS.

LONDON, Aug. 3. — (Canadian Press.)— Many of the members of the House of Lords had to forsake the yacht racing at Cowes to assist the government to resist a motion by a body of mal-content peers led by the Marquis of Crewe, designed to force an autumn session of the British Parliament. The motion embodied an ancient grievance against the government in throwing so much legislation upon the House of Lords in the closing days of the session. It was only defeated by twenty-five.

M'FADDEN AND HOTRUM GO TO THEIR DEATHS

HANGED AT NINE THIS MORNING FOR MURDER OF SABINE—BOTH SHOWED COOLNESS UNTIL VERY LAST.

HOTRUM SMILED BEFORE HE WAS LED FROM CELL

(Special Despatch to the Examiner.)

TORONTO, August 3. — Roy Hotrum and William McFadden were hanged at the jail at nine o'clock this morning for the shooting of Leonard C. Sabine, in March last. No statement, no confession, and, in fact, no word was spoken by either men before the hanging. They both walked to their death with the utmost coolness, while Hotrum appeared to smile before he left the death cell. Executioner Ellis carried out the double hanging in less than four minutes.

Executioner Ellis went first to the cell of McFadden, where McFadden was standing awaiting his arrival. He made no move nor spoke while the pinion straps were placed, fastening his hands behind his back. Chaplain Brydges, Major Basher and and other officials stood nearby. As soon as the straps were placed, Ellis doubled across the short space from McFadden's cell to Hotrums cell.

Hotrum, in the light thrown into his cell through two windows, stood with his feet far apart, his arms swinging at his sides, as a man would brace himself to withstand a blow. He was pale but he appeared to smile. It was a smile. He stood there momentarily. The cell door was opened and then Hotrum walked forward just outside the door. He turned. Governor Basher stood in front of him, patted Hotrum on the shoulder, with the words: "Be brave my boy." Hotrum again smiled. Chaplain Brydges led the procession at a brisk walk, followed by the Governor and the jail physician, Dr. Parry. Four or five curious sheriff's officers were in the party.

As Hotrum turned along the corridor, McFadden had, at a well timed interval, marched from his cell to the door. Hotrum 1-ll in two paces behind, and the two men who had each blamed the other for the shooting of Sabine, commenced their walk to the death chamber, hands strapped but only a step apart. Guards walked on both sides.

They turned into the death chamber, stepped on the trap, but did not face each other. Straps were quickly fastened about their ankles by Ellis. Hotrum faced east and McFadden west, with their backs about three feet apart. Black caps covered their heads. Chaplain Brydges commenced the Lord's Prayer, and he had hardly said the first words, when Executioner Ellis sprung the trap. Not a word was uttered by either of the men.

The bodies were cut down by Executioner Ellis in less than ten minutes, and death was pronounced instantaneous by Dr. Parry.

PROTECTIONISTS IN U. S. TO URGE KEEPING WALL UP

BILL TO MARKET FARM SURPLUS ABROAD LIKELY TO PASS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press.)—Passage is assured of the bill now before the Senate to enable the War Finance Corporation with a billion and a half capital and credit to promote the exportation of surplus agricultural products.

The belief here is this legislation, plus power export rates on agricultural products which the railroads are granting, will mean a large movement of agricultural products to Europe with a tendency to higher prices here.

High tariff advocates will urge it is more than ever necessary to keep up the high level of agricultural duties against Canada lest Canadian wheat and other products enter here and counteract the effect of the new measure on farmers' prices.

ALL-PULLMAN TRAIN WRECKED; SAYS RAILS WERE TAMPERED WITH THREE INJURED IN SMASH ON MICHIGAN CENTRAL.

DETROIT, Aug. 3. — (Canadian Press).—The Michigan Central officials are convinced that the wreck of the all-Pullman train yesterday near Inkster was the result of deliberate tampering with the rails, and have offered rewards for the arrest of the guilty parties. Three persons were slightly injured.

Chicago and Paris Split

SKIRTS NOT MORE THAN SIX INCHES FROM GROUND, PARIS MODISTES DECREE, AFTER CHICAGO'S DECISION TO KEEP 'EM UP.

(By United Press).

PARIS, Aug. 3.—Paris to-day closed the period of revelation in feminine apparel and introduced the era of concealment.

Parisian styles, confidently believed to be the final word in the matter of clothes, provide that:

Skirts shall be no more than six inches from the ground.

Collars shall be high.

Arms shall be covered.

The lines shall be long, loose and straight.

These commandments, handed down by almost unanimous decision of France's celebrated modistes, were exemplified at the annual fall opening of exclusive establishments.

There was one exception to the general rule. That was a gown with a tight corsage, and panier skirts, intended to be constructed in light colors, the whole effect to be one of youth and innocence. BY CARL D. GROAT,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Twenty million persons were threatened with death by famine, while the British government and American government are vaguely offering assistance under insiduous terms which are meant to be the death blow of Sovietism, according to a Moscow wireless pickeded up here. It appealed to the workers of the world to assist starving Russia. This manifesto was issued by the Third Internationale and signed by radicals of twenty-one different nationalities. It urged orders to prevent thier governments from taking advantage of Russia's distress to over throw the Soviets.

According to despatches received here from Moscow, the Anti-Soviet element in Russia is seizing this opportunity to attempt a coup. One group of counter revolutionaries, said to be backed by French capital, conspired to start a revolt. But the plot was discovered and frustrated, these despatches said. There were no details as to the fate of the plotters.

A despatch from Budapest reported agents of General Wrangel, who unsuccessfully attacked the Bolsheviki last year, were busy there trying to get backing for a new attempt to capture Moscow.

BERLIN, Aug. 3. — Flames are sweeping the famine and plague-ridden districts in Siberia, according to reports received here to-day. These reports were the first indication that the famine had spread to Siberia. Fires broke out in the sun-dried fields and swept over thousands of acres, huge clouds of smoke obscuring the heavens and adding to the despair of the hungry refugees.

A despatch received here to-day from Riga, quoted U. S. Senator Joseph I. France, of Maryland, who has just emerged from Moscow, as saying that famine conditions in Russia were unparalleled, but that the power of the Soviet government was not killed." He was surprised at the ability of Soviet officials to maintain their organization.

LONDON, Aug. 3. — (Canadian Press.)— Famine conditions in the Volag provinces of Russia are very serious, George Chitcherin, Bolshevik Minister of Foreign Affairs, declared, according to a Vienna despatch, although "some of the frightful tales circulated throughout Western Europe emanate from the imagination of journalists and should be received with reserve. The foreign capitalistic press is exaggerating the facts to suit its own purpose." The Petrograd region is said not to be seriously affected by the food shortage.

Mourners For Caruso Throng Naples Streets

CABLEGRAMS OF CONDOLENCE REACH WIDOW FROM BOTH HEMISPHERES—POLICE NECESSARY TO CONTROL THRONGS.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

NAPLES, Aug. 3.—Mourners for Enrico Caruso thronged the streets about the hotel where his body lay to-day, and paced slowly past the Church of Santa Maria Graci, where his funeral mass will be held.

Every hour appeared to intensify the grief of the world at the death of its most celebrated singer. Cablegrams of condolence came to the widow, formerly Miss Dorothy Park Benjamin, of New York, from both heimspheres. Included among them were officials messages of sympathy from the Royal Palace and Italian Government.

Police lines were established before the hotel to control the throngs which stood for hours bareheaded, gazing silently at the white walls of the edifice in which their beloved Caruso's heart has ceased to beat.

APPOINTING OF GREENFIFLD IS NOT "BRITISH"

HON. GEORGE LANGLEY, IN STATEMENT, SAYS IT IS A DEPARTURE FROM REPRESENTATIVE GOVERNMENT.

MUCH SPECULATION AS TO ITS SIGNIFICANCE

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 3. — A statement made by Hon. George Langley, Minister of Municipal Affairs, in which he refers to Premier Greenfield of Alberta "as a loyal henchman of Mr. Wood," is causing much comment and speculation as to its significance. Mr. Langley is one of the leaders of the farmers in Saskatchewan, but he attacks the system of brother farmers in Alberta in selecting a Premier as "Unbritish."

Here is what Mr. Langley says: "Mr. Greenfield, as far as I know him, is one of the most loyal henchmen that Mr. Wood has in the United Farmers of Alberta. He is the only man with whom I am personally acquainted, who will be quite willing to act as Prime Minister of the Province, subject at all times to the direction of Mr. Wood. Unless Mr. Greenfield belies all his professions in the past, he will be a Prime Minister, not representing the electors that chose the majority in the Legislature, but representing the organization of United Farmers who accept the dictation of Mr. Wood.

"It is an entirely new departure in Government which has not previously existed, so far as I know, in any portion of the British Empire. It is a system of government, good or otherwise, that in its fundamental basis, is un-British, and it will represent the abrogation of representative government in the sister province."

Mr. Langley says he wants to be understood that he is not "detracting in any way from the ability of the new Premier," and regrets that Mr. Wood, "the man in authority, refused to accept the responsibility that should properly go with authority."

The Saskatchewan farmer and member of the Government then says: "I am not prepared for one minute to admit that the British institution of representative government is worn out, or can be with advantage displaced by a system which admits of all the defects of the ward boss regime with which we have been made acquainted in the policies of our neighbors to the south."

MARTINLI TO SUCCEED DEAD TENOR CARUSO

ACCORDING TO AUTHORITATIVE INFORMATION FROM MILAN HE WILL TAKE CARUSO'S POSITION AT METROPOLITAN.

"HIS VOICE WILL RA K WITH ANGELO'S BRUSH"

LONDON, Aug. 3. — (United Press).—Giovanni Martineli, a lyric tenor, will succeed Enrico Caruso at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, according to an authoritative despatch from Milan to The Daily News today.

LONDON, Aug. 3. — (United Press).—"Enrico Caruso was the great singer of our time. The world is the poorer because of his death," The Daily Mail said today. This was characteristic of the comment in all London newspapers.

"Few great singers have enjoyed such unchallenged supremacy," said The Chronicle. "Nature gave him a miracle voice, which art perfected."

"In a less crowded and feverish time his loss would have been mourned as a world calamity." The Daily Express said. "His golden voice will rank in the history of art with Michael Angelo's brush.

Naples' Last Tribute.

(By CAMILLO CIANFARRA, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NAPLES, Aug. 3.—Hundreds viewed Caruso's body as it lay in state today. The mourners, representative of all classes, tip toed past the bier in a long line.

The widow was reported to be bearing up well under the shock. She probably will return to New York soon after the funeral.

Naples and all Italy was in deepest mourning today. Flags were at half mast and many buildings draped in black crepe. Business was virtually suspended.

The Press devoted columns to Caruso, praising his voice and personality, and emphasizing the role he played in the development of the opera in North America. There were editorials expressing sympathy with the widow.

The church where the funeral was to be held was crowded hours before the time set for the ceremonies to start. Over all was an atmosphere of sadness as if a personal bereavement had been suffered. Many wept as, sitting in the dim light that came through the stained glass windows and listening to the sombre tones of the great organ, they waited for all that is mortal of Caruso to be borne into the chancel.

The streets through which the cortege was to move were packed with mourners, the police having difficulty in keeping open a passage through which the procession could move. Shutters were closed and doors barred along the route.

DEMOBILIZING BY SINN FEIN REVIVES HOPE

THIS STEP CONSIDERED FURTHER INDICATION THAT PEACE TERMS PRACTICALLY AGREED ON IN SECRET.

DAIL EIREANN APPROVE ANY STAND OF LEADER

(By United Press).

LONDON, Aug. 3. — The Irish Republican Army has virtually been demobilized, it was learned here to-day.

This was considered a further indication that the peace terms between the Sinn Fein and the British Government have been practically agreed upon in secret, and that only a formal announcement remains to be made.

It is expected that the Sinn Fein Parliament will approve any terms satisfactory to President De Valera and other leaders. The British Parliament is still "in the dark" as to the peace negotiations to-day. The Cabinet refused to divulge the terms to the Commons, even in a secret session.

DUBLIN, August 3. (Canadian Press.) — The reason for the delay in the Sinn Feins reply to government's Irish peace proposal, it is authoritatively stated, is the attempt being made to secure the adhesion of Ulster to the peace plan before returning to the negotiations with Lloyd George, so he could be met by a united Ireland.

BY ED. L. KEEN,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Aug. 3.—I am informed from a most authoritative source that the De Valera Cabinet and the Dail Eirean have decided, with immaterial changes, to accept Premier Lloyd George's peace proposals as a basis of discussion. The lobby correspondent of the Daily Sketch wrote to-day: "It is expected that the full body of the Dail Eireann will endorse the Cabinet's decision. The most difficult step now is to get De Valera and Craig together.

THINKS GOVERNMENT WOULD RE-CONSIDER CANTEEN FUND ACT

WINNIPEG M. P. FAVORS USING FUND FOR RELIEFOF DISTRESS.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press).—The Dominion Government would reconsider the composition of a board which would administer the balance of the Overseas Canteen Fund allocated to Canada, Dr. R. N. Blake, M.P. for North Winnipeg, stated at a meeting of veterans here yesterday.

He thought the two million should be invested and interest used to relieve distress in the first instance. Later the interest could be utilized for the creation of annuities. He strongly disapproved of the money being distributed by grants to individual organizations.

LONDON, Aug. 3. — (Canadian Press.)—Robert Donald, well known British journalist, writing in the Times, says as other countries are using wireless largely for propaganda purposes, we should do the same. As newspapermen instinctively suppress news selected for them by a government department, he suggests that the selection of a wireless news service to foreign countries be handed over to an independent news agency.

"Society Walk" Is Latest Dance

(By United Press).

NEW YORK, Aug. 3. — To get away from the evil of indecent dancing, the National Association of Dancing Teachers, assembled in convention here from every section of the United States, has decided to inaugurate a new reformation dance, "The Society Walk."

"We have found a dance that can not be done indecently," L. P. Christensen, Salt Lake City, told the United Press here to-day. He is chairman of the Normal School Committee of Dancing Masters.

"There is no such thing as an immoral dance," he said. "There are immoral people who dance immorally, but that does not make the dance immoral. If a girl chewed her gum immorally—and she can—you wouldn't call it immoral chewing gum. And yet some people use the expression, 'an immoral dance.'

"'The Society Walk' — the latest creation which will not be officially sanctioned until the end of our convention—embodies all the spirit of youthful exertion and enforces the law of decency.

"The spirit of the dance is a spirit of play and the urge of self-expression, and therefore of the law of health and happiness, made useful by control of rhythm and purpose. This new dance, 'The Society Walk,' is simply that. Some people might call it 'putting on the dog.' You merely step around with an agitated, over-joyed happiness, using the old step, but for a new expression, you smile and radiate happiness — you don't look mean and wiggle your hips. Some people might call it a sissy walk.

"The shimmy and the Chicago and all these body gesticulations were never dances. The clever boys never did fun. There is a place for everything.

"A ball-room floor is no wrestling mat and no place for lovers to spoon in arms.

"If a man wants to do a little loving, he can't dance, but he can't love and do this new dance.

"The shimmy and the toddle are dead."

NORTH OXFORD BATTLE TO SEE THREE IN FRAY

LIBERALS AND CONSERVATIVES BOTH PLAN TO CONTEST RIDING AGAINST CANDIDATE OF DRURY GOVERNMENT.

FARMERS ARE PLANNING A VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN

(Special Despatch to the Examiner.)

WOODSTOCK, August 3. — The three leading politial parties in North Oxford are now beginning to take serious stock of the situation, in view of the coming by-election for the vacant seat in the Legislature. There is only one certainty, and that is that there is a contest, at least there will be a three cornered one.

The conservatives are looking around for a suitable candidate and the choice seems to lie between Alderman Homer B. Neeley, barrister of Woodstock, and E. A. Rea, a Woodstock druggist, and the president of the local Board of Trade. Mr. Neely is the head of the present Conservative organization, and is named as the most likely candidate.

In Liberal circles the name of Mr. George F. Mahon is most frequently mentioned and he is sure to seek the nomination when a convention is held. Dr. Sinclair and ex-Mayor J. A. Gahagan are also probable starters in the Liberal field.

Things are stirring up in the U. F. O. campaign. Preparations are being made for a visit to the riding of J. K. Morrison and Hon. Manning Doherty, with a view to arranging for a convention. W. E. Thompson is the latest addition to the list of possibilities for the U.F.O. nomination, and there is sure to be keen competition when the convention is held.

LORDS DESERT RACES TO FIGHT MOTION TO GET EXTRA SESSION

MALCONTENT PEERS OBJECT TO HEAVY VOLUME OF BUSINESS.

LONDON, Aug. 3. — (Canadian Press.)— Many of the members of the House of Lords had to forsake the yacht racing at Cowes to assist the government to resist a motion by a body of mal-content peers, led by the Marquis of Crewe, designed to force an autumn session of the British Parliament. The motion embodied an ancient grievance against the government in throwing so much legislation upon the House of Lords in the closing days of the session. It was only defeated by twenty-five.

M'FADDEN AND HOTRUM GO TO THEIR DEATHS

HANGED AT NINE THIS MORNING FOR MURDER OF SABINE—BOTH SHOWED COOLNESS UNTIL VERY LAST.

HOTRUM SMILED BEFORE HE WAS LED FROM CELL

(Special Despatch to the Examiner.)

TORONTO, August 3. — Roy Hotrum and William McFadden were hanged at the jail at nine o'clock this morning for the shooting of Leonard C. Sabine, in March last. No statement, no confession, and, in fact, no word was spoken by either men before the hanging. They both walked to their death with the utmost coolness, while Hotrum appeared to smile before he left the death cell. Executioner Ellis carried out the double hanging in less than four minutes.

Executioner Ellis went first to the cell of McFadden, where McFadden was standing awaiting his arrival. He made no move nor spoke while the pinion straps were placed, fastening his hands behind his back.

Chaplain Brydges, Major Basher and and other officials stood nearby. As soon as the straps were placed, Ellis doubled across the short space from McFadden's cell to Hotrums cell.

Hotrum, in the light thrown into his cell through two windows, stood with his feet far apart, his arms swinging at his sides, as a man would brace himself to withstand a blow. He was pale but he appeared to smile. It was a smile. He stood there momentarily. The cell door was opened and then Hotrum walked forward just outside the door. He turned. Governor Basher stood in front of him, patted Hotrum on the shoulder, with the words: "Be brave my boy." Hotrum again smiled. Chaplain Brydges led the procession at a brisk walk, followed by the Governor and the jail physician, Dr. Parry. Four or five curious sheriff's officers were in the party.

As Hotrum turned along the corridor, McFadden had, at a well timed interval, marched from his cell to the door. Hotrum and the two men who had each blamed the other for the shooting of Sabine, commenced their walk to the death chamber, hands strapped but only a step apart. Guards walked on both sides.

They turned into the death chamber, stepped on the trap, but did not face each other. Straps were quickly fastened about their ankles by Ellis. Hotrum faced east and McFadden west, with their backs about three feet apart. Black caps covered their heads. Chaplain Brydges commenced the Lord's Prayer, and he had hardly said the first words, when Executioner Ellis sprung the trap. Not a word was uttered by either of the men.

The bodies were cut down by Executioner Ellis in less than ten minutes, and death was pronounced instantaneous by Dr. Parry.

PROTECTIONISTS IN U. S. TO URGE KEEPING WALL UP

BILL TO MARKET FARM SURPLUS ABROAD LIKELY TO PASS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press.)—Passage is assured of the bill now before the Senate to enable the War Finance Corporation with a billion and a half capital and credit to promote the exportation of surplus agricultural products.

The belief here is this legislation, plus power export rates on agricultural products which the railroads are granting, will mean a large movement of agricultural products to Europe with a tendency to higher prices here.

High tariff advocates will urge it is more than ever necessary to keep up the high level of agricultural duties against Canada lest Canadian wheat and other products enter here and counteract the effect of the new measure on farmers' prices.

Three persons were slightly injured.

Chicago and Paris Split

SKIRTS NOT MORE THAN SIX INCHES FROM GROUND, PARIS MODISTES DECREE, AFTER CHICAGO'S DECISION TO KEEP 'EM UP.

(By United Press).

PARIS, Aug. 3.—Paris to-day closed the period of revelation in feminine apparel and introduced the era of concealment.

Parisian styles, confidently believed to be the final word in the matter of clothes, provide that:

Skirts shall be no more than six inches from the ground.

Collars shall be high.

Arms shall be covered.

The lines shall be long, loose and straight.

These commandments, handed down by almost unanimous decision of France's celebrated modistes, were exemplified at the annual fall opening of exclusive establishments.

There was one exception to the general rule. That was a gown with a tight corsage, and panier skirts, intended to be constructed in light colors, the whole effect to be one of youth and innocence. Otherwise the shows indicated a complete reversal of former times. Even colors were suppressed as pretty mannequines minced demurely across the stages before admiring matrons and hopeful men.

Black, grey, tan, khaki and all shades of brown with only an occasional flash of color at the collar or belt, were the prevailing colors.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 3. — A statement made by Hon. George Langley, Minister of Municipal Affairs, in which he refers to Premier Greenfield of Alberta "as a loyal henchman of Mr. Wood," is causing much comment and speculation as to its significance. Mr. Langley is one of the leaders of the farmers in Saskatchewan, but he attacks the system of brother farmers in Alberta in selecting a Premier as "Unbritish."

Here is what Mr. Langley says: "Mr. Greenfield, as far as I know him, is one of the most loyal henchmen that Mr. Wood has in the United Farmers of Alberta. He is the only man with whom I am personally acquainted, who will be quite willing to act as Prime Minister of the Province, subject at all times to the direction of Mr. Wood. Unless Mr. Greenfield belies all his professions in the past, he will be a Prime Minister, not representing the electors that chose the majority in the Legislature, but representing the organization of United Farmers who accept the dictation of Mr. Wood.

"It is an entirely new departure in Government which has not previously existed; so far as I know, in any portion of the British Empire. It is a system of government, good or otherwise, that in its fundamental basis, is un-British, and it will represent the abrogation of representative government in the sister province."

Mr. Langley says he wants to be understood that he is not "detracting in any way from the ability of the new Premier," and regrets that Mr. Wood, "the man in authority, refused to accept the responsibility that should properly go with authority."

The Saskatchewan farmer and member of the Government then says: "I am not prepared for one minute to admit that the British institution of representative government is worn out, or can be with advantage displaced by a system which admits of all the defects of the ward boss regime with which we have been made acquainted in the policies of our neighbors to the south."

MARTINLI TO SUCCEED DEAD TENOR CARUSO

ACCORDING TO AUTHORITATIVE INFORMATION FROM MILAN HE WILL TAKE CARUSO'S POSITION AT METROPOLITAN.

"HIS VOICE WILL RA K WITH ANGELO'S BRUSH"

LONDON, Aug. 3. — (United Press).—Giovanni Martineli, a lyric tenor, will succeed Enrico Caruso at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, according to an authoritative despatch from Milan to The Daily News today.

LONDON, Aug. 3. — (United Press).—"Enrico Caruso was the great singer of our time. The world is the poorer because of his death," The Daily Mail said today. This was characteristic of the comment in all London newspapers.

"Few great singers have enjoyed such unchallenged supremacy," said The Chronicle. "Nature gave him a miracle voice, which art perfected."

"In a less crowded and feverish time his loss would have been mourned as a world calamity." The Daily Express said. "His golden voice will rank in the history of art with Michael Angelo's brush.

Naples' Last Tribute.

(By CAMILLO CIANFARRA, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NAPLES, Aug. 3.—Hundreds viewed Caruso's body as it lay in state today. The mourners, representative of all classes, tip toed past the bier in a long line.

The widow was reported to be bearing up well under the shock. She probably will return to New York soon after the funeral.

Naples and all Italy was in deepest mourning today. Flags were at half mast and many buildings draped in black crepe. Business was virtually suspended.

The Press devoted columns to Caruso, praising his voice and personality, and emphasizing the role he played in the development of the opera in North America. There were editorials expressing sympathy with the widow.

The church where the funeral was to be held was crowded hours before the time set for the ceremonies to start. Over all was an atmosphere of sadness as if a personal bereavement had been suffered. Many wept as, sitting in the dim light that came through the stained glass windows and listening to the sombre tones of the great organ, they waited for all that is mortal of Caruso to be borne into the chancel.

The streets through which the cortege was to move were packed with mourners, the police having difficulty in keeping open a passage through which the procession could move. Shutters were closed and doors barred along the route.

SAYS HER RED JAILERS KIND.

Mrs. Harrison, American Woman, Talks of Her Experience in Moscow Prison For Months.

RIGA, August 3. — Released after many months' imprisonment in Moscow, Mrs. Margaret E. Harrison, of Baltimore, who is under protection here of Senator France of Maryland, says the release of all American prisoners in Red Russia, may be be expected any day now.

No formal notification of the release of the Americans has yet been received at Riga and the American officials have not been advised as to whether the prisoners will be freed one at a time or in a group.

Mrs. Harrison's story of her prison treatment differs considerably from sketches of her alleged sufferings drawn by travellers reaching the Baltic States from Russia.

Although under close confinement for a considerable time, Mrs. Harrison gave an unemotional statement of her experiences. She was thin and frail and her recital was interrupted ocasionally by a deep cough as she unresentfully told of the events from the day of her arrest to that of her release.

"I was first arrested on April 4th, 1920, two months after I arrived in Russia by way of the Polish frontier," said Mrs. Harrison. "I was detained two days for cross-examination, then was released, and for six months was permitted to work unmolested in Moscow.

"In October I was again arrested by order of the Tcheka, the Soviet inquisition. I was charged among other things with having ome to Russia, without permission, with having supplied food illegally to the American and British prisoners, and with having been in communication with people hostile to the Government—all of which was true. The examiners were polite, but they made me realize the seriousness of my position.

"Then I was put in solitary confinement for six days—not in a dungeon, but in a room like a small single room like an hotel. At no time was I in a dungeon, and this was my only solitary confinement in Russia. I was removed on my own request to a general room, with the occupants varying from seven to eleven where I spent nearly eight months.

"This building was not originally a prison but was an old rooming house; it was primarily used for detention only and the physical discomforts there were due to the fact.

"Generally speaking the rations were as good as, or better than, in the Soviet dining rooms outside, but I like the others, inside and out, lost weight on them. Food packages from the outside were permitted weekly and in these I shared intermittently. There were periods of several weeks when I got nothing from the outside and some packages sent apparently never reached me.

"I had one more hearing in November which was without result. At intervals after Jan. 1, I was informed officially that there were prospects of my release if the American government formally demanded it on the basis of trade negotiations or in exchange for communist prisoners in America.

"On June 6, by order of the prison physician, I was removed from Tcheka detention to the hospital in another and better equipped prison especially for women, where I remained until I was released, receiving every care and attention.

"The first word of immediate prospect of my release came through Senator France, who called on me on July 23, and I was finally freed and taken to the railway station, arriving just seven minutes before the train left for Riga."

Mrs. Harrison declared that she gave no pledge to the Bolsheviki not to talk outside, having always refused when asked for one, saying that she would not accept release under any such conditions. She was kept in suspense up till the last day before her release, not knowing if she was going to trial or to freedom.

AVIATOR GOES UP SEVEN MILES

Lieut. Kirsch, the French aviator who last year was a contestant in the James Gordon Bennett cup race at Etamps, is said to have reached an altitude of about 34,768 feet in an attempt to break the world's altitude record. Although the official world's altitude record, made by Major R. W. Schroeder, of the United States Army, was only 33,000 feet it is thought probable that the Aero Club, of France, will not certify Lieut. Kirsch's record, as no official observers were present at the trial. In the Lieutenant's descent his oxygen supply became exhausted and he became unconscious, dropping 6 miles in two minutes. When he reached 2,000 feet above earth, one eye was frozen shut and his body was numb, but he made a safe landing.

The latest cocktail introduced at Deauville where the season is beginning in record form is called "the Dempsey," so named because four rounds mean a surrender.

THE RELIEF MACHINERY FOR RUSSIA IS READY

FOOD ARMY MOBILIZES TO SAVE 15,000,000 STARVING RUSSIANS; TO BEGIN RELIEF WORK IN CITIES

AWAIT RELEASE OF PRISONERS BY SOVIETS IN ACCORDANCE WITH U.S. DEMAND—SIMILAR SYSTEM TO THAT USED IN VIENNA.

BY ED. L. KEEN,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Aug. 3. — The food army is already mobilized, ready for its invasion of Soviet Russia to relieve the famine victims. Supplies are stacked high in food warehouses in Central Europe and the doors will be opened as soon as the Soviet officials release American prisoners, in accordance with the demand of the United States' Commissioner, Lyman Brown, in charge of the relief work here. Brown, with one member of his staff, is due in Riga shortly to confer with Maxim Gorky, Russian novelist, and head of the Russian relief organization.

As soon as the American terms are fulfilled, including the agreement to the food administration's "bill of rights," in addition to the release of the prisoners, the active relief operations will start, Brown said.

"I do not anticipate any hitch in our preliminary negotiations with the Bolsheviki at Riga," said Brown. "I expect we will probably feed 1,000,000 children. We are figuring now on the amount of transport necessary to transport the food from our warehouses to the famine districts.

"We expect to build up in Russia a system as similar as possible to that employed so successfully in other parts of Europe. The chief foodstuffs to be distributed will be cocoa, sugar, milk, rice, flour, beans and fats.

"We plan to begin our work at Petrograd and Moscow and gradually work outward. Usually the large cities are hardest hit by famine. The peasants are better able to care for themselves."

Brown said the same system as was used in Vienna would be used. Kitchens will be established in the basements of mansions in commandeered palaces ,etc. Local women will be drafted to cook, under supervision of relief administration staff officers. The meal will be scientifically prepared, so the same amount of nutritive value will exist in each ration. Famine sufferers will be given food cards and will line up for their meals.

CARUSO ESTATE IS TEN MILLIONS

NAPLES, Aug. 3. — (Canadian Press.)—The will of the late Enrico Caruso was made in America in 1919. It is reported that it leaves all his property to relatives. The estimate amounts to approximately ten million dollars.

The sculptor Cifarelle has made a death mask at the order of Mrs. Caruso, who will have it sent to America.

FRAME AGENDA OF CONFERENCE ON DISARMING

U.S. WILL OPPOSE JAPANESE OBJECTIONS TO DISCUSSION OF SPECIFIC FOR EASTERN QUESTIONS.

BY A. L. BRADFORD,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3. — The Washington Disarmament and Pacific Conference was virtually on today. Negotiations between the United States, Great Britain and Japan have been begun on the agenda of the forthcoming conference, it was learned.

This agenda, which is to outline in general the scope of the Pacific and Far Eastern discussion in the Washington parley, is considered one of the most important pieces of work of the whole conference. Discussions are going on in Washington between Secretary Hughes, Ambassadors Geddes and Shidehara and in London and Tokio over the agenda.

Japan has made it plain that she does not want specific Far Eastern and Pacific questions, such as Shantunf, brought into the conference. Hughes believes there should be the freest opportunity in the conference to discuss all subjects which are the base of controversy or which might prove so in the future and also it is believed Hughes intends to take up Shantung in the conference if it has not been satisfactorily settled before.

WOODSTOCK WOMAN ATTACKED BY RAT.

Rodent Chews at Ear While She Lies Abed.

WOODSTOCK, August 3.—"How would you like to have a rat crawl into your bed and commence eating you up?" inquired Mrs. E. Thornton, a resident on Hay Street, when interviewed as to a report that she had been attacked by a rodent.

The woman declared she was awakened from her slumbers at early morn by a rat industriously busy gnawing at her ear. She described her unwelcome visitor as exceptionally large and vicious, and stated that there are millions of the animals infesting the garbage dump near her home. They invade nearby poultry runs, devouring chickens and ducks, and Mrs. Thornton thinks dogs should be employed to destroy them.

TO REORGANIZE HUNGARIAN CHAMBER

BUDAPEST, Aug. 3.—(Associated Press).—The Hungarian Government will soon introduce a law for the reorganization of membership of the Grand National Chamber. The chamber will be composed of parties representing the various cities and industrial, commercial and cultural associations. The members of the nobility also will be represented. Another party will be representative of the clergy, members of the Government and judiciary. There also will be 20 life members to be appointed by the King on the suggestion of the Prime Minister.

ONE OF LUCKIEST DAYS OF HIS LIFE

THAT'S WHAT TORONTO MAN SAYS OF TIME HE BOUGHT HIS FIRST BOTTLE OF TANLAC.

"One of the luckiest days of my life was the day I bought my first bottle of Tanlac", said William Battiste, 80 First Avenue, Toronto, Ont. "Five years ago I was taken with a sudden attack of headache followed by an almost complete shattering of the nerves and for three weeks lay unconscious in a hospital. After an operation I improved some but never completely recovered my health. I was always restless and nervous and did not sleep well. My stomach was so bad that nearly always after eating I suffered the severest pains. I had headaches frequently and I could hardly stand the pains in my shoulders, arms and knees. I was constipated and had such dizzy spells I was almost afraid to stoop over for fear of falling. I lost thirty pounds in weight and was so weak and run down I could not take up my business again.

"But from the way Tanlac helped me pust seemed like the medicine was made especially for my case. I have a fine appetite and eat everything without its hurting me. My nerves and muscles are stronger and I sleep like a child. My aches and pains are all gone and, in fact, I feel better in every way than I have in many a day. Tanlac has done me so much good I can't praise it enough."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by the Warne Drug Co., Ltd., and leading druggists everywhere.

AN ATTEMPT TO DYNAMITE FORD BLAST PLANT?

TRAMP FRUSTRATES WHAT IS BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN GANGSTERS' PLOT TO WRECK RIVER ROUGE FURNACES.

DETROIT, August 3. (Canadian Press.) — What is believed to have been an attempt by gangsters to wreck the Ford blast furnaces at River Rouge with dynamite, was frustrated by the fears of a tramp for violence, and the quick response of the Springwells police department to his appeals.

The gangsters escaped and up to last night the police and the county authorities had failed to locate them.

Seven large sticks of dynamite, weighing 15 pounds, were abandoned by the plotters in their hurry to escape.

The explosive if properly placed, would have caused havoc and a large amount of damage to the plant.

NIAGARA WANTS BETTER CANADIAN PAPER DELIVERY

INFLUX OF U.S. PAPERS AMERICANIZING PENINSULA.

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 3.—The municipalities of the Niagara Peninsula, under stimulus of action from the Chambers of Commerce of Niagara Falls and Hamilton, co-ordinated by the efforts of the St. Catharines chamber, are being asked to send representatives to a joint meeting at St. Catharines in the Chamber of Commerce club room at 1 p.m. Tuesday, August 9th, to discuss the betterment of Canadian newspaper service in the delivery of morning papers.

CHAMPION CRAWLS UNDER BED TO ESCAPE LAW, WOMEN AND PICTURES

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 3.—(United Press).—A voice, quivering with suspicion, said:

"Come in," when a reporter knocked at the door of Jack Dempsey's room in an exclusive hotel here today.

Ted Hayes, secretary, companion, trainer and social guide of the world's heavyweight champion, was sitting alone in the front room of Dempsey's suite, trying to appear unconcerned.

"Have you a subpoena?" he inquired, when the news hound asked for Dempsey. The scribe shook his head.

"Have you an attachment?"

Again a negative shake.

"Do you want Mr. Dempsey to act in a motion picture?"

"No, indeed," was the reply.

"Do you want to get his autographed portrait for your wife, or would you like him to marry your sister?"

"No. I'd like to interview him for the United Press."

"Well, why didn't you say so in the first place" asked Hayes with a gasp of relief.

Dempsey Crawls Out.

Dempsey crawled from under the bed. He was visibly shaken by his narrow escape from the triple peril of the law, the ladies, and the film.

"Say, tell your New York correspondent have Kearns get me a fight," he said. "I'd like to meet the champion of Egypt, the contender of Turkey, or the best boxer in the Russian army. I'm not particular who it is, but tell him to choose the location with care. Make it some place where they won't know what a writ is.

"And tell him to hurry up and get my automobile back. I'm tired of walking around Los Angeles. And tell him——"

Just then someone knocked on the door and the champion disappeared under the bed again.

"That is the life of a world's champion," sighed Hayes.

BIG GAS BOOM ON AT MERTON, FLOW IS HUGE

OPERATORS BORING FOR OIL STRUCK GAS AND NOW DISTRICT IS IN MIDST OF GAS BOOM.

MILTON, August 3. — (Canadian Press.) — Merton, nine miles east of Milton, is in the midst of a gas boom.

During the past week operators boring for oil on the farm of Archie Speers, on the Middle Road, struck a flow of gas at a depth of 200 feet, but at a depth of 500 feet the pressure became so strong that the controlling gauge had to be put on.

The gas is retaining its force to such an extent that the experts declare that there is enough gas in the wells to supply the whole neighborhood with fuel and light for many years.

TO-DAY'S FASHIONS

Negligees on Oriental lines, with long wing or panel sleeves, or the cape type of negligee, are new. These capes are made of lace over chiffon to be worn over one-piece slips of colored satins and taffetas. The blouse-cape negligee clings rather closely to the figure, blouses just below the waist line and is slashed for arm openings.

Pyjama negligees are very popular. A recent novelty in this style showed pyjamas of black satin under a loose double-breasted coat of the same material, fastened with large buttons and finished with ivory lace frills.

Chiffon or georgette is also used, with narrow velvet ribbon trimming and picot-edged panels, striped voile with satin ribbon binding the edges, and loose sleeves, or garments cut on straight Russian blouse lines with ribbon finishing the round necks, are good style.

LOW DEMAND IS CAUSE CLOSING MASSEY-HARRIS

STATEMENT ISSUED BY COMPANY SAYS ACTION IMPERATIVE BECAUSE FARMERS NOT BUYING MACHINERY.

TORONTO, Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press.)—A statement issued by the Massey-Harris Company to its employees explaining the reason of closing down its works here, stated that the action was imperative owing to farmers not buying machinery.

Farmers as well as all its customeers, the staement continues, are perfectly justified in demanding a reduction in the cost of manufactured articles, but this cannot come so abruptly as in the case of farm produce, because the channels through which it comes are so extended that it takes more time to make adjustments.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS CONVENE AT 'FRISCO.

Mr. W. S. Merrell, Representing Peterborough K. of C. Council, Is in Attendance.

The 39th International convention of the Knights of Columbus, bringing more than 20,000 delegates, visitors and their women folks to San Francisco, was inaugurated in that city on Sunday, July 31st, with preliminary meetings of various committees. The delegations represent every State in the American Union, with Canada, Newfoundland, Mexico, Cuba, Panama and the Philipines also contributing large numbers of members. Mr. W. S. Merrell, Grand Knight of the local Council, is the representative from Peterborough at this convention. The last special train arrived on Sunday evening from the Canadian Maritime Provinces and Northern New England. Hundreds of the delegates and visitors came by boat and automobile caravans.

Special Services.

Mayor James Rolph, Jr., of San Francisco and a committee of 300 citizens have organized to entertain the Knights during their week's stay in San Francisco, and by order of Archbishop Hanna special K. of C. services were held in all the churches of the diocese on Sunday.

The programme of the convention officially began on Tuesday morning with a municipal reception in the civic centre, when Mayor Rolph presented the Knights with the freedom of the city. The American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and other patriotic organizations participated.

Main Activities.

The programme of the convention has four main activities to launch:

1.—The Knights of Columbus American history movement, calling for the production of a propaganda proof history of the K. of C. by eminent historians, at a cost of $1,000,000.

2.—The K. of C. anti-tuberculosis campaign, calling for a nation-wide fight on the white plague by the entire membership of 800,000 Knights and nearly 2,000 Council units.

3.—The intensified K. of C. education and hospitalization work for disabled and other war veterans, to cost $5,000,000.

4.—The Knights of Columbus American welfare work, to be introduced into Italy at the request of Pope Benedict XV.

CUSTOMS RECEIPTS.

Customs receipts for the month of July amounted to $64,315.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 3, 1921.

CARUSO.

Caruso, world-famous singer, more widely known than most of the great statesmen and military leaders, is dead. And yet by reason of one of the most wonderful inventions of modern times, the golden voice of the master vocalist is preserved—ready for future generations to hear and marvel at. The great singers of earlier years passed into that undiscovered bourne from which no traveller returns, and with their death the voice that had made them famous was stilled for ever. There was no waxen record to preserve the limpid tones; no wonderful machine to sound again the notes of their favourite numbers.

In the universal mourning of the music lovers of the world at the passing of Caruso, the thought that the voice of the Maestro is permanently recorded brings a measure of consolation. The singer is dead, but the song remains—thanks to the inventive genius of Thomas A. Edison.

THE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

It is unfortunate that the Horticultural Society should be hampered in its splendid effort to make Peterborough the city beautiful by reason of lack of financial support. Not only have the prizes for the annual competitions been necessarily reduced, but the society has also had to curtail certain improvements which had been contemplated, but which it has been found impossible to finance.

A larger membership seems to be the only solution of the problem, and it is to be sincerely hoped that next year the society will considerably augment its members. The small fee which is charged for membership would seem to open the door for hundreds of citizens to associate themselves with the society, if for no other reason than to secure the options available to members. Every householder who takes a pride in his home garden and in the improvement of his lawn should readily join the society and assist in its splendid work. A great deal of useful activity on behalf of the whole community would be the certain result of a material increase in the membership of the society.

THE SWIMMING BOOM.

Ald. Turner's success in inducing the Council to authorise the Parks Committee to spend $200.00 in improving the bathing beach at Inverlea Park will be appreciated by the patrons of that popular centre. Undoubtedly there is need of the improvements suggested, and they will be welcomed by the hundreds of citizens who visit the Park. The grant shows an increasing appreciation by the City Fathers ot the fact that swimming as a recreation has a firm hold upon the community, and that its popularity is growing.

It is said that the average attendance at the city's two bathing places, inadequate as they are, is larger than at some of the Lake Ontario beaches, and that Peterborough has more women swimmers in proportion to its population than any other centre in the Province. These statements may perhaps be overdrawn, but there is no denying the fact that swimming has attained an unprecedented popularity in Peterborough. The time seems ripe for the establishing by the city authorities of modern bathing houses equipped with plenty of individual dressing rooms, and the revenue from which would go a long way towards meeting the expenses of the enterprise.

It is announced that the present bathing house at Lake Street, which is but a small structure, has turned in the sum of $65.00 in locker fees for the months of June and July. Had there been more individual dressing rooms available, the revenue from this source would have been considerably greater, while the system adopted at bathing beaches elsewhere of renting the compartments by the hour would, of course, result in a still larger income.

The great interest in swimming is not a passing fad, and the Council would be justified in investigating the whole situation and deciding upon a progressive policy that will develop the advantage that the possession of the Otonabee River affords.

SMASH THE COST OF GOVERNMENT.

The cost of pretty nearly everything in this country is coming down faster and farther than the cost of government, but the cost of government should come down faster and farther than pretty nearly anything else. This is true of local and State governments, which had no direct war burdens of magnitude as well as of the national government with its prodigious war debt charges.

The cost of government should come down with a rush, because of the numbers of employees which went on all public payrolls, but are no longer needed there and should not be kept there beyond the next payday; because the wages of day laborers have come down sharply everywhere and, even after superfluous employees are cut off entirely, day laborers are employed in armies by the municipal, county, State and national governments; because of the heavy drop of prices in materials and supplies, including food, clothing, and all commodities consumed in stupendous quantities by government agencies all over this country.

In this community the largest single buyer, many times over, of provisions and general commodities for its prisons, asylums, hospitals and other public institutions is the government of New York City. The largest single buyer in the State is the government of the State of New York. The fuel and light they burn, the steel and lumber they use, the thousand and one things they consume every day in the year go to make a colossal sum total.

Feeding and clothing the men of the army and navy out of the national purse is like feeding and clothing the population of many of our cities, indeed of many of our States, put together. The coal and oil which go into the nation's warships are of vast proportions.

The cost of all these supplies is far down from where it was a year ago. For the quantities bought by the government spenders and consumed by the government managers it is down in the aggregate not merely tens, but hundreds of millions of dollars.

Yet government tax machines anywhere and everywhere go on grinding moneys out of the bleeding taxpayers as if government living expenses were at the war peak of inflation, profiteering and extortion.

If when the costs of all the equipment, materials and supplies he needed to carry on business were dropping steadily and heavily the general manager of a private corporation did not get his operating costs down correspondingly without being told to do so by the directors that manager would be called before the board, not to be instructed to do it, but to be fired through the skylight.

Any government manager, national, State or local, anywhere in the country and under whatever circumstances, that cannot and does not get down his government operating expenses, and get them down heavily, without being driven to it by budget commissions, investigating committees and legislative appropriating bodies needs the skylight treatment without explanation or mercy.

Smash the cost of government!—New York Herald.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Admirers of the Soviet form of Government should find much food for reflection in the latest news from Russia.

A robber's trust has been unearthed in Chicago. Such things have been known before, but this is the first time they have been called by their correct name.

There is natural curiosity as to whether the official opening of the Hunter Street Bridge is to be financed on the cost plus system or not.

SUGAR 6 CENTS IN THE STATES.

Reported That Crisis in Cuba is Over — Normal Conditions Restored.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—At the close of last week the refined sugar market was quiet but firm on the basis of six cents for fine granulated. Jobbers and large consumers followed the market up to 5.90 cent with liberal purchases for prompt or early delivery, the result being that all refiners with the exception of the American refineries are oversold. Since the advance to 6 demand has slackened.

Bankers to Rescue.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Completion of the sugar financing for Cuba cane during the past week is the first important step toward definitely ending the difficulties which have grown out of the Cuban sugar crisis. That Government assistance of some sort may be needed before there is complete restoration of normal conditions in Cuba is the prevailing belief. This, however, is now in a fair way to be afforded, the Government furnishing at least a general moral support for American bankers in the advances which they are expected to make to the Cuban Government.

My Efforts Seem Futile.

CHAPTER 28.

The front door bell rang, and I hurried to answer it. If it was Kent, what would I do? How could I explain Tom Barney's presence? The blood was seething through my veins and my chest rose and fell in little agitated gasps.

Tom had risen to his feet and stood looking out of the window.

I opened the door. It was not Kent, and yet the situation was still rather awkward. It was Margaret Gray, Bob Gray's wife.

"Hello, dearie," she greeted me, brushing a superficial little kiss across my cheek.

The late afternoon light was rather dim in the hall and I was thankful for that.

She turned and looked into the living room. Tom was standing with his back toward us.

"Am I intruding? You have company."

I tried to laugh a little, gay laugh but I was conscious that it sounded forced and a trifle hysterical.

"Mercy, no, you're not intruding Margaret. I guess you know Tom Barney, I answered, putting my arm around her and pulling her gently into the room.

Two was equal to the occasion. He turned and greeted Margaret with an easy going, 'Hello there, Mrs. Bobbie," and then settled back in a chair and entertained us with the thrilling incidents of an attempted bank robbery which had occurred down town that morning.

I listened interestedly and soon forgot to worry about what Margaret might think, or the impropriety of being discovered entertaining a gentleman caller alone in the middle of the afternoon.

In about a half an hour Tom said he would have to hurry on as he had a dinner engagement.

"This has been a jolly little visit Barbara," he enthused. "Goodbye, Margaret—and oh, say, Barbara, don't forget to tell Kent about that, and be sure and give him those papers," he added cleverly.

"All right," I answered. I felt grateful to Tom Barney. He had been so splendid and understood my feelings so well. Any enmity that I had had for him faded quickly.

I came back to Margaret. She stayed for an other half hour and we talked and laughed unconcernedly. I felt that her manner held no trace of unnaturalness or suspicion.

But I was glad when she finally went. I wanted to be alone. The strain that I was living under these days was getting on my nerves. I felt that if Kent did not return the diamond very soon, I would collapse.

Then I wondered if those few words that I had said to Tom about my love for Kent, and how I could not endure harm coming to my husband would deter him from taking any definite action. Would he refrain from telling if he did know about the diamond? If Tom really cared for me, as he had told me so many times, then I must use my influence over him to protect my husband. I hoped I had said enough, and that Tom would respect my feelings.

I knew human nature well enough to know that though Tom might not spare Kent for his own sake, he might remain silent about the diamond if he thought I would be grateful to him, or care a little for him for having done it.

I hated to be so deceitful. The idea of using one man's love to shield another man was not an easy thing for me to do. But a woman will do a great deal when she loves with every atom of her being. I had to shield Kent. I believed in him and I would go to any length to give him the chance to exonerate himself. To me, Kent seemed the most wondrful man in all the world. Even in spite of the wrong he had done, I believed his abilities and possibilities were greater than any other man's.

It was not because I over-looked his wrong doing that I loved him and had faith in him. But even though he had erred, had sunk down ever so little, I belived it was possible for him to rise, to soar even higher in the other direction—in goodness and attainment.

And so I waited patiently for Kent to prove himself.

To-morrow—The Rose Diamond.

LAWYER GUILTY OF DEROGATORY ACT.

Hull Bar Will Pronounce Sentence.

OTTAWA, Aug. 2.—A Hull lawyer, Mr. N. J. Marion, has been adjudged guilty by the Council of the Hull Bar Association of having committed an act derogatory to the dignity of his profession and sentence will be pronounced today. Mr. Marion was cited before the Bar Association following an action taken against him by Mr. Elzear Clouthier, of Pontiac County. The latter calimed that Mr. Marion received $125 from him and refused to return the money.

The action for recovery of the sum has been filed in the Superior Court at Hull. The plaintiff, Mr. Clouthier, alleged that on June 8, 1920, he went to Mr. Marion and requested that he proceed against one Robert Moorehead, who, it was alleged, had insulted his wife. Clouthier says he gave Marion a check for $199.65 and he received $75, and with the balance Marion was to proceed against Moorehead.

Clouthier alleges that months went past and there was no satisfaction coming from the lawyer. Finally Clouthier asked for the return of his money and claims that Marion refused to return it. The plaintiff's next move was to take action in the Superior Court against his former counsel.

In the statement of defence filed with the prothonotary at Hull, Mr. Marion claims he accepted $150 from Clouthier as a retaining fee and subsequently returned $25 to his client. The lawyer contended he had a warrant issued and sworn to before Magistrate Millar for the arrest of Robert Moorehead and the document was sent to the Sheriff of Pontiac. After considerable delay and correspondence the official claimed it would cost $35 to execute the warrant. Mr. Marion asserted he informed Clouthier of this fact and the latter finally said he would not proceed with the case any further. Mr. Marion alleged that the $125. was a retaining fee and sets forth that he had reported to plaintiff at divers times and had also faithfully reported what had been done.

Details of the case came to the attention of the Hull Bar Association and after deliberation Marion was found guilty. Some time ago he was cited before the bar and drew a suspension of three months.

Mother Tells how Daughter was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cobourg, Ont.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me for my daughter. She had trouble every month which left her in a weak and nervous condition with weak back and pain in her right side. She had these troubles for three years and frequently was unable to attend school. She has become regular and feels much better since she began taking the Vegetable Compound and attends school regularly. She is gaining steadily and I have no hesitancy in recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine."—Mrs. JOHN TOMS, Ball St., Cobourg, Ont.

Standing all day, or sitting in cramped positions, young girls contract deranged conditions, and develop headaches, backache, irregularities, nervousness and bearing-down pains, all of which are symptoms of woman's ills. Every mother who has a daughter suffering from such symptoms should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

UNREST IS WANING ABROAD NEW YORK BANKER REPORTS

FINDS ALL CLASSES HAVE LEARNED A LESSON FROM RUSSIA—FORESEES TRADE REVIVAL.

NEW YORK, August 2.—Several American bankers, merchants and business men who have returned from Europe all seemed to be more optimistic of the financial situation abroad than those who had been coming back in the last three months.

George E. Roberts, Vice President of the National City Bank, who has been attending the meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce in London, in an interview with the reporters said:

"Europe has turned the corner and is faced toward better times. I do not mean that it is on the eve of a sudden outburst of activity or that normal conditions will be quickly restored. Its wounds are too deep and the industrial disorganization has been too serious for that, but the outlook is very much better than six months ago or even three months ago.

"In the first place the danger of social revolution outside of Russia is past. That fear no longer overshadows Europe. The example of Russia has saved the rest of Europe. A knowledge of conditions in Russia has permeated every part of Europe and reached all classes.

France in Better Shape.

"This explains the failure of the British coal miners to enlist the other labor organizations in a general strike. The coal strike is over, the wage question in the cotton industry has been settled with a reducion, the engineering trades (which includ machinists) have voted to accept reduced wages, the railway employe, are working under a sliding scale arrangement by which wages fall with the cost of living, and the entire situation is peaceful. The same tendency is seen in France, Italy and over the Continent generally.

"The situation in France is better than I expected to find it. The fields throughout the devastated region are restored and so are the railroads canals and highways. The industries are restored to more than 50 per cent. of their pre-war capacity. Allowing for industrial development in other parts of France, I do not think the country is much below its pre-war income producing capacity.

"A most important meeting has been held recently between the French Minister in charge of reconstruction and the German Minister in charge of industry. These men practically reached an agreement upon a policy, although details are yet to be completed; but the outcome will be that Germany will supply an immense quantity of building materials for reconstruction work.

"Neither French bankers nor public men talk as though France wanted large credits in the United States. On the contrary, they are anxious not to increase their foreign indebtedness.

"One of the most interesting developments is the revival of hope for the future of Vienna, which at first appeared to be entirely ruined by the partition of the Austrian Empire. Throughout Europe there is a revulsion of feeling that Vienna is a natural centre of trade and culture for Eastern Europe, and should be helped to play her useful part. The countries of Europe to which Austria is indebted, have agreed to subordinate their claims to a new Austrian loan, and to participate in it. They want the United States to join in so doing, and that is one of the things that should be done.

Best Grain Crop Since War.

"In general the grain crops of Europe are said to be the best since the war, although a great drought is prevailing which has injured fruit and root crops.

"The great gain is in the decline of the revolutionary spirit, which has run its course. The people are eager for work. There is much unemployment and it is significant that despite this, social agitation is subsiding. It means that the social fabric has survived the storm; and that a solid basis for credits exists.

"The fructifying stream of American tourists is pouring over most of Europe this year and it is no unimportant factor in the more cheerful spirits of the people.

"The world is out of balance in two respects, and must be set right in both before there can be a general state of prosperity. Trade is unbalanced as between countries, and it is unbalanced as between classes of producers. It is all wrong that this country should be receiving gold from Europe. It is needed there for the support of the monetary and banking systems. They cannot immediately restore trade to proper proportions, we need their purchases and should grant credits for them.

'On the other hand, all over the world, the producers of foodstuffs and raw materials have taken a great decline in the prices of their products, but the manufactured goods made from these products are still far above pre-war prices. These goods cannot be distributed upon the present level of prices or present level of costs. Wages in the manufacturing industries are too high and transportation costs are too high for good trade or for full employment.

'The readjustment proceeds too slowly. This unbalanced state of industry over the world is more responsible for the present stagnation than the state of Europe. The latter will come back fast when the wage readiustments are made, and so will the United States, but there will be no general revival until the situation is understood and corrected."

G. Eastman, hear of the Eastman Kodak Company of Rochester, who returned from England and France, said that he had been suprised by the volume of business abroad, and that so far as his company was concerned it was doing pronortionally more business in Europe than in the United States.

We cannot all do wondrous things to make ourselves a name;
We canot all feel confident of meeting every test,
But when we have our work to do, we can all do our best.

Our best may not be wonderful, judged by a standard high,
But we can all do something well, if we will only try.
And if we try our level best, performing every task
With all our might, why, that is all that any one can ask.

We cannot all be famous—if we were 'twould cheapen fame;
We canot all be rich enough to give ourselves a name;
We cannot all expect to be distinguished from the rest,
But some reward is certain for the man who does his best.

GREAT GAMBLING CRAZE, OUTGROWTH OF WAR, IS SWEEPING OVER GERMANY

PRIVATE CLUBS FLOURISH IN SECRECY IN SPITE OF EFFORTS OF BERLIN POLICE AND MANIA HAS EVENLED TO ESTABLISHMENT OF MECHANICAL WHEELS IN CORNER SHOPS.

Gambling has become a prevalent vice in Germany, from the broker and wholesaler who drop in at their private club for a night of baccarat and "66" to the messenger boys who "play the horses" on mechanical wheels in shop corners along the Friedrichstrasse in Berlin.

Before the war there were but six gambling clubs in Berlin. Toward the end of the war there were sixty. At the high-water mark, just before the anti-gambling law in December, 1919, there were three hundred. Now, despite the law, there are almost as many clubs in Berlin as then, although many are so ephemeral that exact control is no longer possible over them.

Hard times and uncertain living conditions, instead of curing popular cravings for a game which is a sure thing—a sure loss—seem, on the contrary, to whet appetites. The police continue closing several clubs each week, the owners often land in jail, but other clubs crop up like mushrooms. When the owners have paid their fines or served a term they start business again at the old stand.

Must Remain All Night.

To visit gambling clubs in Berlin now is like finding a caravan moving across a desert. They rarely meet in the same place two successive nights. In various ways the ultimate destination is kept dark from the guests until they are actually at the door, and once inside they must remain throughout the night. Every possibility of a tip reaching the police must be avoided.

The owner of the club is a cautious person. He spreads the word only among trusted clients at the race tracks, at prize fights and in cafes. The chosen are told to assemble on well-known square at a given hour. Here they are met by a guide and a line of taxis. Only the guide knows the ultimate destination of the cars, he leading the way. The cars then stop a block away from the club, and the guests from here creep stealthily along to the apartment designated.

Guests then find themselves practically imprisoned throughout the night. Should one insist on leaving or on starting discussion, strong-armed men are at hand to reason with him.

When a raid is made scouts at the street corners tip off the watchman below. He slips a key in the lock from the inside as a preliminary obstacle, and when the gambling police squad starts working the door with skeleton keys and jimmeys he warns the house upstairs.

Card boxes and green baize are hastily bundled together and tucked away in the attic or the cellar. In some places they have revolving tables. When the police come in they find a regular meeting of the Heroes of South Africa or of the Society for the Propagation of the German Diphthong Among Backward Peoples.

Unless the club "is caught with the goods," or unless the paraphernalia can be unearthed at once, the police cannot get a conviction. It sometimes happens that a loser notifies the police or gives the game away.

Last week there was a raid on a well-known club near the Bavarian Square in Berlin. In the midst of it when gamblers were being corralled below into trucks, along came a line of taxis, obviously carrying more guest to the club. When the guide in the first car saw the excitement he hastily shouted to the other taxi drivers to scatter. The crowd saw the anxious passengers urging their drivers to speed up, understood the game and shouted from joy.

I visited one of the largest clubs recently. It was in a luxurious apartment, furnished by the owner as though his one ambition were to pack it with objects of value. He now rents it to the club for several thousanv, marks a night, after himself having started in as a gambler a year before with fifteen millions and losing his "pile". For a time he had a run of luck, so he tells me. One night he won 2,000,000 marks. Then in two successive nights he lost 3,000,000, and this started him on the down grade.

Fortunes are made and lost in these clubs in a night. I asked the croupier about his guests. The croupier states that there are the "steadies" who have been coming for years. They continue to play, but never with the same money—because," he added modestly, "of course the owner and we croupiers are the only ultimate winners.

"In addition there is the transient gambling public. Of these a new crop comes every six months. Money easily made is easily spent. They may have made a few millions smuggling or from speculations, and prefer throwing it away on pleasure to giving it out on taxes."

Taxes and Depreciation.

Thrift is penalized now in Germany. A man who puts his money in the bank knows that the mark is depreciating faster than his interest returns. He knows that what he puts aside will be half taken away by the Government in taxation. The war patriot who exchanged his gold chain at the nominal gold value for an iron chain sees those who hoarded their gold being paid many times the old rate at world market prices. Among the new crop gamblers are many tax dodgers who find the green baize table a more thrilling way to dispose of their riches.

In this gambling club I found the equipment to be of the very simplest—the green baize, and the card boxes for baccarat, ecartes, and "66". An elaborate buffet of cold meats was the one outlay for the occasion, and this was later more than recouped in excessive champagne prices.

The guests were a odd assortment. There was the inevitable majority of profiteers or "schiebers" as they are called here, a class to be found wherever money is to be spent or made. The word schieber means literally "pushing things over." The common type of schieber is recruited from the Galician and Russian Jews who settled in Germany. Many are short, bloated, heavily bejeweled individuals, who are distinctly loud in spending their money But they are clever and quick at cards.

A croupier tells me that playing with them is much more nerve racking than with the old conventional gentleman players who played with real or affected abstraction, and then pocketed their losses stoically. "These new money kings come determined to win," said the croupier "they put their money on the baize and then try to slip it off if they see that the game is turning against them. They win noisly and make a racket when they finally lose. German stolidity does not show itself now at the gaming table."

At this table there was a Russian nobleman who was playing his last jewel. During the last two years many Russian exiles came here with diamonds and jewels, converted them into paper marks and lived hard and fast. But their money has fast ben ebbing away. One of the last luxurious Russian gambling clubs, located Unter den Linden, recently failed, and was closed by the police for falling behind in paying the usual "rake off" to the members of the police gambling squad, I am told.

"These Russians have been a strain on our ingenuity," a croupier declared. "Their card morality is that anything goes.' In order to protect ourselves we have had to learn their tricks, and to use them, too, on occasion. Everyone here talks about honor. They give their words of honor to pay back debts to morrow. This may mean next week or not at all. Of course, when we hold the bank in old conservative clubs we remain correct. But when we operate in these so-called wild clubs we do not hesitate to fix the cards to secure our gain."

Germans Seldom Suicide.

The path of the loser in Germany is not suicide, as is often the fate of gamblers in Monte Carlo, and in other Latin countries. The German it seems, must suffer much greater misfortune before he loses his impassivity. Losers often disappear from sight and turn up a year or two later with more money again. Sometimes they themselves attempt to recoup their fortunes by turning their homes into clubs and trying on others what succeeded on them.

If they are foreigners who lose and have no profession in Germany they find their way to the various internment camps. There are thousands of undesirables now in these camps, mostly eastern peoples, who like moths, fluttered about the bright lights of Berlin, only to fall with their wings singed.

The gambling epidemic in Germany is a side of the social demoralization following the war. The craze reached its pinnacle about the middle of 1919, when the German people were still in the midst of their political upheaval and were trying to forget that they would have to bear the consequences of defeat. The gambling plague began to decline when people decided to go back to work; factory wheels started turning again. Gambling is now getting a new short lease of life through the new heavy taxation burdens, which irresponsible people now seek desparately to evade. None the less, there is a gradual decline in numbers and a real decrease in the amount of money wasted in this way. This indicates that there is less money being made now than there was a year ago, and consequently less to be thrown away. The ranks of the German proletariat are increasing.

This does not mean, however, that the gambling craze is dying out. On the contrary, the number of penny roulette wheels, race tracks and slot machines is larger than ever through out Germany, but the Eldorado days of the gilded gambling days are passing.

HER TROUBLES OF THREE YEARS END

HAMILTON WOMAN IS DELIGHTED AT RESULTS SHE GOT FROM TANLAC—GAINED TEN POUNDS.

"It certainly beats anything how quickly the right medicine will get a person to feeling right," said Mrs. Susan Squires of 384 King William St., East, Hamilton, Ont.

"For about three years I suffered so from stomach trouble I couldn't eat a meal without being in misery for hours afterwards. I had dreadful headaches and at times a terrible pain caught me in the back of my neck and I hurt so bad I could hardly stand it. I was so nervous the least little noise would frighten me, and nights I just lay awake for hours, and by morning felt so tired I could hardly get out of bed.

"But by the time I had finished my first bottle of Tanlac I hardly felt like the same woman, and now I am eating just fine and never have a touch of indigestion. I sleep like a log nights, wake up in the morning feeling good, without an ache or pain to trouble me. I've gained ten pounds in weight and am wonderfully strong and well in every way. My sister-in-law has taken Tanlac with good results, too, and we both feel thankful for our good health the medicine gave us."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by the Warne Drug Co., Ltd., and by leading drugigsts everywhere.

MEAL A DAY PROVIDED STUDENTS BY RELIEF BODY

WARSAW, Aug. 3.—(Associated Press).—Fifteen thousand university students in the main educational centres of Warsaw, Lemberg, Cracow, Lublin, Posen and Vilna are being fed one meal a day by the American Relief Administration of the European Children's Fund this summer. Warsaw has five kitchens devoted to serving food to 3,264 students, the other towns having smaller numbers.

The Polish Ministry of Approvisation has been assisting in this work, having furnished the Amercan relief workers with 180,000 pounds of potatoes at 50 per cent. below market price. Government authorities of Posen made an out and out gift of 20,000 pounds of potatoes to be used locally in the student feeding.

The students benefitting by this special provision of the Ara are all over 17 years old, the students paying the nominal price of ten marks a meal to assist in covering the rents, service and supplementary foodstuffs purchased locally. At the present rate of exchange 10 marks is about one-half of an American cent in value.

In addition to this task, the Ara is feeding more than 1,300,000 children in Poland up to the age of 17 years.

AN EVERY DAY TRAGEDY

The importance of the dairy industry to Canada and the value of dairy products—milk, cheese, butter—for the proteins contained therein, is these days being impressed upon the Canadian public, both agrarian and urban, by the Press, scientists and professors of agriculture and chemistry. Industrially, the fact is being stressed that there is a huge export market for milk and its products; scientifically, effort is under way to educate the public into appreciating as beverage and diet this Nature's own food, for in milk is found those proteins from which human muscle, brain, nerve tissue, blood and tendons are mostly composed of. All noted authorities on food and nutrition tell us that man must at least have 2.7 ounces (75 grams) of protein per day, and no known food is so sure of meeting Nature's demands in this respect as milk, and every edible into which it enters to any exteht.

Aspects of Dairying.

Under this heading The London Advertiser has this to say editorially:

"In his interesting address to the local milk producers, Professor H. A. Deane of Guelph touched on several points of vital importance to the future welfare of the dairying industry in Canada. For example, he suggested that as a steady market cannot be found for milk and milk products in this country a good market could be procured in other countries; in China, for instance, which he characterized as the best market in the world. China is unable to supply its own milk products, and the surplus which could be shipped to that country from London alone is equal to nearly one thousand gallons each day.

"No one disputes that milk products form valuable food, and that other countries are eager to secure them in any quantity. It is an equally well-known fact that there is more real nourishment in one pound of milk products than there is in a pound of beef. Moreover, these products, in the form of butter, cheese and evaporated milk, can be shipped in smaller bulk and with less trouble and cost than cattle or dead meat. Denmark has not been slow to learn this lesson, and her eminence in the dairy world today is one of the results. But, as Professor Deane pointed out, one of the greatest factors in the successful handling and disposal of milk products is co-operation among the producers and dairymen. This is the key to the whole situation.

Important Factor.

"Another point which was referred to was the important part that good roads play in the work of bringing dairy products to the cities. There is no doubt that good transportation facilities have the effect of bringing the city household and the farm closer together, and that the city dweller derives the benefit by securing milk and other necessaries at normal prices. Good roads also play an important part in the marketing of other products of the farm, and the sooner the country highways are brought to an efficient state the sooner will not only marketing problems be solved, but problems affecting the supply of farm labor and the requisites for successful farming generally.

"One other matter which Professor Deane dealt with was the question of advertising. There is no getting away from the fact that the farmer is not a good salesman. His brethren of the cities can teach him all that there is worth knowing in the art of salesmanship. He follows not the principle that when one has something good for sale they should make its merits known as widely as possible, both at home and abroad. If butter and cheese could be produced by manufacturers like boots and shoes their particular advantages would soon be proclaimed far and wide through the medium of printers' ink and in other ways. As yet the farmer does not do these things, but this is no reason why he should not do it now.

Tell Them About It.

"Many city dwellers do not know the great value of milk and butter and cheese in the process of preserving good health and of body building, and it is for the farmer and the dairyman to tell them all about it. The advantage will be mutual."

Milk is indeed a wonderful nutrient, containing every known element peculiarly fitted to meet some body or brain need. And the pity of it is that these facts are not generally known and appreciated. It hardly seems logical that people would knowingly choose a course in life which is likely to lead to poor health and degeneration in vigor, and yet thousands use no milk at all, or very, very little, if any, for lack of which they are suffering and must suffer. Some large families buy enough each day just to wet the breakfast food and merely color coffee or tea. Such a reckless economy in the best of all body-building substances is characterized by Professor Edward E. Calloway as a tragedy—one of the serious health questions of the day.

Strong Nerves

Pure organic phosphate, known to McDermid & Jury and most other druggists as Bitro-Phosphate, is what nerve-exhausted, tired-out people must have to regain nerve force and energy. That's why it's guaranteed.

BRYCE SAYS EUROPE GROPES FOR LEADER.

Whole World Since the War Is "Not Resettled by Any Real Peace."

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 2.—In opening the series of lectures of the Institute of Politics at Williams College, Viscount Bryce asserted that the ratio of leaders decreased as the masses of people increased, and that the peaceful solution of international difficulties lay, not in conflict, but in co-operation and in "the moral progress of the men who compose the communities."

The British statesman and author is to deliver about eight lectures on the general topic, "International relations of the Old World States in their historical, political, commercial, legal and ethical aspects, including a discussion of the causes of wars and the means of averting them." He is the outstanding participant in the conferences, and the 150 educators enrolled in the courses received him with enthusiasm this evening.

"Crises arrive when some strong man is needed to embody the effort an age seems to be making," said Viscount Bryce, "but the man does not appear and that which he might have done is not achieved. Had there been no Bismarck and no Mazzini we should have seen today a very different Europe. All calculations, all predictions must leave a wide margin for the influence which the presence of some powerful personality may exert.

"The fact that the ultimate source of power resides in the people often obscures the fact that in all political action, and especially in foreign relations, the people have little knowledge and even less initiative. Broadly speaking, they are what their leaders make them.

"Under every political constitution that has ever been devised, the many are led by the few. Indeed, the larger the mass the fewer are those whom it looks to and follows; for the less the mass knows of the real facts and the really significant issues, the more it must depend on prominent individual men for guidance, and the fewer are then prominent figures that can be watched and judged.

"This is especially true of international issues, because these are least within the knowledge of the average man. He must trust some one. When one traverses after nightfall a dangerous mountain path, the man who knows the path must be followed, whatever the risks. He may miss his way; he may perhaps wish to lead you astray; but if you have no knowledge of your own it is better to follow him rather than grope in the dark among precipices.

"European peoples have been groping in the dark for the last few years, and their relations to one another during and since the war have been left to a few guides."

STATE CAPITOL PUT ON WHEELS.

Len Small Plans To Keep Office Under Hat as He Dodges Sleuths.

(By LAURENCE M. BENEDICT, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

AURORA, Ill., Aug. 3.—The Illinois State capitol today was "wherever Len Small hangs up his hat."

Reaching here on an automobile tour of State road inspection, the indicted executive had set up a "capitol on wheels." Present plans, well laid, see to it that the "wheels" do not lead into Springfield and Sangamon County where Sheriff Mester is waiting with warrants for the Governor's arrest for alleged embezzlement of State money.

The itinerary is being mapped out, it was said, so that the Governor could travel all summer, if necessary without once setting foot in Sangamon County. Small insists he would be "massacred" by his political enemies should his cases came to trial there.

NEW LABOR LEGION TO IGNORE UNIONS

ORGANIZED TO PROTECT RIGHTS OF ALL WORKERS AS WELL AS THOSE OF THE GENERAL PUBLIC.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Paul Vacarelli, who is known better as Paul Kelly, and a group of New York labor leaders have formed a new organization, known as the Loyal Labor Legion of New York City, the principles of which are to safeguard the rights of workers, whether they are members of trade unions or not, to consider the public in all labor controversies and to seek the establishment of courts of arbitration. The new organization has its headquarters in The Bronx, and will seek to extend its influence to other parts of the country.

"The Loyal Labor Legion is fully sensible of the tremendous opposition that will be aroused by its action, and is prepared to make a most aggressive campaign against powerful influences in the American Federation of Labor," a statement issued by the organization says. "The legion is convinced that the extremely offensive and militant attitude of numerous labor leaders is harmful to the cause of labor; that old time methods must be discarded as having outlived their usefulness, and an entirely new system of handling disputes between wage earners and employers must be practised."

Considerable opposition is expected by the Loyal Labor Legion from old time labor organizations to four clauses in their constitution, which was ratified last Friday night by the unanimous vote of its members. These clauses provide that hereafter the legion recognizes:

1.—The right of men and women to work regardless of membership or non-membership in trade unions.

2.—The rights of the general public as a party at interest in labor controversies.

3.—The necessity for law establishing courts of arbitration, with power to enforce obedience to their decisions.

4.—The settling of differences between employers and wage earners "without intervention by persons not personally affected by or direct parties to the matter in controversy."

"Labor's unenviable position today," the statement continued, "with some 4,000,000 American Federation of Labor members and 2,000,000 unorganized workers unemployed, of whom about 500,000 are idle in New York City, is due in large part to the unwise leadership of men who ran amuck and called hundreds of unnecessary strikes immediately following the war.

"Organized labor needs a new birth. The doctrine of peace and prosperity must displace that of rule and ruin. New leadership and new vision must enter the A. F. of L. from top to bottom, and principles and methods accepted that will bring peaceful agreements on reasonable conditions rather than destructive warfare for unattainable demands."

ROTARY CLUB HELD MEETING YESTERDAY

INTERESTING ADDRESS GIVEN BY MR. P. WESTBYE.

Monday, at the luncheon of the Rotary Club, Mr. P. Westbye of the Wm. Hamilton Company had been detailed to give a short address on some manufacturing problem, but, as he said, not having certain data at hand, substituted a most interesting talk, touching on the feature of boy life and assistance, which is a cardinal doctrine of the Rotary Club activities—"The Boy and How to Help Him."

A number of anecdotes illustrative of the theme were related, accompanied by a rather quaint philosophy and comment on the personal and moral aspect of the incidents.

Discussing briefly the trend of the boy to go astray and to widen the gap between himself and those with whom he came in contact, Mr. Westbye told of a boy of his acquaintance in the city. This boy had been brought to his attention as being what is termed a bad boy, getting willfully out of hand and seemingly beyond the control of his parents. Other boys, as is generally the case, were cautioned to have little to do with him, for example is infectious.

Wishing to find out for himself, Mr. Westbye got in touch with the lad, got him to come for a ride in the car, and at opportune moment had a fatherly talk with the lad.

He discovered just this, and very likely a prevailing state of mind with boys who are classed as going wrong, that the lad admitted, as a sort of provocation for his continued wrong doing, that everybody hated him, and he, in return, hated everybody. He had received nothing but hard words, continual recrimination, and his mildest wishes as to his personal habits, clothes and living had been treated always with scorn and heedlessly. In such a state of feeling and under such lack of influence, Mr. Westbye said he could see nothing but a blank and wrong future for the lad.

He reasoned with the boy, gave him a different view of the situation, told him that his own attention and efforts would meet with approval and countenance, and so in the interval of a couple of weeks the boy is bracing up and improving. Even his parents notice the change and approve and trust that it may continue. And the moral of the story is that the bad boy, so to speak, is hurried further along the line of wrong conduct by indifference and contumely.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Henry, of Rochester and Mrs. Geo. Rhoda, of Batavia, N.Y., who motored from Rochester and were the gusts of Mrs. Alice Gosselin, returned to Rochester and were accompanied by Miss Ethel Gosselin.

Dear Marie,

Well here we are again, old dear! I keep on deluging you with letters, — but it doesn't do one bit of good! If it wasn't that I was having such a wonderful time I'd curl right up and die, so I would!

Really, it is marvellous to have nothing to do but bask in the sunshine all day. Yesterday I must have basked too long, though, for when I appeared at the dinner-table everybody gasped. And by night-time I could hardly touch my skin without wanting to yell.

But I gently — oh so gently — rubbed on some Campana's Italian Balm and it did the trick. "Balm" is surely a good name for that lotion, because it is so soothing and refreshing.

Heaps of love,
Peggy.

ACQUIRE CAMP FOR DETENTION OF EMIGRANTS

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Aug. 3.— (Associated Press). — Atlantic Park, an estate near here which was formerly used by the American army for flying purposes, has been acquired by the North Atlantic Conference, the chief members of which are the Cunard, the White Star and the Canadian Pacific Railroad Companies, as a permanent camp for emigrants sailing by their steamers to America.

Two of the aerodromes in the camp have already been converted to accommodate 2,800 people. With other buildings, it is estimated that nearly 6,000 continental emigrants will be lodged there during their short stay before sailing.

NEW BLEACHER STAND AT EXHIBITION PARK READY FOR THE HOLIDAY CROWD

INTERESTING PROGRAMME OF HORSE RACES, ATHLETICS AND VAUDEVILLE ACTS FOR CIVIC HOLIDAY AFTERNOON — PRESENTATION BY FAIR DIRECTORS TO MR. G. O. CAMERON.

At least two good races, and perhaps three, will form the card for the Civic Holiday celebration at the Exhibition Park next Monday afternoon. At the meeting of the Fair directors last night it was stated that the number of horses that are coming for the Peterborough meet is more than promising. The veteran Geo. Powell will be here, Port Hope horses will be represented, the Elmhirst stables are sending a good string, and the local men who have been racing at Penetanguishene will be back and are expected to bring some of the horses that competed there on Monday.

President Denne reported that the new section of the grand stand will be finished in time for the holiday. Built on steel frame work this annex will remain in the unroofed bleacher form for the present. It is built immediately east of the present stand.

The entire programme has not been definitely settled yet, but its features will be the track and athletic events, and a vaudeville entertainment, although this part of the proceedings has not been finally arranged But the Exhibition Board promises the citizens an interesting afternoon.

Receipts From Show.

The receipts from the World of Mirth shows amounted to $516, but the net proceeds will be about $350 which will be used toward paying for the new improvements to the Exhibition Park.

Delegates Invited.

If the visiting florists can spare the time from their convention they will be the guests of the Exhibition Board on Monday afternoon. R. H. Turner moved, seconded by John Gillespie, that complimentary tickets be issued to the visitors as part of their entertainment during their stay in Peterborough.

Presentation to G. O. Cameron.

The directors took advantage of the presence of Mr. G. O. Cameron to present him with a signet ring as a token of the Board's appreciation of his interest in the Exhibition. Mr. R. Denne made the presentation, and Mr. R. H. Turner expressed the Board's regret that Mr. Cameron's services and interest would be lost by his removal to Montreal.

"This is more than I deserve, gentlemen," said Mr. Cameron, after thanking the directors for their thoughtfulness. "If I have done anything, and it hasn't been as much as I wished, toward the success of Peterborough's Exhibition, it has been a pleasure to me."

The directors of the Exhibition were workers, and they had a fine record of getting things done, Mr. Cameron said. He wished them every success in the future.

"There are men here, as there are other men in Peterborough, who have played a large part in Peterborough's progress, but because of the fact that their life's work is here they will remain in Peterborough to the end, and their friends will not have the opportunity of saying anything about their services until they are dead. There are some men here who have done more in one week for the advancement of Peterborough and the Peterborough Exhibition than I did in a whole year, and nothing is said about it. I thank you all for your gift and for the kind things you have said, and I wish you every success."

The members present last night were R. Denne, president, R. H. Turner, Smith Milburn, W. J. Cox, T. N. D. Kelly, J C. Ball, E. W. Wood, J. Gillespie, R. C. Grandy, S. Dickson Hall, Harry Webber, T. McIndoo, W. Steinkrauss, W. Roseborough, D. Jordan, G. O. Cameron, W. H. Dunsford, John Williams, Sam A Oke, Tom Brown and F. J. A. Hall.

YOUTHFUL RADICALS.

RIGA, August 2 — (Associated Press.) — Most of the younger generation of Russians are Bolshevik, says Captain Merion C. Cooper, of Jacksonville, Fla., the American flyer, who was recently captured by Russians while serving in the Polish army, and recently escaped from a Moscow prison. He attributes this to the Bolshevik educational system under which Communism is taught in the schools.

"The schools are all red," he said, "and the educational programme prescribes that the first thing to be developed in the mind of the child is the 'revolutionary conscience.' In prison I saw several times children visit their parents, the children being anti-Bolshevik. The children were 'reds' and accepted their parents' imprisonment philosophically, wondering how they could go aaginst the tenets they had been taught to absorb in the class room."

Vying with this system of educating the children, said Captain Cooper is the wonderful propaganda system by which the Bolsheviiki attempt to convert the adults.

"Their Communist lecturers work eevn in the prisons, trying to convert the prisoners," he continued. "They even tried it on me. There were lectures or classes held very frequently. If a man said he was converted and could convince the prison committee of that fact, he generally was released.

"Further in the line of skilled propaganda was the excellent treatment of the Polish war prisoners, just before they were returned to Poland under the repatriation agreement of the Polish-Russian peace treaty. Before each bunch was repatriated all of the soldiers in it given new clothes and new shoes, being well fed for several weeks, so that when they arrived in Poland they looked well, were well dressed and in short were walking advertisements for the Soviet government."

Generally Captain Cooper said, the conditions in the prisons were very bad from the standpoint of diet but that he had received no personal ill treatment.

JAMES A. TULLY IS A VISITOR IN PETERBORO

BACK FROM CALGARY, TALKS OF CHANGES HERE AFTER 15 YEARS AND GROWTH IN ODDFELLOWSHIP.

Looking hale and hearty, and enjoying the best of health, Mr. James A. Tully, of Calgary, is in town for a few days, renewing old acquaintances and friendships, reluctantly severed fifteen years ago when he went West. In both business and social circles, Mr. Tully will be favorably remembered by many as the genial senior partner of the well-known George Street gents' clothing firm, Tully, Merrell & Meredith, at present doing business here under the name, "Merrell and Meredith."

Always an ardent Oddfellow, Mr. Tully is now Western general agent of that fraternal Society's Relief Association, his territory covering four provinces, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia from Winnipeg to Vancouver, with headquarters at Calgary. From observation in the course of his travels over this huge area of Western Canada, Mr. Tully finds no room for pessimism regarding this year's crops, generally speaking.

Mr. Tully is pardonably proud of the wonderful growth achievement of Oddfellowship in the great West, amply exemplified in his own home Province, Alberta, by an expansion in membership of from 1,000 to 8,000 since 1906, when there were but 14 lodges, as against 145 to-day. Mr. Tully was Grand Master of Alberta in 1919. Calgary itself has for 15 years developed from a town of 15,000 inhabitants to a city of 80,000. As for Peterborough, the visitor is favorably impressed by its many marked improvements since he left here. To use his own words, "My! What a change — this has grown into a real city indeed," he exclaimed when queried on this point.

Mr. Tully reached Kingston on business connected with his department of the I. O. O. F. on Monday week. From the Limestone City he came to Peterborough Saturday, has visited relatives near this city, and is now the guest of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Fuller, 518 Downie Street. He expects to leave for home to-morrow.

RRIOT OVER 17-CENT BEER.

1,000 Germans Fight Their Way Out of "Profiteering" Cafe.

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—In the fashionable Baltic seashore resort of Swinemuende, a thousand guests of Seebrueck's restaurant resorted to novel defensive tactics against profiteering last evening.

A waiter attempted to collect 140 marks for ten glasses of 13 per cent. beer at one table.

The whole thousand guests, at a signal, rose from the tables and walked out without paying their bills, though not without a free-for-all fight between the patrons and waiters.

The exorbitant profiteering price against which the Germans protested amounted to 17 cents a glass at current exchange.

GUERILLA WARFARE AGAINST REDS NOW ON EIGHT FRONTS.

Small Bands of Peasants Offer Armed Resistance to Soviet Regime.

RIGA, Latvia, Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press.)—Guerilla warfare with small bands of irregular or peasant troops was being waged by Bolshevik forces on eight "fronts," according to an official Bolshevik report of recent military operations, a copy of which has just reached Riga.

These irregulars, who interfere with collection of foodstuffs from the peasants and generally oppose the Bolsheviki whenever possible, are referred to by Moscow as "bandits."

The report, dated June 10 and describing among its operations a conflict with some 600 horsemen belonging to "General" Antonoff's forces in the Tamboff government, was in direct contradiction to Moscow's claim, made in May, that Antonoff's campaign had been liquidated.

In these fights, most of them consisting of long, running skirmishes, scores of villages have been devastated or sacked and many hundred persons killed. In the June 10 report, for instance, desscribing a fight on June 7 with this Anton off detachment, the Bolsheviki claim to have killed 70 of their foe in one skirmish and to have caught 300 of another detachment, part of whom were killed." Similar numbers of casualties were reported in the fighting, day by day, with Makno's band in the Ukraine.

The report covered fighting of similar character on the "west front," which covers the territory along the Polish-Ukrainian frontier, in the Ukraine, in the Tamboff government, in the Trans-Volga district, in the Ural district, the Caucasus-Don district, in Turkestan and in Siberia.

BANKERS WIN WHEN LAKEVIEWS REFUSE TO CONTINUE ENGAGEMENT

HAD NO PITCHER AVAILABLE AFTER LOU LEBARR WAS CHASED FOR "CRABBING" AT A DECISION — AN UNSATISFACTORY WIND-UP.

The first game in the play off for the City Juvenile League championship, played at Riverside Park last night, between the Bankers, winners of the first half, and the Lakeviews, winners of the second section, wound up in an unsatisfactoiry manner, the game being awarded to the Bankers by the usual score of 9 runs to nothing.

This wind-up was the result of a play in the seventh innings when Rogers of the Lakeviews was declared out for leaving third base before a fly from the bat off Shaughnessy was caught. Pitcher Lou Lebarr of the Lakeviews, crabbed at the decision, and eventually Umpire Kerrin Murray chased him out of the pasture. As Manager Lebarr had no other twirler available he called in his team and His Umps announced that the Bankers had won by default.

They were leading 9 to 6 at the time but the Lakeviews were coming strong and might have made things interesting in the closing stages had the unexpected development not taken place. Neither team had its pitching ace on the rubber, Lefty Turner for the Bankers, and Shaughnessy of the Lakeviews, being both unable to work because of sore arms. Jack Turner who also throws from the port side, did the gunning for the Bankers while Lou Lebarr was on the firing line for the Lakeviews.

The Bankers had their batting togs on, clouting 17 hits off Lebarr's offerings, while the fielding of the Lakeviews was very loose. Turner held the losers to four scattered hits in the first four innings, but they were beginning to get a line in the later innings. The hitting of Wilgar, D. Johnston, Hensley and Hardill was a feature of the fixture, the first two getting four hits in four times up.

The box score shows what had happened when the game was awarded to the Bankers:

THE BELLEVILLE TEAM WILL BE HERE ON SATURDAY NEXT

On Saturday Peterborough fans will have the opportunity of seeing the Petes in action against the Belleville team in a Central League fixture that promises to be one of the most interesting of the season. In the first half Belleville won the game here by 3 to 2, while the Petes retaliated by beating Belleville at home by 7 to 5. The two teams have met on numerous occasions, and every game has been a battle royal. There is every reason for expecting that Saturday's fixture will be equally hard fought. The game will be called at 3 o'clock at Riverside Park, with Umpire Claude Wilson, of Oshawa, working at the plate.

SPORT COMMENT

Commenting after the game on the Petes' poor showing against Patton, 'Hap' Harrison opined that the Petes missed the benefit gained by the players working the City League. Last season, practically all the Central Leaguers were in action in the local league, and the practice probably did more good than harm. It was argued then, by some critics, that the players were getting too much baseball. Nevertheless, they went out and copped the Central League championship. Some kids would enjoy the chastisement if their dads' batting average was on a par with the Petes' performance in Oshawa.

And now Bobby Armstrong is going to put on a smock. No more travelling for the former 147th Bn. centre man. Perhaps the series at Brandon last winter set Bobby back into the laboring class.

New York Giants got fourteen hits from which they harvested three runs. From which it would appear that the men of McGraw are in need of some of the liveliness for which this season's output of balls have become famous.

The Exhibition Board at Keene is erecting a grandstand at the fair grounds. Baseball brought it about. It is at the fair grounds that the East Peterborough League games are played, and the fans demanded the grandstand. The directors saw the financial side of the proposition. But the stand won't hold the crowd that will want to be there when the Keene team, now champions of the "U.F.O." loop, meets the winner of the C.G.E.-Cressman's series.

A tip for the Petes' pepper pinch-patting pilot—The Field Rats, an aggregation of local baseball talent, have had thirty-seven victories in forty games played this season.

Roy White's Bohunks are being gathered together for a barnstorming trip. Most of the players saw service in the local leagues and are now ready to return to their first love. The Bohunks' leader can muster a formidable line-up.

THE ENGLISH TEAM FOR MONDAY'S GAME

The following players have been selected to represent England in a match with Scotland at the Exhibition Grounds Monday for a trophy presented by the Exhibition Board:

Goal—Griffin.

Backs—McDonald and Chambers.

Half-backs — Burrows, Haycock and Frost.

Forwards—Manders, Monks, Dwyer, Edwards and Bartley.

Reserves—Cridland and Sharman.

The directors of the Peterborough Football Association would esteem it a favor if these players would meet at the Oval Thursday evening at 6.30 p.m.

BRITISH PORTS ARE CONGESTED BY MANY EMIGRANTS TO U. S.

U. S. Public Health Service Forced to Send Doctors There.

LONDON, Aug. 3. — (Canadian Press.)—England has its hands full in dealing with European emigrants bound for the United States who formerly went in German ships.

Congestion in the ports of the United Kingdom and the recent outbreak of typhus in Russia and the Balkans have caused the United States Public Health Service to bestir itself. At the present time three American surgeons are at work here, the first public health officials in the United Kingdom.

Dr. W. J. Pettus, formerly Assistant Surgeon General of the United States, is in general charge of the work with offices in the Consulate. Dr. Burr Ferguson will have direction of operations at the port of London and Southampton and Dr. N. B. Robinson at Liverpool.

Duties which the new organization will perform include the supervision of inspection and handling of all emigrants for America and fumigationof ships for rats and vermin. This work was formerly carried on through the ordinary consular channels but now it has grown to such proportions as to make additional help necessary.

All second-class and third-class passengers bound for the United States must submit to medical inspection before a sailing permit is issued. The emigrants are divided into two classes, viz., the clean and the unclean, the latter being subjected to thorough cleansing and their clothing disinfected. Persons coming from certain countries or districts regarded as "suspect" are detained 12 days.

This period of detention is passed in big hostals provided by the steamship companies where the emigrants are maintained at the companies' expense in London and Liverpool.

AT THE THEATRES

The Capitol offers a splendid programme to-night. Douglas MacLean in "The Home Stretch," a great racing picture. Larry Semon in "The Head Waiter," and many other good pictures.

The Capitol offers an excellent programme to-night. Larry Semon in "The Head Waiter," one of his funniest two-reel comedies. "Purple Riders," Serial, Pathe Review, Paramount Magazine and a Burton Holmes Travelogue, and the excellent music of the new Capitol Theatre orchestra, an excellent musical organization that is pleasing the Capitol patrons in every way. The Feature Picture is one of excellent quality.

Comedies possessing genuine elements of gripping tingling drama and of delicate sentiment without sacrificing laugh-power are infrequent enough to cause Douglas MacLean's latest Paramount picture, "The Home Stretch," which comes to the Capital to-night to stand forth as one of the most original and entertaining offerings of the year.

The story concerns a jockey, a trainer, a racetrack follower, who at the time the picture opens, has risen to the ranks of racehorse owners, and of the difficulties he encounters when he attempts to abandon his gambling habits. Not only is Mr. MacLean afforded ample opportunity to "get over" sparkling comedy situations, but to display his dramatic ability and his skill with "thrillers" as well.

The opening scenes of the story, laid on a famous California race track, are notable for tensely dramatic situations, and a thrilling accident in which Mr. MacLean plays a prominent part. Throughout the remainder of the picture, clever comedy and dramatic suspense are delightfully blended and carried through to an unusual ending.

As Johnny Hardwick, the juvenile turfman, Mr. MacLean is said to give a performance which surpasses his "Sergeant Grey" in "Twenty-Three and a Half Hours' Leave." His vigorous personality and clever comedy "business" are the outstanding features of the production. Beatrice Burnham, Margaret Warren, a winsome "small town" girl, heads an excellent supporting cast which included Margaret Livingston, Wade, Boetler, Charles Mailes and Molly McConnell. "The Home Stretch" was adapted to the screen by Louis Stevens from the original story by Charles Belmont Davis.

This programme is one of the best presented at the Capitol in some time.—Fan Fan.

SANE BRITISH LABOR.

The position of the railways is difficult enough in all conscience, but there is now at least this relief, that Labor, as has been shown at the Railwaymen's Conference in Newcastle, has taken up a thoroughly patriotic and sensible attitude. It has 'turned down" the extremists and pronounced against further suicidal strikes. It has followed Mr. Cramp's wise lead in condemning the "jaw-waggers." One of the gravest dangers to the railway industry, which affects railwaymen as well as shareholders, comes from the rapid development of motor competition. It can only be met by such bold measures as the Great Western Company is taking; but, with energy and enterprise on the part of the companies, there should be room for both forms of transport.—London Daily Mail.

PETERBORO NOT A FIRST CLASS TEAM

According to the football scribbler on the Brantford 'Expositor," Peterborough contendors in the Plenty Cup competition might be better advised to curl up and die as to try to defend themselves against such masters of the game as the Brantford eleven. A long-winded apology for Brantford's failure to win the game, winds up with the following observation: "Without underestimating the visitors, they cannot be considered a first class team." Apparently the writer was so busy framing up excuses for the Brantford team that he forgot to follow out a recognized reportorial custom and obtain the names of the visiting team. The inky seizure running a column in length does not mention the name of one of the Peterborough players.

CAMBRIDGE PROFESSOR FOR QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY.

KINGSTON, August 3. — Dr. R. Bruce Taylor, Principal of Queen's University, reports that while in England he secured the services of Dr. Stanley Smith as assistant professor in the Department of Geology and Minerology.

Dr. Smith is a Master of Arts in the University of Cambridge, Doctor of Science in the University of Durham, and Fellow of the Geological Society.

In the three years before the war he was in the British Museum classifying fossil corrols. He was also lecturer in the University of Wales at Aberystwyth. After two years of war service in England and France, he was then appointed temporarily to the geological survey for special work in the North of England.

Last winter Dr. Smith was acting head of the Geological Department of Bedford College for Women.

Dr. Smith has a long list of publications to his credit, and it is expected that he will be a distinct acquisition to the staff of Queen's University.

MYSTERIOUS FLIGHT AMERICAN HEIRESS.

Thought to Be En Route For France to Marry Impoverished Count.

NEWCASTLE, August 3. — Just 21 years of age, and the only daughter of David Boyles, retired millionaire, pretty Charlotte Boyles has left her home here and is thought to be en route to France to marry Comte Guy Trepinard, a young French nobleman, impoverished by the late war.

The New York police have been asked to search for the missing heiress, who inherited $250,000 from her maternal grandmother on attaining her majority a few months ago.

Count Trepinard once worked in a New York departmental store owned by a relative of his.

The strange flight of Miss Boyles on the night of 4th July did not become positively known until recently when James Fowler, a taxi driver, recited his conversation with the young woman during their fifty-mile midnight taxi ride from Newcastle to Pittsburg.

Following her return to Newcastle last year, after finishing school in Washington, D.C., Miss Boyles made her debut, and at once became the leader of the younger society set. Boyles Manor, where she was born and reared, is one of the show places of Lawrence County.

"We don't know where Charlotte is," said Mr. Boyles to-day when told of the taxi driver's statements. "We have learned that a passport was applied for in her name on 20th June to visit France and Switzerland.

"In regard to her supposed attachmet to young Trepinard, I think the supposition ridiculous, although I met him here in the house. Yes, I did caution Charlotte against becoming familiar with the young man, for we knew nothing of him whatever."

James Fowler said he received on 4th July a telephone call asking him to be near the Boyles' home at three the next morning, ready to make a trip to Pittsburg. Fowler thought the message a hoax, as no name was given, but decided to be at the appointed place.

The young woman appeared heavily veiled, he said, and carrying two travelling bags and a fur coat. As they passed under a street light, he recognised her as the wealthy Miss Boyles.

"I'm tired of Newcastle," Fowler said she told him. "I want to get away. I'd like to go where no one knows me. The same dull routine here is unbearable; no place to go, no one to talk with, the same faces, the same streets, every day like the last one. I am leaving Newcastle, and I'm not coming back."

The car reached the Pittsburg Union Station at 5.15 on the morning of 5th July. Miss Boyles said her train left at 5.25, and Fowler carried her bags into the waiting-room. Since that time no one has seen her.

Mary Shaffer, a cousin, who shared her room on the night she disappeared, said that shortly after two o'clock the girl slipped out of bed noiselessly. Miss Shaffer was awake, but said nothing, thinking that Charlotte was merely going to a cooler room.

WOMEN AND JOBS.

Nearly 100,000 Flock To Employ of U. S. Railways, Census Shows.

(By RALPH F. COUCH, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Women workers now are flocking to the employ of the nation's railroads.

Nearly 100,000 women now are helping to build new lines, and maintain and operate existing systems, a forthcoming report of the Interstate Commerce Commission is expected to show.

Women constituted in 1920 nearly five per cent. of the nation's 2,000,000 railway employes, according to Commerce Commission. And the number is increasing daily.

The commission now is preparing a new census of female railway workers for 1921.

Women Do Rail Work.

The 1920 census shows that women are going in for all kinds of rail work, heavy as well as light. They are cleaning engines and head lights in round houses, keeping watch, night as well as day, at dangerous grade crossings, operating telegraph keys, carrying messages of train dispatchers and even doing carpentry and other heavy work in the railroad shops.

In some jobs, women, the railroad heads are learning, are more efficient than male workers. Some jobs in which numbers of women are at work are:

Attendants, more than 1,000; cleaning, 4,000; shop work, more than 1,000; station agents and assistants, 1,200; telegraph and telephone signal service, nearly 2,000; car department, 1,500.

More than 400 women are at work in each of these classes of jobs: messenger service, round house general work, watch women, and warehouses and docks.

Nearly 300 women are listed as common laborers, while 500 were taken on for round house clerical work. More than 100 are at work wiping engines in the dirt and grease of shops and round houses, while a few are employed at turn tables.

The census shows that more than 50,000 are annually employed in clerical jobs. But the proportions of women workers in other lines of endeavor are increasing at a much faster rate.

PLANNING TO ATTEND EXHIBIT AT THE CAPITAL.

Promising Outlook For Central Canada Exhibition, Ottawa.

Directors and officers of the Central Canada Exhibition Association state that reports coming from advertising agents and other representatives of the exhibition and from regular exhibitors and intending visitors indicate a greater interest in this year's fair throughout Eastern Ontario, Western Quebec, and elsewhere than has hitherto been manifest so early in the season. From below the St. Lawrence, also, are coming indications that numbers of people are already making September plans with the Ottawa Exhibition in mind.

The conclusion is being drawn by those who are preparing the fair that Ottawa and the big show are to share in the unprecedented epidemic of travelling and touring that is being witnessed this year and that as a consequence attendance beyond the high records of the last two years is likely to be enjoyed. It is anticipated that the attendance will be drawn from a wider field than in the past and that it will come in greater volume from nearer districts.

Extending in All Directions.

President Kent, Manager Paisley, the directors and others have been encouraged by these early signs to feel especially satisfied with the plans on which this year's exhibition is being built. They are larger and more elaborate plans than have been attempted in other years, extending the magnitude of the show in almost every direction. The addition of several thousands of dollars to the prize list, making the total offering in regular cash prizes of $35,000, is a fair example of the degree of these extensions. All other additions to the plans are in keeping.

Greater space has been allotted to farm produce and market gardening exhibits and to horticulture, justified by the increasing growth of these departments. This year space for mercantile exhibits was taken weeks ago. The Pure Food show is securing the entire Pure Food building. More money is being spent this year on special attractions and open-air spectacles than the association has ever before felt warranted in appropriating for the purpose, and the Special Attractions Committee has been able to secure some of the best entertainments exhibiting on the continent. One of these, which will come from Coney Island, will require a special train of several cars to bring it.

The dog show develops into a four-point show, and a special judge will come from London, England, to judge all but American breeds. The cat show will be a three-day event, and will be judged by one of the foremost authorities in the United States.

The Dairy Council has made arrangements to present new demonstrations in domestic science by accomplished lady demonstrators. An artist that was a feature attraction at the Panama-Pacific Exhibition will come from St. Louis to mould butter into the form of various flowers. The horse racing programme will bring the best harness horses of the country to Ottawa.

Preparations for handling crowds, accommodating exhibitors and visitors, assisting them to procure quarters in the city, and other efforts in connection with the arrangements for the fair are on a similar scale to those described. Everything is in keeping with the early prospects for an exhibition greater and better attended than has hitherto been thought possible to Ottawa.

It is believed the fact that Lord Byng, the new Governor-General, is to open the fair is in considerable measure responsible for the keen interest and signs of a large attendance. The exhibition will give the people of Eastern Ontario and Quebec their first opportunity of meeting His Excellency.

THRIFTY FOLK REAP BENEFITS OF LOW PRICES.

Their Savings Will Yield Big Profits.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Approximately $1,800,000,000 in profits has piled up in the past twelve months for possessors of deposits in saving banks, owners of Government thrift and war stamps and of other securities easily convertable into cash.

This profit now is awaiting collection by its thousands of owners and to more than $120,000,000 worth of interest at four per cent. It is as yet mainly paper profit, but is sure and certain and results from the general decrease of approximately thirty per cent. in the value of nearly all commodities during the past year.

Savings Deposits.

Depositors in savings banks now have between two and three million dollars to their credit, according to estimates based on reports to the office of the Controller of the Currency. Those who wish to draw their cash and take their profit now can buy many stocks, bonds, industrial securities and other commodities and securities at far less than a year ago. This is their reward for foregoing the desire to spend last summer.

Likely To Advance.

Prices generally now have practically reached a stabilized level, most Government officials believe, unless the nation-wide economic depression is to cut still deeper than it has. But with business on the road to a boom, prices are likely to advance.

In fifty-one big cities, the general level of food prices, for instance, has declined more than 30 per cent. in the year, the reports to the Labor Department show. Clothing, farm products and other commodities have declined in proportion. The decline has been approximately three per cent. a month. But in June the drop was less than one per cent. This indicates, officials say, the bottom level of the price curve probably has been reached.

TRAGIC ENDING OF A SOCIETY BELLE.

Drugs and Liquor End Life of Former Society Leader.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Miss Sara Cambellina Cowen, daughter of the late John K. Cowen, who was President of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, former member of Congress and a brilliant lawyer, was found dead in her apartment in the Maryland Hotel, 104 West Forty-ninth street. She died suddenly from alcoholism and morphine poisoning, according to Dr. Benjamin Schwartz, Acting Chief Medical Examiner, who performed an autopsy.

Miss Cowen was about 33 years old and at one time was a leader of the younger society set of the South, where she was considered a great favorite. She was considered one of the most beautiful girls in Baltimore, where her father owned the largest house in the most substantial section of the city when she made her debut. She has not been in Baltimore for several years, it was learned.

According to information obtained by Detective Joseph J. Cooney of the West Forty-seventh Street Police Station Miss Cowen returned to her apartment shortly after 5 a.m. She was a drug addict, according to the police, and it is believed that while under the influence of alcohol, took an overdose of morphine. A small package of morphine was found on the table in the living room of the apartment.

Miss Cowen's nude body was found on the floor of the apartment by a man who had taken her to the hotel last Friday. He entered the hotel yesterday morning shortly after 7 o'clock, according to Eugene de Horst, day clerk, and went directly to the apartment. As soon as he reached it he telephoned to the hotel desk and requested that a physician be sent to the room immediately. Dr. Carriva, house physician, was summoned and pronounced the woman dead.

As soon as the police assumed charge of the body the man told De Horst he was not married to Miss Cowen, but was a married man. He then disappeared. Detective Cooney said last night he had obtained a good description of the man and had information he was a taxicab driver, with a stand at Broadway and Forty-fifth street.

The body of Miss Cowen was identified by Miss Rose Whitney of 189 West Fiftieth street, and Miss Frances Top of 123 Manhattan avenue, The Bronx. Miss Whitney was discovered when she telephoned the hotel to inquire about Miss Cowen, who, she said, had broken an engagement.

Shortly after Miss Cowen made her debut in Baltimore society in April, 1909, she eloped with Charles Monson, Jr., son of a retired capitalist of New Haven. She obtained a divorce in Seattle two years ago, it was learned. Miss Cowen then came to New York and went to Blackwell's Island to be cured of the drug habit. After being discharged she became a probation nurse at the Post Graduate Hospital in Twentieth street, where she remained four months, then being discharged. While in the hospital she was considered a brilliant and highly accomplished woman, and, it is said, obtained high grades in her examinations.

Her body was taken to the Morgue yesterday morning and was still there last night.

Miss Cowen's mother died about eight years ago. In 1905, a year after Mr. Cowen's death, Mrs. Cowen appeared in the Baltimore courts and filed a bankruptcy petition, claiming she was unable to pay any of her debts.

RUSSIA DESIRES PEACE OF WORLD.

Anxious For Co-operation of All Peoples—Arranging For Trade With Canadian Factories.

(By LLOYD ALLEN, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Russia today desires peace and is following a policy of non-interference in the internal affairs of other nations.

Leonid Krassin, chief of the Russian trade delegation to England, and a powerful figure in the Lenine Government, is authority for the foregoing.

In an exclusive interview with the United Press, Krassin explained recent changes in policy of Moscow and outlined his attitude regarding widespread reports of his intention of visiting Canada and the Unted States.

At the same time, Krassin discussed possibilities of resuming Russian-South American trade.

"The sincere desire of the Russian people and the Russian Government is to be at peace with all the peoples of the world," Krassin told me.

"Beginning with the spring of 1919, the Russian Government made constant official proposals to all the powers participating in the intervention and blockade to begin peace negotiations for the adjustment of all the points at issue and the establishment of peaceful relations.

"This is the point of view of the Soviet Government at the present time as well.

"In all countries with which Soviet Russia has concluded commercial agreements the Soviet Government has bound itself not to carry on any hostile propaganda against the institutions or Governments of those countries.

"It has honestly fulfilled and will continue to fulfill these conditions."

Dealing with the reports that Krassin is preparing to visit Canada and America, Krassin pointed out: "There can be no question of any visit to the United States until the Government of the United States has expressed its consent to such a visit."

Regarding Canada, Krassin explained: "From the moment of the conclusion of the Anglo-Russian trading agreement, Canada automatically entered the sphere of Russo-British commercial relations and the Russian trade delegation has already placed some orders for Russia in Canada.

"At the present moment the Soviet delegation is carrying on negotiations with certain Canadian factories with the object of placing orders with them."

Krassin declared that it is extremely possible in connection with these affairs it may be necessary for him to visit Canada for a short period.

Krassin displayed an unusual interest in South American trading possibilities.

"South America is particularly interesting for Russia, as a consumer of certain Russian exports," he said.

As examples he named wine, tobacco, carpets and articles of peasant manufacture, also antiques and hand-made goods set aside for export.

"It is possible, however, that South America will be able also to find in Russia, during the next few years, a market for certain raw materials and foodstuffs, while Russia has not yet sufficiently re-established its transport and agriculture," he declared.

GERMANY AND CHINA RESUME RELATIONS.

Trade Re-established Pending Drafting of Permanent Pact.

BERLIN, Aug. 3.—(Associated Press).—Germany's refusal to subscribe again to the Versailles Treaty in its negotiations with the Chinese Government has led to the completion of an agreement between the two Governments, which is designed to re-establish commercial relations pending the drafting of a permanent pact.

China's request that Germany reiterate its adherence to the Versailles Treaty was regarded by many here as somewhat remarkable, inasmuch as the Peking Government refused to sign the treaty because of the Shantung provisions. It became known when the documents leading to the Chino-German agreement were laid before the Reichstag that Germay had refused to comply with China's request for a reaffirmation of Germany's adherence to the Versailles Treaty because Germany took the stand that such action might prejudice her position in case of a revision of the treaty.

In advising China of the unwillingness of Germany again to formally acknowledge the Versailles Treaty, Foreign Minister Simons wrote: "In agreement with the instructions of my Government I have the honor to declare to you again that the German Government cannot acknowledge the Versailles Treaty in general terms again, for such a step would be synonymous with the self-imposed acceptance of the treaty by Germany and would prejudice its later revision. But Germany will make no objections if China avails itself of Articles 128 to 134 of the treaty, also of certain other rights of the treaty, which are of importance for China, in the present form or in an altered form, in case a revision takes place."

The articles mentioned, 128 to 134, refer especially to China and provide that Germany shall surrender all concessions and special rights which it formerly enjoyed in China.

BANKERS WIN WHEN LAKEVIEWS REFUSE TO CONTINUE ENGAGEMENT

HAD NO PITCHER AVAILABLE AFTER LOU LEBARR WAS CHASED FOR "CRABBING" AT A DECISION — AN UNSATISFACTORY WIND-UP.

The first game in the play off for the City Juvenile League championship, played at Riverside Park last night, between the Bankers, winners of the first half, and the Lakeviews, winners of the second section, wound up in an unsatisfactoiry manner, the game being awarded to the Bankers by the usual score of 9 runs to nothing.

This wind-up was the result of a play in the seventh innings when Rogers of the Lakeviews was declared out for leaving third base before a fly from the bat off Shaughnessy was caught. Pitcher Lou Lebarr of the Lakeviews, crabbed at the decision, and eventually Umpire Kerrin Murray chased him out of the pasture. As Manager Lebarr had no other twirler available he called in his team and His Umps announced that the Bankers had won by default.

They were leading 9 to 6 at the time but the Lakeviews were coming strong and might have made things interesting in the closing stages had the unexpected development not taken place. Neither team had its pitching ace on the rubber, Lefty Turner for the Bankers, and Shaughnessy of the Lakeviews, being both unable to work because of sore arms. Jack Turner who also throws from the port side, did the gunning for the Bankers while Lou Lebarr was on the firing line for the Lakeviews.

The Bankers had their batting togs on, clouting 17 hits off Lebarr's offerings, while the fielding of the Lakeviews was very loose. Turner held the losers to four scattered hits in the first four innings, but they were beginning to get a line in the later innings. The hitting of Wilgar, D. Johnston, Hensley and Hardill was a feature of the fixture, the first two getting four hits in four times up.

The box score shows what had happened when the game was awarded to the Bankers:

THE BELLEVILLE TEAM WILL BE HERE ON SATURDAY NEXT

On Saturday Peterborough fans will have the opportunity of seeing the Petes in action against the Belleville team in a Central League fixture that promises to be one of the most interesting of the season. In the first half Belleville won the game here by 3 to 2, while the Petes retaliated by beating Belleville at home by 7 to 5. The two teams have met on numerous occasions, and every game has been a battle royal. There is every reason for expecting that Saturday's fixture will be equally hard fought. The game will be called at 3 o'clock at Riverside Park, with Umpire Claude Wilson, of Oshawa, working at the plate.

SPORT COMMENT

Commenting after the game on the Petes' poor showing against Patton, 'Hap' Harrison opined that the Petes missed the benefit gained by the players working the City League. Last season, practically all the Central Leaguers were in action in the local league, and the practice probably did more good than harm. It was argued then, by some critics, that the players were getting too much baseball. Nevertheless, they went out and copped the Central League championship. Some kids would enjoy the chastisement if their dads' batting average was on a par with the Petes' performance in Oshawa.

And now Bobby Armstrong is going to put on a smock. No more travelling for the former 147th Bn. centre man. Perhaps the series at Brandon last winter set Bobby back into the laboring class.

New York Giants got fourteen hits from which they harvested three runs. From which it would appear that the men of McGraw are in need of some of the liveliness for which this season's output of balls have become famous.

The Exhibition Board at Keene is erecting a grandstand at the fair grounds. Baseball brought it about. It is at the fair grounds that the East Peterborough League games are played, and the fans demanded the grandstand. The directors saw the financial side of the proposition. But the stand won't hold the crowd that will want to be there when the Keene team, now champions of the "U.F.O." loop, meets the winner of the C.G.E.-Cressman's series.

A tip for the Petes' pepper pinch-patting pilot—The Field Rats, an aggregation of local baseball talent, have had thirty-seven victories in forty games played this season.

Roy White's Bohunks are being gathered together for a barnstorming trip. Most of the players saw service in the local leagues and are now ready to return to their first love. The Bohunks' leader can muster a formidable line-up.

THE ENGLISH TEAM FOR MONDAY'S GAME

The following players have been selected to represent England in a match with Scotland at the Exhibition Grounds Monday for a trophy presented by the Exhibition Board:

Goal—Griffin.

Backs—McDonald and Chambers.

Half-backs — Burrows, Haycock and Frost.

Forwards—Manders, Monks, Dwyer, Edwards and Bartley.

Reserves—Cridland and Sharman.

The directors of the Peterborough Football Association would esteem it a favor if these players would meet at the Oval Thursday evening at 6.30 p.m.

BRITISH PORTS ARE CONGESTED BY MANY EMIGRANTS TO U. S.

U. S. Public Health Service Forced to Send Doctors There.

LONDON, Aug. 3. — (Canadian Press.)—England has its hands full in dealing with European emigrants bound for the United States who formerly went in German ships.

Congestion in the ports of the United Kingdom and the recent outbreak of typhus in Russia and the Balkans have caused the United States Public Health Service to bestir itself. At the present time three American surgeons are at work here, the first public health officials in the United Kingdom.

Dr. W. J. Pettus, formerly Assistant Surgeon General of the United States, is in general charge of the work with offices in the Consulate. Dr. Burr Ferguson will have direction of operations at the port of London and Southampton and Dr. N. B. Robinson at Liverpool.

Duties which the new organization will perform include the supervision of inspection and handling of all emigrants for America and fumigationof ships for rats and vermin. This work was formerly carried on through the ordinary consular channels but now it has grown to such proportions as to make additional help necessary.

All second-class and third-class passengers bound for the United States must submit to medical inspection before a sailing permit is issued. The emigrants are divided into two classes, viz., the clean and the unclean, the latter being subjected to thorough cleansing and their clothing disinfected. Persons coming from certain countries or districts regarded as "suspect" are detained 12 days.

This period of detention is passed in big hostals provided by the steamship companies where the emigrants are maintained at the companies' expense in London and Liverpool.

Thirteen automobiles and two large trucks were in the building at the time and were damaged. Three of these were owned by Sewell Dean. The Sound Whitewear, Limited, who had their factory above the garage, will suffer a very heavy loss, which is largely covered by insurance.

MILLION FEET OF LUMBER BURNED.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press).—Over a million feet of lumber and the historic old Cushing Saw Mill at Milford were consumed by fire yesterday. The mill was abandoned several years ago, and the loss of this building is negligible. The lumber was owned by the Gooday Company of Quebec City and Steson Cutler and Company of this city, Boston, and Bangor, Maine. It is understood that the losses are covered by insurance.

HEAVY LOSS BY FIRE IN BELLEVILLE BLOCK.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 3.—A loss of about $8,000 was caused by fire which broke out in the rear of the W. D. Hanley building on Upper Front Street. The damage affects not only Mr. Findlay, flour and feed merchant, but also a large number of tenants occupying apartments upstairs, and the owner of the building, Mr. Hanley. The origin is at present in doubt.

FIRE AT RICHIBUCTO.

MONCTON, N. B., Aug. 3.—Fire which threatened the northern section of the town of Richibucto was extinguished yesterday after an all-night struggle. A dozen buildings were destroyed, including the Union and Leblanc Hotels. Much fishing equipment was also lost. The damage is estimated at $150,000.

AT THE THEATRES

The Capitol offers a splendid programme to-night. Douglas MacLean in "The Home Stretch," a great racing picture. Larry Semon in "The Head Waiter," and many other good pictures.

The Capitol offers an excellent programme to-night. Larry Semon in "The Head Waiter," one of his funniest two-reel comedies. "Purple Riders," Serial, Pathe Review, Paramount Magazine and a Burton Holmes Travelogue, and the excellent music of the new Capitol Theatre orchestra, an excellent musical organization that is pleasing the Capitol patrons in every way. The Feature Picture is one of excellent quality.

Comedies possessing genuine elements of gripping tingling drama and of delicate sentiment without sacrificing laugh-power are infrequent enough to cause Douglas MacLean's latest Paramount picture, "The Home Stretch," which comes to the Capital to-night to stand forth as one of the most original and entertaining offerings of the year.

The story concerns a jockey, a trainer, a racetrack follower, who at the time the picture opens, has risen to the ranks of racehorse owners, and of the difficulties he encounters when he attempts to abandon his gambling habits. Not only is Mr. MacLean afforded ample opportunity to "get over" sparkling comedy situations, but to display his dramatic ability and his skill with "thrillers" as well.

The opening scenes of the story, laid on a famous California race track, are notable for tensely dramatic situations, and a thrilling accident in which Mr. MacLean plays a prominent part. Throughout the remainder of the picture, clever comedy and dramatic suspense are delightfully blended and carried through to an unusual ending.

As Johnny Hardwick, the juvenile turfman, Mr. MacLean is said to give a performance which surpasses his "Sergeant Grey" in "Twenty-Three and a Half Hours' Leave." His vigorous personality and clever comedy "business" are the outstanding features of the production. Beatrice Burnham, Margaret Warren, a winsome "small town" girl, heads an excellent supporting cast which included Margaret Livingston, Wade, Boetler, Charles Mailes and Molly McConnell. "The Home Stretch" was adapted to the screen by Louis Stevens from the original story by Charles Belmont Davis.

This programme is one of the best presented at the Capitol in some time.—Fan Fan.

SANE BRITISH LABOR.

The position of the railways is difficult enough in all conscience, but there is now at least this relief, that Labor, as has been shown at the Railwaymen's Conference in Newcastle, has taken up a thoroughly patriotic and sensible attitude. It has 'turned down" the extremists and pronounced against further suicidal strikes. It has followed Mr. Cramp's wise lead in condemning the "jawwaggers." One of the gravest dangers to the railway industry, which affects railwaymen as well as shareholders, comes from the rapid development of motor competition. It can only be met by such bold measures as the Great Western Company is taking; but, with energy and enterprise on the part of the companies, there should be room for both forms of transport.—London Daily Mail.

PETERBORO NOT A FIRST CLASS TEAM

According to the football scribbler on the Brantford 'Expositor," Peterborough contendors in the Plenty Cup competition might be better advised to curl up and die as to try to defend themselves against such masters of the game as the Brantford eleven. A long-winded apology for Brantford's failure to win the game, winds up with the following observation: "Without underestimating the visitors, they cannot be considered a first class team." Apparently the writer was so busy framing up excuses for the Brantford team that he forgot to follow out a recognized reportorial custom and obtain the names of the visiting team. The inky seizure running a column in length does not mention the name of one of the Peterborough players.

CAMBRIDGE PROFESSOR FOR QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY.

KINGSTON, August 3. — Dr. R. Bruce Taylor, Principal of Queen's University, reports that while in England he secured the services of Dr. Stanley Smith as assistant professor in the Department of Geology and Minerology.

Dr. Smith is a Master of Arts in the University of Cambridge, Doctor of Science in the University of Durham, and Fellow of the Geological Society.

In the three years before the war he was in the British Museum classifying fossil corrols. He was also lecturer in the University of Wales at Aberystwyth. After two years of war service in England and France, he was then appointed temporarily to the geological survey for special work in the North of England.

Last winter Dr. Smith was acting head of the Geological Department of Bedford College for Women.

Dr. Smith has a long list of publications to his credit, and it is expected that he will be a distinct acquisition to the staff of Queen's University.

Professor Miller, of the University of Minnesota, asked ninety normal students to spell ten words, and the best record was seven of the ten spelled correctly. Here are the words: Repellent, collectable, picnicking, inoculate, consensus, inferred, sacriligious, dissipate, bilious, vilify.

PREMIERS OF DOMINIONS MUST CONSULT THEIR PARLIAMENTS.

LONDON, Aug. 3. — (Canadian Press.) —The Manchester Guardian says it understands the overseas Premiers have informed the Imperial Conference they must consult their respective Parliaments before agreeing to increased expenditures for the proposed Imperial scheme of aerial services. They are in favour, however, of turning to practical account the knowledge gained in the air during war time and may endorse a joint contribution if necessary.

RIVERSIDE PARK PAVILION OPENS

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY COUPLES TOOK PART IN THE DANCE.

LAKEFIELD, August 3. — The opening of the new Riverside Park Pavilion took place last night.

About one hundred and fifty couples "tripped the light fantastic" on the matchless floor to the music of Gliddon's Orchestra, while hundreds looked on.

The first night is a test, and the new pavilion has been proved and has not been found wanting. Mr. Lawless planned the building with the idea of having the finest in this district, and he has succeeded beyond a doubt. A large number were present from Peterborough, and among those present from Lakefield were Reeve and Mrs. Strickland, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Langley, Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Elmsley, Mrs. LeFevre, the Misses Hewitt, the Misses MacKenzie, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Grier, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Tanner, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Charlton, Mr. H. G. Simpson, Miss Blackburn, of Toronto, Mrs. J. F. Foley, of Toronto, and a goodly representation of the Lakefield Social Club.

The scene was like fairyland, with the dainty summer dresses of the ladies and the prettily decorated hall and the exquisite music which lured one to dance with the crowd.

PETERBORO ROTARIANS SALVAGE TWO YOUTHFUL LIVES FROM THE SHADES OF INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS

WILL BE "BIG BROTHERS" TO A COUPLE OF FATHERLESS BOYS WHO BROKE INTO GEORGE STREET JEWELLERY STORE.

Two young brothers, one fifteen and the other thirteen years old, who on Sunday stole jewellery to the value of $41.00 from a downtown jewellery store, were discharged by Police Magistrate Dumble this morning, and made unofficial wards of the Peterborough Rotary Club, the members of which will be "big brothers" to the little lads.

The youngsters made their way into the cellar of the shop from the rear by removing a wooden platform and cellar window, and left with jewellery worth $41.00. The police caught them leaving the store, the goods were recovered, and they were brought up before His Worship on Monday and remanded till to-day.

Father Dead.

The father of the boys is dead, and the mother works long hours, washing and scrubbing to support the family. The boys, particularly the eldest, have, in running to picture shows and mixing with undesirable companions, not earned such care as their toil-worn mother has shown them, the Magistrate said.

Until Chief Newhall came forth with his plan to turn the boys over to the Rotarians, Magistrate Dumble had no alternative but to send them to the Industrial School.

Mr. V. J. McElderry, Rotarian secretary, said this was not the place for the boys, and the local club would be glad to take them and see that they had every chance in life. A member would be designated as a "big brother" to each lad, and by finding him work if he wanted it, seeing he was well fed, clothed, and educated, entertaining him at his home, taking him on pleasure trips, and ensuring that he was surrounded by clean and pure influences, in this regard take the place of his father.

His Worship commended the "big brother" plan, and allowed the boys to go with Mr. McElderry.

Highly pleased with the happy fate which seemd to be theirs, but, with solemn faces, marked with the resolve to be better boys, the little fellows left the Court with their new guardian.

NIAGARA NOT TO BE PLACE OF THE DISARMING MEET

NIAGARA FALLS, Aug. 3.—(Special Despatch to the Examiner) The disarmament conference will be held in Washington and invitations sent to President Harding by the Mayor and Chamber of Commerce of this city and Niagara Falls, Ont., will be of no avail.

Mayor M. M. Thompson of Niagara Falls, N.Y., to-day made public a letter from Senator Wadsworth New York, who was asked to co-operate in an effort to bring the conference here, which stated that the Capitol of the nation would be the scene of the conference "I communicated direct with the State Department", the letter reads in part "and learned that the disarmament conference will be held in Washington, the capitol of the nation. The State Department informs me that this decision is final and that the foreign governments so understand.

It is understood that several fast horses from a distance have entered in each of the races and will provide the best in this line of sport that has been here in some time. There will be Grand Stand attractions. Band in attendance, and it will be a first class one in every respect.

HIGHER PRICES CHEESE BOARD

AVER 800 BOXES BOARDED THIS MORNING—BIDDING SLOW.

Eight hundred and forty-two boxes of cheese were boarded at the regular sale of the Peterborough Cheese Board to-day, practically the same number as two weeks ago, when there were 853. The cheese sold at 21 5-8 cents, 5-8 cent higher than the last sale.

Due to the fluctuations in the cheese market, buyers apparently are not over-anxious to buy, and it is stated are only buying as a speculation. The market may rise or may fall, and the buyers are taking a chance of loss. The apathy of buyers was apparent to-day. G. A. Gillespie and J. Cook, of W. S. Cook and Son, Belleville, with H. Nicholson, of Madoc, buying for A. A. Aires, Ltd., Montreal, were the only ones of the usual half-dozen who showed up. The absence of these buyers made the selling a little half-hearted. After waiting for a half-hour for some of their contemporaries to turn up, Mr. Nicholson appeared, but was only an onlooker. Mr. Gillespie and Mr. Cook had to start something, and Mr. Cook opened at 21 cents.

Factories Boarded.

The following cheese were boarded: Warminster 65, Selwyn 70, Villiers 140, Warsaw 145, Westwood 36, Ormonde 150, Young's Point 85, Lang 46, North Dummer 45, Killarney 60—total, 842.

The Bidding.

Mr. Cook bid four times and Mr. Gillespie three. The Belleville buyer took Villiers, Ormonde, Westwood, Lang, a total of 372 boxes, at 21 5-8. Mr. Gillespie got the other 470 at the same price.

The Cheese Board adjourned for two weeks.

REVOLUTIONIZE MOTOR INDUSTRY

FORD PLANS TO MAKE ALUMINUM FROM CLAY.

(Special Despatch to the Examiner.)

DETROIT, August 3. — Henry Ford plans to make aluminum in his River Rouge plant by a new chemical process which it is said will almost revolutionize the motor car and metal industry, it was learned here on good authority to-day.

Engineers of the Ford Company have been working for weeks on a scheme to make the metal from common clay, which is found in large quantities near the blast furnaces ,and it is claimed that the aluminum can be produced at a cost of five to seven cents a pound against the present cost of about 21 cents.

The new proess does not involve the use either of bauxite or high eletrical energy, it is claimed.

BRITAIN IS NOT URGING DELAYING DISARMING TALKS

U. S. PROPOSES ARMISTICE DAY AS DATE, BUT MATTER NOT SETTLED.

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, August 3. — The United States has proposed November 11, Armistice Day, to the Powers, as the date for the opening of the Washington disarmament and pacific conference, it was said at the State Department. No agreement has yet been reached, however, on the date.

LONDON, August 3. (United Press.) — Austen Chamberlain, replying to a question in the Commons to-day, denied that Britain was urging the postponement of the Washington disarmament conference.

The question was asked as a result of reports that Britain was attempting to delay the negotiations.

WON'T RESTORE WHITE SOX TO DIAMOND YET

PLAYERS ACQUITTED OF CONSPIRACY TO "THROW" THE WORLD'S SERIES DENIED RE-ADMISSION TO ORGANIZED BALL FOR PRESENT.

GREAT DEMONSTRATION AS VERDICT ANNOUNCED

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—(Special and Canadian Press Despatches).—The sweeping verdict of the jury which found the former Chicago White Sox players and gamblers indicted for "throwing" the world's series of 1919 to the Cincinnati Reds not guilty had not reinstated them in the good graces of the arbiter of organized baseball.

In a statement issued to-day, Judge Landis, national baseball commissioner, declared that there was no immediate prospect of the players acquitted last night being restored to organized ball.

The verdict of the jury last night was greeted with cheers from several hundred persons who had remained in court to hear decision and shouts of, "Hooray for the 'Clean Sox'."

The verdict was reached after two hours and forty-seven minutes of deliberation, but was not returned until forty minutes later, Judge Hugo M. Friend being out of court when the decision was reached.

Judge Friend congratulated the verdict.

Eddie Cicotte was the first of the defendants to reach the jurors. He grabbed William Barrett by both hands, shouting his thanks.

Joe Jackson, Claude Williams and the others were close behind, and the jurors lifted them onto their shoulders, while flashlight photographs were taken.

Bailiffs vainly pounded for order and, finally noticing Judge Friend's smiles joined in the whistling and cheering. Hats sailed high in the air, papers were thrown around and the court room was the scene of the wildest confusion in any recent Cook county criminal case.

As the jurors filed out of the room they were slapped on the back and shouted congratulatory words by the spectators.

Those indicted by the Grand Jury as a result of the baseball scandal were as follows:—

"Eddie" Cicotte, former star pitcher for the White Sox; Claude Williams, former White Sox pitcher; Arnold (Chick) Gandil, former first baseman; Charles (Swede) Risberg, former shortstop; George (Buck) Weaver, former third baseman; Joe Jackson, former outfielder; Oscar (Happy) Felsch, former outfielder; Abe Attell, former pugilist and alleged gambler; Hal Chase, former baseball player; William (Bill) Burns former player and alleged go-between; Rachael Brown, alleged New York gambler; John J. (Sport) Sullivan, alleged Boston gambler; David Zelcer, Des Moines, Iowa, advertising man and alleged gambler; Louis Levi and Ben Levi brothers, of Kokomo, Ind., Carl Zork of St. Louis.

To Organize Outlaw Team.

Judge Landis said in his statement:

"Regardless of the verdict of juries, no player who throws a ball game, no player who undertakes or promises to throw a ball game, no player who sits in a conference with a bunch of crooked players and gamblers, where the ways and means of throwing ball games are planned and discussed and does not promptly tell his club about it, will ever play professional baseball.

"Of course, I do not know that any of these men will apply for reinstatement, but if they do these are at least a few of the rules that will be enforced. Just keep in mind that regardless of the verdict of juries, baseball is entirely competent to protect itself against crooks both inside and outside of the game."

Landis statement was believed designed to cover the cases of all of the "Black Sox." "Buck" Weaver, third baseman, has always contended that he received no money for the "fixed" series, but confessions by some of the accused players said Weaver sat in on the conference with gamblers. As a result of the rulings by Landis and Comiskey, the seven players are expected to go through with their plans to organize an outlaw club and make a barnstorming trip through the country. Eddie Cicotte has already been elected captain of the "Black Sox" club and arrangements made for the trip.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—With baseball's door slammed in their faces by Judge Landis, the acquitted "Black Sox" probably will have to turn to some other profession. There seems not a chance to earn any more money in baseball uniforms.

The planned "barnstorm trip" can't succeed unless they are to secure ball parks. Club owners of the larger cities where the "Black Sox" would have to play to get sufficient money at the gate, will hesitate to take any step that might put them in the light of vindicating the players that Judge Landis to-day branded technically innocent but guilty in practice.

It is understood that efforts already have been made to secure the Brooklyn park for their New York games, but they failed. Independent and outlaw baseball crashed on the rocks this season in the financial slump that also hit the major leagues more or less. The teams at Franklin and Oil City, which included many ex-major leaguers ,have been disbanded by lack of funds to pay the salaries demanded by the players. Perhaps the "Black Sox" could get on the stage in a vaudeville act.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

Business expanded and gains were extended under the impetus of a hurried covering movement. Definite signs of improvement in various industries and confident absorption of railroad shares intimated the bear faction. The belief that the administration's plan for the relief of the railroads would soon be completed and the more favorable character of the June earnings caused a broad demand for the railroad list. Buying stagnated later and prices yielded somewhat when the renewal rate for money was marked up to 5 1-2 per cent. and several specialties began to show signs of renewed liquidation. Pierce Oil, Preferred, dropped six points, United Drug three, American Sugar 2 1-4, and General Electric 1 1-2. Foreign exchange rates were shaded with marks again, falling to a new low price for the year.

The weakness of special stocks proved too great a strain for the market to endure and prices fell off rapidly in the final hour. The closing was heavy.

12½ PER CENT. SURCHARGE ON FREIGHT SHIPMENTS TO UNITED STATES

OTTAWA, Aug. 3. — (Canadian Press.)— In accordance with the judgment and order of the Board of Railway Commissioners, dated 14th January, 1921, the rate of exchange in connection with shipments of freight between points in Canada and the United States from August first to fourteenth, inclusive, will be twelve and one quarter per cent., and the surcharge on international freight shipments will be seven per cent. The rate of surcharge on international passenger business will be based on a twelve per cent. exchange.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, Aug. 3.— (Canadian Press.) — Trading was somewhat brisker on the local stock exchange this morning and numerous gains were scored as a result. Atlantic Sugar, which for a week past has been dormant, sold at 27, three and a half points above the last sale. Canadian Pacific, after selling up to 130 1-2, re-acted to 130, a gain of half a point from yesterday's last sale, while Brazilian, the most active stock of the morning, fluctuated between 223 and 23 1-2, closing 1-4 higher at 23 1-4. Banks and bonds were quiet, with Victory 36's the most active, closing unchanged at 99.30.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press.)—The local stock exchange was not very active this morning. The general tone, however, was strong. Abitibi was up half a point at 32. Atlantic Sugar remained unchanged at 26 1-2. Brazilian was stronger by a quarter of a point at 23 1-4. Brompton was not among the strong issues this morning, dropping half a point to 21 1-4. Laurentide, too, was fractionally weaker at 70 3-4, but National Breweries was stronger by an eighth of a point at 54. Other leaders did not appear during the early trading. Abitibi lost its gain before the close. Brompton showed little strength, closing at 22 1-2. The other issues were steady.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3. — (Canadian Press.) — Wheat displayed some firmness to-day, chiefly as a result of continued shrinkage of rural offerings. Export demand, however, appeared to be lacking. General trade was light and the market easily influenced.

Opening quotations which varied from a 1-2 decline to a cent advance, with September 1.24 1-2 to 1.25 1-4 and December 1.28 1-2 to 1.29, were followed by slight general gains and then something of a re-action.

Corn remained easy, owing to the better supply of moisture. After opening unchanged to 1-4 to 3-8 cents lower, including September at 59 to 59 1-4, the market hardened a trifle and then sagged again.

Oats were strengthened by bullish estimates of yield. Prices opened unchanged to 1-8 to 1-4 off, but then scored a general upturn. Provisions averaged lower with hogs.

Close:—Wheat Sept. 1.23 1-4, Dec. 1.26 1-4; Corn, Sept., 58 5-8, Dec. 59; Oats, Sept. 38 1-8, Dec. 41; Pork, Sept. 18.85; Lard, Sept. 12.20, Oct. 12.30; Ribs, Sept. 10.65, Oct. 10.57.

YOUNG PEOPLE HELD A MEETING

AFFIRMATIVE WON DEBATE AT U.F.O. GATHERING.

One of the best-attended meetings of the season took place last evening when the Peterborough branch of the United Farmers Young People of Ontario held their monthly gathering at the U.F.O. Rooms on Simcoe Street.

A feature of the programme was the impromptu speeches delivered by the members in response to the roll-call, and the reading by Miss Pearl Petrie of several short papers on current events, prepared by different members of the club.

A debate took place on the resolution: "That country life is more beneficial to the individual than city life."

Miss Alberta Fowler and Mr. Vivian Milburn upheld the affirmative, which won the argument, and Mr. Stanley Grant who, in the absence of his partner, was compelled to present the entire case for the negative, deserves much credit for his good work. Both sides advanced some splendid points in support of their cause.

The [illegible] for the occasion were Miss Pearl Petrie and Messrs. Howard Quinn and Harold Archer.

These meetings are becoming very popular amongst the young people, and they wish to announce that the general public is welcome to attend at any time.

At the next regular meeting, which takes place on the first Tuesday of each month, it is proposed to have a corn roast with pumpkin pie, and a short programme.

TO-DAY'S FASHIONS

Separate skirts, for so long a prosaic topic, have become a very interesting one. Even those designed for staple selling, have come out of the ranks of the ordinary, if for no other reason than because of the clever arrangement of a few matter-of-fact little covered buttons. Placed at the top of a broad pleat, or a group of pleats, or on the pocket flap, clustered together like a bunch of grapes, or in some other artistic effect which the designer has worked out. The fashionable woollen skirt of the coming season will be striped. Among the fancy weaves is a line of skirting with a broad, plain stripe with venetian finish and a fancy one of the same width composed of small blocks in solid and shadow tone. Flannels are a popular skirting just now, and a sport skirt, designed and made in a Canadian factory, shows a smart model of white English flannel with blue stripe, curved set-in pockets and pearl button trimming. Pleats are still a very strong fashion feature in skirts, although some of the smartest tailored flannels in light shades are made plain and straight. As to length and width there is no change. The circular type did not make much headway. The staple navy serge skirt is going to be very popular this season.

MAN, THOUGHT TO BE DEMENTED, FIRED ON FISHERMEN IN BOAT

MEN FORCED TO LAND AND HE THREATENED TO KILL THEM IF THEY RETURNED.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

KINGSTON, Aug. 3. — Barclay Thompson, who was squatted on Bath Island, is being sought by the Napanee police, charged with deliberately firing upon two men fishing in a boat off that island. It is stated that Thompson, who is thought to be of unsound mind, ordered the fishermen away, and fired two shots at their craft which was sunk. As the result, the fishermen, Mr. Woods of Roblin ,and Mr. Whyndrew, of Napanee, were left stranded on a rock. After the sinking Thompson finally agreed to help them ashore but told them he would kill them if they returned.

WON'T ARBITRATE WAGES QUESTION

HANNA SAYS AGREEMENT ONLY TENTATIVE.

OTTAWA, Aug. 3. — (Canadian Press).—President D. B. Hanna, of the Canadian National Railways, has notified the Department of Labor that the management of the National lines will not agree to the invoking of the Industrial Disputes Act for the purpose of submitting the question of wage reductions to a Board of Arbitration.

Mr. Hanna states that the proposed agreement is tentative and subject to revision. It is expected the whole matter of wage reductions will eventually be submitted to arbitration, and invitations have been sent to all railway employees' organizations to form a joint board to deal with the whole question.

Vann, the youngest delinquent was ordered nine lashes with the cat o' nine tails, Godfrey and Graves twelve each.

WINNERS OF BOWLING CUPS AT LINDSAY

LINDSAY, Aug. 3.—Sixteen rinks competed in the fourth annual lawn bowling club tournament here, resulting in splendid sport. Dr. Mellows, of Port Perry, won the McCarty Cup for individual players; last year he carried off the Carew Cup in the consolation event. Skip White, with the veteran Peter McMillan, of Beaverton, was winner of the Carew Cup in the consolation event with individual prizes.

BITTERN FRIGHTENS LAKEFIELD LADY.
The Bible says "the tongue is a little member," and ornithology says the bittern is "a small bird of the crane species."

Still, though small, a bittern controlled the entrance to a private residence on Monday, when Mrs. Capt. ——— returned to her front door after a trip to the village at Lakefield. She found the entrance commandeered by a bittern. That bittern didn't "shoo" worth a cent—in fact, it hissed loudly, and frightened away the lady of the house.

She went for assistance, returning with a gentleman living near by.

The bittern still held the fort and hissed so fiercely that both the invaders fled. By the time they returned, augmented by the presence of other neighbours, the bittern had departed.

FUNERAL WAS HELD YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.
The funeral of the late Miss Amy K. Bennet was held yesterday afternoon from the C. P. R. Station, on the arrival of the train from Ottawa, and proceeded from there to Little Lake Cemetery, where a short service was held and the remains laid to rest in the family lot.

In loving testimony of the high esteem in which the deceased was held, a large number of friends had gathered at the station to pay their last respects. The pallbearers were: Messrs. J. E. L. Goodwill, W. H. Hill, R. Kingan, J. F. Morrison, H. Rush, and J. C. Smith. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. J. A. Mackenzie, of Knox Church.

Miss Bennet's death came both as a surprise and a great shock to her many friends. Her cheerful, unselfish service and many useful activities had endeared her to all who knew her. Her last illness was borne with great patience and Christian fortitude, and when the closing call came, she was waiting and prepared —"For ever and for ever with these just souls and true."

The Rev. Orr Bennet of Ottawa is the last surviving member of the family. The Rev. Wm. Bennet and Mrs. Bennet, father and mother, and one member, J. Williams Bennet, member of the law firm of Bennet & Goodwill, passed away a few years ago, and another brother, George, died in early manhood.

Chiropractic For Kidney Trouble

Kidney Trouble very often comes on in a sly and treacherous manner; and until the disease is well marked, the patient feels no alarm and pays no attention.
To avoid any trouble with your Kidneys, see your Chiropractor and ascertain the condition of your Spine.
You say, "What has the Spine to do with my Kidneys?"
We will answer by replying that every organ and tissue of the body is connected with the Spine through the Nerves, and when there is a pressure upon the Nerves emitting from the Spine and leading to the Kidneys, you are bound to have trouble in those organs.
Have this pressure relieved by Chiropractic Vertebral Adjustments, and the Kidneys will function normally.
TAKE CARE OF YOUR SPINE, AND YOU NEED NOT FEAR THAT YOUR KIDNEYS WILL BECOME DISEASED.
If you are already suffering from Kidney trouble, don't be discouraged, but consult your Chiropractor.

SOME SENSATIONAL DEVELOPMENTS IN IRELAND

DAIL EIREANN IS SUMMONED; CRAIG MAY MEET DE VALERA; ULSTER HAS NOT WITHDRAWN

SINN FEIN SAID TO HAVE MADE OVERTURES TO ULSTER BUT REPORTS CONFLICT AS TO CRAIG'S REPLY—BRITISH OFFICIALS PROFESS CONFIDENCE, BUT DUBLIN REPORTS ARE MARKED BY TONE OF UNEASINESS AND EVEN ANXIETY.

LONDON, August 4 (Canadian Press). — The Irish situation took a sensational turn to-day when it was announced in Dublin that Eamonn DeValera and his associates had decided to summon a full meeting of the Irish Republican Parliament to consider the British Government's Irish peace proposals.

It had been repeatedly stated in Dublin that the Dail Eireann would not be summoned until Ulster's attitude has been learned.

The calling of the meeting comes, however, in the face of the conflicting reports from Ulster—some that Ulster had replied unfavourably to the Sinn Fein overtures, others that the Ulster Ministry had received no overtures from DeValera.

DUBLIN, Aug. 4.—(Canadian Press.)—A full meeting of the "Irish Republican Parliament" is to be called. The official announcement of the call, with the date for the meeting, will be published in to-night's issue of the Irish Bulletin.

It is reported that the reply of Ulster to overtures by the Sinn Fein has been received and is not favorable.

(Special and Canadian Press Despatches.)

LONDON, Aug. 4. — Premier Craig of Ulster probably will consent to discuss the peace terms with De Valera, according to a despatch from Belfast to the Evening News to-day.

Craig presided at a session of the Ulster Cabinet at which De Valera's invitation to a conference was discussed. The Premier is not likely to consent to meeting the Sinn Fein leader in Dublin, however, the despatch said.

Reports published here that the government of Northern Ireland had definitely and finally refused to have anything to do with the government proposals relative to peace in Ireland were to-day officially declared to be "absolutely unfounded."

While government circles here profess confidence in Irish affairs progressing toward a settlement, there has been a tone of uneasiness and even of anxiety in many reports from Dublin in the past few days. These have been accompanied by exhortations for patience that the negotiations could not be hurried.

Contradictory reports come from Dublin and Belfast. On one hand it is stated direct negotiations opened between Sir James Craig and Eamonn De Valera. Others claims negotiations are in progress. The third rumor has it that negotiations are being carried on by an intermediary, whose identity is not indicated.

Sir James Craig last night was presented with a memorial by members of the British Parliament to commemorate his resignation to accept the Premiership of Ulster. "I absolutely refuse to take any side except that of Great Britain and the Empire," he said.

"Roll Tops" Are Now Under Fire

TEN YEARS SHOULD BE AGE LIMIT FOR ROLLED STOCKINGS, AVERS COBALT PRIEST.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

COBALT, Ont., Aug. 4.—The appearance recently on the street, in baseball grandstands, and elsewhere in public of the latest importation from the bathing beaches, the rolled stocking, has been met by bitter comment by local ministers. At present the girls of the northern towns, including Cobalt, Haileybury, New Liskeard and Englehart, are learning the habit rapidly, and at every dance hall are visible rows of dimpled knees. The frequency of the display has been a growing subject of comment.

Rev. Father O'Gorman, of St. Patrick's Church, has for two years refused communion to young women who patronized too conspicuously the extremes of fashion, and, regarding the latest decree, said, "It is ridiculous that any young woman should wear roll stockings after she has reached the age of ten years."

$20,000 LOSS IN KITCHENER FIRE

PLANT OF RITCHIE BUTTON COMPANY GUTTED.

KITCHENER, Ont., Aug. 4.—(Special Despatch to the Examiner)—The plant of the Ritchie Button Company was badly gutted by fire at an early hour this morning. Twenty thousands dollars loss was sustained. The firm manufactured covered buttons and skirt pleating and were very busy on orders.

TUBERCULOSIS SERUM SELLS FOR $2,000,000

Swiss Will Accept Offer of American Institution.

LONDON, August 4.—An offer of $2,000,000 for the right to dispense in the United States the famous Spahlinger serum for tuberculosis has been made by an American institution.

Dr. Sahlinger, the brilliant young Swiss bacteriologist who was in London last week to attend the International Council told friends about the offer. It is understood that the offer was made by the Rockefeller Institute, although Dr. Spahlinger did not disclose the source of the offer. He is going to accept the offer.

WOMAN APPOINTED TO SUPERVISE MOTHERS' FUND IN NORTHERN ONTARIO.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

COBALT, Aug. 4.—Word has been received here of the appointment of Miss Kennedy, a Northern Ontario nurse, to the position of inspector of mothers' pensions for the districts of Temiskaming and Algoma, left vacant by the death of William Stephenson, of Toronto. The appointment is in accordance with the local representative's request that a woman instead of a man be appointed.

Detweiler, a prominent merchant, striking her as she was alighting from a standing street car at the corner of Spring and Queen Streets. SEVEN YEARS AGO TO-DAY

GERMANY TORE UP THE "SCRAP OF PAPER," PRECIPITATING THE WORLD INTO CHAOS WHICH COST THIS CITY 256 LIVES AND $536,000.

Seven years ago to-day war was declared between Great Britain and Germany with France on one side of Teutonic nation and Russia on the other as Allies, began the terrific conflict with the Central Powers that cost the best blood of the world left nations drenched in revolution and others in anarchy, almost as serious in bankruptcy and left nations dazed from this world upheaval which is still rumbling and a shell shocked universe that will be many years getting back to what is called normalcy.

In the sunny days of July, 1914, Canadians little thought that within a month the Dominion would be called upon to send troops to defend the Empire against the strongest armies of Europe and the fair fields of France and Flanders covered with dead bodies. Little did Canadians dream that the Empire was on the verge of a devastating struggle of four years when blood would run like water and men would kill each other with infernal machines.

On July 28, 1914 Austria made a formal declaration of war on Serbia and Austrian troops crossed the Danube. On July 29, Russia says she will mobilize at once if the Austrians enter Servia. All exchanges closed and stocks panicky.

In the possibility of Canada being drawn into the war fighting for the Empire, the announcement was made that the Canadian Militia would not be ordered out of the country for service. All sent to help the Motherland would have to be volunteers.

The war clouds on Aug. 1 hung darker over Europe. Germany demanded Russia to cease mobilization of her troops within 12 hours. England was being rapidly drawn to protect Belgium neutrality and finally on Aug. 4, 1914, seven years ago (to many like a century) war was declared between Britain and Germany.

Calls for volunteers were made in Peterboro as everywhere else. Everyone was excited and nervous under the strain of strange happenings. No one knew what was coming. Few thought of a long protracted war. The feeling generally was except where wiser heads pervaded, that the war would be over in six months and the men who filled the First Contingent practically all shared this opinion.

On Aug. 7, 1914, volunteers were called for in Peterboro, for the 57th Regiment and 24th Field Battery. By August 18, the regiment had signed up 123 men, the 24th Battery 75, the 45th Regiment Lindsay 15, Cobourg Garrison Artillery 10. Twenty-five reservists had gone to join the colours, 35 men had joined the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons and seven nursing sisters had volunteered.

With kisses and smiles for dear ones and a wave of the hand to old friends, the Peterboro detachment of the 2nd Battalion First Contingent left the city on the first leg of the long journey from which most of them did not return. The spirit of adventure was strong among these men and all were fearful the war would be over before they reached Flanders soil.

There were immense crowds to see the men off. Business was suspended and factories closed and the streets jammed with people. The heroes left on the 8:30 train Lt.-Col. Clegg, Major Geo. W. Bennett, Major Jos. Mills and Lt. C. H. Ackerman were the officers. There were 124 men and one non-com.

On Aug. 23, they arrived at Valcartier. On Oct. 2, after arranging and drilling the units the First Contingent with the Peterboro men in the 2nd Battalion left Quebec for England, where they went to muddy Salisbury Plains.

Ottawa made its first announcement of the first Contingent being in France on Feb 16, 1915. In the Battle of Langemarck the unit was cut to pieces and one Peterboro boy wrote that only 18 men out of the 128 men, who went into the battle came out unscathed.

The part Peterborough played in the war is a long and glorious one. From the first call for volunteers Peterboro city and county sent the flower of its youth. At first many went in the spirit of adventure as the struggle continued the seriousness grew on the volunteers, they knew what faced them, but they went gladly and gave of all that had in the Armageddon that reddened the fields of Flanders a deeper red than the scarlet of the poppies waving above.

From the city 256 men gave their lives, from the county 147 died that wars might end. Total enlistments from the city and county were 3,616. Sorrowing still the sacrifice of dear one are 123 widows and widowed mothers whose husbands and sons last meeting place are beneath rows of white crosses in France or Belgium, Saloniki, Mesopotamia or the Holy Land.

"Let us have peace."

NEW SHIPS TO REPLACE FOUR NOW OBSOLETE

COL. AMERY TELLS COMMONS NO CHALLENGE OR PROVOCATION IS CONTAINED IN THIS POLICY.

ARE BATTLE CRUISERS WITH 16-INCH GUNS

LONDON, Aug. 4. — (Canadian Press).—Discussing the naval estimates in the House of Commons, Lieut.-Colonel Amery, Parliamentary Secretary of the Admiralty, announced that the four replacement ships the Government proposed to build would be battle cruisers of the Hood type, armed with 16-inch guns, and designed to obviate the need of larger dockyards than at present exist.

Contending there was no element of challenge or provocation in this policy of replacing obsolete ships, he said it was simply a policy circumscribed within the narrowest limit postponed to the very latest date consistent with the Empire's safety.

BATTLESHIP IS SUPREME WEAPON ON OCEAN STILL

TESTS OF AERIAL WARFARE BY U.S. NOT COMPLETELY SATISFACTORY.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4. —The battleship is still the supreme weapon of sea warfare.

This it was learned to-day, is the essence of the reports, submitted to the joint United States Army and Navy Board by the official observers who watched the recent aerial bombing tests of the obsolete and former German naval craft off the Virginian capes.

It is understood that the observers do not think that the tests which culminated in the spectacular sinking of the ex-German battleship Ostfriesland by 2,000 pound aerial bombs should bring about a reversal in the present construction of the American navy.

However, a number of technical changes in the future construction of American war vessels to meet the progress of aerial warfare are said to be recommended.

OFFICIALS HOT ON SPURGIN'S TRAIL

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Warren C. Spurgin, missing president of the Michigan Avenue Trust Company was under surveillance in Mexico to-day, according to word reaching authorities here to-day.

Spurgin was recognized when he left the train at Marfa, Texas. He crossed the line into Mexico, July 19, according to the reports, obtaining a passport under the name of "Scott." Officials were notified by a taxi driver, who said he recognized Spurgin from pictures. They trailed the banker towards Chihuahua City.

The report of the bank examiner, made public to-day, appeared to show Spurgan obtained $1,955,494. Plans for re-organizing the bank so that depositors would receive 100 cents on the dollar were understood to have been abandoned. Other officers did not feel they could make up the huge loss.

It is hoped, however, that the bank's shortage may be materially lessened by the determination of the value of loans, bonds and stocks that are now listed as doubtful.

A reward of $2,500 has been offered for his capture.

FAMINE CAUSES GROWTH OF ANTAGONISM IN MOSCOW—PLACARDS CARRIED TO VERY WALLS OF KREMLIN.

TRANSPORT STARVING FROM FAMINE AREAS

(By United Press.)

LONDON, August 4th. — Anonymous attacks on the Lenine-Trotsky Government are being made in Moscow ,because of the food situation, according to messages received here to-day.

"Away with Lenine and Trotsky, only a Czar can restore despairing Russia," was the inscription on placards posted in Moscow up to the very walls of the Kremlin.

A report was circulated here to-day based on messages from Riga, that American prisoners to be released under the agreement with Secretary Hoover, had reached that port.

According to the Soviet delegation here the Russian government is transporting thousands of sufferers from the famine district to places nearer the border where they can be reached easily by the relief commision. More than 150,000 persons have been transferred, it was said.

GERMANY BATTLES PLAGUE PROGRESS

RAISES SANITARY BARRIER ALONG RUSSIAN FRONTIER.

By Carl D. Groat

(United Press Staff Correspondent).

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—The German authorities began to-day the re-erection of a sanitary barrier to prevent the entrance of plague from Russia. Reports to the German Relief Commission said cholera had broken out in Warsaw, where it was carried by refugees. It was also reported several cases appeared in Danzig.

Germany's relief work will be confined to loaning medical assistance and chemical products to Russia, according to the Commission. The work met a set-back when no replies were received to Germany's request that safe conduct be granted the medical workers who are ready to go to Russia. Five physicians and a number of nurses are ready to embark on the first relief ship.

'BUS TRANSPORT VERSUS TROLLEY

DES MOINES FORCED TO GIVE TRIAL TO "JITNEYS".

DES MOINES, Iowa, Aug. 4. — (By United Press.)— Des Moines was a city without street cars to-day. The modern "gas bus" chased the old-fashioned trolley car off the streets. All Des Moines—and there are 150,000 people here—was either walking to-day or patronizing the victorious "jitneys."

Electric traction stopped on order of Judge Martin Wade, who appointed F. C. Chambers and H. A. Miller, receivers for the Street Car Company and then directed them to suspend service because the lines were losing money.

Bus owners who have been fighting the street cars by charging a five cent fare while the street cars got eight, to-day through their attorneys reiterated their statement that they would not employ a larger fleet of buses to handle traffic unless a franchise giving them exclusive rights to the use of the streets for a period of set years was granted by the Council. But owners and the city council now stand deadlocked over the matter of the franchise following the city council's refusal last night to meet the demand.

Seventy-two busses are available. They have a seating capacity of twenty each, can hold forty and can make a trip in from forty minutes to an hour. Since 100,000 rides a day must be provided, the bus fleet is entirely inadequate. More than a thousand men were thrown out of work when the cars stopped operation.

Bicycles, used automobiles, anything on wheels, were at a premium to-day. Rickety old waggons, discarded for years, were brought out to drive persons to and from work. The street car property is to be sold. As yet no purchasers have come forth to buy the rolling stock and operate the lines. Under the old franchise it is possible the property will be sold at a reduction, a car at a time, a rail at a time.

OVERSEER VOLIVA'S BLUE-LAWS HELP ZION'S COFFERS.

ZION, Ills., Aug. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Smoking a pipe in Zion cost Frederick Stockstill $65 to-day This city, which has an ordinance regulating women's dress and how its residents shall spend Sunday, also has a ban against smoking.

"This thing must stop", a Judge remarked when he fined Stockstill.

"Stop", Stockstill replied, 'I'm as stopped as my name would indicate.'

PENETANGUISHENE TERCENTENARY REACHES DRAMATIC CLIMAX IN END OF FEUD BETWEEN ANCIENT FOES.

ONE OF THE BITTEREST WAGED IN N. AMERICA

PENETANGUISHENE, Ont., Aug. 4.—(Canadian Press).—With reconciliation between the supreme chiefs of those hereditary foes, the Hurons and Iroquois Penetanguishene Tercentenary yesterday reached a dramatic climax. With all the pomp and solemnity of the past came to an end one of the bitterest feuds that ever raged on the North American Continent, a feud that was raging when the first white man set foot on these shores and whose echoes were heard in the council halls of the old world.

FEW APPLICATIONS AT RELIEF OFFICE

PETERBORO STANDS WELL UP IN TIMES OF STRESS.

Although there is a certain amount of unemployment in the city, there have been up to date very few applications for help at the office of the Relief Officer. One only has been passed recently, and this was in the case of a man who, owing to his physical condition, could not have worked had work been available. However, those officials who breathed a sigh of thankfulness at the conclusion of last winter's relief programme, anticipating no renewal of such a strenuous season, now wonder if next season will not surpass it in rigor, if the local unemployment situation continues to exist as at present.

To-day, a little Englishwoman and her family of small children started on a return journey to England, from whence they came only a few months ago. The husband and father has deserted them for the third time, having gone off and left them to their own devices, once in Scotland, once in England, and again after bringing them out to Canada. The city authorities, in conjunction with the Patriotic Fund, have been looking after them, and to-day saw them starting once more for an ocean voyage to England, where the woman has relatives and friends.

$200 PROVIDES FOR FEW BEACH REPAIRS

Ald. Gainey and City Engineer Parsons looked over the Inverlea Beach this morning with the object of ascertaining to what extent the Council's appropriation of $200 would cover the proposed improvements. They decided to comb out the stones in the section mentioned by Ald. Turner and to form a new bottom by dumping sand there. The small allowance will not provide for repairs to the concrete wall, Ald. Gainey stated, but the improvements decided upon will be carried out at once under Mr. Parson's supervision.

CONSOLIDATING NATIONAL LINES GREAT PROBLEM

OTTAWA EXPECTS THAT IT WILL TAKE YEAR TO COMPLETE TASK—INVOLVES CASES OF DELICATE ADJUSTMENT.

HEADQUARTERS LIKELY LOCATED IN CAPITAL

(Special Despatch to the Examiner.)

OTTAWA, August 4. — That the big problem of consolidating the Canadian National Railways will occupy a year, is the expectation here. The problem is one which involves many questions of delicate adjustment and in which jealousies may be created unless the process of consolidation and reorganization is carried on gradually.

The award of the Grand Trunk Board of Arbitration is expected by September. In the meantime, however, the scheme has been vested in the Government under a joint board of which Sir Joseph Westley Flavelle is the head. As soon as the award has been made the government will issue new 4 per cent. stock which will be given in return for the common and preferred stocks to the value fixed by the arbitrators.

It is anticipated here that Sir Jos. Flavelle may be induced to undertake the difficult task of consolidation, at least even though he may decline to become the permanent head of the consolidated system.

The former connection of D. B. Hanna with the Canadian Government system, might conceivably render it a difficult and delicate task to eliminate the duplication of staffs, equipment, etc., in connection with the Grand Trunk, which was formerly a competing road.

The general opinion here is that the executive headquarters of the consolidated systems will be at Ottawa. This, however, does not involve much change in the present offices at Toronto, Montreal and Winnipeg, which will continue to be divisional points.

MAY HAVE TO CHANGE MIGRATORY BIRDS' ACT

GRAND MANAN, N. B., Aug. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Nine men of these islands were recently fined for gathering the eggs of the herring gull or molesting wild ducks out of season. Prosecutions were made under the Migratory Birds' Act.

Sea gulls start laying about May 24 each year, making their nests of straw in open pastures near the shore. The eggs are as large as those of ordinary hens and resemble crow eggs very much. There is a keen demand for them as articles of food and as a result the fishermen of Grand Manan and neighboring islands made a very good thing out of gathering the eggs for market. Each day they visited the nests and took a single egg from each one. Many of the eggs laid early in the season are infertile or lose their hatching power through the cold weather of the season. About the middle of June, however, the birds were allowed to nest and the gull population did not decrease as a result of the depredations of the fishermen.

The Migratory Birds' Act does not take into consideration the later and colder season in the district or the fact that the egg gatherers gave the birds a chance to set at the time when the eggs were fertile and would probably hatch. This spring an officer visited the islands and warned the fishermen that their activities in the egg business must cease. Many of them did suspend operations, but others failed to heed the warning, and as a result of a second visit of the law a number of them were fined the minimum for their offense.

It is understood that there is a possibility of the authorities giving consideration to local conditions before next spring.

CONFERENCE AT WASHINGTON ON ARMISTICE DAY

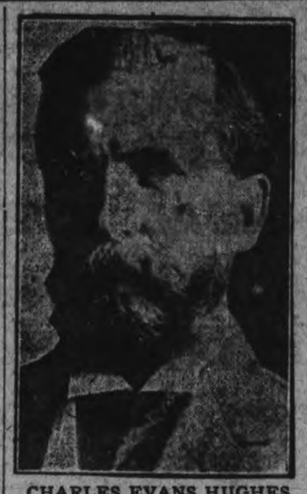
IS PRACTICALLY CERTAIN PARLEYS WILL OPEN THEN—HUGHES LIKELY TO PRESIDE, WASHINGTON BELIEVES.

YAP AND SHANTUNG JAP RESERVATIONS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press.)—The Washington conference on the limitation of armament and Pacific questions will meet at noon on Armistice Day. As the United States has indicated that November 11 is the date it favors, and as Japan, China and England have intimated their acquiesence, it is practically certain that the parleys will open at that time, it was announced at the State Department yesterday.

All Washington believes that the presiding officer of the conference will be Secretary of State Hughes. There will be a Secretary General and a Secretariat as at the Versailles Conference, but it is expected the head of the Secretariat will be elected by the Conference.

By Armistice Day Japan will have discussed whta she thinks should be excluded and it is expected that she will go in with Yap and Shantung as reservations, provided she does not submit to ante-conference settlements of those questions which will be accetpable to the United States.



CHARLES EVANS HUGHES,

U. S. Secretary of State, who is expected to preside at the conference on disarmament and Pacific problems in November. Hughes was the unsuccessful Republican candidate against Woodrow Wilson in the Presidential election of 1916.

CAMPBELLFORD PERSONALS

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 4. — Mr. and Mrs. James Kelly of Markham, are visiting Mr and Mrs. P. J. Kelly of town.

Rev. Father O'Sullivan of Wooler was visiting in town on Wednesday.

A slippery boy dreads his mother's slipper.

BIG CROWD SAW CAMPBELLFORD DEFEAT HAVELOCK BY 9 TO 5

FAST LACROSSE GAME IN CAMPBELLFORD ON WEDNESDAY—HAVELOCK WERE TWO GOALS AHEAD AT ONE STAGE BUT FADED—A CLEAN CONTEST

CAMPBELLFORD, August 3. — By the score of 9 goals to 5 Campbellford defeated Havelock in a rattling game of lacrosse here to-day in the intermediate series of the O. A.L.A. This was their first meeting in the second round of the district schedule. In the first round each team had won at home, the last game going to Havelock by one goal. That victory had made them confident of winning right on Campbellford's Exhibition Park, and at half time the C.P.R. lads were leading by 4 to 3. Early in the second half they notched another, but from that on they were shut out, while Campbellford came through with six goals in a row.

A big crowd from all over the Trent Valley district witnessed the game. Havelock, Norwood, Hastings and Sterling practically shut up shop. All but four of Campbellford's stores were closed from 2.30 p.m. until 5.30 p.m., and the immense concourse of automobiles included many from Marmora and Madoc and from as far as Cobourg and Brighton. The gate receipts totalled $571.25. Altogether it was a big day for Campbellford.

The home team, which is now being coached by "Dot" Phelan, of Cornwall, although it was only recently that he took charge, played well from Pat Kelly in goal to Pete Johnston at inside home. Kelly was sick, but his illness did not noticeably affect his game. No substitutes were used, and the regular team went the whole pace. The home or forward line was in particularly good form, in fact the best they have displayed this season. Kerr and Johnston worked hard all afternoon and were largely responsible for Campbellford's goal getting. Harte and Jack Nesbitt were always in the play, but Jacobs did not appear to be as effective as usual. Pete Johnston excelled himself, especially in the third quarter when goals were needed, and Kerr handled himself with the wisdom and skill of a veteran. Thomas, Alexander, Kerr and Johnston may claim a big share of the honours of to-day's victory.

For Havelock, Powers in goal stopped a lot of hard shots. Charlie Holmes and Doug. Brennan were on top of most of the play. Pete King bumped into big Alexander early in the fray and limped during most of the game after that collision, but he gamely hung on. Bill Brinkman tried hard and was given a rough passage, but the Havelock team work was lacking the dash they showed in several of their previous games. And they didn't handle the ball as cleanly as the Campbellford players. This was a glaring weakness in the last period, when they still had a chance but spoiled three or four attacks by loose work. Besides that, Pacey, who was substituted for the sturdy Hooper, and O'Brien, drew penalties within a few minutes of each other just when their presence on the field was need? ed most. With both of them off, Campbellford got the goals that tied the score ,and apparently took the heart out of the Havelock team.

Game Well Handled.

The game was clean throughout, and was splendidly handled by Len Smith as referee and W. R. Harcourt as judge of play. The Toron, to officials were joined also by another Toronto man, C. W. James, a traveller who happened to be in Campbellford on business, as penalty timekeeper.

The final game between these two teams will be played in Havelock on August 26. A win for Campbellford gives them the district, but if the C.P.R. boys grab it the district will be tied up with two wins for each of these two teams. Havelock players admit that their practices have not been properly attended, and some of them were obviously not in mid-season condition.

The Line-Up.

The teams were as follows:

Havlecok.		Campbellford.
E. Powers	goal	P. Kelly
J. Hoooper	point	C. Alexander
R. O'Brien	cover-point	T. Thomas
D. Wright	1st def.	C. Montgomery
C. Holmes	2nd def.	B. Gannon
A. McGee	centre	Abe Jacobs
D. Brennan	2nd home	J. Nesbitt
W. Brinkman	1st home	L. Harte
W. Haughton	outside home	J. Kerr
E. King	inside home	P. Johnston
L. Pacey	subs.	L. Hill
J. McGill		V. Farrell
G. Wright		J. Blute

Referee —Len Smith; Judge of Play, W R. Harcourt; Penalty Timekeeper, C. W. James, all of Toronto.

The Game.

Campbellford started with a burst of speed that drove Havelock back against their goal, and kept them there for the first ten minutes. Jacobs drew the ball from the face off to Gannon and the first rush was away. The ball travelled back to the Campbellford goal, but Alexander relieved and passed to Kerr. Several rushes brought no results. Harte muffed a pass from Jacobs in front of an empty net. Jack Nesbitt started another combination. Campbellford pressed hard in this opening stage, and Harte finally scored on a pass from Kerr.

Havelock began gradually to find their feet. Charlie Holmes started a combination, but Alexander mussed it up simply by letting the fast, light Pete King bump into him. This legitimate use of the body seemed to take the steam out of King. He limped the rest of the game, but he was in on Havelock's next rush, passing to Doug. Brennan, who whiffed the ball past Kelly.

Hooper intercepted Johnston's pass in a Campbellford combination, and ran nearly the length of the field. His pass to King went wide. Jacobs broke through the Havelock defense, but Powers made a great stop. Kerr came back with another that was marked for a goal, but Powers turned it aside. Alexander stopped King again, and at theopposite end Nesbitt's shot was blocked by Powers. Alexander broke up the next Havelock attack by intercepting a pass from Brinkman. Pete Johnston wriggled through the defense and was clear away but his

EQUALITY WITH EVERY POWER THE MINIMUM

LONDON, Aug. 4.—(Canadian Press).—It was announced in the House of Commons yesterday that the Imperial Cabinet has considered the whole burden of the naval security of the Empire and the conclusions to which consideration had led were embodied in a resolution passed at a meeting of the premiers of Empire, namely, 'that while regognizing the necessity of cooperation of the various portions of the Empire in providing such naval defence as may prove to be essential for security and while holding that equality with the naval strength of any other power is the minimum standard for that purpose, this conference is of the opinion that the method and extent of such cooperation are a matter for the final determination of the several parliaments concerned and any recommendation thereon should be deferred until after the forthcoming conference on disarmament."

CEREMONY MARKS PRESENTATION OF APSLEY TROPHIES

REEVE DUNCAN BROWN PRESIDED —APSLEY NEWS.

APSLEY, Aug. 4.—The war trophies, consisting of a Trench mortar and machine gun that was presented to Apsley some time ago were duly installed Tuesday with befitting ceremonial one on either side of the war memorial in the presence of a number of the residents and most of the members of the Red Cross Auxiliary. Reeve Duncan Brown presided at the ceremony which opened with prayer by the Rev. C. A. G. Spence, followed by the singing of "O Canada," after which Mr. Spence gave a short address explaining the steps that were taken to secure the trophies and which terminated so successfully. When the trophies had been received a public meeting was held to decide when they should be placed and a committee had been appointed to raise the war monument and place it on a base large enough to accommodate them. This work had been delayed, but it was felt that the guns should be on public view and the Red Cross Auxiliary who did so much towards winning the war, holding a social event in the village today, the installation under its auspices seemed a suitable and happy occasion.

On the invitation of the speaker Mr. John Coones, a veteran of the Great War then removed the covering from the guns and "Rule Brittania" was sung. The Rev. W. Hall followed with an address eulogizing the work of the Red Cross and the sacrifice made by Apsley's sons. One of the ideals the boys had fought for was the spirit of brotherhood, and he hoped to see this ideal materialized in the formation of a Brotherhood in Apsley. The ceremony then concluded with the singing of the National Anthem.

CARUSO'S BODY LIES IN STATE IN OLD CHURCH

NAPLES, ITALY, AND FOREIGN COUNTRIES JOIN TO PAY FINAL TRIBUTE—GREATEST CEREMONY IN NAPLES HISTORY.

WIDOW IS SHOWING GREAT FORTITUDE

BY CAMILLO CIANFARRA,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NAPLES, Aug. 4.—Enrico Caruso passed from the stage to-day. Despite the solemnity of the funeral services and the grief which all Naples displayed, the feeling persisted that Caruso merely had finished a part and that he was retiring while the plaudits of the audience echoed.

Part of this feeling was due to the magnificence of the funeral plans. Naples' history goes back to a remote age, but no legend tells of richer ceremonies or more genuine grief than were displayed to-day for the one-time mechanic.

The national and city governments co-operated to see that the highest honor was paid Caruso. King Victor Emmanuel personally saw to it that the famous churchof San Francesco Di Paola should be the scene of the last ceremonies. Representatives of the city of Naples and of other countries were to pay a final tribute.. Until the hour of removal to the church the great tenor's body lay in the hotel room where he breathed his last.

Caruso lay as he probably would if the had prepared the plans himself. Immaculate in evening dress, the studs and the silver buckled shoes, the tenor was as fastidious in his final appearance as he had been in life. His face composed, lighted by perfumed candles, still showed the faint smile with which he faced death.

The body was to be removed to the Royal Chapel to-day in a private hearse which last was used for the state funeral of Minister Gianturco years ago.

Music for the church services was provided by the great orchestra of the San Carlo Theatre, whose instruments had been the foil for Caruso's great voice. The famous composer, Gilea, a close friend of Caruso, wielded the baton which directed the orchestra in sacred music and dirges.

All Naples appeared to be gathering for the services. Only a small portion of the great crowds could be admitted to the church. Noble and peasant alike sought the opportunity to participate.

One of the marvels of Neapolitans, was the fortitude of the widow. Plainly grief stricken, she calmly superintended the details of the funeral and discussed the singer's business affairs with his agents.

The widow has announced that she will make her home in Italy hereafter, retaining the great villa near here for her residence. Her daughter Gloria will be reared as an Italian.

Mrs. Caruso will return to America soon after the funeral to close the estate there and superintend the removal of the tenor's effects.

WOMAN MAKES HOME FOR FUTURE HUSBAND

MONTREAL, Aug. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Both song and story have always depicted the young man as leaving home and mother to build a "little grey home in the west" for the girl he loves, but Miss May V. Hazlett, an English lady, has reversed the order of things. For four years she has lived alone on a farm homestead by her brother in the big Touchwood Hills, Saskatchewan, has worked the land herself, made money and is now in Montreal on her way to England to get married. After a three months stay there she will return with her husband to settle on her Saskatchewan farm. Miss Hazlett, who is staying at the Queen's Hotel, said that, in her opinion, Governments should offer facilities for unmarried women to homestead, for she believes they could carry on as well as men.

LIVESTOCK MEN FACE DISASTER, AVERS HERALD

DOMINION GOVERNMENT MUST GIVE IMMEDIATE ATTENTION TO SITUATION GROWING OUT OF NEW U.S. TARIFF.

PRICES ARE LOWEST IN TWENTY YEARS

CALGARY, Aug. 4.— (Canadian Press.)—Discussing the crisis in the live stock industry of Canada the Calgary Herald in a front page editorial says in part: "Canadian stock men are at the mercy of American buyers. Neither market is available and prices have been knocked down to the lowest point they have reached for twenty years. Low as prices are, the western stockman has also to pay a thirty per cent. duty imposed by the Young-Fordney measure, plus the amount of exchange."

The Herald strongly urges the Dominion government to give immediate attention to this situation. "Suggestions looking to relief will be made to the government. These should be given prompt consideration. Complete investigation may show that extraordinary steps will be required to secure a remedy, but we trust the government will not hesitate to act boldly and energetically to avert, if it is possible to do so, an imminent national disaster."

ULSTER NOT TO ACCEPT GOVT'S PEACE OFFER

RECOLLECTIONS OF STIRRING DAYS OF 1914, WHEN ULSTER MEN MOBILIZED TO RESIST HOME RULE REVIVED.

BELFAST REPORTS SAY NORTH IS OBDURATE

LONDON, Aug. 4.—(By United Press).—Recollections of the days of 1914 when Ulster trained an army to resist Home Rule and high officers of the British Army resigned rather than fight the Ulstermen were brought back to-day by reports that those same Northern Counties are refusing to accept the new Irish settlement.

If Ulster stands firm in its reported intention, defying both the British Government and the Sinn Fein majority in Ireland, the Lloyd George Ministry probably will have a grave problem on its hands. The question is, will the government rush troops to Ulster and try to force that district into line, and, if such a course is decided on, will the army officers follow it?

Rumors that Ulster is holding out had their origin in the delay in the announcement of a settlement, although it was understood several days ago that Lloyd George and De Valera were in agreement.

The Daily News to-day published a Belfast despatch which said Ulster had definitely and finally rejected the Government's proposals, that it wont' accept he Dominion status as a unit or state under an Irish Federal Government. It insists, this despatch said, on having a status in the Empire equal to that of all the rest of Ireland.

The Telegraph said hat reports of Ulster being obdurate on the fiscal question were unfounded in direct negotiation between Ulster and the rest of Ireland are proceeding, this paper asserted. It added that the British Government was fully aware of Ulster's viewpoint which has been the same throughout and which does not justify the rupture rumors.

A TRAGIC WARNING.

If the legal killing of Roy Hotrum and William McFadden in Toronto yesterday morning fails to act as a warning to other reckless men who may feel the impulse to follow along the path of crime, the main justification for the taking of life by the State will be wiped out of existence. These two young men could not have seen the inevitable end of their unlawful enterprises, or surely the desire for self-preservation alone would have stopped them before it was too late. They saw only the chance of obtaining money without working for it, and in their greed ignored the sacredness of human life and the almost certain punishment that would be theirs if their plans miscarried.

And yesterday they were taken out on a scaffold and hanged. Other potential criminals have the story of Hotrum and McFadden to guide them back into the honest road. Both men did not commit murder; perhaps the one who did not fire the shot had no thought of killing in his heart, but he associated himself with a criminal enterprise in the carrying out of which murder was committed and so both fared alike. The warning is plain enough for all to read.

HOHENZOLLERN'S TAX BILL.

William Hohenzollern, now a citizen of Doorn in Holland, and a few years ago quite well known in other parts of the world as the German Kaiser, has a grievance. That is not a new state of affairs for William, for always he has entertained one or more. Not so long ago he was clamouring for a place in the sun, and he succeeded in upsetting the world before he was finally persuaded that it was a villa in Holland he really wanted. But he is in trouble again—this time in a plight that would earn him the sympathy of fellow-sufferers everywhere if he had not previously violated all claims to the consideration of humanity. His tax bill is too high. Perhaps the citizens at Doorn are building a new high level bridge on the cost plus basis or installing a filtration plant. The cable gives no information on this point, but at all events William protests against his assessment on his income as exorbitantly high. That is a fine predicament for the once proud monarch who modestly gave God some little credit for assisting him in some of his enterprises. The taxation authorities at Doorn, it is hoped, will show no mercy, for the world is enjoying the spectacle of the ex-Kaiser squirming to escape the inevitable.

VAIN HOPES.

Some newspapers which are antagonistic to the Hydro enterprise are hailing the appointment of a new commissioner by the Drury Government as a sign that the influence of Sir Adam Beck is to be firmly curbed and that the whole Hydro scheme is to be brought under the control of the Ontario Government. The wish in this case seems to be father to the thought. No one knows better than do the enemies of Ontario's great power system that the scheme has succeeded only because it has been kept free from Government influence and interference, and consequently no one is more anxious than are they to see the policy changed in order that the enterprise may yet be wrecked. As Mr. R. T. Jeffrey, of the Hydro Commission, puts it, the the Hydro scheme is a municipal ownership scheme operated under municipal control. If the Commission is to be made only a puppet body with the strings manipulated by the Government, as some newspapers hostile to public ownership are hoping, there is reason to fear for the continued success of the enterprise. Mr. Miller does not, however, seem to be the type to allow himself to be a rubber stamp for the convenience of the Government. His record of successful business operations gives strength to the hope that he will not interfere with the policy that has made Hydro a success.

THE REVIVAL OF CRICKET.

During one of the recent cricket matches between the English and Australian teams, an incident occurred that has had previous parallels and that finely exemplifies the spirit of the great English game. The umpire had ruled against an appeal that an Australian was "out," and almost immediately after the batsman played a ball on to his wicket. In the opinion of the observers he did this designedly, recognising that the umpire's decision was not in accordance with the fact.

Many years ago one of the Eton eleven was given "not out" on appeal that the ball had touched his bat before being caught. He at once said, "But it did touch it," and left the pitch. Some may think that these players would have been perfectly justified in accepting the verdict of the umpire as conclusive, and doubtless something can be said for that view. But the point is that cricket has been always a game where a high standard of conduct has been expected and maintained, and no severer censure can be passed on any action than that "It's not cricket." "Play the game" is one of the mottoes most universal among Englishmen of all classes, and the exceptions prove rather than disprove the rule.

On Saturday the London Advertiser printed an editorial on "The Revival of Cricket," with special reference to the effort now being made to re-introduce the game in St. Thomas. "Some of the prominent residents of St. Thomas," it remarked, "are old cricketers. We wish them complete success. It is the best of all games, and is of great educational value." We would associate ourselves with that opinion, while frankly admitting that many Canadians can see little or nothing in cricket, and hold it in small esteem compared to baseball. This estimate, however, is evidently the result of ignorance of the fine points of cricket that make every ball in a long innings an object of the keenest attention on the part of its devotees. To those who like to see a game begun and finished in a couple of hours to the accompaniment of plenty of thrills and excitement, baseball is doubtless the snappier entertainment. But we doubt if it is any more fascinating than a contest between two teams that are worthy exponents of the English national game.

Not having been subjected to the influence of a big near-by neighbour with a craze for another form of ball game, Australia, the most English of the Dominions, has naturally become a great cricket country. The climate permits it to be played all the year round, and it divides with horse racing the interest and attention of the Australian public. The southern experts have again demonstrated their superiority over their English rivals, whose efforts to "bring back the ashes" failed last year in Australia, and this year in England. Defeat, however, is acting as a stimulus in England to develop elevens after the Australian fashion, and this is all for the good of the splendid game.

We would like to see cricket more cultivated in St. Thomas and in Canada, and the movement in that direction will have our best support. —St. Thomas Times-Journal.

FORBIDDEN

Author of "Love"

THE ROSE DIAMOND.

Chapter 29.

When a woman gives herself, body and soul, to a man, it does not happen in a minute. It is not a love at first sight, married the next day, kind of attachment. Kent's and my love was founded on a wonderful fascination, plus a deep compatability, that had been welded through two years of happiness and understanding. Such a union was not easily broken.

The stolen diamond loomed up big and threatening, but it could not destroy our love. It hurt, yes—but it could not kill our love.

Kent's relation to me was not a usual or casual one. When he hurt me, he hurt his self-respect and weakened his sense of power. I felt that in this very fact lay his chance to exonerate himself.

Through his love for me, and my love and faith in him, he would be able to see the thing in its true meaning and rise above it.

I knew that even though Kent should return the diamond, that would not be enough—he must repent of the act itself. And it was because I believed in the great power and ability of my love to save him that I had strength to go on day by day.

Then one day Kent telephoned me that he would be late getting home for dinner. He told me not to wait, that if he found he was going to be very late he would get something to eat, and come home as soon as he could afterward.

I ate something about 7 o'clock and then sat down to read and wait for Kent.

A subtle uneasiness seemed to permeate the atmosphere. I could not concentrate on my book. I reasoned with myself that it was absurd to get nervous. Kent had said he would be late. Yet I worried, and kept watching and hoping each minute would bring him.

It was not so very late when he did come, but I knew at once that something had happened.

He was deathly white, and caught hold of my shoulder to steady himself as he came in the door.

"Kent, you are sick," I gasped, putting my arm around him.

He did not answer me.

I led him to a chair, and rushed to get a drink of water.

When I came back his head was thown against the chair back and his eyes were closed. My heart nearly stopped beating. A wild, rebellious feeling rushed over me. Fate had been so cruel; it had tried to harm our love and now perhaps Kent was going to be ill. He might be taken from me forever.

As I came near him he opened his dear eyes and tried to smile at me.

"There Babs, don't worry," he patted my hand. "I just feel sort of all in, but I'll be better soon."

I gave him the drink and bathed his forehead and wrists. Then I sat down by him and held his cold, slender hand in mine.

"Have you had anything to eat, dear?" I asked suddenly.

"No, I guess I haven't," he confessed.

"Oh, Kent, no wonder," I admonished. "Will you be all right while I go and get something for you?"

"No, don't leave me. I want you near me," he told me, trying to force a brave little smile.

"You ought to have something," I urged.

"I don't believe I could eat it, Babs—not now," he pleaded.

"Then you should have the doctor, Kent," I decided.

But he put out his hand to detain me and shook his head, no.

"What has made you sick, dear? When did you first feel like this?" I asked after a while.

"Turn the light down, please. It hurts my eyes."

I did so and came back again to him. He must have read the tragic question in my eyes.

COUNTY COUNCIL CONFIRMS SPECIAL GRANTS TO FAIRS

BY-LAW PASSED REINFORCING RESOLUTION ADOPTED AT JUNE SESSION — WARDEN GRIFFITH QUESTIONED THE PROCEDURE.

Following the advice of E. A. Peck, their solicitor, the County Council at their special session on Monday afternoon confirmed by by-law the resolution passed by the June session fixing special grants to agricultural societies as follows:

Peterborough Exhibition, $1,000; Norwood Fair, $500; Lakefield, $200; Otonabee (Keene), $200; Galway (Kinmount Fair), $100.

Warden Griffith raised a question of the legality of this action. As a preliminary statement he recalled that the resolution was passed just before adjournment on the Saturday morning of the June session, and after he had left the chair to catch the noon train for Havelock when he had to attend a meeting of the Court of Revision. Earlier during the session a deputation had petitioned the Council for a special grant to the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition. The Finance Committee considered the request, but their report simply recommended that the usual grants be made, and was adopted as such in bylaw form.

"Can a resolution override a by-law?" asked the Warden. "If so, what's the use of passing the bylaw? I learned, more or less by a fluke, that a resolution was passed after I had gone making special grants to these agricultural societies I think we should get legal advice as to whether that resolution took effect over the bylaw. That request from the deputation was dealt with by the committee. No new request came in afterward to warrant that resolution. If there had been a special request it would have been all right."

Reeve Curtis of Havelock expressed the opinion that to validate the Council's action a notice of motion embodying the special grants would have to be introduced and read at three meetings, and on the third reading be passed.

Reeve McIntosh: The usual grants were passed by bylaw, but the special grants were introduced separately. The Finance Committee rejected the petition, but there was no reference in the bylaw to the petition.

The discussion brought out the explanation that the resolution had touched upon a new matter not dealt with in the bylaw. On that understanding it was pointed out that yesterday's bylaw confirming the resolution was in order and that the resolution itself had been entirely legal.

Warden Griffith remarked that it was the first time he had seen that procedure, but Reeve Nicholls and Reeve McIntosh expressed disagreement with him.

To Meet Minister.

On a motion by Reeve Strickland, seconded by Reeve J. Scott, a special committee, composed of Reeves Shaw, McIntosh, Eason, Nicholls, Darling and J. Scott, was appointed to meet the Hon. Mr. Biggs and any other representative or the Government who may accompany him on his expected visit to Peterborough.

New Trustee.

John A. Rorabeck sent in his resignation as a trustee of the Norwood High School, and Mr. Hugh Cuthbertson was nominated to succeed him for the rest of his term, ending December 31st. next.

$300 to Havelock.

Reeve Shaw moved, seconded by Reeve Curtis, that the report of the Special Committee, of which Reeve Clarke was Chairman, recommending a grant of $300 toward the cost of a new bridge on the road into Havelock be adopted. This bridge is on the new road from Havelock to Trent Bridge.

CROP REPORT

Following is a summary of reports made by the agricultural representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Farmers are busy harvesting their grain, although many have practically finished with spring wheat and barley, which have been cut unusually early this season. Oats are now being handled, and are rather disappointing on the whole, the heads being comparatively light in the filling and the straw short. Complaints of rust are also common.

Reports regarding potatoes are not encouraging, as very few fields have a good appearance.

Corn and hoed crops are doing very well since the rains of the last two weeks.

Welland says that alsike is proving to be a fair sample in the threshing.

Brant states that the catch of the young clover has been very satisfactory.

Lincoln reports considerable scab on apples, even in well sprayed orchards. Norfolk says that buyers are already going through that county buying apples on the trees, and that prices are better than those paid a year ago.

Lincoln also reports that some Greenboro and Triumph peaches are being offered in limited quantities.

Hay is quoted at prices ranging from $18.00 a ton for baling in Oxford to $25.00 in Glengarry. Leeds says that some farmers in that county are bringing in hay at prices ranging from $27.00 to $30.00, according to the point of destination.

Owing to the early harvest, a good deal of land already has been ploughed for fall wheat. The soil has been working nicely. It looks also as if more summer fallowing than usual will be done.

Peterborough reports that many wells have gone dry, and that some farmers have difficulty in watering their stock.

Recent rains have revived the pastures considerably and caused an improvement in the milk flow.

Brant says that there is an agitation on foot in some parts of the county to have the old cheese factories start up again, as the price of cheese is relatively better than that of whole milk. Cheese sold on the Perth Board on Friday at from 24 to 24 3-8 cents a pound.

Bruce reports a demand for stockers for winter feeding. Grey also thinks that as many cattle as usual will be fed.

Peterborough says: The cattle going to market are for the most part in thin condition. Three mixed cars were marketed during the week. Cattle sold around 5 cents a pound. Lambs at $10.20 a cwt., and hogs at $12.25 a cwt.

Waterloo says that one drover near Galt has brought in a carload of cattle which cost him 3 1-2 cents a pound in Winnipeg.

Simcoe is of the opinion that the farmers are taking more interest in the hog business, and are making an effort to increase their breeding stock in this line.

CHANGED FROM GLORY TO GLORY.

Long, long ago, 'tis said, a wondrous statue stood
Within a city's walls, placed there by one whose hand
Had wrought this miracle in stone, and furthermore,
The Master Sculptor, so the legend runs, would give
A bag of golden florins to the one who found
A living face and form to match the sculptured one.

A little lad was seen one day, to come and stand
Intently gazing up into that marble face,
Day after day he came and stood enraptured there,
And day by day he sought among the passing throng
For one whose face might possibly conform unto
The statue's lines. And thus the years fled by, the lad
To man's estate had grown, and as he stood one day
Before the statue, Lo! the Master Sculptor came
And paused to look upon his work. With startled gaze
He turned and said "Oh! stranger, whosoe'er thou art,
To thee belongs the bag of gold, thy face reflects
Each chiseled line—a masterpiece of living art!"

The lad, beholding day by day, year after year,
In time had grown like to the image he admired.
And thus may we, who seek the promised Heavenly prize,
Beholding in a glass the beauty of the Lord,
Be changed into the same, and go from grace to grace,
From glory unto glory, till at last transformed
Into His likeness we shall hear His sweet "Well done!
Thou hast been faithful, enter into thy reward."

PROTECT PUBLIC IN THE SALE OF STOCK.

LONDON, August 3. — Because it is believed that existing laws governing the sale of stock in Ontario do not afford sufficient protection to the public, the directors of the local Chamber of Commerce voted unanimously at a meeting recently to adopt a report of a special committee in which several recommendations were made. The recommendation, however, will not be made public until after they come before the Members' Council, when if they are given a favourable reception they will be passed on to the Provincial Government.

Many children innocently cheated out of the very food they need daily

Everyone knows that health is the most valuable asset of life. From birth to maturity is the "construction period."

A robust and healthy child will usually develop into a vigorous man or woman. But malnutrition will invariably hamper normal growth and when the child reaches maturity he or she is anemic, poorly nourished and liable to disease.

Many children today are innocently cheated out of the very foods they need. Some parents, either through lack of knowledge, or carelessness, do not provide those foods which strengthen and nourish the growing child.

It is the duty of parents to think for the child in these matters.

Grape-Nuts, the well-known food made of whole wheat flour and malted barley, served with milk or cream, is one of the most nutritious foods in the world. It provides the elements necessary to nutrition and is a balanced food.

Quite aside from its superior nutritive value, is its delicious appetite appeal. Especially attractive with fresh fruits or preserves.

Grape-Nuts is served and sold everywhere—in leading hotels and restaurants; at lunch counters; in every good grocery store in every city, town or village in the Dominion. Where you can't find Grape-Nuts—you won't find people.

"Y" CAMPERS AT BURLEIGH

"Y" Camp, Aug. 2nd.

"Hello everybody."

Well, we have had quite a busy week up here so far. Monday was regatta day at Kawartha Park and of course the "Y" camp girls attended and cheered for the various contestants, especially the Burleigh campers. We walked down through the woods for about a mile and a half in the morning, and had a shore dinner, tried to eat it all, but could not, so had some left in the afternoon for a lunch. One certainly developes an appetite to eat. The races were good and well contested, but sad to relate we did not win any trophies. One of the cottagers near Burleigh brought us back in a motor boat and for a general nice time, we beat all the rest, and got the best prize.

Monday, August 8th, is regatta day at Juniper Island ,and it is civic holiday, so we expect a big crowd at camp and a very jolly week end. This morning we slept in until quite late, except one of the girls who had to catch the early morning boat. One does enjoy a good sleep in our lovely screened verandah or in our nice airy rooms. This afternoon we visited some of the cottagers down the lake, and had afternoon tea, and then a launch ride home.

What do you know? We are going to have a motor boat of our own for a few weeks. Wait until you see it. It is some punt, and has an engine in it, and can go when it gets started. We call it the Alligator. Let's hope it always goes when we want it to.

Something else we have now is a Camp Mascot, the dearest little black kitten, and as funny as can be.

We are all around the fireplace this evening having tea and toast. Don't you want some too?

Hope to see you all some time at camp; a good time awaits you.

FIND DAUGHTER WAS INHUMANLY DONE TO DEATH

CORONER'S JURY RETURNS VERDICT AGAINST KITCHENER GIRL'S MOTHER.

KITCHENER, Ont., Aug. 4.—(Special despatch to the Examiner)—After the finding of the coroner's jury last night against Mrs. Karley foster mother of Madelin Karley, who died of the most inhuman treatment, the body being covered with no less than 82 bruises, which the jury said they believed were administered by Mrs. Karley, men and women scrambled for permission to see the woman.

Chief O'Neil took the woman following the verdict by a circuitous rout to the basement cells in the city hall. The crowd dispersed at once but soon gathered outside and peering through the windows they satisfied their curiosity by having a look at the woman who didn't even shed a tear when she heard her fate She will appear before Magistrate Weir to-day.

FRENCH FARMERS WIN IMPLEMENTS DONATED BY RELIEF WORKERS

FIFTY PEASANTS OF AISNE DISTRICT THE RECIPIENTS.

PARIS, Aug. 4. — (Associated Press).—Fifty farmers from the cantons of Anizy and Coucy in the devastated area of he Aisne (Northern France) are today the owners of agricultural implements given to them as prizes by Miss Anne Morgan and Mrs. A. Murray Dike of the American Committee for Devastated France in recognition of efforts they have made to restore their farms to their pre-war state. The prize winners were selected by a jury of French agriculturists from 110 entries in two agricultural competitions.

The first prize, a seed planter from Louisville, Ky., was won by Albert Delan and his wife, 68 and 58 years old, respectively, peasants from Allemant (Aisne) who, although their fields were classed as "irreclaimable" by the Government, returned to their farm, lived in a dugout and after two years of hard labor succeeded in putting their entire farm under cultivation.

Cash prizes totalling 4,000 francs were also given by Miss Morgan and Mrs. Dike to the 30 farm hands in the cantons of Anizy and Coucy who were most meritorious. The first prize of 300 francs was won by an aged couple named Thuillet, who served for 40 years on the same farm and who, after the war, worked a year without wages because their mistress could not afford to pay them.

Through the co-operation of the American committee with the farmers of the Aisne, 25,000 acres of land ravaged by the war have been reclaimed and are at present under cultivation. The committee has organized 32 agricultural syndicates among the farmers and has placed 40 tractors at their disposal. The two agricultural contests with prizes with more than 20,000 francs is one of the ways in which the American committee is stimulating the farmers to do their utmost.

NO EVIDENCE, GOV. SMALL DECLARES.

Appeals to People to Protect Him From Foes.

(By J. L. O'SULLIVAN, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

KANKAKEE, Ills., Aug. 4.—Governor Len Small today appealed to the people not to pro-judge him before he had an opportunity to demonstrate his innocence by process of law.

The Governor, indicted for alleged juggling of millions in State funds while serving as Treasurer of Illinois, told the United Press, 'there is not one iota of evidence existing as to any wrong doing on my part."

Denies Taking Money.

The executive, who has been touring the State on road inspection work since Sheriff Mester of Springfield refused his request to be arrested in Chicago, reiterated he never retained for himself one penny in State funds or interest from Illinois moneys.

"Up to the time I announced my candidacy for the Republican nomination for Governor, no person ever accused me of any wrong doing," he declared.

"Attorney-General Brundagee, his associates and the interests which they represent have had open access to my official record all during the past four years. They have known all the time the exact amount of moneys which I had in my custody as State Treasurer and they, know as I know, that I am absolutely innocent of every charge made in the indictments, voted against me by the Sangamon County Grand Jury.

Appeals to People.

"I appeal to the people of Illinois to await final decisions through the laws of our State and then judge as to whether I am an honest man or whether my political traducers are guilty of the most damnable conspiracy and scheme of persecution to drive me from my path of duty.

"I want the good people of Illinois to know that the interests who planned to rob the people of this State of $12,000 a mile, or nearly $4,000,000 for the building of roads, are not now idle at Springfield.

"Every man and woman in Illinois who is forced to pay exhorbitant taxes upon their small homes should realize that my demand for bringing to light of the hidden billions of dollars in this State of untaxed property have sent the agents of these interests to the capital to grind out lies to besmirch my good name.

"I will invoke every power of the State to keep at bay the corrupt and scheming agents of those in whose way I stand."

Carvell Promises Montreal Business Men Slash Will Come Soon.

MONTREAL, Aug. 4. —(Canadian Press)—That the Board of Railway Commissioners of Canada will in the near future, take steps to reduce freight rates on Canadian railways was the announcement contained in a letter received by the local Board of Trade from Hon. F. B. Carvell, chief commissioner.

Montreal Board of Trade recently addressed a resolution to the Railway Commission asking a reduction in railway freight rates commensurate with the twelve per cent cut in wages now in effect.

A STRANGE INSECT IS THE MULE-KILLER.

According to the Lindsay Post, a strange insect has been found in Scugog district. Called the praying mantis, it is from 2-3-4 to 3 inches in length, and has a habit of putting its long forelegs forward over its face, and it is from this characteristic that it gets its name. Its prey is flies and mosquitoes. It is also named "devil's race horse," and "mule killer," and is harmless to man and beast.

This mosquito lover would thrive and wax fat at Jubilee Point, on the Otonabee, this year.

LEGAL BATTLE OVER DUTY ON LIQUOR MAY REACH PRIVY COUNCIL.

British Columbia to Fight Dominion Government.

OTTAWA, Aug. 4. — (Canadian Press.)— The contention of British Columbia's Attorney-General, J. W. De B. Faris, that liquor importations of the Provincial government shold come into Canada free of customs duties under the clause of the British North America Act, which stipulates that "property" of a province is not liable to taxation, will certainly be opposed by the Dominion government.

The battle, according to Mr. Farris, will take place over a shipment of Scotch whiskey now on its way from England and ordered especially for the purpose of settling this point. He asserts the case ill be carried as far as the Privy Council if necessary.

TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL MEETING.

Delegates Hear Plans of Company Proposing to Locate Here.

An explanation of the Birmingham automobile and the plans of the company to locate a Canadian branch in Peterborough were given to the Trades and Labor Council last night at its regular bi-monthly meeting by W. H. Crawford, a representative of the company, who for many years was employed at the C.G.E., and became interested in the car while on a recent trip to Jamestown, N. Y. The fact was stressed that within 30 days if the issue of stock is taken, 300 to 400 men will be employed by the company and steady work given throughout the winter. Particular reference was made to the steady work and good wages that would be paid by the company and the interest the men would have in the plant if they held stock in the company and knew they were getting some share of the profits earned. It was stated that the manufacturers were opposed to the establishment of this company here, and were not willing to furnish capital to enable it to start. If the Labor men supported the company, it could be established regardless of the action of the manufacturers, and the working men of the city would all benefit. Mr. Crawford predicted better business in all lines of trade if this automobile industry located here. After making it clear that the money paid here is kept in Peterborough, and that stock must be sold before there can be any operations, Mr. Crawford finished his address by showing photographs of the car and its separate parts, explaining the new axleless spring suspension and improved chassis.

The Council as a body did not take any definite action to further the establishment of the Canadian branch here, but several members spoke favorably of it offering the workers a chance to invest their money in a proposition that seemed to promise lucrative returns and would also ensure work and good wages to machinists and other crafts that would be employed in addition to leaving considerable money in the city to make trade better. One enthusiast likened the position the company is in to that of Ford and told of the profits of those who got in on the Ford company when it was in its struggling infancy — Mayor Couzins, of Detroit, who "cleaned up" $100,000,000, and the Dodge brothers, who, on $1,200, made $35,000,000. The manufacturers were charged with opposing the company locating here because wages might be increased with the demand for skilled and efficient labor. Undoubtedly the company would be a good thing for Peterborough, one delegate said, but he pointed out that it was a particularly bad time to sell stock, and he was dubious of the company selling such a considerable amount amongst the laboring class.

The Pumps.

Secretary T. Ballard was instructed at last night's meeting to write Robert Hicks, chairman of the Utilities Commission, through the press, asking him how much of the $2,000 he estimated he saved on the pumps by accepting the Escher-Wyss tender when freight, duty, installation and whatever other charges there may be are paid. The Council were not satisfied with Mr. Hicks' explanation of why the contract went to this alleged German company. It was claimed that the installation charges would put the total cost of the pumps far above the local tender, which guaranteed installing: "They won't install them for $2,000. If a town firm had got them they would have had to install them. I'm sure of that," said one delegate. One of the delegates said he had installed a pump at Sturgeon Falls once, and had cost $1,500 to install. This statement received confirming nods from practically all of those present. That the McDougall pump at the Pumphouse, recommended by William Kennedy, the Commission's consulting engineer, is inefficient and has not proved a success, was charged by one delegate, who continued a strong attack on the Commission for calling in Mr. Kennedy again. He declared they had a man now who was well paid to look after these things without bringing in a man from Montreal.

Commissioner E. F. Mason was criticized for allowing the contract to be placed with a Teutonic company, and C. E. Sisson was under fire, the charge being made that he had seen that the C.G.E. got the contract for the motors. This delegate wanted to know if tenders for motors had been asked of any other company besides the Canadian General. "He did not blame Mr. Sisson," he said. "I might have done the same if I had worked there," he said. The Examiner's last interview with Mr. Hicks containing his statement of the saying was read to the meeting by Secretary Ballard.

TO-DAY'S FASHIONS.

Fibre silk sweaters continue to be very popular for summertime wear, and as they come in almost every color and are reasonable in price, some women boast of several in their wardrobe. Apple green, tomato, black, navy and brown are the most popular shades, but henna, tan, grey, light pink and Harding blue are seen everywhere. Worn with white skirts, with blouse or vestee, they make charming summer costumes, particularly when hat and hose to match the color scheme complete the outfit.

The tuxedo style is the prime favorite, although some tie-backs are in fancy and plain weaves. These sweaters are as smart with wool and flannel skirts as they are with silk and white wash skirts.

Frocks for late summer and early fall wear come in many varieties. A dainty voile of orchid shade trimmed with many tucks on the long waist has a cluster of purple flowers instead of a belt. lace trims the neck and sleeves. A silk jersey for early fall wear is of brown made on straight lines with corded trimming. A sable scarf gives the needed warmth for cool days. Another pictured frock is of black taffeta which introduces the new idea of oil-painted motifs for trimming. Painted clusters of fruit on the folds of the elaborate skirt and a cream colored georgette vestee are the only trimmings.

Large crowds of English well-wishers and a large sprinkling of Irish sympathizers witnessed the arrival of the Irish delegation. Many in the crowd were moved to recite the Rosary, which they reverently did in the presence of burly English policemen, who were on duty keeping back the vast crowds from the barricades which still do duty at the entrance at Downing Street.

AT THE THEATRES

The Capitol offers a splendid program tonight—Douglas MacLean in "The Home Stretch," a great racing picture; Larry Semon in "The Head Waiter," one of his funniest two-reel comedies; 'Purple Riders," serial; Pathe Review, Paramount Magazine and a Burton Holmes Travelogue; and the excellent music of the new Capitol Theatre orchestra, an excellent musical organization that is pleasing the capitol patrons in every way. The feature picture is one of excellent quality.

Comedies possessing genuine elements of gripping, tingling drama and of delicate sentiment without sacrificing laugh-power are infrequent enough to cause Douglas MacLean's latest Paramount picture, "The Home Stretch," which comes to the Capitol Theatre tonight, to stand forth as one of the most original and entertaining offerings of the year.

The story concerns a jockey, a trainer, a racetrack follower, who at the time the picture opens has risen to the ranks of racehorse owners, and of the difficulties he encounters when he attempts to abandon his gambling habits. Not only is Mr. MacLean afforded ample opportunity to "get over" sparkling comedy situations, but to display his dramatic ability and his skill with "thrillers" as well.

The opening scenes of the story, laid on a famous California race track, are notable for tensely dramatic situations, and a thrilling accident in which Mr. MacLean plays a prominent part. Throughout the remainder of the picture, clever comedy and dramatic suspense are delightfully blended and carried through to an unusual ending.

As Johnny Hardwick, the juvenile turfman, Mr. MacLean is said to give a performance which surpasses his "Sergeant Grey" in "Twenty-three and a Half Hours' Leave." His vigorous personality and clever comedy "business" are the outstanding features of the production. Beatrice Burnham, Margaret Warren, a winsome "small town" girl, heads an excellent supporting cast, which includes Margaret Livingston, Wade Boetler, Charles Mailes and Molly McConnell. "The Home Stretch" was adapted to the screen by Louis Stevens from the original story by Charles Belmont Davis.

This program is one of the best presented at the Capitol for some time. FAN. FAN.

FOUND HUMAN REMAINS IN CHURCH BASEMENT.

May Have Been Fragments of Indian Warriors.

OSHAWA, Aug. 3.—While workmen were engaged in tree trimming near St. Gregory's church, the storm came up and forced them to seek shelter. The retreated to the basement of the church, where the discovery of some human remains, in the form of a lower jaw bone and a thigh bone were found. The workmen, not knowing what to make of their discovery naturally reported the same, and an interview was very happily held with Father Bench. It appears that it is not the first time some human fragments have been disinterred in the vicinity of St. Gregory's, the church having been erected near the site of an old, and now long forgotten cemetery. Excavations in the neighborhood frequently reveal the fact that a graveyard had been in existence probably a century ago, judging by the state of preservation in which the remains unearthed are found. In some instances, it has been thought that the remains were those of Indian warriors of the past.

BIG CROWD SAW CAMPBELLFORD DEFEAT HAVELOCK

shot struck in front of the goal and bounced over.

Second Period.

Pacey replaced Hooper in the second period, and according to some of the Havelock team this change, which they attributed to Sport Murton, coach of the team, was a doubtful advantage. The ball travelled up and down the field several times without endangering either goal. Jacobs had a chance but he bounced it over the net, and Kerr's shot was too wide. Montgomery made a fine play, breaking up a Havelock rush by Brennan and King. Pete Johnston got into a warm corner back of the Havelock goal, and finally ran up from behind it, reached over the top and tried to score. The fall bounced in front and McGee without taking any chance, scooped it away to one side.

Brennan started a combination that worked well. Going down the centre he passed out to King, who shot it back to McGee at centre, who scored.

In less than a minute Kerr evened the score again by dashing in from the face-off, and after several passes shot from thirty feet out, beating Powers with a bounder.

In just as short a time Holmes went in on the Campbellford goal and passed to King, who put Havelock ahead again. Alexander worked another combination down to Harte, but the pass went wide. Big Tom strolled down to the Havelock end but his shot bounced over. Thomas helped the Campbellford forwards frequently and effectively.

In a fast running attack, Johnston scored on a pass from Kerr and the board showed three all.

The Havelock team was at the top of their form at this stage of the game and were giving the homesters an anxious session. King put them ahead again with a pass from Brinkman, who was hurt after the face-off when Gannon went over him and drew five minutes on the bench. Campbellford went in close. Powers scooped a fast one from Johnston's stick that winded him, and at the other end Thomas made a nice save when he picked the ball bounding loose in front of the empty net. Brinkman went down again with Thomas falling over him, and Big Tom was sent to the sides for five minutes. The referee said that Brinkman was struck. Half time ended with Havelock leading 4 to 3.

The Third Period.

Shortly after the face off, Pacey was benched for hitting Johnston on the head in a check. It was one of those infractions covered by the new head rule, and appeared to be unintentional and only a minor tap. Harte and Kerr went in twice, but Powers picked off both shots. Havelock went down with a nice play. Haughton passed to King over on one side and "Pete" whipped the ball past Kelly shoulder high. Nesbitt and Kerr combined well, but Powers blocked nicely.

With two goals against them Campbellford's forwards uncorked a fresh burst of speed. Thomas, Johnston and Kerr went in, but the shot missed. Pacey was benched. Holmes' rush was smothered by Alexander and Thomas. O'Brien took a swat at Harte and was sent to keep company with Pacey. This left the Havelock defence two short. Campbellford flocked about the Havelock goal, and Johnston scored on a short swift pass from Gannon. Kerr tied up the score again on a pass from Jacobs. This play started from a free throw that was given Campbellford as a penalty for a Havelock foul. Pacey and O'Brien came on again. Kerr and Johnston flashed a combination, Kerr scoring, putting Campbellford ahead to the uproarious delight of the crowd.

The Final Period.

Campbellford had all the best of the opening phase of the last quarter. They milled around the Havelock goal, but Powers held them off. Jacobs shot one over the net. Kerr grassed another and missed. A few minutes later he went in close to the crease but Powers blocked splendidly. Kerr was back with another warm one, but Powers seemed impregnable. Thomas was benched for fouling Brinkman. Havelock started several combinations. Kelly stopped a fast one from McGee. Several Havelock efforts were spoiled by sloppy passing and by the air tight defense Alexander, Montgomery and Thomas threw up. At the other end Johnston took a pass close in and scored. This gave Campbellford a two goal advantage with the score 7 to 5. Havelock seemed to have cracked. D. Wright went off. Kerr and Johnston carried a combination through the Havelock defense for their eighth goal, Johnston scoring, and Harte made it nine a few seconds before the gong sounded.

Most of the crowd swarmed across the field, cheering and throwing hats in the air, and the automobiles raised a jubilant din with their horns and sirens. After coming from behind and wiping out Havelock's two goal lead the home crowd gave way to that grand and glorious feeling that springs from victory that has been once in doubt.

The goal getters were :Harte 2, Kerr 3, Johnston 4, Brennan 1, McGee 1, King 3.

CROP SITUATION IN WEST

CALGARY, Aug. 4.—That the vast Canadian prairie with its 30-million acres of land under cultivation is divided into two sections which differ, naturally, in soil and climate has once more been grimly demonstrated. One of these two sections will yield a splendid harvest; the other section a very poor one indeed.

Picture a vast green landscape covered with splendid crops, with tusk wild grasses—a greatly undulating landscape interspersed with little lakelets and clumps of poplar and new-plowed fields of rich dark loam, and cosy little farm houses averaging half a mile apart. Such is the northerly and moister section of the approximately 300,000 square miles comprised in Canada's great arable West.

Sea of Sun-Baked Plains.

Picture on the other hand a sea of bald plains burning yellow-brown under a scorching sun—a landscape checkered with the green squares of stunted and famished crops. Thus looks—(with notable exceptions)—the more southerly and drier section of our western prairieland.

North More Like Ontario.

Generally speaking, the moister region of the Canadian West extends over nearly all of Manitoba, sweeps westward through the Regina plain and swinging northward, west of Moose Jaw, traverses Alberta about crossfield, north of Calgary.

This favored region enjoys a copious rainfall and deep winter snows, the soil is heavy and there is little high wind. In fact, it somewhat resembles Ontario. The southerly region, however, has lighter soil, greater altitude, high winds, little snow in winter and in normal years a very light rainfall. It has one advantage over the moister area of the north—the southern crops ripen earlier, and do not run the same risk of frost. Before grain farming was begun, despite the rainfall, the soil grew bunch-grass and buffalo-grass unsurpassed for grazing purposes and this vast southerly section was for years devoted to the raising of cattle, sheep and horses exclusively.

Land $2.50 Grew 40 Bushels.

After a long succession of dry summers this vast ranching region was visited with copious rains about 1898. Small ranchers who grew patches of fall wheat for chicken feed got yields of 40 and 50 bushels to the acre. Land could be bought in unlimited quantities for $2.50 and $3 an acre on easy terms. Free homesteads of 160 acres were everywhere available. And, although wheat sold for only 50 cents a bushel and the Calgary Milling Company's elevator was the sole receptacle for grain in the whole vast southern region, shrewd visitors—especially Americans—were quick to seize the opportunity. The rush of settlement started. Yankee farmers flocked in and the cattlemen seeing their free grasslands disappear, cursed the farmers whom they declared would live to rue their venture when the dry seasons returned.

Series of Good Harvests.

The years of 1901, 1902, 1903 and 1904, saw a succession of splendid crops over much of this erstwhile dry ranching region where the harvester swept the flats over which the cow-punchers had often galloped. As the old cattlemen prophesied more than one farmer has had reason to regret the move, though others have prospered by it.

Crops Have Varied.

The intervening years have seen an assortment of good and bad crops in the former ranching region. That of 1915 was a bumper yield at top prices greatly encouraged the farmers, as did the good harvest of 1916. But for the past three years the crop has been very poor over most of the semi-arid section. And this year for many farmers within the area it will be a total failure.

A message from Lethbridge estimates this year's crop in Southern Alberta at two-thirds of last year's, which at that was a partial failure. But who knows? Even yet rain may greatly help.

Green North, Brown South.

A few days ago I travelled from Winnipeg to Edmonton over the National Railway, via Portage la Prairie, Melville, Saskatoon, Wainwright—a distance of 800 miles—and saw the magnificent crop in prospect throughout that section. The day before yesterday I started on a tour of 280 miles through Southern Alberta and beheld the devastation wrought by drought.

In the brushy, hilly section for some distance south of Calgary a few good fields of grain are observable from the train, but farther south the eye meets field after field of thin oats and wheat 8 inches high and headed out.

Rain would still help the greener crops, but in any case a good deal of the wheat and oats will never be threshed. Even should the heads be filled the straw is too short for the binder and its destiny is fodder.

Like Wind of the Desert.

On Wednesday the thermometer registered 97 degrees officially, and a furnace-like wind swept down from the mountains upon the plains between Macleod and Lethbridge. It whirled the white alkaline dust from dried-up sloughs into little spirals and blew the surface soil from plowed lands into great clouds. The almost incessant wind hereabout has in places submerged the railway right-of-way fences in this blown soil. What crops there were are like shrivelled remnants. The dark green patches of Russian thistle or thimble-weed, seeming to thrive under such conditions, gave the yellow-grey landscape its almost sole spots of verdure. The clear waters of the Old Man and Belly Rivers, flowing swiftly at the foot of steep-cut banks contrasted strangely with the desert appearance of the prairie round about, and the civic gardens of Lethbridge, their green lawns and flowers and trees irrigated with the hose seemed like an oasis in the Sahara.

Crops arrested in their development and headed out with the straw only 6 and 8 inches high—thousands of acres of them were a feature of the landscape on the Lethbridge-Kipp-Aldersyde branch of the C.P.R. Part of the enormous Noble farm's 22,000 acres under crop can be seen from this line. Farmed scientifically its gigantic fields look better than those of some smaller grain-growers, and the enterprising head of this mamoth venture will harvest a crop—if not a very good one. A fine field of early-ripening here was in process of being cut. Mr. Noble, who has gathered bumper crops off this same land—some of the most favored land in the district—has, they say, discarded nearly all his gasoline tractors for horses, which are now considered by many western farmers to be more economical for old farm work except actual breaking of new land. Grasshoppers are fairly numerous on the prairie, but wholesale destitution by the farmers has prevented them from becoming the plague they threatened to become.

Crops Good in Spots.

Here and there amid parched crops one sees a fairly good field of grain—due to very local conditions of soil or perhaps a local rain, or to good farming, which latter, unfortunately, is not general where things are done on a large scale. There are certain whole localities, too, in the dry area where crops are excellent because of rains.

But to speak plainly, the crops are mostly wretchedly curtailed all through the region of a line near Calgary to the international boundary. And very similar bad conditions prevail, for the most part, to beyond Swift Current.

Irrigation Defies Drought.

Of course, conditions are very different where the C.P.R. irrigation ditches spread. Water thus skilfully applied gives excellent results—especially with roots and hay.

But irrigation can be obtained only to a limited degree. The rivers of the country are few and small. The thirsty soil of the dry area could soak up a Lake Ontario. And even with abundant water it would be impossible to artificially irrigate the entire surface of the rolling land.

NATIVE PLUMS, PEACHES, PEARS, ARE ON MARKET.

Peaches Bring $1.25 to $1.30 a Basket, Plums 20 to 25 Cents a Quart, Pears $1.35.

Peaches, plums and pears grown under Canadian sun on Canadian fruit farms were seen in fruit shops today.

The peaches are about the first of the crop and are selling at $1.25 and $1.35 an 11-qt. basket. Crawfords will not be in for about a week, one dealer said, but all peaches should be plentiful in a week. Lombards and green gages were going at $1.25 an 11-qt. basket. By the quart gages were 25 cents and Lombards 20 cents. Plums are selling in good quantities. Baskets of pears were stacked on sidewalks before the shops and also baskets just bulging with fruits and vegetables of all kinds. For these baskets the dealers were getting $1.35.

Raspberries have been replaced by thimble berries and for 25 or 30 cents fine quart boxes of these large berries can be had. Yesterday one dealer was selling the last of the purple berries at 25 cents. The same dealer had a couple of baskets of black currants, which he declared was the last he would have, and he had to get 40 cents a quart to clear anything on them.

In the fruit market it is gratifying to know lemons are easing up again. The passing of the hot spell has brought them down to $10 and $11 a case, and if the sun hangs off further decline would not be unexpected. Watermelons have become very scarce, dealers say, and they can't buy any under $1.50 up. One fruit man said he had tried all over to get some for the holiday but couldn't.

Just now the people are all demanding green corn, and they can't fill the orders. People are trying to rush the season, which is already far enough advanced. Yellow bantam is holding up to 40 cents, but white corn can be bought lower, possibly as cheap as 25 cents. After he had sold 40 dozen of corn the day before yesterday, one of the fruit men said he was cleaned right out and tired serving so many customers. The price will not ease up till larger quantities of corn begin to come in, he declared.

THE SHIP AT SEA

(By Dr. Frank Crane in Ottawa Journal).

An ocean liner is a symbol of this planet.

Here we are, a little speck in an infinite sea. All about us is the wide blue of the waters. Not a ship is in sight for days.

So the globe on which we live swings through boundless space, speeding on, as the ship speeds.

Here is a group of people—men, women and children. We never saw them before. We don't know why they came. And we get acquainted, somehow.

So when we come into this earthly life we find family, schoolmates, fellow citizens, the whole motley of human companionship. We never chose them. Our problem is one of enforced intimacies.

Destiny picks our relatives as our fellow passengers to Europe. And we must do the best we can.

At night we may sit in the saloon, where there is light, the chatter of voices, music and laughter, warmth and homelikeness.

We go out upon the deck. It is dark. It is raining and the sharp wind dashes the drops in our face. Around us nothing but inky darkness and the roar and swish of the waves as the huge vessel ploughs through.

A feeling of our insignificance invades us. What are we, fragmentary motes amidst the swirl of cosmic forces and mass?

The same feeling has come to us at night when we have stepped out of the house and shut the door and looked up at the sky. Within is warmth, love, certainty, content. Without is the tremendous unknown.

Man is a home-making animal. It is in the home he lives his life. There he expands, his emotions flower, his ideas take shape, his vanities and sins flourish.

Over against the sky, the ocean, the universe, he is crushed.

And on the ship is the constant underconsciousness of danger. It crops out in sailor speech. "When will we land at Plymouth?" "Oh, Thursday — if we have luck." A mariner allows himself no certainties.

A hundred what-ifs keep poking into your mind. What if we strike a mine, or break machinery, or explode a boiler, or run into a derelict?

It is all very much as the dim dangers of earthquake, fire, revolution, lightning, cyclones, and accidents back home.

Danger! Life means danger. No one anywhere knows he will live till to-morrow.

The secret of Life is not to be Safe. It is to be Unafraid.

PLENTY CUP TEAM PRACTICE GAME

PETERBORO PREPARES TO GIVE BRANTFORD A BATTLE.

A crowd of interested football fans will be on hand to-night at 6.45 sharp to assist in keeping the Peterborough representatives fit for the Albert Plenty Cup-tie with Brantford and District footballers at Riverside Park on Saturday evening next. They will have to go the whole ninety minutes at full pressure to overcome the western outfit. They are coming to Peterborough confident of going through into the next round against Ottawa. Peterborough is also in the same frame of mind, and it will be "some" battle. Three thousand fans went solid behind their favorites in the Telephone City, but this encouragement will be missed by the Brantford team on Saturday, and Peterborough will have the crowd behind them. The visitors have a good team, and the public will see a fine exhibition of the soccer game.

BASEBALL DOOM

The shroud of shame mantles baseball in the United States to-day. The tocsin of doom was sounded in the corridors of the Chicago Court last night when a jury of American citizenry erased the guilt that had hung like a pall over the self-confessed game throwers of the American League. The clamour that sounded throughout the length and breadth of that hysterical land when baseball was betrayed went for naught. A body blow has been dealt at the sport. "We must save the game for the kids," said Judge Landis. There is glee and laughter among the sure-thing gamblers of the States. Another sport has been mired, and trickery and double-dealing can run unchecked by legal obstacles. It now remains for the citizens of the United States to show their disapproval of the men who brought the game into disrepute. The chances are that they will be given a vaudeville engagement at so much per. Ed. Cicotte will be able to exploit the type of pillow that held the alleged $5,000.00, and write a skit entitled, "For the Wife and Kids."

LISTEN TO THE ONTARIO'S WAIL

Lindsay Post: Umpires (especially base umpires) are human, and none are infallible, not even Mr. Barnes of Cobourg judging from the following report of the Belleville game in Cobourg, as printed in the Ontario of Belleville.

All teams in the Central League were early in the season given to understand that of all the base umpires there were two of whom no complaints had been heard, Mr. Barnes of Cobourg, and Rev. Mr. Ramsay of Belleville. But listen to the Ontario's wail:

A man by the name of R. E. Barnes won a ball game in Cobourg last Saturday in the neatest manner possible.

This is how it happened:

The Grand Trunks and the Cobourg teams of the Central League were supposed to play a league fixture. Both teams were on the job, but the hero of the job was the Cobourg base umpire, and his name was Mr. R. E. Barnes, probably of Cobourg, probably of Pontiac, Mich., or some other place equally remote, but let us hope of anywhere this side of the line.

Two of his "decisions" robbed the Belleville nine of possible runs, and two more presented the Cobourg team with runs, and there you are.

The game was played on the Cobourg sand lot beside the lake, a spot that makes the home diamond—and everybody knows what it is—a first class spot in comparison.

The ground in the third base area is utterly impossible and Meagher's errrors and Kelliher's errors chalked up against them in the box scores are therefore of the excusable kind. The Cobourg third sacker had nothing much to handle so has a clean bill of health.

Cobourg had the breaks. They had horseshoes plus Mr. Barnes, and that's how it happened.

NO HIT GAME FOR FRED GOYER

AND OSHAWA ARE BEATEN 3 TO 0— LINDSAY WINS FROM COBOURG.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 3.— Grand Trunks defeated Oshawa 3 to 0 in a Central Ontario League fixture here this afternoon, Goyer of the local team pitching his first no-hit game. He struckout 13 men. Grand Trunk scored two runs in the first innings and one in the fifth by bunching hits, making four in all.

Oshawa had two errors and Belleville one.

"NOT A FIRST-CLASS TEAM."

The reporter of the Brantford Expositor ended his report with the above statement, yet he admits in his report that the Peterborough wing forwards, Manders and Bartley, were constantly beating their backs. Also the three inside men, Rorrison, McDougall and Chambers showed nice football.

Later in his report he says: "The strongest part of the visiting team was without a doubt the two full-backs, both men playing the proper defensive game, coming well out to tackle, thereby giving lots of space for the goalkeeper to clear." Surely he must admit Peterborough ranked on a par with the home team anyhow, after these statements. Another section of interest in his remarks is: "While the team as a whole didn't show the brand of football they should have done or were capable of doing, nevertheless they are without doubt Brantford's best eleven.

THE SATURDAY NIGHT PARADE

There isn't any race suicide in Peterborough. Let anyone who doubts this statement take a walk on George street some Saturday evening and then deny it, if he dare. Those who have been pushed and buffeted and had their shins scraped by trying to navigate through the innumerable baby carriages which crowd the streets on these occasions have no doubts on the matter. Not one. There must be some rule in the curriculum of infants in Peterborough which says that they are to be taken for an outing every Saturday evening. It may be a carriage with a crying child whose mother is liable to pop out and look at you with a coldly interrogative eye if you chance to stop and try to comfort it a little; it may be the brand of vehicle propelled by one of those unthinking ladies who trusts to Providence to guide it aright while she gazes admiringly at window displays or talks to another lady with another baby carriage who is coming just behind; it may be one of those dual arrangements where a head with the usual component parts appears at either end, or it may be that dizzy contrivance by which the child is pushed away from the mother at the end of a long handle, which gives the impression of being perpetually on the point of tipping over and spilling its contents under the feet of the passers-by. Anyway, whatever sort of an equipage it is, you may be sure of meeting numbers of it in the course of a Saturday evening stroll. It lurks in doorways, it obstructs store entrances, it darts across the streets under the noses of rapidly-approaching motor cars and it holds up the traffic along the main thoroughfare while its mothers talk about the weather, or George's whooping-cough or Annie's measles. Policemen are nothing to it. A command from a blue-coated officer to "move on" is regarded as an insult, and it merely progresses a few feet to where a companion vehicle is parked. It is the cause of much profanity, of separation in the families and loving couples who are compelled to make a detour to pass around it, and of aggravated heart disease in those kind-hearted motorists who draw the line at killing a baby.

CONFERENCE ON UNEMPLOYMENT.

B. C. Ministers to Discuss Plans With Employers.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 4.—Toward off serious unemployment throughout British Columbia next winter, Attorney-General J. W. de B. Farris has sent out a call to fifty leading employers of labor, financial men, majors and reeves, to meet the Government in conference in Vancouver on August 10 and develop plans.

Unemployment conditions have been bad through the normally busy summer months, the Attorney-General said, and many men will face the winter not only without work, but without being fortified by summer earnings.

Premier John Oliver, other Government Ministers and J. D. McNiven, Deputy Minister of Labor, will attend.

HEEL OF WOMAN'S SHOE DECEITFUL.

MONTREAL, Aug. 4.—The heel of a woman's shoe caused a large crowd to gather around a truck in front of the City and District Savings Bank at 176 St. James Street, under the belief that a serious accident had occurred. A lady was crossing St. James Street when, in front of an approaching truck, the heel of her shoe dropped off. The driver of the truck stopped so close to the girl that she leaned on the mudguard while retrieving her heel. Then, through the crowd that gathered, she passed unnoticed, leaving the passersby searching vainly for the supposed victim.

PAINFUL DIARRHOEA

CRAMPS IN STOMACH

Mr. Fred Funston, Craig, Sask., writes "A year ago last harvest I was taken with a sudden attack of diarrhoea which completely laid me out and in a few hours I had to quit work. The cramps in my stomach were dreadful, the beads of perspiration would stand out on my face at times I was in such great distress. At last I got a chance to send to town for a couple of bottles of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I used it according to the way I felt and soon obtained a great change for the better, for which I was very grateful. I don't know what the cause of my sickness was, except the extremely hot weather and the active work of stooking the wheat.

Several of my neighbors were taken the same as myself and had the doctor attend to them, but they did not get any great relief until I advised them to use "Dr. Fowler's" when they soon experienced a great change."

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been on the market for the past 76 years and many cheap imitations are being offered to the public.

Stripes Popular

Many of the printed foulards and pussy willow taffetas show some variation of the palm leaf pattern. These are being sold especially for linings in fur coats.

Ninety per cent. of the demand in skirting materials is for stripes. Striped pannellas are the best. These come with Roman stripes, Scotch plaided stripes and checked strine effects. There are some basket weave cloths, too, with very effective stripes.

Some of the best looking popular priced hats for the fall have ostrich trims. What looks like a good seller is a black velvet turban with an ostrich band of taupe color completely covering the sides.

While no doubt low necks will predominate, there are an interesting number of fall street dresses with high collars. Some of the dresses button all the way to the neck with a collar in standing style about one and one-half inches high. Other of the high-collared dresses have the collars only across the back of the neck.

The Spansh influence is noticeable in many of the new season's creations. Spanish shawls are being sought far and near by those not fortunate enough to already possess one of these stylish articles.

Late Miss A. K. Bennet Was One Of The Original Founders Of Local Branch Women's Art Association

The death of Miss Amy K. Bennet, which occurred in Ottawa during the week, came as a distinct shock to her many friends in the city. Most of the older residents of Peterborough will remember the time when Miss Bennet conducted a private school at what was afterward the Minorgan home on Park street. Here her amiable disposition endeared her to her many pupils, who remember and speak of her at this time with affectionate remembrance.

Miss Bennet was at all times greatly interested in artistic work. In many of Peterborough's homes hang samples of her work in the painting of local scenes, in which she excelled. She taught painting for many years in Peterborough, and also in Miss Field's school for young ladies in Toronto, where she also exhibited in connection with the Women's Art Association in that city. At an exhibit also held for three days in the Chateau Laurier at Ottawa, under the auspices of the Women's Art Association, which was opened by Her Excellency, the Duchess of Devonshire, and for which such a high standard was set that half of the original number of pictures submitted were rejected by the judges, Miss Bennet was one of the successful entries. Her "Geranium" was the picture chosen for this auspicious occasion, which was pronounced by critics to be one of the best exhibits ever seen in Canada.

Miss Bennet was one of the original founders of the local branch of the Women's Art Association, and it was largely due to her efforts that a successful beginning was made in this society, the present members of which testified their regard for her memory with a beautiful sheaf of roses on the occasion of her funeral on Tuesday afternoon. She was also active in all good works in connection with the Presbyterian Church, of which her father and brother both were ministers.

The Peterboro Well Babies Clinic

There is one element amongst the constant attendants at the Well Babies' Clinic that has a divided opinion regarding the benefits to be derived from it. Some of them like the weekly visits and others don't like the place at all, and although most of them like the doctors there are a few who consider them entirely too inquisitive. These are the important element of the whole affair, the babies. Large and small, dark and tow heads, chubby little faces and puny tightened-up features, cheerful and bright or squalling and red-faced, they are borne here week after week for their weights to be considered and their daily habits made the subject of many searching remarks from nurses and doctors. Some of them are so tiny that they fit perfectly into the weighing basket, others have to be doubled up like jack-knives or stood on end.

Then they are taken in behind the white-curtained enclosure, from whence they emerge still smiling or in a state of uproarious protest, according to their dispositions. Perhaps some of them think an exhibition of lung power is required also, along with so many questions regarding diet, sleep, etc. The soft-voiced little lady who presided for a time on Tuesday, however, at these examinations didn't create much opposition on the part of her charges. Dr. Lillian Grady knows a good deal about this work, and will have charge during Dr. Bernie's absence for a month's holiday. Then there is Mrs. McCartney, the nurse, smiling and efficient, and a bevy of young ladies who seem to be very interested in making the mothers feel just as much at home as possible. They record information on the cards, such as weight and general condition. At last Tuesday's clinic, when 25 babies attended with their mothers, the Misses Margaret Turner and Marjorie Best, assisted by the Misses Harvey, had charge of this work.

Fashions Trend Towards Long Jackets

Veering towards the long jacket for suits for some time now, they appear to have got the confidence of the designer at last, and this year we find no jackets shorter than 36 inches and many much longer. The lines are not unlike those of spring, fitting slightly under the arm, long tight sleeves, flaring somewhat over the hand and flat chested. The collar is notched in Directoire style, or it fastens up around the neck. The skirt is medium width with no special features to mention. In the jacket again we find embroidery and stitching playing their ornamental part and fur being used on the collar the sleeves and the pockets.

One looks in vain for a new silhouette. The straight-line dress is what the Canadian woman considers suits her type best and that is what she insists upon having, so the designer, considering her preferences, gives her straight lines as a rule. Women's Wear, a smart little publication devoted to Canadian-made garments for Canadian women, describes a couple of these little dresses. One is a brown afternoon gown, inspired by a Jenny model, which has straight lines throughout, the waistline being defined by a girdle of blossoms made of satin and not a single touch of color anywhere else about it. The neck is eliptical without collar, and the sleeves quite wide nearly full length at the wrist.

One of black reshanara crepe has white crepe streamers on either side arranged at the hips in a geometrical design and down the back a fold of black suggests a fastening, which, however, is on the shoulder.

Children Suffer From Malnutrition

A recent medical survey carried on throughout the urban schools in Oxford County disclosed the fact that many children were suffering from malnutrition, and, at a meeting of the W.C.T.U. there recently, mothers were asked to make a study of providing properly balanced meals for their families. Dr. A. W. McPherson's report to the Board of Education about three weeks ago also emphasized the number of children suffering in this way, the majority of whom did not come from poverty-stricken families, according to the report. The following list of food values and sample menus have been compiled by a specialist for those mothers who lack the necessary knowledge of food values:

Proteins—These foods supply material for building tissue, muscle, brain, bone and gland. They include meat, fish, eggs, milk, cereals.

Carbohydrates and fats—These foods supply material for maintaining heat and energy. They include starchy foods, as potatoes, rice, tapioca, macaroni, corn starch, arrowroot, bananas, bread; sugar foods, as sugar, syrup, candy, honey, jam, jelly, dates and figs; fats, as butter, cream, olive oil; milk, cereals.

Mineral matter—This supplies material for teeth and bone and keeps the body cl n and the blood pure. This necessary mineral matter is found in fruits, as apples, oranges, grapes, berries, pears, etc.; in green vegetables, as carrots, spinach, onions, turnips, lettuce, celery, tomatoes; milk, cereals.

Water—This keeps the blood pure and the body clean. It also aids in regulating the temperature of the body and in carrying nutrient to the cells. It is supplied by pure water as a beverage. Also in large proportion in such foods as milk, soups, fruits and green vegetables.

To feed a child properly, that is, to keep it in normal, healthy condition, each class of food should be represented at some one meal in the course of each twenty-four hours. It is also necessary that these foods should be present in certain proportions and amounts. For the average child from three to four times as much of the carbohydrates and fats as the proteins should be given as the right proportion.

The following menus suggest a well-balanced meal for a child:

Breakfast — Baked apple with cream, well-cooked oatmeal with milk, one egg, toast and butter.

Dinner—Broiled Hamburg steak, spinach and baked potato, graham bread and butter, rice pudding.

Supper—Cereal with milk, stewed fruit, small piece sponge cake.

Another day includes for,

Breakfast—Sliced bananas, well-cooked hominy with milk, whole wheat raisin bread and butter.

Dinner—Cream of chicken soup, cereal bread and poached egg, baked potato and mashed turnips, junket, molasses cake.

Supper—Ready-to-eat cereal with milk, baked apple and toast, orange marmalade.

Milk and cereals form such an important part of a child's diet because in these foods are represented all the elements necessary for the nourishment of the body. To make the proportion of elements perfect it is necessary to increase the amount of protein and fat by adding eggs, butter, etc., as suggested in the menus.

WANTED—A CURE.

A feminine reader of The Examiner, who evidently appreciates its powers in most phases of human existence, has handed in the following item for publication: "Wanted, a cure for a grumbling husband. Would exchange for one with sunny disposition."

This is a bona fide contribution, and the lady appears to be in quite a state of mind over the incessant "grousing" of her spouse. She has tried pretty nearly everything in endeavoring to break him of this evil habit, all to no avail, and would welcome any advice on the subject from those similarly afflicted.

Beauty Chats

HARMFUL HABITS.

One woman said once upon a time that when she considered the number of dangers that children ran into every day she wondered that any of them ever grew up. It is the same way about good looks. And when one considers the number of harmful habits that people acquire one wonders that any of them are good-looking at all.

A very common bad habit is that of biting off the thread while sewing, which injures the nerves of the teeth and is quite apt to cause them to die and the teeth to come out. Wherever a tooth has been taken out the hollow gum goes in and the face actually sinks in a little at this place. Hollows and wrinkles are bound to come.

Children acquire nervous habits of pulling or playing with the nose or ears. It does not matter so much if the ears are too large, for a woman can always cover them up with her hair, but a deformed nose spoils full face and profile.

The frowning habit is the commonest one of all and the most stubbornly persisted in, although it is the easiest one to cure. Frowning brings on early wrinkles, spoils the forehead and often the eyes, and by unconsciously drawing down the mouth makes one look old and unhappy.

Squinting the eyes is a bad habit which is rather attractive when young, but which will induce all sorts of wrinkles around the eyes when one is older.

Sitting with the legs crossed is another bad habit, because it unconsciously induces a slouchy position, a hollow chest and round shoulders.

The Complexion

A tanned complexion makes the plain person good-looking, the good-looking better looking. We all like to be sun-burned, but not all of us know how the tan comes.

The truth is that thousands of tiny blood vessels beneath the skin have to be ruptured before we can tan. The heat rays of the sun first inflames and then resist the heat. The cooling shield beneath the skin has gone, and browning takes place.

Those unfortunate folk whose complexions change to a vivid red instead of an attractive brown have, contrary to the popular notion, tough, thick skins. The latter resist the rays, and there is surface inflammation instead of browning.

Those whose noses peel have skins in which the perspiration ducts are clogged. Thus there is nothing to "oil" the skin, and it peels because it is dry.

Finally—this will be news to many—only the white races tan, scorch, peel or blister from the action of the sun. A black man will get much hotter than a white man, because black skins absorb the heat and pass it beneath the skin. It has no external effect.

Freckles are but tan in patches, due to varying thickness of the skin.

A Social Event

The ladies of the Immaculate Conception Church in East City are very busy just now with preparations for the social to be held in Riverside Park grounds on the afternoon and evening of Thursday, August 11th. Energetic committees of both men and women are working hard to perfect all arrangements for a pleasant event. A meeting of the various members of these committees was held recently, when final arrangements were discussed. A good programme has been arranged. There will be sports with a baseball game between two good city teams in the afternoon, and the evening will be a strictly social gathering, where friends from all parts of the city may meet for an enjoyable outing. A buffet luncheon will be served through the afternoon and evening, with all sorts of home-made dainties, sandwiches, soft drinks and ice cream. There will be a fish pond for the juniors, an auction sale of small articles, and the band of the Peterborough Rangers has been engaged for the musical end of the programme.

SALTS IN HOT WATER CLEARS PIMPLY SKIN

Says we must make kidneys clean the blood and pimples disappear.

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generally in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal activity, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities ad clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear; cleanses the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.

CHOICE RECIPES

By A. L. WYMAN, Chef.

Down in Greenwich Village there are scores of odd named restaurants and tea rooms with sawdust on the floor and a very poor jazz orchestra that cater to the out-of-town visitor and uptown folks, but very few of them serve any dishes that are worthy of mention. The majority of the cafes serve near beer and sandwiches that have a little of everything in them that the maker could lay his hands on. The exceptions are found near Washington Square, where there are cafes that have served good food for a reasonable price for years, and they have a patronage that some of the uptown cafes would be proud of.

One of the best of these cafes is owned by an Italian company and the other night we were served fresh beef tongue that was so delicious that I showed the chef my card and he told me that he would give me the recipe if I would promise not to use it in New York.

Fresh Beef Tongue—Italian.

For this dish one should have a nice fresh beef tongue. Dip the tongue in boiling water for a minute, remove and scrape off the skin with a knife. Parboil the tongue in boiling water for one hour. Place the parboiled tongue in a saucepan with four tablespoons of butter, a sliced onion, two branches of parsley, a sliced carrot and brown slightly. Add half a cup of orange juice, five cups of brown stock and two tomatoes cut in pieces. Place a cover on the pan and allow the tongue to simmer in the oven for two hours, turning it occasionally. After two hours, the liquid should be reduced to a thick brown sauce. Remove the tongue and slice it; place it on a hot platter as if it were whole. Strain the sauce and remove the fat. Parboil in half a cup of orange juice three blanched and chopped almonds, three tablespoonfuls of seedless raisins and three tablespoons of Sultana raisins; when the raisins are plump add to the hot sauce, mix well and pour over the tongue. Serve with this dish a green salad and a dish of spaghetti mixed with some of the sauce from the tongue.

Tip of Beef with Horseradish Sauce.

Roast sirloin tip of beef was very tasty served with a fresh horseradish sauce. Place a four or five-pound piece of sirloin tip of beef in a pan and bake in a moderate oven until medium rare. When more than half done add to the pan a dozen peeled raw potatoes and bake them with the meat, basting them with the gravy in the pan.

For the horseradish sauce, place one cup of freshly grated horseradish in a bowl, add half a teaspoon of salt, half a teaspoon of sugar and enough thick cream to make a thick sauce. Serve separate in a sauce boat.

Veal Cutlets a la Wall Street.

At one of the old time lunch cafes near Wall Street they serve for lunch a veal cutlet paprika that is very nice. Fry to nice brown one sliced onion in four tablespoons of butter; add two teaspoons of paprika and a tablespoon of flour and cook two minutes, moisten with a cup of brown stock and add two tablespoons of capers, the juice of half a lemon and a small piece of the lemon rind; boil five minutes and strain. Meat extract can be used to make the brown stock. Have the butcher cut four slices of veal from the loin or leg, one-half an inch thick, free from bone and gristle, season them with pepper and salt, dip in flour, and fry slowly in butter to a nice golden brown. Place the cutlets on a hot platter, pour over the prepared [illegible] sauce and garnish with boiled [illegible] well drained.

Popular Roast Beef Hash.

This same cafe serves a roast beef hash that is very popular. Cut in small dice one pound of clear cold roast beef, mixed with a little of the beef fat. Fry to a light brown one finely chopped onion in a little butter, then add four tablespoons of flour and cook for two minutes. Add a cup of stock and stir until smooth. Add the beef, a tablespoon of tomato ketchup and a teaspoon of table sauce. Place the hash in an earthenware baking dish and cover with mashed potatoes that have been mixed with two beaten eggs, sprinkle with bread crumbs and or until the potatoes are nicely browned.

Apple Charlotte—Cooking School Style.

One of the desserts demonstrated at one of the schools of cookery here was an apple charlotte, and although it is very easy to make, it was the best apple dish that I have tasted in a long time. Dip in melted, clarified butter slices of sandwich bread cut in pieces one inch wide and three inches long and use them to line a pudding mould four inches deep and four inches in diameter, have them overlap; cover the bottom of the mould also. Place in a saucepan four cups of sliced apples, one cup of seeded raisins, one slice of lemon and a small piece of stick cinnamon, with a very little water and cook until the liquid has evaporated and the apples are soft. Remove the lemon and cinnamon and place the apples in the bread lined mould; place the mould in a moderate oven and bake slowly for half an hour or until the bread is a nice brown. Turn out on a hot dish and serve hot with lemon or orange sauce.

Riverside Drive Frozen Pudding.

At one of the tea rooms on Riverside Drive they serve a frozen fruit pudding that your readers will like during the hot days this summer. Cover half a pound of shelled and skinned chestnuts with cold water and cook until very soft, remove from the fire and press through a fine sieve. Beat until light the yolks of five eggs and one cup of sugar, add the mashed chestnuts and two cups of sweet cream, stir smooth and place in a double boiler, add a quarter of a teaspoon of salt, place on the fire and stir until the mixture starts to boil, then remove from the fire and set aside to cool. Place in a bowl one-quarter pound of candied cherries, cut in half, one-quarter pound chopped candied orange peel, one-quarter pound candied pineapple chopped, one-half pound chopped seeded raisins and a half cup of orange juice. Place in a freezer the chestnut cream and freeze ten minutes, then add two cups of cream whipped until stiff with two tablespoons of powdered sugar; turn until the cream starts to get stiff and then add the fruits and freeze for five minutes longer. Place the pudding in watered pudding mould. Cover tightly and pack in ice and rock salt for three hours.

THE ETERNAL GOODNESS

We know not what the future hath
Of marvel or surprise
Assured alone that life and death
His mercy underlines.

And if my heart and flesh are weak
To bear an untried pain
The bruised reed, He will not break
But strengthen and sustain.

No offering of my own I have
No work my faith to prove
I can but give the gift he gave
And plead His love for love—

And as beside the silent sea
We wait the muffled oar
No harm from him can come to us
On ocean or on shore.

I know not where his islands lift
Their fonded palms in air
I only know she cannot drift
Beyond her Maker's love and care.

COMPULSORY BATHS ON OCEAN LINERS.

In the near future baths on board ship may become compulsory for all steerage passengers. This knowledge has struck terror in the hearts of some of those emigrants who prefer to be warm in the winter time. This sudden attack of cleanliness is due to the fact that a steamship of the Holland-America line possesses a very particular physician who used to be with the United States Public Health Service. After inspecting the immigrants in his boat he immediately made daily baths compulsory, much to the surprise and indignation of many of the passengers, some of whom had not been out of their clothes for months. Every day during a recent voyage the steerage passengers were invited to baths. If they protested they were seized and scrubbed, free of charge, by the doctor's bathing battalion, which consists of stewards, sergeants-at-arms and a few of the more intelligent immigrants. The fact that no disease broke out during the voyage speaks for itself.

THE PETES EASILY WIN FROM PORT HOPE IN A CENTRAL LEAGUE FIXTURE

M'ELROY ONLY ALLOWED VISITORS THREE HITS AND THE LOCAL GANG OUTSCORE VISITORS 12 TO 1—SNAPPY FIELDING OF PETES MADE PORT HOPE'S DEFENSIVE LOOK VERY BAD.

Port Hope were leading the Central League race when they arrived in Peterboro yesterday, but when last evening's game was over their stock had slumped considerably, for the Petes walloped them 12 to 1 in easy fashion. "Lefty" McElroy turned in one of his best games of the season, allowing Port Hope but three hits, two of them scratchy, and all made by the same player, Johnny Rowden, the veteran second baseman of the visitors, who was the only Port Hoper who could solve McElroy's benders. The Petes' southpaw had good control and in six out of the nine innings only three batters faced him. Lefty should have had a shut out, the visitors' only counter coming as the result of a misjudged fly, and two errors in the final innings.

The Petes' played good ball behind McElroy's effective pitching. Holyman, Murray and Ray Rose all had sparkling plays to their credit, Holyman pulling off the feature stunt of the engagement when he scooped up Fair's fast roller to deep short and with a long accurate throw beat the batter to first, cuting Fair out of what had all the ear marks of a sure hit. Besides fielding snappily Holyman had two useful hits, his second tap driving in a pair of runs.

Port Hope played ragged ball, making a total of ten boots, while the Petes were able to bump Deer's delivery at the proper moment to cash in to the fullest advantage on the misplays of the visitors, and in addition ran wild on the bases, Ware, who started in to do the catching for the Ontarios, being so bad that he was derricked in the third, and Bob Chalk had to be brought in from centre field to do the back stopping.

The visitors got two men on in the first on a single and a hit by pitcher, but the next two were easy. From then until the ninth only two men reached first base, Rowden, who singled in the third, and Hills who drew a pass in the eighth.

There were a lot of close decisions on the bases and the Port Hope crew crabbed vigorously every time one was called against them. When a team makes ten errors and only three hits, somebody has got to be the goat, and they tried to pin that honour on Base Umpire Lebarr, who had a busy evening.

First Innings.

Port Hope—Rowden singled to right, the ball bouncing over Ross's shoulder. Bob Chalk sacrificed; McElroy to Ross. F. Chalk was hit. Morse popped to Ray Rose. Holyman gathered in Carter's fly to short. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Peterboro—Lorne Rose doubled down the first base line. Ray Rose took a slant in the ribs. Swanston flied to right, the runners advancing after the catch. Ross missed three. Murray flied to Fred Chalk. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Second Innings.

Friar was out, McElroy to Ross. Fair was thrown out by Holyman. Ware rolled to Murray. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterboro—Holyman singled to left. Jackson fanned. Holyman stole second and went on to third on Ware's low throw. Kirn laid down a bunt which Deer fumbled, Holyman scoring and the batter reaching first. McElroy flied to Moise. Kirn stole second and went to third on a passed ball. Lorne Rose beat out a hit to short, Kirn scoring. R. Rose struck out. Two runs, two hits, two errors.

Third Innings.

Port Hope—Deer popped to Holyman. Rowden singled to right. Bob Chalk fanned. Rowden stole second. F. Chalk flied to Kirn. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Peterboro — Swanston singled to short, the ball bouncing over Moise's head. Ross bunted a fly to Deer. Murray scratched a hit on a high one back of first, which Rowden nearly got. When Rowden threw low to second Swanston tore round to third and Murray reached second. Holyman promptly scored this pair with a vicious single through the box. Holyman stole second, and went to third on a wild pitch. Jackson walked and stole second. Fair fumbled Kirn's tap to third and Holyman scored, Jackson going to third. Ware missed the third strike on McElroy and the runner was safe, while Jackson crossed the plate. Ware was taken out of the game at this stage, and Bob Chalk came in to catch, McDonald going to centre field. Lorne Rose's sacrifice fly to McDonald scored Kirn. McElroy was caught off second. Five runs, three hits, three errors.

Fourth Innings.

Port Hope—Moise rolled to Ray Rose. Lorne Rose made a nice catch of Carters' drive to left centre. Friar struck out. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterboro—Ray Rose singled to right. Swanston sacrificed. Fair to Carter, Rose going round to third on the bunt. Ross lofted a fly to McDonald, Rose scoring after the catch. Murray was safe when Fair's throw pulled Carter off the bag; Murray stole second. Holyman missed three. One run, one hit, one error.

Fifth Innings.

Port Hope — Holyman robbed Fair of a hit by a great stop and fine throw from deep short. McElroy tossed out McDonald. Murray made a snappy play on Deer's slow roller getting the runner by a step on a speedy throw from an awkward position. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterboro—Jackson was hit, Kirn struck out, McElroy rolled to Rowden, Jackson going to second. Deer missed Lorne Roses' tap, Jackson going to third. On a double steal, Jackson scored, Chalk dropping the return throw. Ray Rose singled past first, scoring his brother. Morse threw out Swanston. Two runs, one hit, two errors.

Sixth Innings.

Port Hope—Rowden rolled to McElroy. Murray made a nice stop of Bob Chalk's roller over third and nailed runner by a perfect throw. Fred Chalk gave Ray Rose an easy fly. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterboro—Fair gathered in Ross's high fly back of third in nice style. Murray also hoisted to Fair and Moise pegged Holyman out at first. No runs, hits or errors.

Seventh Innings.

Port Hope — Moise rolled to Ray Rose. Jackson gathered in Carter's drive to centre. Friar was easy; McElroy to Rose. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterboro — Jackson hoisted to Moise. Kirn flied to Fred Chalk in left. McElroy missed three. No runs, hits or errors.

Eighth Innings.

Port Hope — Fair flied to Kirn. Alex Hills batted for McDonald. McElroy threw the ball over while Umpire Wilson was announcing the change, and Hills pasted it over third for a single. He had to go back and bat over again and this time drew a walk, the first visitor to reach first since the third innings. Swanston promptly threw him out when he tried to steal second. Deer lifted one to Murray. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterboro — Lorne Rose singled to left and Ray Rose was hit. Swanston forced Lorne rose at 3rd on a tap to Deer. Ross hit to Fair, and Ray Rose scored when the third basemans throw home hit him. Ross thouhgt the ball was dead and was caught between first and second on the play. Murray singled past Moise scoring Swanston, Murray went to second on Deers low throw to first. Rowden made a nice catch of Holyman's fly to short right. Two runs, two hits, two errors.

Ninth Innings

Port Hope—Rowden got a lucky double when Kirn misjudged his fly to right. Bob Chlk hit to Holyman and Base Umpire Lebarr called him out at first but Chief Umpire Wilson ruled that Ross was off the bag and reversed the decision. Fred Chalk hit to Ray Rose, who made a great pick up, and headed Rowden off at the plate. He tried to go back to third, but Swanston's throw to Murray nailed him. Moise lined into Murray's hands and the third baseman lost the opportunity for an easy double by letting the ball get away, Bob Chalk scoring. Carter rolled to Murray, who threw Fred Chalk out at the plate, and Friar tapped one to McElroy to wind up the affair. One run, one hit, two errors.

BUSINESS MEN TO ADVISE THE GOVT.

British Cabinet Adopts New Method of Cutting Expenditures.

LONDON, Aug. 4. — (Canadian Press.)—In the House of Commons yesterday Sir Robert Horne, President of the Board of Trade, stated the Cabinet had concluded it would be of great assistance to them to have the advice of a special committee of business men in dealing with reductions in expenditures. Sir Eric Geddes would be chairman of the committee. The Cabinet would continue to decide questions of policy, but it would doubtless be within the purview of the committee to say what any particular policy would cost.

SPORT COMMENT

If the Giants had a Cooper or an Alexander. If the Yanks had a manager. If Pittsburg would only get the expected collapse. If the Indians would lay down once in a while.

"Iffing" of this variety is occupying the time of the New Yorkers at the start of another week of the pennant races which finds both Gotham clubs within that slight step of he lead which they seem unable to negotiate.

The Giants and the Yankees are right on top of the Pirates and the Indians, but both seem to suffer a lapse from form when they get the chance to forge ahead.

Pittsburg hit the rocks last week, winning only one out of five games. Meanwhile the Giants were closing in rapidly by winning six out of their eight games.

They worked into a tie with the Pirates, but then with the opportunity to leap ahead, McGraw's men slumped and were trimmed twice yesterday by the Reds.

Being set back by the Reds, however, is not the ignominy it would have been earlier in the season, for Pat Moran has his near champions, a vastly different club from the one he started the race with. The Reds won four out of their seven starts last week and played a snappy variety of baseball.

The Pirates have a hard series this week with the Boston Braves. The Hub club slowed up slightly last week by winning three out of five games, but they are losing none of the class that makes them tough meat for any pennant appetites.

For the immediate future, the Pirates will be a little better off than the Giants, as they are on their home grounds for a stay, and the New Yorkers have to hit the rest of the Western circuit.

If the present "croocial" series between the Yanks and the Indians means anything, the pennant depends entirely on pitching with the Yanks a slight favourite.

Saturday in the opening game of the series Coveleskie was invincible, the Indians won 16 to 1. Yesterday, Carl Mays was invincible and the Yanks won 12 to 2. The Yank pitchers are rounding into good shape. Shawkey, one of the aces of the staff, was badly mauled on Saturday, but he had bad breaks, and Huggins should never have allowed him to remain in the box. Mays continues to pitch great ball when Huggins doesn't try to work him to death. Hoyt also seems to have reached the winning class. The most crying needs of the Yanks, however, is a good left-handed hurler.

Prominent in the dash of the Pittsburg Pirates, which seems pennant-ward, is the catching sensation of the year, Walter Schmidt.

No less an authority than Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn Robins, hands the bulk of credit for the class of the Pirates to their star receiver.

"Schmidt developed the young pitching stars of the Pirate staff," Robby says. "He works with them off the field and he keeps them close to the ground on the field. His work in general steadies the whole club. He is a star of the first magnitude."

In a season of long-drawn-out games that start the fans toward the gates in the seventh inning, among a bunch of ball players, who seem to be playing for the pay envelope alone, the Pirates are a very pleasant relief.

After seeing all the major league clubs in action, there is little doubt that the Pirates are the classiest club in the two big leagues. Maybe they won't win the pennant, but it's hard to see what can keep them out of the series.

They play ball with all the spirit and enthusiasm of a college team. They chatter on the field like a bunch of flappers. They hit and they run the bases. They do everything a good ball club should do, and they do it well.

George Gibson has the morale of the club at a high pitch. There are no tales of Pirates being fined for playing extra innings around the bright lights.

There are no battles between the players and a coach who tells them to do something.

The Pirates look like a ball club in the field, and they act like one. They are well balanced, with plenty of reserve power. They have brillian youngsters working along beside old veterans who seem to have been given a new lease of life. They have a versatile attack and their defence is spectacular.

Above all, they are not cocky. They are not blustery like the Giants or overbearing like the Reds of 1920. They fight to the last ditch for a point, but they know the bounds of order.

No individual on the club deserves all the credit for the consistent ball they are playing. Perhaps Gibson, behind the scenes, is the inspiration. Maybe Schmidt is the governor on the machine, or Maranville might be the dynamo that speeded up the engine. They all deserve credit, and none of them are claiming it.

WINNER OF SATURDAY'S GAME WILL GO OUT IN FRONT IN THE BIG RACE

The leadership of the Central Ontario League will be at stake when Belleville and Peterborough clash at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon, and the game should be one of the most exciting of the year. Belleville beat Oshawa yesterday 3 to 0, and are tied with the Petes, and Lindsay at the top of the League ladder. Shutting out Oshawa, the winners of the first half is not an easy stunt, and the result of the game shows that Goyer must have been in his old-time form. He and the rest of the Belleville crew will work their heads off to beat the Petes Saturday, not only because they need the game to stay up in the race, but also because the sting of the defeat the Petes handed them in Belleville still rankles. Hap Harrison will be in the game for the Petes Saturday, and the Solomon crew are confident of giving the visitors a battle royal. The game is called for 3 o'clock, and the chief umpire will be Claude Wilson, of Oshawa.

The League standing as a result of yesterday's games is as follows, the Petes remaining the only team so far to win a game away from home in the second half:

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Peterborough	2	1	.667
Belleville	2	1	.667
Lindsay	2	1	.667
Port Hope	2	2	.500
Oshawa	2	2	.500
Cobourg	1	3	.250

NEW REGULATIONS GOVERN SCHOONER RACES THIS YEAR

INTERNATIONAL RACES FOR BLUE RIBBON UNDER CHANGED RULES

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Since the Esperanto from Gloucester, whose torn timbers now strew the sand bars of Sable Island, defeated the Delawana of Lunenburg off Halifax Harbor last fall and took to the United States the cup presented by the Halifax Herald and Evening Mail as emblematic of the championship of the fishing fleet of the North Atlantic, definite regulations to govern future contests for the cup have been drawn up and embodied in the deed of gift.

The preamble to the regulations states that the trophy has been donated to encourage the development of the best type of craft for employment in the fishing industry, and throughout the rules take particular care to provide that only bona fide fishing craft may engage in the international competitions. To this end the following elegibility clauses are included:

"The only vessels which may compete for the trophy shall be bona fide fishing vessels which have engaged in commercial deep-sea fishing for at least one season previous to the race. A fishing season for the purpose of these rules is considered as extending from the month of April to September, and any vessel competing must have remained on the fishing grounds in all weather, as is customary, until the month of September, except for necessary returns to port for landing cargo or refitting. Fishing banks shall mean all off-shore banks, such as George's Western, Grand, etc., and all vessels engaged in shore fishing and making port in bad weather shall not be eligible.

"Competing vessels must be of the usual type, both in form and construction, sail plan and rigging, as customary in the fishing industry, and any radical departure may be regarded as a freak and eliminated.

"The captain and crew of each competing vessel shall be bona fide fishermen actively engaged in deep-sea fishing."

All races shall be under control of an international committee of five, which will be elected for each series of races. H. R. Silver of Halifax is Chairman of the committee controlling next fall's races. Two other members will represent Nova Scotia and two, named by the Governor of Massachusetts, will represent the United States.

The courses for the competitions shall not be less than thirty-five or more than forty nautical miles in length and must be so arranged as to provide windward and leeward work. The time limit of each race shall be nine hours. There shall be no handicap or time allowance. The international trophy shall be awarded to and remain in the possession of the vessel winning two out of three races for one year. Cash prizes awarded shall not exceed five thousand dollars for each series. The money for these prizes shall be provided by the committee representing the country in which the races shall be held.

Dimensions of the competitors for the international championship are limited by the provisions of the deed of gift to the following maximums: [illegible] feet from outside of stem to outside of taffrail; waterline length in racing trim 112 feet; draught in racing trim 16 feet from lowest point of keel to racing waterline measured vertically.

Sails allowed by the regulations are mainsail, foresail, two jibs (including jumbo), jib topsail, fore and main gaff topsails and fishermen's staysail. Total sail area, not including fisherman's staysail, is to be no greater than 80 per cent. of the square of the waterline length in racing trim, as expressed in square feet. This stipulation does not apply to vessels built previous to the 1920 races if at that time their sail area exceeded this per centage. The combined area of the mainsail and the main gaff topsail shall not be more than fifty per cent. of the maximum total of the sail area. Mainsail, main gaff topsail and headsails shall be calculated by the universal rule, except that in the case of the mainsail the "B" of the formula shall be measured from the afterside of the mainmast to the outer clew iron hole. Foresail and fore gaff topsail shall be calculated by the universal rule for actual measurement of the sails used and not a percentage of space between the masts. If more than one staysail or jib topsail are on the vessel they must be of the same area and only one shall be set at a time. The sails used in racing shall be made of the ordinary commercial duck of the same weight and texture as generally used in this class of vessel and shall have been used at least one season fishing.

Spars, including booms and gaffs (which must all be solid) must be the same as used in fishing.

Ballast of the racing schooners by provision must be of a material of a not greater specific gravity than iron. No ballast shall be taken on or off the competing vessels during the series and no ballast shall be shifted after the fifteen-minute preparatory gun is fired before the race.

PRINCE OF WALES TO REVISIT HERE

MAY BE IN CANADA IN SPRING OF NEXT YEAR.

LONDON, Aug. 4. — (Canadian Press).—The popular Prince of Wales may be in Canada again in April or May of next year. The Daily Mail states that His Royal Highness' tour of India will conclude at Karachi on March 17, 1922, whence the Prince and his party will return home via Japan, and probably via Canada.

MERCHANTS WILL HEAR PROPOSALS OF NEW INDUSTRY

Mr. Thomas Barrie, President of the Retail Merchants' Association of this city, has called a meeting to be held tomorrow evening, commencing at 7.45, in the Chamber of Commerce, at which will be discussed the proposition concerning the establishment here of the Birmingham Motors. Mr. Byron Lederer will address the meeting.

The company's representative states that $500,000 of stock would have to be taken in Peterborough, and this augmented by funds to twice the amount from the United States would give the necessary capital. The money subscribed here, he states, would be used solely for buying the property and equipping the plant. None of the stock is to be paid for, he said, till all the issue is sold, and then not until a committee of subscribers has gone fully into the affairs of the company. The stock will sell at $20.00 a share, only to the amount of $500,000. If any is sold in excess of that amount, it will be $30.00 a share, he explained.

Mr. Lederer states that the Canadian branch would be a subsidiary of the American, but all moneys subscribed in Peterborough will be used exclusively in this city, augmented by American funds.

COBOURG, Aug. 4.—An interesting event in connection with marine life on the lakes this year is that two well known district mariners will complete fifty years of service. They are Capt. T. L. Vandusen, who commands the Oliver Mowat, and Capt. Chouncey Darjean, in command of the schooner May C. Darjean. These two popular captains started sailing on the same day on the schooner Zabird.

PRE-WAR PRICES FOR MOVIE SHOWS

10 AND 20 CENTS AT GRAND IN LONDON—PETERBORO' OPERA HOUSE OWNED BY SAME COMPANY.

A despatch from Montreal says that the pre-war scale of prices for movie pictures is about to be inaugurated for the Grand Opera House, London. This decision was reached by Trans-Canada Theatres, Limited, on Wednesday, announces Mr. George F. Driscoll, vice-president and general manager. The prices that will from now on obtain at the company's theatre in London are 5 cents and 10 cents for matinees and 10c. and 20 cents for evening performances.

The local Grand Opera House is owned by the Trans-Canada Theatres Limited, and Vice-President Driscoll is occasionally in Peterborough on business. As announced some time ago, this amusement house will not bill motion pictures the coming season, but confine its attractions to road shows exclusively, of which quite a number of leading productions have already been arranged for. The manager, Mr. W. R. Phillips, is out of town, so it could not be learned to-day whether or not Trans-Canada Theatres, Limited, plan for their strictly road show theatres a deflating price policy in conformity with that for motion pictures at London.

BAND TO GIVE CONCERT IN CHEMONG PARK

On the afternoon of Civic Holiday the Caledonian Pipe Band will play at Chemong Park, commencing at 5 p.m. and special Scotch and Irish dances will also be given. This is the first concert the band has arranged for the park, and a full programme will be rendered. A silver collection will be taken to defray expenses and go some way in paying for the fine uniforms the band are wearing and which gives them an unusually smart appearance. It is the hope of the pipe band supporters that the cottagers will attend the concert in large numbers and show their appreciation of this musical effort of the band.

SQUATTER WHO FIRED ON FISHERMEN TAKEN

CHARGED WITH HAVING FIREARMS IN POSSESSION

KINGSTON, Aug. 4.—Barcley Thompson, the aged man who took possesion of Bass Island and fired at two fishermen on Sunday when they refused to go away when he ordered them to, and who also sunk their boat and left them stranded on a rock for some time before going to their rescue, was rounded up by Constable Brien of Camden East on a charge of having fire arms in his possession and will come before Judge Madden on August 31st. He is believed to be insane and will be examined by a doctor.

ASK BRITISH GOVT. TO INVESTIGATE OUR PENSIONS PAYMENTS

UNLESS IMPERIAL PENSIONERS RECEIVE THEIR MONEY MORE QUICKLY.

WINNIPEG, Aug 4.—(Special despatch to the Examiner).—Unless the Board of Pension Commissioners at Ottawa deals more promptly with the cases of Imperial pensioners resident in Canada the Imperial Veterans in Canada will write to the Minister of Pensions in England asking for a full enquiry into the administration of Imperial Pensions.

A letter to this effect was sent Wednesday to Sir George E. Foster acting Prime Minister of Canada from the Association in which a specific case was called of an officer entitled to retired pay of £105 per annum, paid quarterly, who had to wait 10 weeks before any payment was made.

REVOLT AGAINST DECREE OF PARIS

SKIRTS SHORT AS EVER SHOWN IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—France may be reforming and letting down her skirts a few inches but America stil feels kittenish enough to wear hers just below the knees, according to the fall styles displayed at the National Garment Galleries' Fashion Shop. The new models showed that many American designers have revolted against the decre of Paris Their skirts show as much silken limb as ever.

ERNEST HAWTHORNE ON SERIOUS CHARGE OF MANSLAUGHTER

FORMER PETERBORO' BOY IN MOTOR ACCIDENT IN TORONTO

TORONTO, August 4. — Charged with manslaughter, Ernest Hawthorne, driver of the motor cycle in which the Farmer and Wemyss boys met death on Tuesday evening, appeared in the Police Court yesterday morning.

The Crown wanted $20,000 bail.

Appearing for Hawthorne, W. B. Horkins declared that his client was travelling only 15 to 18 miles an hour, and that his brake failed. For this reason he thought $5,000 bail enough.

Crown Attorney Wilson agreed to accept two sureties of $5,000, and Hawthorne was remanded for a week.

According to the Toronto police, the motor cycle and sidecar travelled down Brock Avenue at a "pretty fast" rate of speed. At the Brock and College intersection the motor cycle struck the rear end of an automobile going east. The force of the collision smashed the automobile into a Hydro pole on the corner, the motor cycle and sidecar made a complete somersault, throwing the four boys several feet in the air, while the two boys who were sitting on their companions' knees were dashed against the curb. Bruce Croft and Tony Lee received a severe shaking up, but could proceed home after the accident, while the driver of the motor cycle miraculously escaped injury.

Both the dead boys were dashed against the curb at the intersection.

Harold Farmer, 11 years old, died while he was being carried from the place of the accident to the office of Dr. W. E. Fawnes, 1209 College Street, while Percy Wemyss, 12 years of age, was immediately rushed to the Western Hospital, where it was found that he had a compound fracture of the skull and several other minor facial injuries. Following an operation to relieve pressure on the brain, he died at 12.20 on Wednesday morning.

Ernest Hawthorne is a son of James J. Hawthorne, 632 Union Street, Peterborough.

CIVIL SERVICE RE-ORGANIZING TO BE BLOCKED

BECAUSE OF UNPOPULARITY AND INEVITABLE UNEMPLOYMENT MOST OF DISMISSED EMPLOYEES RETAINED.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

OTTAWA, Aug. 4—On account of the unpopularity of the task and by reason of the inevitable heavy unemployment during the coming winter, the Government's plans for Civil Service reconstruction and cutting down of staffs, which, under Griffenhagen and associates, was commenced in the Customs and Post Office Departments, may be discontinued for the time being at least, and not extended to the other departments, however desirable in the interests of economy and efficiency and re-organization it may be.

The dismissal of employees is not calculated to secure votes for the Government in Ottawa at least. The re-organization last year of the Printing Bureau was carried out with a considerable amount of ruthlessness and with little interference on the part of the Government. Several hundred employees were turned out without, it is said, impairing the efficiency of the Bureau, but a committee of the Cabinet has undertaken a revision of the prescribed lists of the Post Office and Customs Departments, as a result of which a very large proportion of those listed for dismissal have been retained. In fact, the amount of economy effected will scarcely justify the heavy expense incurred through the services of the experts.

DEALERS CLAIM THE LOCAL HOUSING HAS NOT IMPROVED

HOMELESS CAMPERS WILL SOON FLOCK BACK TO CITY.

Rents, which have remained stationary in the great majority of cases in Peterborough, are not going to come down, according to one of the city's most energetic real estate dealers. And the same remarks might apply as well to the prices of houses, in his opinion. Although there is not quite as much demand for houses to buy as there was last year, this firm has already sold four during the week. Many would-be buyers are holding off in the hope that next year will see a substantial reduction in prices, but there is not much hope of anything of the sort in the way of lower-priced building materials. In Peterborough at the present time, houses are selling for about one-third less than it would cost to put up the same class of building. For instance, a brick house with part plumbing, gas and electric lighting, which is selling for $2,200, could not be built at the present for less than $2,500, exclusive of the lot.

What might be called a resumption of buying in real estate started in Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton and St. Catharines some four or five years ago, with the result that prices have now reached a peak in those centres. A house that could be purchased at that time in Toronto or Hamilton for $5,000, now demands $7,000 for a purchase price. This is not the case locally, demands for real estate having really commenced here only about two years since, and, in consequence, prices have not yet reached a very high level.

Although there are numbers of people looking for houses to rent, there does not seem to be much overcrowding as yet, according to this dealer. What the situation will be when the fall season starts in and those camping down the river return to the city, remains to be seen. A number of people who sold their houses in the spring have been camping down the river for the summer months, and thus saving money.

CROSS-ATLANTIC RADIOS TO FLASH 300 WORDS MINUTE

MARCONI HAS PERFECTED LIGHTNING RADIO APPARATUS

(By United Press).

LONDON, Aug. 4. — Messages soon will be flashed across the Atlantic at the rate of 200 to 300 words a minute, Marconi, inventor of wireless, declared here to-day.

He told how he had perfected a lightning radio apparatus which would transmit words through space faster than a normal man can talk.

"I have tried the new method over short distances during the last six weeks," Marconi said. "I have no doubt that it will be a great success. We sent and received over short distances with the greatest of ease. We even received high speed messages from the vicinity of New York while we were cruising about in my yacht off the New England coast.

"We have not yet tested the apparatus thoroughly at high frequency and speed across the Atlantic, but I expect to proceed further with these long distance tests within a few days."

DELIVERY HORSE DID A MARATHON ON GEORGE STREET

A fifty-pound weight on one of G. J. Jopling and Son's horses failed to hold it at 10 a.m. to-day when it ran away, dragging the delivery rig with it from the corner of George and Sherbrooke Streets. The driver was in the store at the corner when the horse began its uncertain career north on George after it had performed a circle on the pavement. Pulling the heavy weight along like a dog would drag a tin can attached to its tail, the horse reached King Street before it shook off the dead weight. Careening south it brought the weight, wagon and everything up against a hydrant in front of Peter Hamilton's office. The weight caught on the hydrant and the neck strap snapped. The tug broke too and, unimpeded by the delivery rig, which was considerably smashed up against the pipe, the horse effected a northward loop and tore up George Street. The spirited charger found the pavement was not a dirt track, and slipped at the corner of Simcoe with a frightful rattle of hoofs. Before it could get under way again it was under capture, and inspection showed it had only suffered a few cuts.

FORDSON TRACTORS IN THIS COUNTY

It is stated that Fordson Tractors are being delivered this season in goodly numbers throughout the county, and dealers are having an interesting experience with this new machine for power farming. A recent purchaser was Mr. Frank Fowler, near Bests' Station, who did the larger part of his harvesting with the aid of the Tractor, instead of with horses, as formerly. This week, Mr. W. J. Scollard, one of the leading agriculturists of Ennismore Township, purchased a Fordson, which was put to work at once, and did his harvesting and the threshing of his crop in the field, thus saving the hauling and handling of it at the barn. Mr. Scollard's energetic son contemplates doing all his farm work with a Fordson. Mr. Chas. Moore, of Smith, has had a Fordson for about two years, and to hear Charlie talk would make one believe that the day of the horse is on the wane. Charlie uses his tractor all seasons of the year, and would not think of being without one.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(Canadian Press).—The stock market opened irregular but with an easier tendency which became more pronounced in the first half hour. Investment railroads and leading specialties exhibited the most weakness. Yesterday's decline in the railroad division and misgivings as to dividend action on certain industries encouraged broader selling for short account. American Sugar and Central Leather fell one point and United States food products, Cuba Cane Sugar preferred, Central Leather preferred Bethlehem Steel, Sears Roebuck, General Electric, American Locomotive and United Drug, one half to three quarters. Studebaker was a notable exception, gaining two points, while Chandler, Mexican Pet. and Union Pacific were bid up nearly a point.

Selling orders did not follow prices down and the market began to show a little more stability in sympathy with the confident absorption of Motors. Domestic and international monetary conditions were regarded favorably, with the large influx of gold here and the strength to foreign remittances, sterling rising one and one-half cents, causing a check to speculative selling. Short covering was an obvious factor on the rebound, but there also were signs of renewed accumulation of representative railroads with pool operations in some industrials. American Sugar recovered fully and the general list got back to a parity with yesterday's close or above. Call money again renewed at 5½ per cent.

Trading was on a diminishing scale after mid-day but prices of industrials continued to forge upward. International Harvester, American Woolen and Atlantic Gulf advanced two points, Atlantic Gulf preferred 3 1-2 and American International, Famous Players, Sumatra Tobacco, American Sugar, California Packing and Great Northern Preferred one point.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, Aug. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Steamship Preferred and Quebec Railway were the only issues in which there was any activity this morning on the local Stock Exchange. Both scored gains of over a point. Steamers, opening unchanged at 50½, advanced to 52 on a sale of 120 shares, closing at high for the morning. Odd lots and fractional shares of General Electric brought quotations on this stock up to 92, as compared with 91, yesterday's close.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Aug. 4. — (Canadian Press.)— Detroit Railway, which was the feature of the early trading in the stock exchange, closed at 53 1-4, while Spanish River lost another two points to 52, constituting a loss of five net points since last night. Abitibi was strong and closed a point higher at 32 and Atlantic Sugar appeared fractionally stronger at 26 7-8.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(Canadian Press.)—Sterling exchange strong; Demand 3.57 3-4, Cables 3.58 1-4; Canadian Dollars 10 3-4 per cent. discount.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.— (Canadian Press.)—Fresh declines took place in the wheat market to-day. Persistent slowness of export demand was a leading bearish factor. Besides, favorable weather for the spring crop harvest tended to weaken values. Opening quotations, which varied from unchanged figures to 3-4 cents lower, with September 1.22 1-2 to 1.23 1-2 and Dec. 1.25 3-4 to 1.26, were followed by a moderate setback all around.

Corn went down grade with wheat. Opening unchanged to 1-4 to 3-8 lower, including Sept. at 58 3-8 the market underwent a general fall.

Oats showed no independence, a shade to 3-8 cents down, Sept. 37 3-4 to 38, and then sagging further.

Provisions were depressed by lower quotations on hogs and grain as well.

MINERAL OIL

FOR CHRONIC CONSTIPATION

By buying this produce from us, you can get the Highest in Quality that can be procured at an ESPECIALLY LOW PRICE.

There are many thin Oils on the market that are not suitable for internal use; other Oils have irritating qualities which render them also unsuitable. The one we are selling is Guaranteed thick and entirely pure.

It is recognized that a good grade of Mineral Oil is one of the best remedies for CHRONIC CONSTIPATION that is being used. It acts mechanically and does not irritate the intestinal tract, nor does the dose have to be constantly increased as is the case with ordinary purgatives.

It is much better and cheaper than Castor Oil as a laxative for Children, since Castor Oil has two effects, the first of which is purgative and the second or after-effect, which is Constipating.

A FORD TOUR IN OUR NORTH COUNTRY

What promises to be an interesting Ford motor car tour in our north country is just now being undertaken by Mr. M. J. Duffus, sales manager for the Duffus Motor Sales of this city.

Mr. Duffus left Peterboro on Monday morning on an extended motor trip through the extreme northern townships in a Ford Coupe. He will interview the leading settlers, giving Ford car demonstrations and lectures at different points. Topics of clearing logged-off lands, using motorized equipment on the farms, and so on, will be discussed, and incidentally advertise the Duffus Motor Sales. It is simply a matter of educating our northern farmers in the uses of the Ford car and Ford power farming machinery. It was a good idea to have this educational work done, as it will serve not only to stimulate sales, but will introduce motor cars and motor machines to the northern settlers.

There will be no steam calliope, but it is expected there will be a big parade of settlers whenever Mr. Duffus moves from one centre to another.

Mr. Duffus has the reputation of being a good angler, and usually carries a first class fishing tackle with him. It will be no surprise to his intimate friends if he returns from his trip with a bookful of orders for his firm, and a heavy string of big trout to the bargain.

Even flying machines will not enable some men to get above reproach.

CIVIC HOLIDAY FOOTBALL GAME

One of the features of the Civic Holiday programme will be the football game between England and Scotland. The game is called for 2.30 p.m., at the Exhibition grounds, and with two picked teams will provide an interesting event for the fans.

HAIL, RAIN AND WIND FLATTEN GRAIN CROP IN SASKATCHEWAN; DAMAGE ESTIMATED AT MILLION

STORM COMES AS CLIMAX OF GRADUALLY FADING HOPES FOR BUMPER YIELD—STRIP 30 BY 5 MILES TOTAL LOSS.

RUST IS SPREADING THROUGHOUT PROVINCE

REGINA, Sask. 9ug. 5.—(Special Despatch to the Examiner) —Saskatchewan will not be likely to harvest an average crop this year. A hail,rain and wind storm 75 miles east and south east of Regina yesterday caused damage estimated at a million dollrs and was the climax of gradually fading hopes for a bum per yield.

A month ago the situation in Saskatchewan looked rosy and it was expected that a record crop would be cut. Hail, hot winds, insects, and draught have since then brought severe losses to hundreds of farmers.

In the storm swept area yesterday one Regina man, who operates a section of land was notified that the binder he had ready to commence cutting would not cut an acre so clean had his wheat been beaten by the hail.

Details of the storm Thursday are meagre owing to the fact that telephone and telegraph wires are down. In he town of Osage over $15,000 worth of glass was destroyed by wind.

Late reports from Rainton and Cedoux districts indicate that a strip of grain 30 miles long by five miles wide was beaten down and totally destroyed. Two distinct hail storms caused severe losses.

Hon. C. A. Dunning, Provincial Treasurer, who returned yesterday from the northeastern section of the Province says Saskatchwan will be fortunate to get even an average crop, he says: "I found nothing to indicate that the province will have anything better than an average crop. It is quite possible for rust and frost to reduce the yield to considerably below the average. Wherever in the province the wheat crop is, the heavy rust is present. Damage from rust is becoming increasingly evident."

REGINA, Aug. 5. — (Canadian Press).—Damage of over a million dollars was caused by a heavy hail and wind storm which swept over an area of from 75 to 100 miles near here.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 5.—(Canadian Press). — Electric communication, was temporarily demoralized by the heavy rain which resembled miniature cloudbursts here last night. Brandon suffered from a heavy hail storm.

Bank Tellers' New Diversion

MONOTONY OF SEARCHING FOR BALANCES RELIEVED BY REVOLVER PRACTICE IN WINNIPEG

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 5.—The tedium of searching for balances is being diversified with revolver practices in the basements of the banks or in convenient vacant lots. One bank, not far from Winnipeg City Hall, has rigged up a range in the basement of the bank, and urges the clerks to take an hour's practice each week. Each clerk is to report on his shooting eye once each month. Police also are given a report each month of the ability of the clerks to stop would-be bandits with a barrage.

Recently the police notified all financial institutions here to guard against an expected invasion of gunmen with the harvesters.

Dead Painter Brought Note to This City

DAVID HARTLEY, KILLED YESTERDAY, HAD DOMINION-WIDE REPUTATION AS A WALKER.

The greatest walker that Peterborough has ever produced and one who has, on the track, brought honour to Peterborough many times, is gone. David Hartley was instantly killed yesterday afternoon and his many friends mourned his passing to-day. They recalled his achievements as a pedestrian during his long residence in Peterborough, and his performances 13 or 14 years ago attracted Dominion-wide attention.

A Retrospect.

On November 25, 1907, his admirers rejoiced when he defeated 'Jim' Reynolds, famous Port Hope walker, in the Mutual street rink, Toronto, and they followed his performance at the big walking meet in Kansas City in the following February. David Hartley came fifth there. William S. Hoagland of Albany, N.Y., became United States' champion by covering 278 miles in the six days, Feb. 23 to Feb. 29, and "Dave" did 268 miles, considered a very fine exhibition. In the following April there was the big World's Walking Tournament at Brock street rink in which Hoagland again won and became champion heel and toe walker of the world. In this memorable sporting event prominent pedestrians from all over the world participated, and on the finishing night of the six day event, Brock street ring held the biggest crowd ever encompassed in its four walls. Some of the leading walkers who were entered: Tom Slater of Oswego, N.Y.; Ray Fenton, Auburn, N. Y.; James G. Graham, of Buffalo, N. Y.; Walter Harrow, of Sudbury, formerly of London, England, David Hartley, "Jim" Howson and Charles A. Stevens represented Peterborough and fought hard to win.

Of late years Mr. Hartley has sat on the side lines, content to watch the progress of other walkers, and it is now some years since he has entered any contests.

David Hartley was 60 years old. He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Morden of Kingston, and one son 14 years old. For some time he has been living with his brother, Charles, and sister Margaret, who survive him, at 156 McDonnel street, over the grocery store of Spencer and Lewis.

The funeral will take place from there to-morrow afternoon at 2 p.m. to Little Lake cemetery, Rev. Harold W. Young officiating.

HERBERT LANDRY.

Herbert Landry, who died at St. Joseph's Hospital at about 9.30 last night ,from his serious injuries, had lived in ePterboro for 13 or 14 years, and was widely known. Before working on the Central School he had been painting the market clock, and he was the painter the citizens noticed swinging about the clock refreshing it with new paint.

Mr. Landry was born in Lindsay 32 years ago and was raised there, where a host of friends will be sorry to learn of his fatal accident. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Landry, had lived in Peterboro till recently, but now are residing in Detroit with Mr. Landry's 10 year old son, Felix, Jr., living with them. Three sisters survive; Mrs. Lee Grant and Mrs. H. Beauvais of Detroit and Mrs. Thomas Fox of London, Ont. There are three brothers living, Joseph of London, William of Montreal and Herman of Peterboro.

Mr. Landry had been rooming at the Albion Hotel East City. He served overseas for three and a half years, being attached to the Canadian Army Medical Coprs for some time. He will be buried in Lindsay.

SUCCESSFUL DANCE.

Mr. Scott Paton and his New York orchestra held a very successful dance at Chemong Park pavilion last evening. Scott has associated with him Mr. James McGarvey, violinist, and Mr. Ted Parker, pianist, of New York, and already these dances are becoming a very popular fixture every Thursday evening at the park.

U.S. PREPARES TO SCREW DOWN THE "DRY LID"

WITH BACKS AGAINST WALL, "WETS" ARE FIGHTING LAST BATTLE AGAINST COMPLETE PROHIBITION.

ISSUE AT STAKE IS BEER PRESCRIPTIONS

(By L. C. Martin, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, August 5. — The Senate to-day was preparing to tighten the laws against beer.

"Drys" were quietly moving toward the vote that is to prohibit doctors prescribing beer.

"Wets" had a number of expedients in mind to stave off as long as possible their eventual defeat. The first was a motion to send the Bill back to the Judiciary Committee.

If they fail to recommit, the wets will try to amend. They are particularly eager to get the Reed Amendment adopted penalising with a five-year prison term and a $10,000 fine, any unlawful search or seizure.

The "wets" charge homes have been illegally invaded in search of contraband beverages.

Another amendment to be proposed will provide that a small amount of beer may be prescribed each week or month. A third will propose to let a doctor prescribe a certain amount of beer or wine within a certain period, and leave it to him to divide that quantity among his patients, according to his views of their needs.

FORMAL OPENING OF BRIDGE HAS BEEN CANCELLED

RETURN OF PREMIER MEIGHEN AND ARRIVAL OF NEW GOVERNOR-GENERL REQUIRES PRESENCE OF HON. DR. REID AT OTTAWA ON MONDAY.

The formal opening of the Hunter street bridge, which was to have taken place on Civic Holiday morning, has been cancelled. The Hon. Dr. Reid, Minister of Railways and Canals, whom the Council had invited to perform the ceremony, notified Mayor McIntyre yesterday that he could not come to Peterborough on Monday, and negotiations for a substitute this morning failed to secure any person at Ottawa acceptable to the Council. If another of the Cabinet ministers could have been engaged in Dr. Reid's place, members of the Council would have been satisfied to carry out the programme of the opening just as they had arranged it. They felt that the occasion called for the presence of a dignitary of the standing of the Minister of Railwayse and Canals, who in addition to the position he holds in the Government had generously assisted the Council financially through his department.

Mayor McIntqre last night agreed that, if this morning's communications brought no satisfactory reply, the proposed ceremony would be dispensed with. Ald. Hamilton, acting upon the instructions of His Worship, who is working in Lakefield, declared the proceedings off when advices from Ottawa offered no satisfactory substitute for Dr. Reid. The home-comingof Premier Meighen during the week end and the arrival of Governor-General Byng, required the presence in Ottawa of the members of the Government. This abandonment of the formal opening of the bridge is a disappointment to the Council, but their feeling is somewhat mitigated by the realization that quite a number of the citizens were not enthusiastic about the ceremony. The Royal Humane Society's testimonial to Arthur Sayer and Irish Payne will be presented at the Exhibition Park on Monday afternoon.

FAIRWEATHER'S FORCED INTO LIQUIDATION

R. H. FAIRWEATHER, PRESIDENT OF BIG FIRM, SAYS BANKING CONDITIONS CAUSE OF TROUBLE.

ORIGINAL STORE WAS FOUNDED IN PETERBORO

(Special Despatch to the Examiner.)

MONTREAL, August 5. Canadian Press.) — Not only has the Fairweather store in Toronto gone into liquidation but the ones in Montreal and Winnipeg as well.

"It is quite true that this firm has given an assignment," R. H. Fairweather, president, said this morning.

"Our head office is in Toronto," Mr. Fairweather continued. "We gave a voluntary assignment on Wednesday, appointing E. R. Clarkson and Co., as trustees. Notwithstanding that business conditions have been better in Canada lately, this trouble is entirely due to banking condition and not to business conditions. A full statement of the situation is not ready yet but will be given to the public in due couse."

The Fairweather Stores were founded in Peterboro many years ago.

ARMOUR'S WORK OUT ARBITRATION SYSTEM.

CHICAGO, August 4 (Canadian Press). — An arbitration plan affecting some thirty thousand Armour & Company employees in all parts of the United States was adopted at the first meeting of the representatives of the employees and management yesterday under the recently adopted "industrial democracy," by which the workers were given a voice in all problems affecting their interests.

Similar plans are being prepared by other large packers, and it was believed would soon be extended to cover the entire industry.

Another Caruso Will Is Found

DIFFICULTIES EXPECTED IN SETTLING THE ESTATE, DUE TO NUMBER OF WILLS DEAD SINGER MADE.

BY CAMILLO CIAFARRA,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NAPLES, Aug. 5.—Another new Caruso will was discovered to-day. The existence of the last instrument was revealed when the late singer's lawyer at Florence wired the executor that Caruso drew his last will there only ten days ago. Caruso instructed him, the lawyer said, not to reveal the will until three days after death.

The will previously accepted as the last was drawn at Sorrento shortly after Caruso returned from America. Another was known to be in existence in New York.

Relatives believed there was a possibility that still others would be found, as Caruso was said to have drafted a new one on the eve of every long journey. Usually, they said, he destroyed the previous one.

The terms of the Florence will were not divulged. The Sorrento will left the estate in charge of his wife. The New York will was said to have provided for even distribution of the estate among six relatives.

LIVESTOCK MEN FACING CRISIS, SAYS DOHERTY

GREAT DROP IN PRICES CAUSED BY NEW U.S. TARIFF AND REDUCTION IN WORLD'S BUYING POWER.

LIFTING OF EMBARGO MIGHT HELP, HE SAYS

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 5.— The live stock men of this country are facing a crisis because of the great drop of prices, according to Hon. Manning Doherty, in an interview to-day.

Referring to the meeting of Alberta live stock men in connection with the United States' tariff and the effect of the drop in live stock prices throughout the west, Mr. Doherty said: "I've been saying that for three months. I anticipated that it would happen nine months ago, although I hardly anticipated that it would be so bad."

Very little possibility of relief can be forecasted by the Minister of Agriculture.

"The great reduction in the buying power of the world is causing the trouble, Mr. Doherty said. The raising of the embargo in England may help the situation a little." That the English embargo will soon be raised is the firm belief of Mr. Doherty.

PEACE OR WAR IS DEPENDENT ON THE NORTH

ULSTER'S REFUSAL TO ALLOW DE VALERA TO REPRESENT ALL IRELAND IS STILL THE "HITCH" IN NEGOTIATIONS.

CALLING "PARLIAMENT" AROUSES SPECULATION

LONDON, Aug. 5.— (By United Press.)—Peace or continued war in Ireland depended to-day on Ulster.

The six northern counties, still determined not to yield to "President" De Valera's demand that he be permitted to represent all Ireland at the peace conference, stood in the way of Sinn Fein's acceptance of the British proposals. The Ulster 'hitch' developed when peace seemed virtually assured. De Valera's call for a meeting of the Sinn Fein Parliament in Dublin on August 16 aroused keenest speculation here.

The general belief was that the President and his Cabinet saw a way to continue peace negotiations with the British Premier, Lloyd George, and desired the Parliament's approval. There were reports that De Valera had heard from Ulster, receiving a proposal so favorable that he desired to lay it before Parliament.

This was denied by those familiar with the Ulster programme. The Ulsterites asserted that Premier Craig was determined that his part of Ireland should have an equal voice with the Sinn Fein in the final settlement. Their belief was that the Sinn Fein leader had tired of his effort to "cajole or coerce" Craig into meeting him somewhere in Ireland and had decided to make the best of the bargain.

The Morning Post, with some strong Ulsterite leanings, confirmed the view that Craig had not yielded to Southern Ireland.

"The Ulsterites are waiting," the Post said, "until the other two parties to the conference, (Britain and Sinn Fein) have settled their differences. Ulster is ready to enter the conference when the settlement is accomplished."

ULSTER CABINET CALLED.

LONDON, Aug. 5. — (Canadian Press). — Another meeting of the Ulster Cabinet has been called to discuss the Irish peace negotiations, it was announced to-day, although it is reiterated no message has been received there from Eammon De Valera. It is added no overtures will be entertained which diminish the powers of the northern Parliament.

None the less the Imperial Government continues optimistic as to the outcome if it can get the opposing leaders together. It is believed Mr. De Valera and his advisers favor a conference in London, and will support before the Republican Parliament a proposal for such a conference.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Speculative interest in the long side of the market appeared to be lagging, and bears took advantage of this condition at the opening to-day, driving prices down sharply. The market felt the lack of encouraging features of yesterday's advance in call money to six per cent. and the belief that further dividend readjustments were intended, causing free selling for both accounts. Railroads were unusually active and their weakness undermined Industrials.

The scope of the selling movement was extended to embrace all classes of industrials with oils, equipments, rubbers, gas, copper and food issues weakest. Houston Oil dropped four points and Invincible Oil 3 3-4 to a new low record.

Liquidation, coupled with aggressive short selling, caused a considerable extension of early losses in the final hour. United Drug broke 2 3-4 to a new low level at 82¾. General Asphalt lost 3 and Mexican Petroleum 2 points. Standard Railroads were also poured out freely. The closing was weak.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—(Canadian Press).—New setbacks in the price of wheat were witnessed to-day with bears predicting that the visible supply total on Monday would show an increase of 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 bushels. Besides, gossip was current that spring wheat growers would sell freely direct from the threshers On break in price, however, signs of considerable export buying developed. Opening quotations which varied from unchanged figures to 3-4 lower, with Sept. at 1.20 3-4 to 1.21 1-4 and December 1.24 to 1.24 1-2 ,were followed by a material drop all around, and then some thing of a rally.

Corn went lower with wheat. After opening a shade off to 1-8 cents up, including September at 58, the market underwent a general sag.

Oats were easier in response to the action of other cereals, starting unchanged to 1-4 cents lower, Sept. 37 1-2 to 37 5-8 cents, and later showing further losses.

Downturns in the value of hogs weakened provisions.

Special causes and a general influence continued to exert an adverse effect on the market. Predictions of another large decrease in unfiled tonnage by the United States Steel Corporation and the exhaustion of the recent strong buying movement in Railroads affected speculative sentiment unfavorably.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Sterling exchange easy, demand 3.59 1-8, cables 3.59 5-8; Canadian dollars 10 3-4 per cent discount.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, August 5. (Canadian Press.) — The only issue to attract special attention this morning in the stock exchange was Ames-Holdenpreferred, which rose six points to 36, after closing at 30 yesterday. Abitibi went down a half point to 30 3-4; Atlantic Sugar was steady and unchanged at 26 3-4 as was Brazilian at its opening figure, and Brompton at 22 1-2. Dominion Steel strengthened a quarter point to 26 3-4, but National Breweries remained unchanged at 53. Spanish River dropped a point to 54.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, Aug. 5.—(Canadian Press). — Trading broadened out somewhat on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning with a fair volume of business being transacted. Toronto Rails, the most active stock, after selling at 73 5-8, reacted to 73, or half a point higher than yesterday's close. Dominion Canners, for which 22 was bid last night, opened at 24 this morning and advanced to 25, closing at the top price. Brazilian scored a net advance of 3-4 point at 24½, while Canadian General Electric was a half higher at 92. Paper issues were quiet, but one lot of Spanish River changed hands at 55¼, recovering all of yesterday's loss. Steel of Canada made the best showing of the morning with a gain of two points, the last sale at 51 being the high point of the morning.

TWO MEN DIE WHEN SCAFFOLDING DROPS FORTY FEET

SCAFFOLDING SLIPS FROM ITS MOORINGS 40 FEET TO GROUND; ONE KILLED, ONE FATALLY HURT

DAVID HARTLEY DIES INSTANTLY AND HERBERT LANDRY PASSES AWAY IN HOSPITAL AFTER ACCIDENT TO SCAFFOLDING ON WHICH THEY WERE PAINTING.

HAD BEEN INSPECTED JUST BEFORE CRASH

About 4.30 yesterday afternoon, while engaged in painting the outside woodwork on the east side of the Central school on Murray street, the scaffolding on which David Hartley and Herbert Landry were working ...ped from its moorings and fell ...y feet to the ground below, turning completely over. Hartley was instantly killed and Landry was removed to the hospital in an unconscious condition, with no hope for his recovery, dying early last evening.

The contract for the painting of the school was let to Messrs. Doupe and Grose, and Mr. John Grose, with his helper, had just finished inspecting the fastenings of the scaffolding, which was moored to the roof with 1 1-4 inch rope in the ordinary way by means of boards and iron hooks, a few minutes before the two men stepped out of an upper storey window to commence painting the woodwork of the east side of the building, and were almost instantly hurled to their death. Workers on the west side of the building and cement men laying a walk between the old Collegiate Institute and the Central school heard the crash and hurried to the angle of the building where the men were working. Both were lying beneath the overturned scaffolding. David Hartley, who had been killed instantly, was at once removed by Belleghem's ambulance to their undertaking parlors, and Doctor D. Carmichael and G. S. Cameron responded to a hurry call for Herbert Landry, who was terribly broken up and unconscious, but still breathing heavily. Dr. Carmichael accompanied him to St. Joseph's Hospital, where a hypodermic injection was at once given. No hopes were held out for his recovery.

A sad feature of the affair is the fact that Mr. Hartley's little twelve-year old son, who had been rooming with his father, is left fatherless and homeless. Mr. Hartley, while walking across the Park with some of his fellow workmen, at noon yesterday, was speaking of removal to new lodgings, and of the rather bleak prospects of work for the coming winter. "But we should not worry," he is reported to have said, "for we may be dead before the winter is here."

ONE OF LUCKIEST DAYS OF HIS LIFE

THAT'S WHAT TORONTO MAN SAYS OF TIME HE BOUGHT HIS FIRST BOTTLE OF TANLAC.

"One of the luckiest days of my life was the day I bought my first bottle of Tanlac", said William Battiste, 80 First Avenue, Toronto, Ont.

"Five years ago I was taken with a sudden attack of headache followed by an almost complete shattering of the nerves and for three weeks lay unconscious in a hospital. After an operation I improved some, but never completely recovered my health. I was always restless and nervous and did not sleep well. My stomach was so bad that nearly always after eating I suffered the severest pains. I had headaches frequently and I could hardly stand the pains in my shoulders, arms and knees. I was constipated and had such dizzy spells I was almost afraid to stoop over for fear of falling. I lost thirty pounds in weight and was so weak and run down I would not take up my business again.

"But from the way Tanlac helped me just seemed like the medicine was made especially for my case. I have a fine appetite and eat everything without its hurting me. My nerves and muscles are stronger and I sleep like a child. My aches and pains are all gone and, in fact, I feel better in every way than I have in many a day. Tanlac has done me so much good I can't praise it enough."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by the Warne Drug Co., Ltd., and leading druggists everywhere.

LITTLE INDIAN BOY VICTIM OF WANDERLUST.

Stole Watch From Good Samaritan Who Befriended Him.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 5.—Hailing from Golden Lake, a wee Indian-French lad of fourteen, speaking the patois, was found on Victoria Park by Caretaker George Belcher and taken to the police station. There he was wanted for taking a watch from an employee of the G.T.R. who had befriended him by taking him into a car and allowing him to sleep and feed.

The little Golden Lake boy at first denied possession of the watch saying he had stolen it but given it to two other lads. A little later he handed it to a G.T.R. officer.

The boy is a victim of wanderlust, the little wigwam not being modern enough in its charm to hold him.

The authorities are having him held at the Shelter whence he will be taken to Pembroke to the Golden Lake Reserve. No charge of theft will be placed against him, the watch having been recovered.

FIRE FIGHTERS PREFER UNIONS ALL-CANADIAN

IN SPITE OF TOM MOORE'S ADDRESS AT THEIR CONVENTION FEELING AGAINST INTERNATIONALISM RUNS HIGH

REFER MATTER TO INCOMING EXECUTIVE

OTTAWA, Aug. 5. — (Canadian Press.)—Tom Moore, President of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress, addressing delegates to the second annual convention of the Provincial Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters endeavored to show them the advantage of International Unions. Many of the fire fighters, however, refuse to be connected with International unions and the feeling that unions should be all-Canadian ran high at the convention. After discussion it was decided to refer the mater of joining the International Union back to the incoming executive.

INDIANS PROTEST REGARDING LANDS.

Claim Large Tracts Near Georgian Bay Taken Unjustly.

PENETANG, August 4th. (Canadian Press.) — The Hurons and the Iroquois Indians have ended their feud which has lasted for centuries. They have smoked the pipe of peace, and buried the hatchet in extensive and picturesque ceremonies here. But they have also made use of the occasion to declare war, and it is against the Federal Department of Indian Affairs.

The Indians of Ontario, now united, claim that large stretches of land on Lake Couchching, on Lake Simcoe and on the Georgian Bay, have been alienated from them by the Dominion Government, without a shadow of right or justice.

The claim extends over large portions of York and Simcoe Counties and Muskoka and the Parry Sound districts. They are planning a vigorous protest.

SAYS SID HATFIELD WAS VICTIM OF PLOT

PROSECUTING ATTORNEY ACCUSES TWO MEN OF KILLING WEST VIRGINIA GUNMAN IN COLD BLOOD.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., August 4. — A carefully arranged plot apparently was revealed by the authorities investigating the shooting at Welch of Sid Hatfield and Ed Chambers of Mingo County, according to counsel for the United Mine Workers.

Evidence uncovered by Prosecuting Attorfney G. L. Counts indicated that the victims were shot without warning and at a time when Hatfield was unarmed ,according to an unofficial statement.

The coroner's jury rendered a verdict which said the men were killed by persons unknown.

Prosecuting Attorney Counts said he had established the following facts in connection with the shooting.

"Sid Hatfield and Ed. Chambers were shot to death on the steps leading to the court yard at Welch. Hatfield and Chambers, with their wives on their arms ,were ascending the steps slowly on their way to the Court House, Hatfield to answer to an indictment, Chambers as a witness ,when, without warning, they were shot by C. E. Lively, 'Buster' Pence and probably others assembled at the top of the steps. These men are deputy sheriffs.

"Chambers, while sinking from several shots, tried to draw a gun from his inside coat pocket, but got it only partly out, when he rolled lifeless down the steps. At that point Mrs. Chambers pleaded with Lively not to shoot her husband any more, but Lively plunged down the steps and placing his gun close to Chambers' head; just back of the ear, fired two more shots in to the prostrate man.

"Then it was that Mrs. Chambers struck Lively with her umbrella, and not before.

"Hatfield was lower down on the steps and attemtped to retreat but the first shot fired at him struck him in the arm, the second across the lower part of the breast, and then as he turned three shots were fired into his back, the latter proving instantly fatal. He made no attempt to draw a gun.

"There was no altercation whatever," said counsel for the miners. "Nenther man onr woman had made and demonstration. They were ambushed while peacefully on their way to a court of justice, and murdered in cold blood by Baldwin-Felts thugs."

Lively and Pence were released under $10,000 bail to answer to the October Circuit Grand Jury.

At headquarters of the United Mine Workers Attorney Van Fleet charged that "Hatfield was lured to Welch away from Mingo purposely to be murdered," and added that the gunmen were afraid to commit the crime in Mingo.

LIVE IN DUGOUT IN DEVASTATED EAST EUROPE

DVINSK, Latvia, Aug. 4.—(Associated Press).—Hundreds of families in the war devastated territory about Dvinsk are still living in the dugouts used by German and Russian soldiers in the early days of the war.

Little or no progress toward reconstruction has been made in the scores of razed villages because of the poverty of the people who, for a long time after the war between Russia and Germany ended, were under Bolshevik rule.

UNION WITH US VOTED DOWN BY WEST INDIES

U.S. SENATE RESOLUTION INQUIRING WHETHER BRITAIN WOULD CEDE ISLANDS TO U. S. RESENTED.

URGE FOSTERING TRADE WITH STATES, HOWEVER

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 5.—(Canadian Cress.)—A motion introduced in the Legislative Council yesterday by one of the people's representatives urging Confederation between the British West Indies and Canada was voted down.

During the debate reference was made to the resolution introduced in the United States' Senate last February, inquiring whether Great Britain would be willing to consider the cession of its West Indian possessions to the United States. The representative declared the people of these British colonies had no intention of becoming United States' citizens, and the proposal made in Washington was resented. The opinion was expressed, however, that everything should be done to foster trade with the United States.

LADIES! SECRET TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Bring Back Its Color and Lustre With Grandma's Sage Tea Recipe.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While grey, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

Apparently the Federal Government has decided that the Civil Service had better carry on for a while as it is rather than run the risk of antagonising the employees of the various departments and adding to the ranks of the unemployed. At least, the promised reduction of the staffs is to be postponed, according to Ottawa advices, which means that the elaborate plans for a reconstruction of the Civil Service prepared by Griffenhagen & Company, of Chicago, are to be scrapped for the time being at least. The whole proceeding is very closely akin to a farce. The Government persisted in calling the services of American experts to classify the Civil Service at very heavy expense and in the face of opposition even among supporters of the Government. And now the work having been done and the programme having been outlined, the administration at Ottawa lacks the courage to put the recommendations of their advisers into effect. The net result seems to be that the Civil Service will remain much as it is, while Canada will have paid highly for a report from which the Dominion derived very little benefit.

A POINTED WARNING.

The Minister of Justice has issued a statement in connection with the execution of William McFadden and Roy Hotrum that, judging from the conversation heard everywhere in connection with the case, would seem to be necessary. The general impression appears to be that had one of the men confessed to having fired the fatal shot the death sentence on his companion in crime would not have been carried out.

Hon. Mr. Doherty, in his explanation, makes it quite clear that the question of which man did the shooting had no bearing upon the guilt of the two in so far as the charge of murder was concerned. It is well that the official explanation has been made, as it will serve to give point to the warning furnished by Wednesday's execution. It will show those who might be tempted to choose a career of crime that their fate might not depend altogether upon themselves, but upon the impulse of their associates; that it would be quite possible for them to be involved in a murder charge by reason of taking part in an unlawful enterprise even while the idea of taking human life had not entered their minds. The lesson of the Sabine murder should not quickly be forgotten.

DAVID HARTLEY.

The death through accident yesterday of David Hartley removes a citizen who had a taste of the fleeting glory that athletic achievements sometimes bring. Most citizens of Peterborough remember his exploits as a walker, and recall his feat in walking from Peterborough to Toronto, his victory in the Queen City over Reynolds, the Port Hope barber, his long trip across the border to take part in the six-day walking match which brought together the best of the American pedestrians, and his performance in the two meets in this city.

Years older than most of his opponents, handicapped by an absence of the care and attention accorded other contestants, David Hartley plodded gamely on in those week-long races. Many miles behind the leaders, hopelessly out of the contest, weary, footsore, he toiled on. It never occurred to him to quit, and many citizens, remembering the grit and determination he displayed, will be shocked to learn of his sudden death. When he returned from the triumph over Reynolds, he was given a memorable reception. Half the city turned out to welcome him and there was music and cheering and speeches, promises of a free house, and general rejoicing.

It was the greatest hour in the life of David Hartley, and while the promises were forgotten—as so often they are—nothing could rob him of the glory of the demonstration of which he was the centre.

ST. ANDREW'S AND DETROIT.

A son of Michigan is acclaimed today as the golf champion of Canada. Players of world fame came this week to Toronto, from Australia, from France, and from half a score of States in the neighboring Republic; they return to-day empty-handed. The pick of the basket of Canadian golfers gathered for the first two days of the week from Winnipeg and Quebec, from Halifax and Regina to uphold their country's good name, and to-day they are discomfited.

That a young man of little more than thirty should cross swords with veterans of twice his age and experience and win the day is but another proof that youth will be served in the fields of physical prowess. That a young man who a few short years ago was "caddying" at the club near his home, has now won the bays of the Canadian golf world is but a retelling of the story of the field marshal's baton in every soldier's knapsack, of Lincoln and his log cabin, of H. M. Stanley and his London slums, and of innumerable captains of industry who have risen to great heights from the humblest beginnings.

The wonder of the triumph of Mr. Trovinger of Detroit, lies in the fact that he has never played over the St. Andrew's course. Old Tom Morris is nothing more than a name to him, while Aberdeen and Troon, Kirkintilloch and Aberfeldy hold no inspiration and no memories. While his brother professionals were gathered around the club house yesterday, and there was a buzz of "Say, mon, d'ye mine the time when Hoonter....." or "the way that Wullie Park played at the foorteenth on the Auld Coorse,' Canada's new champion was thinking of the river that flows past his home city or of Belle Isle and Woodward Avenue.

Trovinger not only wrested the championship from a host of Canadian and foreign competitors, but he achieved a far more historic victory. He tore one page of the time-honored volume that for long has taught that St. Andrew's is the only mother of true golfers. In its place he has pasted a map of Detroit. Moreover, he did it by Detroit methods, business efficiency and a determination to "get there." No man in the tournament studied his strokes with greater determination or more confidence.

The nation that works hardest in the factories and the shop plays the hardest. It is in play as in manufacture. One nation gives the world a lead and for a time the ball is at her feet. Then comes the emulators and then follow in sequence the competitors, the rivals for supremacy; ensamplar, neck and neck, and then eclipse. No country has learned this more than Britain. Cricket, yachting, polo, tennis—in all of these games she stood preeminent. She taught them to the men that have recently vanquished her, but it will be a splendid thing for British sport if Britain's sons have to go afield to play the part of challengers rather than sit down at Hurlingham and Lords waiting for others to fling the gauntlet down to them. Occasional chastisement never did a nation or a team any harm, and it has done many of them a world of good. Effort is of vastly greater spiritual value than accomplishment, and in the making of great peoples it is the moulding of the natonal spirit that counts, not the shields and the laurels that picked athletes bring home from the game.

Canada offers a handshade to the new champion. He won his honors by sterling gold and the will to victory. It is hardly believable that national pride will permit Canadian golfers to allow him to keep the coveted trophy for more than a twelve month, but for that one long year we hope that the victory may be a further pledge of good fellowship between the nations, and to that hope we call for a toast in the new cup in a full measure of foaming seltzer or delicious buttermilk. —Montreal Star.

EXCLUSIVE AGENTS FOR "RE GAL" SHOES FOR GENTLEMEN

PERTINENT.

By Clare Shipman.

When I meet a man in the field or street,
Hurrying along his job to meet,
Whether he's toiler or millionaire,
Whether he's homely or whether he's fair,
I can't help thinking, as I go on my way,
"Will those who are yours be happy to-day?"

Did you leave them this morn with a pleasant smile?
Were the words you spoke without scorn or guile?
Did you do the act that you needed to do
To help the home folks who depend on you?
Did you give them some loving to cheer their way?
"Will those who are yours be happy to-day?"

You know that it matters, O man on the street,
Whether you're pleasant to strangers you meet;
Does it count for less to those whose day
Is built on your smile and the word you say?"
And so I am asking as you go on your way,
"Will those who are yours be happy to-day?"

If a boy is lost he's a waif from home.

...KENT TELLS HIS STORY...

Chapter 30.—

The diamond was back. Victor Lachman had it.

A great overwhelming thankfulness rushed over me at Kent's words. Now I knew what it was that made Kent ill.

I knelt down on my knees in front of him and, putting my two arms around him, buried my head in his lap. I clung to him tightly. I was so thankful, so very thankful.

Then all at once I wondered how he had gotten the diamond back, and if he had been successful. Could it be that Victor Lachman knew the truth—had Kent been forced to tell him? Maybe that was why Kent felt ill. Fear gripped my heart.

I looked up into his face, and his eyes met mine and looked down lovingly at me.

"How? How did you do it?" I questioned.

"Come here—up here, on the arm of my chair," Kent answered. "I don't lik you to be down there at my feet, dearest."

And then Kent told me.

"I had been trying to decide—to think of some way to do for days and days. Then suddenly I thought about the map that may of South America that he took out of his pocket to show me the night he dropped the diamond. The diamond must ave been in the same pocket with the map, because it was in pulling out the map that he had dropped the diamond. It was a pretty large map, too, and I remembered that he had only opened a part of it to show me what he wanted. I figured out that my chance was in that map."

Kent paused and closed his eyes. I was afraid he was going to feel faint again, but finally he went on:

"I thought out my plan and that's why I telephoned you not to wait dinner for me: I didn't know how long it would take. I was afraid to tell you the truth—tell you of what I was planning to do. I knew you would worry, and I couldn't be sure how it would all end. I did not you would be almost crazy waiting and thinking of all the things that know what might happen. I knew might happen if it failed.

"I called up Victor Lachman at his office, and as luck would have it, found him in. Then I asked him if he'd mind lending me that map of South America. I said I wanted to use it for a few hours. I had one terrible fear—I was afraid that if he used the map often my little plan would not work—he would be suspicious of me. You see, I was going to slip the diamnd into the folds of the map and pretend that I had found it there.

"But it came out better than I could have hoped. Lachman told me that he map was home at his hotel. 'It's in a drawer of the desk,' he explained. 'I haven't used it lately. Bu we have a big hanging-map of South America here in the office—come around and use that,' he said.

"But I thought in time," Kent went on. "I said I couldn't possibly get away from the office, and I asked him if I sent a boy up to the hotel would he have his wife let the boy bring the map down to me?

"He did. He telephoned to Mrs. Lachman and in about a half hour I had the map in my office."

As Kent talked on my heart beat wildly with the excitement of the thing. It seemed almost as if Providence had aided us.

"It was the rest of affair that unnerved me," Kent went on. "I called up Lachman and said I had to see him at once. He was still at the office. I took taxi and hurried to him, the diamond and the map in my pocket. He took me in his office and I handed him the diamond, and then I asked him if he had ever seen it before. My nervos were almost unbarable, but I tried to appear natural. I explained that I had found the diamond with the map. You see, htat was almost true—it was because of the map that I had found the diamond in the beginning," Kent explained.

"And then—then what happened?" I asked breathlessly. I clung to Kent's arm and watched his face eagerly.

HOLDS OUT HOPE FOR WAR CRIPPLES.

Wonderful Cures By Surgery — Straightening of Limbs By Modern Science.

MONTREAL, Aug. 3.— While spending a few days here visiting his son R. A. Gibney, 4716 Western Avenue, Dr. V. P. Gibney, Orthopedic surgeon and surgeon-in-chief of the New York Hospital for Relief of the Crippled and Ruptured, spoke of the great progress in orthopedic surgery the last thirty years. Even for cases which are not medically or surgically curable, says Dr. Gibney, there is no reason for the afflicted person, whether child or adult, to abandon hope of a life of usefulness, content and happines, for modern research has made immense strides in handling such cases.

"Ellie was brought to us in 1871, a tiny girl completely crippled in the lower limbs by infantile paralysis," said Dr. Gibney, in proof of his words. "She was homeless and friendless, her mother had just been lost in a big Chicago fire. It seemed a pretty hopeless case, but for years Ellie, she is called Miss Ellie by the present generation, has been head nurse of the institution, beloved by patients and nurses, to both of whom she gives every devotion. She grew tired of the long treatment intended to restore the use of her legs, and finally took to a wheeled chair. She showed such love of the small patients that she was made nurse, and now, 50 years later and white-haired, she is known and loved by thousands of ex-patients throughout the States. She is a striking example of what a cripple can become, with proper instruction.

Orthopedic surgery has nothing to do with feet, as many people think, explained Dr. Gibney. Orthopedic is derived from Greek wirw meaning "to train straight," and that is what is done; crippled or twisted limbs are educated to perform their normal functions. All forms of disease are treated, wry-neck, club foot curvature of the spine, and so on, treatment being by medicine, massage or operation, as may be required An interesting form of modern operation is the transference of sound muscles to replace those destroyed Thus a muscle might be removed from the back of the leg and grafted to the front, allowing a cripple to stand upright and walk who before had never been able to do more than progress on all fours. Very many pitibale cases had been treated with success, said Dr. Gibney.

Inoculation Successful.

The epidemic of infantile paralysis in New York before the war left thousands of cripples, many of whom are still attending the hospital to receive treatment and vocational training. In that disease they endeavored to get to work before paralysis set in, and where one child of a family had had it, the rest of the family could now be successfully inoculated. The Rockefeller Institute had been instrumental in discovering the serum for inoculation.

Dr. Gibney spoke of two other famous cures. One had since gone through a very successful journalistic career, and is now editor of a prominent women's journal. It was she who recently discovered Mme. Curie in Paris in such straits that she had no radium with which to carry on her famous research work, brought the scientist to New York, and was instrumental in raising a $100,000 fund for her to buy a gramme of radium. Another was a woman, who, in her gratitude for successful operation by Dr. Gibney insisted that he give her away on her wedding day, for she would never have ben married but for him. That was twenty years ago, and she has a daughter 18 years of age.

Canadians' Good Work.

Canadian surgeons had done out standing work on these lines, said Dr. Gibney, mentioning Dr. Lorne Gilday, of Montreal. Dr. Clarence Starr, of Toronto, and a number of others. Another prominent man was Dr. William J. Little, founder of orthopedic surgery in England. This branch of surgery is comparatively modern, said Dr. Gibney, having only been practised for the last fifty or sixty years, and he admitted that, having become connected with the hospital in 1871, he was possibly he doyen of orthopedic surgeons. He had belonged to the hospital with but one break of three years, when he had retired for criticising, in a book, the old-fashioned methods then in use by the hospital. But at the end of three years he went back as surgeon-in-chief, which he has been ever since. A founder of the American Orthopedic Association, and its first president some 35 years ago, Dr. Gibney was surprised, he relates, to find 25 years later that he had been elected president again.

For war-time cripples, Dr. Gibney has words of hope, saying that they should not be despondent over their futures. Not only might they be cured by treatment or operation, but vocational schools everywhere were successfully training them in the use of stricken limbs, showing them how they could lead useful and profitable lives.

The girl who used to blush easily now has a daughter who easily can get all the blushes she needs at any drug store or beauty parlor.

CHEAP FLYING TRIP.

NEW YORK, August 3. — What was regarded as a new fuel consumption record was established recently when the Half Moon, the Fokker limousine monoplane, flew with five passengers from Washington to Curtiss Field, near Mineola, L.I., at a cost of $5.80 for oil and gasoline.

The plane negotiated about 275 miles, a greater distance than the train route, and in half the time.

The Half Moon has a maximum speed of 110 miles an hour. The passengers were Christian Hemmick, R. B. C. Norduyn, L. K. Hoyland, J. B. Galdwell, and Edward Stevens. The Fokker made a flight to Washington last week to give diplomats and Government officials an opportunity to inspect a type of commercial airplane, which is now used extensively in Europe. During the time the plane was at Bolling Field in Washington more than 300 persons accepted the invitation of the Fokker representatives to fly over the Capitol.

A three-passenger open Fokker plane of 220 horse-power engine, the same as the limousine, flew here from Washington yesterday in one hour and forty-one minutes.

The glory of a woman may have been her hair—meaning before she had it bobbed.

What Does The Word "Mutual" Mean?

ANY company that issues profit-bearing policies is said by some writers to be mutual, because a part of the surplus is returned to the policyholders. These companies are really "mixed" companies—partly stock and partly mutual. Shareholders absorb some of the profits, though the major portion goes to the policyholders.

Distinct from such companies is the purely mutual organization. A purely mutual company has no shareholders and is managed as a strictly co-operative concern. Every dollar of the assets belongs to the policyholder. Every dollar of the surplus is returned to the policyholder.

Canada's Only Mutual

The only Canadian old line life company operating on a purely mutual basis is The Mutual Life of Canada. This company was originated fifty-one years ago for the purpose of supplying its members with life insurance at actual cost. To achieve that aim it was made purely mutual.

Why not make your next policy a Mutual Life policy?

NEW FRENCH FAMILIES EAGER FOR ALLOWANCES.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

COBALT, Aug. 4.—The thirty-five dollars a month allowance granted widowed and orphaned families under the provisions of the Mothers' Pensions Act of the Province of Ontario has proved attractive to a number of French families who recently were residents of Quebec close to the Ontario border. The local Mothers' Pension Board for the district of Temiskaming, of which Mrs. George Mitchell is representative, has just received requests from a dozen French families between the north and south ends of the district who have recently moved their abode within the favored territory.

MOST REMARKABLE BOY EMBEZZLER.

Love of "Gay White Way" Brought About His Downfall.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—Only sixteen years old, Charles Hoffman, who disappeared from this city on May 31 with $4,500 in cash and cheques belonging to the F. H. White firm, is now held in $1,500 bail.

A week ago Hoffman, characterized by the police as the most remarkable boy criminal ever recorded, was brought here from Memphis, Tenn., where he surrendered. He will first be arraigned in the juvenile branch of the Municipal Court for breaking his parole from a sentence for forgery, after which he will be tried in the Quarterly Sessions Court for embezzlement from the White Co.

On the way from Memphis the boy told Detective Garvin of his adventures since he left this city.

The confession takes up fifteen large pages of writing paper. In between the lines it is apparent that love of fine clothes and the call of the "gay white way" were the causes for the boy's downfall.

Bought a Black Mustache.

He says that in order to appear older he purchased a black mustache, but when he put it on and went to a mirror he decided it looked too freakish.

"My wavey hair did not fit in with the mustache, so I decided not to wear it."

He said he was compelled to "give up" to the police because of his inability to have checks cashed. He went away with only $450 in actual cash. The rest was in check form.

"I had a wonderful scheme for cashing those checks I stole," Hoffman said. 'Many of them were on the Farmers' National Bank, of Topeka, Kan., and bore the name of Thomas F. Hayes, 1340 North Forty-sixth street, Philadelphia. What I planned to do was to go to Topeka, call up the bank and explain that I was Mr. Hayes. I was going to say that I had intended to deposit these checks and open an account there.

"I was going to tell them over the telephone that I was sending a boy with the checks, and that perhaps I would want a small amount of cash.

"Then I intended to go around to the bank myself with the checks and tell them I was the boy Mr. Hayes had sent. I would by that time have forged Mr. Hayes' indorsement on the checks. I could forge his name fine.

"After that I intended to present smaller checks drawn to cash and signed by Mr. Hayes on the Topeka bank and collect it in that way.

"It was a great scheme, but I ran out of money before I could get to Topeka."

MARKET GLUTTED WITH HEAVY WOOL

Says Mr. W. G. White, of New Zealand.

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.—Mr. W. G. White of Hawera, New Zealand, who, in company with his niece, Miss Gladys White, is making a tour of the world, is staying at the Chateau Laurier here. In a Press interview Mr. White asserted that commercial conditions in New Zealnad cannot become stabilized until people in England and on the Continent have discarded their extravagant habits, acquired in war time.

The demand for coarse wool, he said, in Europe is very small at present as the people still retain the taste acquired for finer materials and are loath to purchase the materials which were of a coarser but more substantial quality. As a result of this lack of demand there was a heavy slump in the wool production in New Zealand. Ranchers were holding up their supplies of wool and the railway sheds were filled with t. Prices were so low at present as to make it nearly prohibitive to ship to England, the central wool market. Mr. White explained that, while previous to the war, wool was selling at from 10 to 12 pence the pound, today the price is only three pence. During the war it was fixed at 15 pence.

Mr. White is a retired banker, having been attached to the Bank of New Zealand for 40 years. His position enabled him to keep in close touch with conditions in that country. He stated that the frozen meat market has likewise been seriously affected owing to the Central European countries not having money to purchase the meat. The London markets were glutted with frozen meat and every storage house in New Zealand was holding its supply until the market rights itself.

Where previously the price for frozen mutton was from 33 to 35 shillings a carcass, today the price was as low as 12 shillings. With both the wool and meat markets, it was not a case of over-production, but merely one of the need for better distribution. Government war stocks of these products, which were unloaded on the market, caused temporary over-stocking.

NEW "TYPO" AGREEMENT DRAFT TO BE REFERRED TO COMMITTEE FOR ACTION.

QUEBEC, Aug. 4 — (Canadian Press) — The question of a new draft of the arbitration agreement between the International Typographical Union and the Newspaper Publishers' Association is likely to be referred by the annual convention here next week to the Executive Committee for action.

Constipation

It is a disease-producing malady, and if not corrected may result in serious complications. In good health the bowels should move freely at least once every day, carrying away the waste products from the Blood and Liver. If this function fails or is irregular, the work of removing the poisons falls on the Skin and Kidneys, with the result of the latter organs becoming congested and clogged. The Blood becomes poisoned. Indigestion sets in, the Kidneys become deranged, and a severe if not fatal illness is brought on. DR. HENDERSON'S HERB TABLETS correct this trouble by its action on the Liver, causing a healthy flow of Bile, and exerting a soothing and toning influence on the whole Intestinal Track.

Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets are put up in three sizes—25c, 50c, $1.00 per Box. For sale at Warne's Drug Store, Peterborough.

NURSES' HOMES IN MONTREAL NOW CLOSED.

Eight Thousand Dollars' Deficit Makes This Necessary.

MONTREAL, Aug. 4.—After 23 years of work in Montreal the local committee of the Victorian Order of Nurses has been forced, principally through shortage of funds, to close the five homes in the city in which resided the 50 nurses employed by the organization.

Since the war the costs of the Order have been greatly increased and public contributions have decreased, with the result that last year there was a deficit of $8,000 and the prospects are that there will be a greater deficit at the close of this year. Last year the expenditures for the Montreal branch totalled $88,950.91. Public subscriptions amounted to $31,245.03 and the nursing revenue $47,361.80, leaving a deficit of $8,000. This year, owing to unemployment, the work has been heavier and consequently expenses are higher, and so far public subscriptions are considerably less than last year.

Montreal is not the only place in Canada which is faced with a similar situation. In fact, in all the larger centres financial troubles are being met with and there is only one city —Vancouver—which is keeping open its nurses' homes.

DRINK HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST

Says you really feel clean, sweet and fresh inside, and are seldom ill.

If you are accustomed to wake up with coated tongue, foul breath or a dull headache; or if your meals sour and ferment, you have a real surprise awaiting you.

To-morrow morning, immediately upon arising, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is intended to first neutralize and then wash out of your stomach, liver, kidneys and thirty feet of intestines all the indigestible waste, poisons, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire ailmentary canal.

Those subject to headaches, backaches, biligus attacks, constipation or stomach trouble, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store and begin enjoying the morning inside bath.

Just as hot water and soap cleanse, purify and freshen the skin, so hot water and a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Limestone phosphate is an inexpensive white powder and almost tasteless.

N. Y. DETECTIVE IS HELD FOR ASSAULT.

Charged With Rough Handling Women and Children.

NEW YORK, August 3.—Alleged to have brutally handled about forty men, women, and children in a raid he led last Thursday on Patrick Coen's restaurant, at Ninth Avenue and Forty-third Street, Detective-Sergeant C. F. Tighe is released on $2,500 bail furnished by surety company. He was arraigned before Magistrate George W. Simpson in the West Side Court on three charges, including simple assault, felonious assault and attempted felonious assault. To each charge Tighe pleaded not guilty.

The detective-sergeant, wearing a neat light grey suit, appeared for arraignment with the greatest self-possession. He was the object of much solicitation on the part of several of his detective associates who accompanied him into Court and tried to shield him from the questions of newspaper men. One of his comrades threatened to smash a camera outside the Court room, while others held their hats before the accused detective's face when the camera men undertook to get an exposure of Tighe.

Tighe denied that all this solicitude was occasioned by any suggestion on his part. But when he was arraigned it was noted that three detectives from Inspector Boetler's staff stood so closely shoulder to shoulder in front of the press table that it was with the greatest difficulty the reporters could hear the words spoken in Court.

Can't Understand Newspapers.

It was after his arraignment that Tighe spoke in defence of his raid.

"There is always two sides to every story," he said. "So far the newspapers have failed to publish my side of this matter. I know several newspaper men very well, and I cannot understand this action of the papers. The situation was this:

"My partner Kaufman and I had received instructions to watch Coen's place, as there had been several complaints made against it, and we had the place under observation about half an hour on Thursday before we entered the saloon and arrested several men whom we had seen violating the law."

When Tighe was asked in what manner they were breaking the law, he replied that they were gambling, and continued:

"We placed them under arrest and put them in the back room. I then went to telephone for a patrol waggon, and was compelled to go to Ninth Avenue and Forty-second Street, where was the nearest signal box.

"When I returned to Coen's place I found that several of our prisoners, who had numbered about twenty-five in all, had escaped through a side door. I rushed out into the street and started to push back those who I know had been placed under arrest. Then followed a struggle in which several women friends of the men took part. I suppose they were roughly handled in the excitement, but I was not drunk or crazed with the heat, as the papers have stated."

A Laxative The Old Can Rely On

Let them take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin for Constipation. Mild and gentle. Never loses its good effect.

ELDERLY people know how much more difficult it is each year as they get older to avoid the ill effects of chronic constipation. The stomach and bowel muscles relax as age advances, and as you are naturally less active, in time they work only by stimulation. You try dieting and exercise, and then take medicine.

All medicines, however, are not suited to elderly people any more than to children, so you will be glad to know of a particular medicine that acts as near to Nature as has yet been found. It is a prescription written thirty odd years ago by Dr. W. B. Caldwell, who is himself now in the 82nd year of his age and still active in his profession. It is known in the trade as Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, and you can buy it under that name at any drug store. A sixty-cent bottle will last an average family many months, and all can use it.

Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin. It acts mildly, gently and without griping. It so trains the stomach and bowel muscles that in time medicine of all kinds can be dispensed with. When people learn of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin and see how wonderfully it acts they realize how unnecessary it is to use drastic salt waters, pills and powders, for these do but temporary good and are weakening to most constitutions. Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, on the contrary, is so natural and safe, (it contains no narcotic or strong drugs), that two generations of mothers have given it to their babies.

Take a teaspoonful the next time you feel any distress of the stomach, liver or bowels, if you are constipated, have a headache, cold or fever, if you are bilious, dyspeptic, tired. If Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin should ever fail to do as claimed you can have your money refunded. More people use it than any other laxative in the world.

THE WINE TREE.

Cut Its Bark With Knife and Strong Red Drink Gushes Forth.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Dr. Bertoni, director of aboriculture at the Kew Gardens, has just installed there a new tree which threatens to become a household fixture in every back yard, when it existence becomes known and its roots are available at commercial prices.

The tree is known as the "wine tree," and Dr. Bertoni discovered it on a recent trip to Paraguay, where he observed perfectly sober natives approaching certain trees, leaning against them for twenty minutes, then staggering away with beautiful "brannigan" and a full-bodied breath.

Investigation revealed the fact that it was necesasry only to make a deep incision in the bark with a knife, whereupon a very strong red wine flows out in almost limitless quantities.

An added advantage is the wine naturally is cool. The doctor brought a young tree to London, carefully wrapped in cotton, and it apparently is thriving in its new environment.

FORD RATE CUTS TOO RAPID; COMMERCE BOARD HALTS HIM

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Freight-rate reductions on Henry Ford's Toledo, Detroit & Ironton Railroad have been made too rapidly to comply with the regulations of the Interstate Commerce Commission. His application to file a tariff reducing by 20 per cent. the rate on stone from Sibley, Mich., to Detroit was for this reason denied by the Commission.

Mr. Ford put into effect a reduction on July 26 of 5 cents a hundred on this traffic, and under the regulations thirty days must elapse before additional reductions can be made on the same traffic.

AN ABLE WRITER AND AN AUTHORITY

Was the Late E. C. Toker, Formerly of Peterborough.

The Canadian Lumberman of July 15 refers in eulogistical terms to the late Edward C. Toker, one-time editor of the now defunct Peterborough Review. "For many years a resident of Toronto," says that journal, "Mr. Toker died recently in the General Hospital, Toronto, in his 80th year. He was widely known in publishing circles, was an able writer and an authority on many subjects. Not only was he the author of various works of fiction and of numerous short stories, but he also wrote extensively on forestry topics, and some twenty-five years ago compiled a report on the forest wealth of Canada. Mr. Toker is survived by one daughter, who is living in England.

"In the passing of Mr. Toker a highly-esteemed and widely-known journalist has joined the silent majority. It was on October 30, 1880, that the first edition of the 'Canada Lumberman' was published in Peterborough by A. Begg. He, however, remained at the helm only a short time, for on March 15, 1881, just five months later, the paper was sold to Toker & Co. Mr. Toker, thereafter, edited the 'Canada Lumberman' for a considerable time an produced an instructive publication. The 'Canada Lumberman' in the ealy eighties was a sixteen-page, four-column edition, printed on newsprint twice a month. Mr. Toker took a grat pride in the publication and love to recall reminiscences and associations of the lumber industry of ver forty years ago."

STUDIED JUNGLE FOLK FROM PLANE

Jason Humphreys, the 12-year-old English boy who flew with his father, the pilot, a camera man and a scientist, from Cairo to Cape Town in March, enjoyed a more novel experience than most boys of his age will ever know. Indeed, there are not many grown-up aviators who have seen the African jungle and all its wild life from the air.

The sudden changes from bush to civilization as represented by clearings for small villages and farms in darkest Africa and back again impressed young Humphreys very much. Human habitation is hemmed in on all sides by dense jungle in Central Africa, but not more so than the behavior of the wild beasts and birds over which he was flying. These took the passing of the aeroplane variously. Birds showed almost no curiosity except in the remotest regions. "They just flew along with us or left us," says Jason. This, it is said, is because birds fly far, and during the years of the war African birds undoubtedly saw flying machines, if not in Africa itself in the war zones, then in other parts. They had grown more or less used to them.

Wild beasts showed individual temperaments. Lions, tigers, leopards could be seen stalking along, oblivious to the giant purring overhead. If the machine came so low that the noise of the engine could not help reaching them they sidled under protecting underbrush, but they never looked up. The naturalist has offered no explanation for this. It is a new phenomenon and must be studied.

Usually lions, tigers and leopards are fearful of noises. They, in common with all wild beasts, are in terror of strange noises, and know from infancy, by instinct, that gunfire bodes them no good. During the late war there was a general exodus of wild beasts from every quarter of Africa where any fighting was going on. They crashed through the jungles for miles trying to get away from the sound of the guns; they travelled far from their real homes, and enemies travelled together in their fright without molesting one another. Since the close of the war bushmen and hunters have found them all back home again or travelling back. Their indifference to the sounds of the aeroplane, therefore, is surprising.

Apes and monkeys made wild efforts to reach the topmost branches of the highest trees in order to get a better view, and they could be sometimes heard screaming to one another above the noise of the engine, more in excitement and curiosity, presumably, than in fear.

Giant hippopotami were indifferent, neither hastening their lumbering steps nor glancing up; they did not seek ambush, as did the cats. But rhinoceri were panic stricken. They rushed off headlong to cover. Crocodiles sprang from the banks of streams and hid beneath the surface of the water until the flying machine had passed. Pictures taken when the stream was fast receding into the distance show them just venturing to stick their heads above water.

WILL HELP THE SPEED POLICE.

1922 Auto Markers Raised Black Figures on Clear White Background — Contract Awarded.

Ontario's 1922 automobile markers will be manufactured in Toronto Macdonald & Co having been awarded the contract on their tender of 14 cents per pair. The present year's markers were made in Hamilton by the Canadian Colortype. There were ten tenders, ranging from 14 cents, the lowest, to 23 3-9 cents, the highest. Three of them from American concerns.

In announcing the letting of the contract, Hon. F. C. Biggs, Minister of Public Works and Highways, let it be known that serious consideration was given a suggestion to have the markers manufactured by prison labor at Guelph. In fact, this course at one time had practically been decided upon.

Unemployment Considered

General industrial conditions, and unemployment among Ontario workmen, however, caused the department to reconsider. New York State effects a big financial saving by having its automobile markers made by its inmates of corrective institutions

Evidence of the tremendous growth in Ontario's automobile population is contained in the departmental estimate of the distribution during 1922 of 225,000 pairs of automobile license numbers. This is more than 25,000 ahead of any previous year. When the department let contracts for 1921 markers they placed an order for 165,000 pairs. This number, however, proved far too conservative an estimate, and subsequently additional markers had to be ordered which brought the total up to nearly 200,000. An unofficial estimate of the 1921 motor license revenue is $3,000,000.

Woeful News for Speeders.

The new 1922 markers should bring joy to the heart of the "speed cop" and gloom to that of the persistent automobile speeders. Jet black raised figures, an inch larger than those on the 1921 markers, stand out on a background of pure white. Every effort was sent toward securing a pattern and color scheme which would give the greatest visibility.

The 14 cents per pair tender on next year's markers is a sharp contrast to prices paid by the previous Government. Under the old regime more than double the present price was paid for a marker that was not even embossed. The recent decline in steel prices accounts in a large measure for the drop in cost.

After marriage a foolish man stops paying a wife compliments and begins to pay her bill.

MENNONITE TREK TO PARAGUAY IS STILL DOUBTFUL.

Depends on Bill Now Before Chamber of Deputies.

ASUNCION, August 5. — Paraguay will become the Mecca and home of Mennonites from the United States and other parts of the world, if a bill sent to the Chamber of Deputies by President Gondra becomes a law.

Delegates of the sect who arrived here some time ago from the United States have negotiated for the purchase of about 5000 square miles of land in the great Paraguayan "Chaco" for the purposes of colonization conditional upon the Paraguayan government granting privileges which will permit them to conduct the colony in conformity with the tenets of their religion and their system of common administration of their properties, called "Walsenhust."

President Gondra has recommended to the House that these concessions be made, which include the exemption of the Mennonites from military service, either in peace or in war, the prohibition of the sale of alcoholic beverages in their territory, the right to establish their own schools, which would be conducted in the German language, and in addition, the privilege of importing free of duty household articles and agricultural implements for a period of ten years.

The president says that the establishment of the colony would be a beginning of the solution of the problem of populating the republic and augmenting its productive capacity, there being vast stretches of uninhabited territory of great productive value. He accompanied his recommendations with a history of the Mennonites, reciting their qualities of industry, self-discipline and "collective virtue."

The delegates have notified the government that upon the approval of the measue more than 4000 Mennonites in the United States, Canada and Russia, are prepared to emigrate to Paraquay.

THE POTATO OUTLOOK.

Ontario is not promising more than 50 per cent. of a normal potato crop this year, while an average crop may be expected in British Columbia and Prince Edward Island. Quebec will have 65 per cent. of last year's production. New Brunswick reports show only 25 per cent. of an average crop of early varieties and 50 per cent. of average crop of late potatoes. The crop in Nova Scotia will be very short unless most favourable weather conditions prevail during the next two weeks.

EARS COME OUT; HAIR GOING UP; SKIRT TO DROP.

Girls Are Through Following Paris, Says Designer.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—The flapper is growing up—her ears are coming out; her hair is going up, and her skirts are coming down.

The girls are through being bossed, take it from members of the National Hairdressers' Association, meeting her, and are now deciding their own styles.

"The girls are through following Paris styles —and they won't do what we tell them either," said Mrs. C. V. Munroe. "They are setting their own modes.

"This fall's styles?

"Well, the hair will be set high on the head.

"It may not always be the same hair. There will nothing to keep milady from being a peachy blonde in the afternoon if she is wearing a suit to match, and a dazzling brunette at night.

"Different shades of hair will be provided for different occasions."

"Brilliant feathers, spread fanshape, will add to the grown up effect of the girls. A little half-bang over one eye, a 'tiger curl,' will go with the favored peacock strut."

CHICAGO, Aug 5.—Father is coming home with a permanent wave.

Men, as well as women, must be considered in deciding 1921 styles of hair, say delegates to the National Hair Dressers' convention, meeting here to-day.

"Many men are having their hair marcelled said Charles M. Kozlay, New York. "Dyeing is even more common.

In explanation of the growing fad of having their hair dressed among men, Kozlay said business was demanding young blood and pointed out older men have a much better opportunity if their hair isn't gray, and is well kept.

While the large majority of hair dressers were men, when the trade was confined mostly to women, the field for women hair dressers is opening up.

Women like to feel the strong, capable fingers of a man running through their hair, Kozlay said.

But men— they prefer the soft, gentle and flexible fingers of the feminine dermatologist.

FORESTERS ELECT NEW OFFICERS AT FINAL MEETING

Membership Growing and Investments Are Sound and Profitable — High Court Concludes 17th Session.

BARRIE, August 4. — At the final session of the High Court of Central Ontario of the Independent Order of Foresters yesterday, the following officers were elected and installed:

High Chief Ranger, Lt.-Col. W. Wallace, Toronto; Past High Chief Ranger, Clarence Bell, Toronto; High Vice-Chief Ranger, W. D. Sharpe, M.D., Brampton; High Secretary, R. J. Niddrie, Toronto; High Treasurer, Alex. Stewart, Toronto; High Physician, Dr. Emery, Toronto; High Counsellor, H. W. Markham, Toronto; High Auditors, W. Manser, Toronto, H. J. Illsley, Toronto.

Appointed officers: High Orator, Rev. Canon A. H. Alliman, Burk's Falls; High Journal Secretary, J. D. Keachie, Toronto; High Senior Woodward, T. H. Saunders, Toronto; High Junior Woodward, L. J. Morrison, Toronto; High Senior Beadle, Henry A. Knott, Toronto; High Junior Beadle, Bro. J. Morrison, Meaford; High Orgapiser, Wallbridge, Toronto; High Messenger, George Mason, Faxewell; Assistant High Messenger, George Metcalf, Oshawa.

Delegates to Supreme Court.

The result of the election of delegates to the Supreme Court were then announced as follows:

I. R. Aitken, Toronto; W. R. Allin, Hampton; Clarence Bell, Toronto; H. Foreman, Collingwood; H. J. Illsley, Toronto; J. Keachie, Toronto; R. Manser, Toronto; D. W. Markham, Toronto; R. J. Niddrie, Toronto; W. S. Ormiston, Uxbridge; T. H. Saunders, Toronto; W. D. Sharpe, M.D., Brampton; E. Snider, Port Hope; W. Wallace, Toronto; T. T. Young, Barrie.

At 5 p.m. the High Court concluded the seventeenth session of its existence, and was closed in due form, the High Chief Ranger-elect presiding.

Growing Membership.

Supreme Chief Ranger W. H. Hunter, B.A., in an illuminating address preceding the election of officers, reviewed in detail the operations of the Order during the four years that he had occupied the highest office in the gift of the Order. The membership had declined incident to change of rates, war conditions, and the flu epidemic, but was now on the up-grade, and month by month encouraging gains were being made. Investments, through war conditions, increased cost of labour and material, were being realised on at exhausted values in several instances, and mortgage investments made in the past year were earning 7½ per cent.

All funds were invested in the highest class of bonds and securities, and from the speaker it could be inferred that even greater supervision would be given to this department of the Order, and it is anticipated that the Order will realise in the future a much greater return from the investment of its funds than it has in the past.

Upon the close of a long and lucid address, the Supreme Chief Ranger received a great ovation.

GREEKS MUST NOT ADVANCE ON CONSTANTINOPLE.

LONDON, August 3. (Canadian Press.) The allies have warned Greece that an advance on Constantinople by her troops which are now engaged in war with the Turkish Nationalists, will not be tolerated, it was authoritatively stated here to-day. No ground exists, however, it is added, for believing that Greece contemplates any such advance.

BODY OF NEWARK LAD, KILLED IN THE ARGONNE, LEFT BY SOLDIERS ON PORCH OF FATHER'S HOME

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—An army truck drew up to 186 East Kinney Street, Newark, yesterday afternoon, and one of four soldiers in the truck shouted to several boys playing in front of the house: "Does Bufanio live here?" The boys told them that Fortunate Bufanio lived in the house with his family, but that none of the family was at home at the time.

The soldiers then backed the truck to the curb and carried to the porch of the house a coffin draped with the American flag.

"What floor do they live on?" asked the spokesman of the soldiers.

"On the second," was the answer.

The coffin was carried into the ground floor hall, but when the soldiers found that the stairway presented difficulties one of them said: "Let's lave it on the porch. They can have it carried up stairs". They put the coffin out on the porch and hurried off in the truck.

Bufanio returned home about two hours later and found a crowd of neighbors angrily commenting on the behavior of the soldiers in their treatment of the body of his son, Silveno, who was killed while fighting with the 312th infantry in the Argonne.

Bufanio was grief stricken, and some of his neighbors volunteered to carry the coffin upstairs. There Bufanio said that several days ago he received word from the War Department that his son's body had arrived at the army pier at Hoboken, but that it was not ready for delivery to his father's home. he notice also stated, he said, that he would be notified a few days in advance. He added that he had received no further notice, and that he had gone down to the Hoboken pier yesterday to learn the cause of the delay.

Members of the American Legion in Newark were indignant last night when they learned of the action of the soldiers. They announced that a military funeral for Silveno, who was 22 year old when he was killed while serving with a Newark contingent would be held to-day.

FINDING WORK FOR UNEMPLOYED.

Social Service Council Names a Committee For This Task.

LONDON, Ont., August 5. — The official report of the special committee of the Social Service Council, which met some days ago to discuss the probable unemployment situation in the coming winter, reads as follows:

The Social Service Council has assigned to a special committee the task of endeavouring to secure employment for those in need of it.

Although this city is probably more favourably situated in respect to unemployment than other large centres of the Dominion, there are at the present time many who wish to get work and are unable to do so. Unless there is a sudden and rather unexpected revival of business, this condition of affairs is not likely to improve, and there may be still greater scarcity of work before next spring.

Work on Farms.

Work, while scarce in the city, is is very plentiful on the farms, and hundreds of able-bodied men might find employment for many months.

This statement is now made public by the committee referred to, and is addressed to those who wish to look into the matter with a view to securing employment during the summer and fall, and to save something towards the winter months, when there will probably be even less to do. The rush work of harvesting is nearly over, but there is and will be a heavy demand, particularly for single men, to help the farmers at threshing, silo filling, and the harvesting of root crops, etc., during the next two months.

Prices Are Down.

Prices of the farm products have decreased to such an extent that the farmer is unable to pay as high wages as formerly. The price of his cattle, for example, has been reduced from 15c to 7c a pound; wheat from $2.65 to $1.40 to $1.50 a bushel; butter from 70c to 35c; eggs from 60c to 31c or 32c. These are current prices paid to the farmers in the country, and must not be confused with the prices asked on the city market by the farmers and others who bring the produce practically to the door of the citizens of London, and naturally expect remuneration for the time expended in doing so. Despite these conditions, many farmers are willing to go as far as possible to secure willing help. Wages for experienced farm help run, at present, from $30.00 to $40.00 a month with board, partly experienced $20.00 to $30.00 a month with board, and inexperienced help from $15.00 to $20.00 a month with board. Work can be obtained within 25 miles of the city.

For Married Men.

The case of married men, with or without families, has also had consideration, and the difficulty of supporting a family in town while the man goes out on the farm is fully realised. To meet such a case, efforts will be made to secure, with the help of the farmers, a small house or cottage in the country or country village in districts where the man can secure plenty of work by hiring out to the farmers. This would give him a certain independence, allowing him to work for the best wage he could secure, and would certainly be better than living without employment in town.

Single Men for Farms.

By arrangement with the local representative of the Immigration and Colonisation Department of the Provincial Government, a effort will be made to place those who are willing to do their part in relieving the situation by seeking farm employment. It is pointed out that the effect of a large number of single men securing work in the farms would greatly increase the chances for married men, with wives and families to support, to secure work in the city. Applications will be received between the hours of 10 and 12 and 2 to 4 at the office of the Social Service Council, Bank of Toronto Building.

CARUSO'S DEATH SHOCKS DOCTORS

SINGER UNDERWENT SEVEN OPERATIONS—A REAL TRIUMPH.

NEW YORK, August 5. — Caruso's death was as much a surprise and shock to the physicians who attended him in his critical illness last winter as to the opera-loving public, who had expected to see the master of song back at the Metropolitan Opera House next winter.

They had heard of his rapid convalescence in Italy from the ravages of pleurisy, that had kept him bedridden in the Hotel Vanderbilt for months, and they had noted the apparent vigour and robustness portrayed in the tenor's photograph in The New York Times last Sunday. Before he left this country in May, his physicians mad marvelled at his rapid recovery.

The death of the great tenor brought out facts about his illness here that had been withheld from the public for months, and events in the secrecy of the Caruso suite transpired that never had been known beyond the immediate family circle of the singer and his physicians.

Instead of three operations, there had been six, and a blood transfusion operation on 12th March that had not been known about outside the family until yesterday. It was this blood transfusion operation that enabled Caruso to make rapid strides toward convalescence. There was not a discouraging bulletin from the physicians after that date.

The first three operations by Dr. John F. Erdmann were accomplished with local anaesthetic, and in the last three chloroform was used. The first operation was on 30th December, 1920, and on 18th January a tube was removed from the incision. The second was on 9th February, and the third on 12th February, when a report was that his condition was critical.

Improvement at Last.

The fourth operation was on 1st March, and after that Caruso's condition improved. This improvement was accelerated by the blood transfusion on 12th March. After this came two lesser operations—one on 15th March and the other on 25th March. April saw the tenor "pulling out of the woods."

He had been in the open-air a great deal in his automobile, and had gained weight. A short note to Dr. Stella on 14th July had told of still greater improvement.

Not even a hint of the blood transfusion operation had been given by the attending physicians or by Antonio Scotti or any other of Caruso's intimate friends; nor had those outside the confidence of the family circle suspected anything of the sort. Even the details of the operation are lacking now, but some of them were supplied last night by Mr. Zirate.

Gave His Blood to Tenor.

One of the physicians said he had not heard the name of the young man who gave his blood to Caruso, but the doctor thought he was one who was eager to aid in the recovery of the great tenor. Mr. Zirate said that he, as well as Caruso's brother and several intimate friends, had volunteered to give their blood, but the physicians thought it better to accept the offer of a younger man.

Caruso's illness really may be said to have begun on 11th December last, when he was the hero of one of the most dramatic incidents that ever marked a presentation of grand opera.

The Metropolitan organisation was presenting "L'Elisir d'Amore" in Brooklyn that night. It was Caruso's first appearance of the season across the bridge, and 8,000 enthusiasts had gathered to welcome him.

Shortly after he launched upon the first notes of his role, he burst a small blood vessel in his throat. His voice faltered, but before those in front of the footlights were aware anything was amiss, he had steadied it and was going on. The exudate kept trickling into his throat, almost choking him, but he kept on and on.

First those on the stage, then Mrs. Caruso and others in the wings, and lastly those in the front rows of the orchestra became aware that some difficulty beset the tenor. Mrs. Caruso gesticulated pleadingly, begging him to come off, but he doggedly shook his head and went on.

A Real Carusian Triumph.

His own reddened handkerchief he had discarded, and one after another members of the chorus found opportunity to slip close to him, deftly pass him another, and slip away. One after another he used them until they were stained scarlet, and now and then little flecks of blood would show upon his lips.

Dr. Philip Horowitz, the tenor's specialist, had been summoned, and arrived at the back of the stage before the act ended. He, too, backoned, but Caruso stubbornly shook his head.

At last that painful act ended, and the curtain descended on a triumph as peculiarly Carusian as any that ever preceded it on the stages of great opera houses.

On 14th December last, he returned to the Metropolitan Opera House, when he sang Don Alvaro in Verdi's "La Forza del Destino," proving that his voice had all its old-time beauty and power. The town, the nation, and the world forgot their alarm then, and when on Christmas Eve he made in the Metropolitan what was destined to be his last operatic appearance, singing in "La Juive," he and his public thought they were united for a long period.

Look Younger

SAY SOCIETY GIRL SPENT $2,500,000.

Death of Sara Cowen Reveals Wasting of Fortune in Dissipation.

NEW YORK, August 4.—Sara Cambellina Cowen, once beautiful Baltimore social favorite, spent $2,500,000 gaily in a ten-year frolic that ended when with her money all gone, she took an overdose of drugs.

How the daughter of the late John K. Cowen, president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and former member of Congress, dissipated the fortune was learned yesterday by police authorities, checking events in her life following the discovery of her body early Saturday in a room of the hotel Maryland, where, on Thursday, she registered with a chauffeur, as "Mr. and Mrs. Cowen."

It was disclosed yesterday that the once millionairess had been reduced to borrowing from a servant. For ten years she had lived at the Hotel de Franc here and on Thursday, when she checked out of the hotel she borrowed $25 from a maid at the hotel to pay her bill. A few hours later Miss Cowen registered at the Hotel Maryland with a man, who on Saturday, on his return to the hotel room they occupied, found her body on the floor. A quantity of hercin pills and powder and an empty glass which had an odor of liquor were on the table and told the story of her death.

While no charge was preferred against the man in the case, police say his name is known to them and that he has offered to tell of his affair with Miss Cowen.

Newspaper files disclose that in 1901 she was a society belle in Baltimore. Whether her unfortunate and romantic marriage had anything to do with Miss Cowen's life is not indicated in yesterday's police inquiry. When she was 21 she was married at "the Little Church Around the Corner" here to Charles Monson Jr., son of a rich, retired merchant, of New Haven, Conn. They had met but a few weeks before when his automobile had broken down.

After the wedding they telegraphed Monson's people and Miss Cowen's mother, who was in South Carolina, and started on an automobile tour of New England. Some years later Mrs. Monson obtained a divorce in Seattle, Wash., on the ground of non-support.

Miss Cowen's body at the morgue was claimed yesterday by a nephew J. L. Woods of this city.

There is a Difference Between the Old Waggon Roads and the Railway Right-of-Way

The old waggon roads went up over the hill and down into the hollow, but the steam engine not being able to negotiate such grades, the hills had to be cut down and the dirt thrown into the hollows, resulting in a level right-of-way or a slight grade. The new automobile roads are following in the footsteps of the railroads, and are cutting down the hills and filling up the hollows.

There are hills and hollows in business, especially in the matter of price levels.

This store is doing its utmost to fill in the hills and hollows and make a smooth right-of-way for its patrons.

SAYS K. OF C. OATH IS MISREPRESENTED

SUPREME KNIGHT FLAHERTY TELLS CONVENTION "VILE INVENTION" IS CIRCULATED BY MILLIONS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5. — Opposition to religious prejudice is the keynote of the Knights of Columbus annual convention opening here, sounded in the pre-convention address of Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty. Mr. Flaherty denounced what he termed "professional purveyors of prejudice," whom he charged with seeking to divide American citizens into classes and to create suspicion and distrust.

Mr. Flaherty's address drew attention to the widespread circulation of an oath attributed to the fourth degree members of the Knights of Columbus, which was characterized as a "vile invention."

"This oath," he declared, "is impossible and ridiculous on its face; but it now is being circulated by millions of copies through the country, bearing the imprint of the Congressional Record, because, by accident, it appeared as an exhibit in the proceedings of Congress.

"For the first time in the history of the Knights of Columbus, at this convention, we take occasion to ask press and public to make known as widely as possible the real obligation taken by all Knights of Columbus:

"'I swear to support the Constitution of the United States. I pledge myself, as a citizen and Knight of Columbus, to enlighten myself fully on my duties as a citizen and to conscientiously perform such duties entirely in the interest of my country and regardless of personal consequences. I pledge myself to do all in my power to preserve the integrity and purity of the ballot and to promote reverence and respect for law and order. I promise to practice my religion openly and consistently, but without ostentation, and to so conduct myself in public affairs as to reflect nothing but credit upon our holy Church to the end that she may flourish and our country prosper to the greater honor and glory of God.'"

Mr. W. S. Merrell is the Peterborough delegate at the convention.

The new courts at Riverside Park have supplied one of the needs of tennis lovers in Lakefield and the vicinity.

LONDON LABOR ASKS CITY TO BUY COAL

TO BE DISTRIBUTED AMONG POOR CITIZENS IF NEEDED

LONDON, Ont. Aug. 4.—The Trades and Labor Council has asked the City Council to purchase 1,000 tons of coal for the coming winter, to be distributed among citizens in poor circumstances. Local dealers say that people are not laying in customary stocks on account of the scarcity of money and that there may be hardships later on account of the difficulty of filling promptly the accumulated demand.

Why is it that the average man is seldom willing to do the things he is constantly telling others they should do?

ONE OF SHORTEST WILLS EVER FILED.

OTTAWA, Aug 4.—The will of the late David Ewart, chief Government architect for many years, and who died on June 6, last, was filed Tuesday morning for probate in the Surrogate Court of Ontario. The petition was signed by his widow, Mrs. Annie Ewart, who, according to the provision of the will, was named chief executrix and who is the sole inheritor. The will was made on November 11, 1915, and is one of the shortest ever filed here, containing only four paragraphs of two or three lines each.

The entire estate of $88,214.16 is disposed of in 28 words as follows:

"I give devise and bequeath all my estate both real and personal of every nature and kind whatsoever and whersoever situated unto my dear wife, Annie Ewart, absolutely."

PICCADILLY NAMED AFTER NECKPIECE.

Piccadilly, known the world over as a famous thoroughfare of London, received its name from a tavern several centuries ago. The tavern in its turn took the name from a tennis court that was nearby, and much frequented by members of the King's household.

The tennis court acquired the name because of the number of both men and women who frequented at wearing a "pickadilly," or ruff.

The name, then, was originally the name of a shirred bit of silk, or other material that was gathered along the edge of the cloak, bodice or jerkin, and brought together under the chin, forming an outstanding collar or ruff often six or eight inches wide, and in some cases dandies went to even greater extremes and extended their "pickadilly" a foot or more.

Queen Elizabeth made the ruff almost historical by her constant wearing of it at court functions, and to have her portrait painted.

When an orator goes to prison he acquires a poor address.

LAST HONORS ARE PAID TO CARUSO

PREMIER OF ITALY ATTENDS FUNERAL AS REPRESENTATIVE OF KING.

By Camillo Cianfarra
(United Press Staff Corresponden).

NAPLES, Aug. 5. — With the golden-voiced Caruso at rest in his beloved Naples, his relatives turned to-day to the task of settling his estate.

Indications were that his last will, the one drawn at Sorrento on his return from America this summer, will be accepted as his last wish. This was said to provide that the widow shall have the income so long as she lives, the estate to be divided among surviving relatives on her death. Caruso, it became known, drew up numerous wills during his life, rarely setting out on an extensive trip without providing for the disposal of his constantly increasing wealth. His practice was said to be to tear up the previous will when he had drafted a new one.

Rentals, royalties from phonograph records, the investment of securities and the sale of some valuables were expected to provide handsome returns.

Naples still grieved to-day. The vault in which lay the crystal casket of the great tenor was the mecca for hundreds of persons who brought flowers or who stood with bared heads to offer a prayer. There was only one satisfaction for the Neopolitans; Caruso had come home to die and had been given funeral honors rarely paid a man of any class.

"King of singers," said Premier Bonomi, just before the casket was laid away. "I bring you a king's farewell."

NAPLES, Aug. 5. — (Canadian Press). — The funeral of Enrico Caruso took place yesterday from the Royal Church of San Francesco Di Paola. The cortege moved through the streets, lined with troops and vast crowds, to the cemetery, where the body was placed in a vault.

The services were held in this famous church by permission of King Victor Emmanuel, who sent a special representative to attend the ceremony.

CONDOLENCE FROM QUEEN ALEXANDRA.

NAPLES, Aug. 5. — (Canadian Press).—Mrs. Enrico Caruso has received a telegram of condolence from Queen Mother Alexandra of England.

U. S. BIG PACKER CONTROL ASKED

BY L. C. MARTIN.
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.— Government control of the big packers came a step nearer to-day when the conference report on the packer bill was placed on the senate calendar. It will be called up for consideration by Senator Kenyon at the first opportunity, he stated.

Presentation of the conference report finds senate progressives in two minds about the legislation which has resulted from a fight lasting for years, and marked by the most bitter parliamentary warfare.

Some progressives, including La Follette and Norris, are inclined to refuse to support the conference report. Norris, one of the conferees, refused even to sign it. These senators are against it because it limits the power and jurisdiction of the federal trade commission.

CUBANS SEEK LOWER RENTS BY GOVERNMENT ACTION.

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 5.—Lower rents through Government action were sought in a petition recently presented to President Alfredo Zayas by leaders of an orderly crowd which the President addressed from a balcony of the National Palace. He promised the demonstrants that he would give their claims careful consideration, but that they should not forget that landlords had rights which could not be legally ignored. If the municipality did not act promptly in their behalf, the chief executive added, he promised remedial measures through presidential decree.

Among the charges made were that a powerful combination of agents has secured long-term leases to thousands of residences in Havana, and that they are demanding rents for sub-leases far above the prices they are paying the landlords. One of the many measures introduced in Congress and aimed at reducing the cost of living provides for construction by the Government of thousands of small houses in the suburbs which would be sold to the working classes on the partial payment plan.

BRITISH CHEMIST DELEGATION HERE.

First Meeting of This British Body Ever Held on This Continent.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(Canadian Press). — Governor Miller, of New York State, will go on Labor Day to Niagara Falls to welcome officially the delegates of the British Society of Chemical Industry, who will visit the United States to hold a joint meeting with the American Chemical Society. The exceptional courtesy is due to the fact that the noted scientists are coming from the first meeting of the British Society which has ever been held in North America.

At the head of the overseas delegation will be Sir William J. Pope, K.B.E., F.R.S., president of the Society of Chemical Industry, who two years ago was knighted for his valuable services in the production of mustard gas for the war against Germany.

Among other prominent members will be Dr. Louis A. Jordan, Chevalier of the Crown of Italy, who was sent to aid the Italian Government in the making of explosives; Dr. Frederick William Atack, whose principal work has been the chemistry of dyes; Dr. Andrew McWilliams, one of the best known steel metallurgists in Great Britain, and Dr. Andrew Smith, an explosives engineer of international reputation.

The British visitors are coming to meet with the Canadian branches of their society. The principal sessions are to be held at Montreal and Toronto, after which they and the Canadian members will make a tour of chemical industries in the Dominion before crossing the international border.

Some of the eminent Canadian chemists will be: Dr. R. F. Ruttan, past president of the Canadian Section of the Society, chairman of the Advisory Council of Scientific Research and formerly vice-president of the parent society; Dr. Milton L. Hersey, one of the founders and past chairman of the Canadian Section, and Dr. C. R. Hazen, chairman of the Montreal Section.

After having had luncheon on the Canadian side of the Falls, the party will be taken in automobiles to the American side, where they will be met by Governor Miller and a reception committee. This committee will be: S. R. Church, chairman of the American Section of the Society of Chemical Industry; Professor Edgar F. Smith, president of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers; Dr. Acheson Smith, president of the Electro-Chemical Society; and Professors Charles F. Chandler, Ira Remsen and M. T. Bogart, and Dr. William H. Nichols, all past presidents of the Society of Chemical Industry.

Following the reception at Niagara Falls, the party will be taken through some of the power plants and then proceed to Buffalo. They will then go in a special train of sleeping cars, after dinner at Buffalo and journey to Syracuse, where they will be entertained at luncheon and inspect the Solvay process factories there. They will start to Albany, from which point they will embark on the night boat on the Hudson River for New York City.

Their arrival here will be signalized by a series of reception and entertainments, and by joint sessions and social functions with the American Chemical Society, which holds its fall meeting here from September 6th to 10th, inclusive.

It is estimated that there will be between three and four thousand participating in this notable gathering of Anglo-Saxon chemists. The total membership of the American Chemical Society is 15,000, of which 2,500 are in the New York Section alone. The local section of the Society of Chemical Industry has several hundred members, and the visiting delegation from Great Britain and Canada will number three or four hundred.

According to the preliminary programme of the American Chemical Society, made public to-day, registration begins at the Chemists' Club, 52 East 41st Street, on Tuesday, September 6th. The dinner of the Council will also be held at the Club. The general meeting will convene at ten o'clock on the following day (Wednesday, September 7) at Columbia University, and at half-past twelve o'clock the Society of Chemical Industry's luncheon to British and Canadian visitors will take place. There will be a reception and lawn party for the members of all societies concerned, to be held on the Campus of Columbia University, and in the evening city will be drawn the closer at a smoker in the Waldorf-Astoria. A joint meeting of the American Chemical Society and of the Society of Chemical Industry of Great Britain has been arranged for four o'clock on Thursday afternoon (September 8th), and in the evening will be held a banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria. The various divisional and sectional meetings are scheduled at Columbia University.

The sessions will conclude with a public meeting, at which the pfesident, Dr. Smith, will deliver his annual address. The last day will be given to excursions to various chemical plants and other points of interest in the city.

LAKE WATER WARM.

Many Kingston families are complaining that the water supply from Lake Ontario is too hot for drinking uses. The temperature as it comes from the faucets is around seventy-five degrees, the highest known in Kingston, where the water is usually around 45 degrees. Winds have caused a rush of surface water to the intake pipe. The surface water is usually warmer, and has prevented the deeper waters which are always cooler from being drawn into the distributing plant.

TO-DAY'S FASHIONS.

In the coats for the coming fall and winter wear, the belt is less in evidence than usual, and one might say the same of pockets, but whether they are in evidence or not, they are some place about the coat, for the convenience and comfort of the wearer still demands them. In speaking of sleeves, the width is very much exaggerated, although a wide sleeve is not really practical for the winter. But with this in mind, the designer has inserted a close-fitting under cuff on the outside of a moderately narrow sleeve, the back edges of which come together, giving th sleeve the effect of being very wide, while in reality it is only a little wider than the average sleeve.

There is plenty of embroidery on many of the new models, of chenille and of silk, on sleeves, side panels and back. A rich duvetyn in French blue with bell sleeves is embroidered heavily on the back and sleeves with silk, and has seal collar and cuffs Another of wool velour in taupe has French beaverine collar and embroidery all around the bottom of the skirt.

A coat of polo cloth, with full belt, has fancy silk stitching on back, collar and pockets.

WOMEN WHO CANNOT WORK

Read Mrs. Corley's Letter and Benefit by Her Experience

Edmund, S. C.—"I was run down with nervousness and female trouble and suffered every month. I was not able to do any work and tried a lot of medicines but got no relief. I saw your medicine advertised in a little book, and I had not taken two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before I could see it was helping me. I am keeping house now and am able to do all of my work. I cannot say enough for your medicine. It has done more for me than any doctor. You may print this letter if you wish."—ELIZABETH C. CORLEY, care of A. P. Corley, Edmund, S. C.

Ability to stand the strain of work is the privilege of the strong and healthy, but how our hearts ache for the weak and sickly women struggling with their daily rounds of household duties, with backaches, headaches, nervousness and almost every movement brings a new pain. Why will not the mass of letters from women all over this country, which we have been publishing, convince such women that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help them just as surely as it did Mrs. Corley?

HOW TO SECURE EGG PRODUCTION IN WINTER TIME.

On the Careful Development of Pullets Depends Success in This Line.

It is thought by some poultry keepers that when the chicks reach the age of four or six weeks all danger is over, as they are able to find the feed for themselves. At this stage they are over the first troubles which arise from weak vitality, but they have reached the stages of feather forming and bone making, and they require some care, both as regards feeding and housing. Indeed, the rate of mortality is too high at this stage, and might be reduced by greater attention on the part of the attendant.

When the chicks are about six weeks old they should be taken from the hen, and for the next six weeks they should rest overnight on the ground of the poultry house, which should be littered with cut straw or peat moss litter. If the ground is not suitable a wooden floor should be improvised, placed about one foot above the ground, to which the chicks can easily fly up. On this board the chicks should be placed for a night or two by being well spaced apart. Thus they will rest comfortably, and there is no danger of the breast-bone becoming deformed.

Chickens are very inclined to huddle together into a corner at night. This habit should not be allowed, as the chicks nearest the corner or against the wall will get smothered by the pressure of the others. It is not always realised that fowls require more oxygen in proportion than any other domestic animal; they require more than twice as much as do human beings or cattle.

The greatest danger of chicks without the hen is that of rats. But if poultry keepers would learn the value of quarter-inch mesh wire netting many valuable broods of chickens would be saved. The floor of the chicken house should be covered with the netting, which should be attached half a foot up the walls, and from time to time a fresh layer of earth should be spread over the ground above the netting. In many cases the wire netting will last for years and the chicks reared season after season in perfect safety. Quarter-inch mesh wire netting is one of the materials which rats are powerless to overcome.

Why do some men swear to love before marriage and love to swear afterward?

5,000 SPANISH SAID TO BE HELD PRISONERS

HAVE SUFFERED SEVERE DEFEAT BY MOROCCANS.

MADRID, August 5. (Canadian Press.) The Spanish forces have suffered a severe defeat in north-eastern Morocco, where they are resisting heavy attacks of rebellious tribesmen, it is declared by the newspapers here.

Nador and Zeluan, looked upon as the keys of the Spanish position before Melille, have been evacuated, and one paper says that the tribesmen hold 5000 Spanish prisoners.

Abdelkrin, leader of the Moroccan tribesmen, only 35 yeas old, educated in France and Spain, speaks several languages.

He aims at the civilization of Morocco in accordance with European ideals, without losing the essentials of Moorish culture.

THRILLING TALES CLING TO FAMOUS OLD LOCOMOTIVES.

CLEVELAND, Ohio. — In the Union Station at Chattanooga, Tenn., stands upon a special track and surrounded by a special railing, one of the most famous locomotives in history. It is the "General," with which the "Andrews raiders" endeavored to off railway communication between Tennessee and Georgia, in the spring of 1862. But while the General has thus rested at ease for many years, another engine, which should have equal fame—in fact the one which captured the General and brought the raid to an end—was, until not so very long ago, working out its days on a branch line in Northwestern Georgia. Now this one also, the "Texas," has been saved from the scrap heap and placed on view.

When Andrews and his 22 men boarded the General at Big Shanty station and ran away with a string of cars while the crew was at their breakfast they left behind them Conductor William Fuller, a brave and resourceful man.

Believing that his engine had been stolen by conscripts he with some of the crew ran after it on foot. Soon they came upon a handcar and were able to travel faster. Then they found the engine "Yonah" on a siding which Andrews had neglected to destroy, and in this they followed hot after the raiders.

Meanwhile the Texas, pulling a freight train, held the General some minutes at a station. At another station the General was delayed an hour. This gave time for Captain Fuller to catch up. He left the Yonah where he met the freight train, and took the Texas a fresh and speedy engine.

Then began a tremendous race with the pursuer but four minutes behind the raiders. Captain Andrews had 22 men, all armed with revolvers. He could have halted anywhere and defeated the other party, but he was a spy, not a soldier, and had never been in battle. His raid was so planned that by burning certain bridges he would keep his men safe.

With the Texas in pursuit all this was prevented. Flying along at top speed his men cut off one car after another to destroy pursuit, but Fuller in the Texas, slowed down, received them gently and plowed ahead.

At last the General was exhausted. The raiders defeated in their attempt, climbed down, the engineer reversed his engine and the General ran back to strike his pursuers.

It was too late. The engine could barely run at all. The Texas received it without harm. Conductor Fuller leaped on board and shut off steam, and a moment later, the raiders, divided into small parties, had begun that flight which ended so disastrously for some of them.

RECOVERED UNION JACK FROM OCEAN'S BOTTOM

Canadian Veteran Dives Into Atlantic After British Flag.

PORT ARTHUR, Aug. 5.—Walking along the board walk at night in Atlantic City where he is cashier in a restaurant, Alfred Cole, a Canadian war veteran, saw a gang of men wrap a Union Jack around a large stone and fling it into the sea. Procuring a bathing suit, he dived into the water and recovered the flag. Young Cole is a son of a Port Arthur barrister, A. E. Cole, to whom he sent the "Jack," which is a handsome one of silk, valued by the United States authorities at forty dollars for export.

RESTAURANT WILL OPEN ON SATURDAY

EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENTS TO THE HOME LUNCH RESTAURANT

Mr. Jas. Hong, who has taken over the Home Lunch restaurant from Mr. Paul Sariotis, is making some extensive alterations in the interior. Counters for quick lunch service will be available in the front, while the rear portion is being partitioned off in a semi-private manner for the tables placed there.

Mr. Hong, who, with his brother will actively supervise the business has had long experience in restaurants in Ottawa, and promises a first-class, quiet service. An experienced chef has been engagd who is an artist in his line, meals will be served a la carte and a specialty will be made of Sunday dinners.

Just at present, a widespread, general clean-up is in progress, and the proprietor intends to continue this system so that public inspection of the cooking quarters will be welcomed at all times. Specia tables and zinc-lined attachments are being introduced for the cleansing and scalding of all kitchenware, china and cutlery, and improvements are going ahead in the plumbing and refrigerating systems. A special feature of the new regime will be the absolute spotlessness of everything used in connection with the preparing and serving of the food.

The second floor is in process of being converted into offices, and the proprietor intends to live on the third floor.

The alterations, which are going ahead under the capable supervision of the McAuliffe Brothers, will be completed in time for the opening on Saturday, when Mr. Hong will welcome inspection of the reconstructed premises.

TWO-WHEELED ROLLER SKATE.

A New Invention With Pneumatic Tires.

A new kind of two-wheeled skate is the invention of George H. Clark, of Berkeley, Calif. Its wheels, which have pneumatic tires, are not set one directly behind the other (as in the bicycle skate), but in a sort of "staggered" relation, the front one being on the inside of the foot and the rear one on the outside of the heel.

This arrangement gives a stable support, and is of advantage in enabling the shove to be given with the heel instead of with the toe, as in the case of the bicycle skate. Furthermore, the foot from the start to the completion of the stroke is kept always at the same angle with the leg.

It is claimed that a skate of this pattern provides for the greatest amount of control in steering when an abrupt turn is necessary, and allows a superior freedom and ease when travelling at high speed or against the wind.

The skate, fastened at the toe by clips and at the heel by a strap passing over the instep, has an ankle brace secured by a band encircling the ankle of the wearer, the brace being pivotally connected with the band for free movement.

The lower end of the brace carries a brake-shoe, which is brought into contact with the tire of the rear wheel by simply turning the toe of the foot downward. By this action the skater can check his forward movement instantly and safely.

DENIES QUEBEC TO RETURN RUM CLAIMED BY ONT.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 5—(Special Despatch to the Examiner)—A flat contradiction of the statement credited to a very good authority in an Ottawa despatch yesterday to the effect that the Quebec Liquor Commission will return to the Ontario Government $55,000 worth of liquor seized by the Commission at Hull in June last was made to your correspondent to-day by the Hon. G. A. Simard, chairman of the Quebec Liquor Commission.

The liquor in question forms parts of a stock valued at $200,000 which was seized by the Ontario government on the premises of the Ontario Export Company at Ottawa and was afterwards recovered by the owners and spirited across the border to Hull, where it fell into the hands of the Quebec Liquor Commission. Beyond stating that there was no foundation of truth in the story concerning the final disposal of the liuor, Chairman Simard had no comment to make on the matter.

SURPLUS VEGETABLES DUMPED INTO PACIFIC.

Growers Say It Does Not Pay to Market Them.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5. — Onions valued at $160,000 and spring apples valued at $150,000, were towed out to sea from San Francisco two weeks ago and dumped into the Pacific because they would not be marketed profitably. The lemon growers of California are letting their entire crop rot on the trees, because they cannot pay freight rates or meet wage demands of the fruit pickers' unions and earn a profit. Buyers in the East are paying 80 cents a dozen for lemons imported from Sicily, says the New York Commercial.

Millions of pounds of peaches, nectarines, apricots, cherries, pears, apples and berries are decaying on farms because of high freight rates or unreasonable labor demands. For the same reasons, much needed vegetables — potatoes, onions, cabbages, beets and turnips cannot find markets.

The wheat fields of Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois and other western states have bumper crops and cannot get them garnered because of scarcity of help. In some of these states farmers will burn their corn for fuel this year, as they did in 1920, because it is cheaper than coal.

Farmers throughout California and several other nearby states have placards inviting passers-by to help themselves to potatoes, cabbages and onions, because it does not pay to take them from the ground.

Delaware farmers are glad to get 30 cents a bushel for prime cucumbers and householders in New York City are fortunate to be able to buy them at 5 cents each.

Every railway siding is packed with freight and refrigerator cars waiting to be hauled to consumers.

WELLAND, Aug. 5. — Matthew McKinnon, aged 17, was fatally hurt Wednesday night when a Ford motor car, in which he was riding with his brother Tom and Arthur Whittle, overturned on the Pelham Road, about a mile and a half from Allanburg. He was pinned under the auto, while the others were thrown clear of it, sustaining only a shaking up. Help arrived at once, and the injured youth was taken to his home in Allanburg, later being brought in an ambulance to the Welland County Hospital, where he died about 8.15 yesterday morning.

DRIVERLESS AUTO STARTLES DAYTON

DAYTON, Ohio, Aug. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Dayton traffic policemen rubbed their eyes to-day when a miniature automobile sailed past all semaphores. There was not a soul in it. It was a driverless radio automobile from McCookfield, controlled by a radio in a car 100 feet behind it. The automobile itself contained no wireless, and is said to be the first of its kind publicly exhibited by the Radio Air Service.

RETAILER MUST ENTER POLITICS, SAYS SENATOR.

Step Necessary To Ward Off Attacks On His Business.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 5.—Unless retail merchants are as well organized as farmers by the time the 1922 and 1923 state legislatures commence their sessions, they are bound to suffer.

This was the warning of State Senator Oscar H. Morris, of Milwaukee, at the recent convention here of the Wisconsin Retail Dry Goods Association. The time has come, he declared, when the retail merchant in self-defence, must seek political office and exert every ounce of his political influence to ward off the threatened attacks upon retail trade.

The tremendous support given to the farmers by the State and National Legislatures, Morris pointed out, is only the result of the election of men who understand the farmer's needs. Socialists are working hard for the election of men who will support the Socialist creed. Labor likewise is organized and struggling for representation.

If retail merchants do not adopt the same policy, Morris perdicted, their interests will in the future be squeezed out of the legislative sessions by the organized influence back of other interests.

Thought not a single piece of legislation adverse to retailers has been passed in Wisconsin for six months Morris warned the merchants that this was only because 'the elements and the Lord took a hand." It was, he declared, because the sudden reversal of markets and the upset of business conditions destroyed temporarily all incentive on the part of the unthinking to "take a fall" out of the dealer, and on their own record of activity he said the merchants could take no credit to themselves.

HYDRO RADIAL CONSTRUCTION IS OPPOSED?

UNDERSTOOD OFFICIALLY THAT SUTHERLAND COMMISSION'S REPORT WILL BE ADVERSE TO RADIAL SCHEME.

LABOR MEMBER MAKES REPORT OF MINORITY

TORONTO, Aug. 5.—(Canadian Press).—Although the report of the Sutherland Commission on Ontario Hydro radials has not yet been given out officially, it is understood that the majority report of the Commission is adverse to the construction of radials, and recommends that the Ontario Government does not guarantee the Hydro radial bonds of the Ontario Hydro Commisston.

Fred. Bancroft, who represented Labor on the Commission, is preparing a minority report which, it is assumed, will be more favorable to the Commission's proposals.

It is thought by Hydro radial enthusiasts that the Government will put through legislation permitting municipalities themselves to guarantee the radial bonds of the Hydro Commission for construction of local lines.

Local Teachers Off To England

Four Members of Teachers' Staff in Party

Wednesday night saw the departure for England of four Peterborough young ladies who intend to spend a year or more in that country on the Interchange Teachers Scheme. The Misses Janet Purvis, 780 Water street; Flora Nicholls, Water street; Verda Watt, 89 Aylmer street, and Miss Edith Hunter, B.A., of East City, are the adventurous young teachers who have gone to the Old World to instruct little English lads and lasses in Canadian methods of learning.

The Misses Verda Watt and Janet Purvis have both been teaching in local schools, the former at May's School for the past three years. Miss Nicholls, who was formerly on the staff of this school also, has been teaching in Port Colborne for some time, and Miss Hunter, who formerly taught in Western Canada, has done supply work at the same educational institution, May's School, which apparently inspired all of these young ladies to cross the sea. They expect to teach in Public schools in the city of London for the ensuing year, and then Miss Nicholls will go to France for another year's work in that country.

Miss Meta Allen, a daughter of Dr. A. H. Allen of Charlotte street, who has been teaching in Toronto for some time, sailed for England in July to engage in this interchange work.

MERCHANTS GO ON JAZZ TOUR FOR BUSINESS.

Columbia, Mo., Retailers Have Novel Way To Boost Trade.

COLUMBIA, August 5. — The members of the Columbia Retail Merchants' Association are going out on a jazz trip to meet the people of their trade territory and get in more intimate touch with those who patronize the stores that make up the organization.

They will carry with them a concert band, a jazz orchestra, quartet and clog dancers, and everywhere that stops are made the merchants will put on an entertainment free of charge. The best talent in Columba has been procured and the entertainment will equal the high class vaudeville programmes that are given on Orpheum circuits in the city.

The merchants say that the goodwill of their trade cannot be securaltogether by advertisements or through stereotyped letters, but they believe that they should go out to the peoples' homes to shake hands with them and talk with them about crop conditions markets and business in general. In that way they feel that the interests of both of them can be best served and conserved.

The first of the trips has just been made and 50 automobiles made up the caravan. The trippers visited Rocheport and Huntsdale. At the latter place they joined in a community dinner given by the graduating class of the high school.

At first it seemed as if the merchants of the smaller towns resented the coming of the Columbia merchants because they believed that they were making an effort to encroach on their business. This the Columbia business men denied, and they pointed out to these merchants that Columbia was only after such business that they could not handle, and which was going to cities outside of Columbia's trade territory.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 5.—(Special despatch to the Examiner).—Negotiations before the Joint Council of Industry on the printers strike have reached a deadlock. It is stated by delegates at the last meeting. It is said the employers insist that Union jurisdiction and shop control be negotiated forthwith together with wages and hours of work. Union delegates, it is said, demand that wages and hours be settled first, and that other questions to be left for later negotiations.

MORE HOMES IS DRIVE'S OBJECT.

Seattle Furniture Dealers Take Stirring Slogan For Campaign.

SEATTLE, Aug. 5.—"More homes for America." is the slogan for Seattle furniture retailers who are cooperating in the movement of the National Furniture Retailers' Association and manufacturers in exploiting the building of more homes. This plan, through the aggressive sponsoring of Herbert Schoenfield, president of the State Association and head of the Standard Furniture Co. of Seattle, bids fair to assume a nation-wide movement through the activities of local furniture men.

Seattle has taken the first step in this direction by the decision of its two Sunday newspapers— the Post-Intelligencer and the Times — to eliminate the automobile section that has so long been a fixture in national newspapers. The two Seattle newspapers have long devoted extensive space in each Sunday issue to automobiles with attractive illustrations showing how the worker can enjoy this luxury at small (?) expense. As a result, it is claimed that many persons were misled and purchased automobiles that they could not afford, at the same time neglecting their homes.

Now, with the automobile sections in the discard, furniture men of Seattle see an opportunity to launch a home campaign at a timely moment. It is estimated that much money formerly going to the purchase and upkeep of automobiles will now be devoted to home uses. The newspapers themselves have promised full co-operation in this effort and a portion of the space formerly devoted to automobiling will be used in pointing out the advantages of owning and furnishing a home.

Co-operation in this movement is also promised by allied industries, for the building of new homes not only benefits furniture retailers, but lumber and varied building materials as well. And in the last analysis, more homes means stimulation for every line of retail trade and converts the restless and dissatisfied citizen into a contented American.

Detailed plans for the projected national campaign for better homes through co-operation with the national furniture campaign are now being worked out by Herbert Schoenfeld, who is now on an Eastern vacation trip.

MILK SHORTAGE.

KINGSTON, Aug. 5.—Milk has been short the past month and dealers were unable to meet the stores and domestic demands. This has stimulated the price of cheese after its decline last June. The importance of the cheese industry to farmers is evident in the stated fact that on many farms having an average herd of Holstein cows last year's returns for cheese alone ran from $1,000 to $1,500.

FIFTY MEN WORKING AT EXHIBITION PARK

GROOMING THE GROUNDS IN PREPARATION FOR MONDAY AFTERNOON'S CROWD.

Fifty men are working at the Exhibition Park putting it into shape for the celebration of Civic Holiday on Monday afternoon. Some of them are finishing the construction of the annex to the grand stand, others are whitewashing and painting, and still others are cutting weeds and otherwise cleaning up the grounds. The directors have found from experience that the citizens appreciate the efforts at the beautification of the Park, and the holiday crowds will be greeted with a birght scene as a background to the field, track and platform attractions. The citizens are assured of a full afternoon's entertainment, and directors have remarked that there will be no occasion for going out of the city. The accommodation for the crowd will be better than ever, and a big card of attractions has been prepared. It might be observed that a large attendance on Monday will be a helpful co-operation by the public with the Fair directors in ther plans to improve the Exhibition Park and its facilities.

AFTER NINE YEARS IN BUSINESS

P. BLACK FORCED TO ENLARGE AND REMODEL HIS STORE.

When Mr. P. Black came to Peterborough nine years ago and commenced business down at the corner of King and George Streets, it did not look like a very promising undertaking. Nine years ago the mercantile business done in that section of George Street was comparatively small. The store on the corner of King Street, which Mr. Black rented, had been unoccupied for some time, and the prospects for a new business to open up was by no means very encouraging.

To-day Mr. Black is glad to be able to meet old friends and customers by the hundreds, to whom he has been extending the same courteous service and attention they received from him since the day he opened this same shop, nine years ago.

Mr. Black started with a small stock, but with small expenses because his capital was small. Slowly, at first, the business kept going; but year by year there was an improvement, until Mr. Black was encouraged to keep on, to increase his stock and to improve his store. He bought very carefully, and with the valuable assistance of his wife, plodded along without extra help, selling his goods on very close margins.

To-day, Mr. Black is compelled to enlarge his store, as he has been crowded for room for several years past. The contract has been let for remodelling and enlarging his store, so that the different departments may be put in a more efficient and systematic order. To accomplish these improvements, much of the stock which is in the way of the carpenters must be sold and cleared out of the way as quickly as possible. That is the reason why Mr. Black has been forced to start a Compulsory Alteration Sale Tomorrow morning, the particulars of which may be read in his large advertisement on another part of this paper.

C.G.E. BEAT CRESSMAN'S BUT MARGIN WAS SMALL

MERCANTILE LEAGUE CHAMPIONS GIVE CITY LEAGUE WINNERS UNEXPECTED HARD BATTLE IN SECOND GAME OF O.B.A.A. SERIES.

The C.G.E. team, champions of the City League, earned the right last night, by beating Cressman's, Mercantile League winners, for the second time to go into the next round of the O.B.A.A. intermediate series. Last night's game was a widely different affair from the previous meeting between the two teams, which the Electricians won by 15 to 1. They had no walk away last evening; in fact they were lucky to win by 11 to 9, for outside of one bad innings, in which the C.G.E. team scored seven runs, the Big Store outfit had the edge on the winners. Both teams fielded loosely, the Canadian General team kicking in with ten errors, but the fans enjoyed the clash.

The two outfits started with a pair of runs in the first innings and then C.G.E. took a one run lead in the third and made it 4 to 2 in their half of the fifth ,only to have Cressman's come back with three in their section of the innings. That left it 5 to 4, and in the sixth the Electricians scored seven runs, a muff by Long giving them two runs and a misjudged fly by the same player being responsible for two more. When the smoke cleared away C.G.E. were in front 11 to 5, and when they sent McCarney to replace Foley on the mound, and put Barrie on second base, giving their strongest line-up, there did not seem to be a chance for Cressman's. But the Mercantile League champs showed the old fighting spirit. They picked up two runs in the seventh and another pair in the eighth, and when they went to bat in the ninth were only two down. The first two batters got on the base paths and an infield out moved them up to second and third. A hit at this stage would have tied the score, but McCarney saved the day by fanning Sage and Bartley.

The C.G.E. used two box men, Foley working the first five innings and McCarney winding up the engagement. Neither was a mystery to the Cressman crew and in addition their support was very bad. Scates went the whole route for Cressman's, and although he was hit freely at times, stuck to his guns and was going better the last three innings, when C.G.E. were blanked, than at any other stage in the game. With a little help from his outfield in that disastrous sixth he might have hung up a victory.

C.G.E. opened the scoring in the first. After Rutherford had popped to Sage, McCarney scratched a hit past third and Corrin singled to centre. Frost's single to right scored McCarney, and after Helson had fanned, Dugan singled through the box to score Corrin. Primeau rolled to Scates.

Cressman's evened it in their half. Hunter singled past short and went round to third while Foley was throwing out Wade. Bergoine walked and stole second, and both runners came home on Head's timely single, the batter taking second on the throw to the plate. Scates singled to left and Head was out at the plate. Long whiffed.

With two out in C.G.E.'s half of the third, Helson singled past second and scored when Wade dropped Dugan's long fly to right, the batter reaching third. He was stranded when Primeau rolled to Hunter.

In the fifth, C.G.E. made it 4 to 2 on Frost's double to left, Graham's error on Helson's rap, and a timely single by Dugan. The next two were easy.

Cressman's took the lead in their half. After Hunter had been thrown out by Foley, Wade hit to left and went to second on Primeau's wide throw. Bergoine tapped to Foley, who threw to third to get Wade, but McCarney let the ball get away and Wade scored. Head singled through short and stole second, Scates rapped a fly to left which Primeau dropped and Bergoine and Head crossed the home station. Long rolled to McCarney.

C.G.E. got them all back and a few more in the sixth. With one down Rutherford was safe on Hunter's fumble and stole second. McCarney got a single on a tap to second. Corrin walked, filling the bases. Frost's fly to left was muffed by Long and Rutherford and McCarney scored. Helson doubled to left, Long misjudging the drive, and Corrin and Frost came home. Dugan singled to centre, scoring Helson. Primeau hit safely to right, Foley fanned, Franks' single scored a couple more. Rutherford was safe on Graham's fumble. McCarney struck out.

The City League winners sent McCarney to the rubber to face Cressman's in the second half of the innings, Foley going to third, Frost to left and Barrie to second. The Big Store team went out in order.

In the seventh, however, they reduced the gap. Hunter started by singling past third and went to second on Wade's infield out. Bergoine fanned, but Head singled to left, scoring Hunter, and going to third on the throw in. Scates singled to score Head. Long rolled to McCarney.

C.G.E. were blanked in the eighth, but Cressman's came back with another pair. With one gone, Bartley batted for Graham and singled to right. Cobb pushed a single past first, Bartley going to third. Cobb tore for second on the throw to the difficult corner and Foley tossed the ball into right field, Bartley scoring and Cobb going to third. Hunter lined to Frost in left. Wade also drove a fly to Frost, who muffed the drive and Cobb came home. McCarney ended the fun by fanning Bergoine.

Cressman's made a bid for victory in the ninth. Head was safe on Rutherford's fumble and Scates was hit. The runners advanced while McCarney was throwing out Long. The stage was all set for a sewed up game, but McCarney got out of the hole by fanning Sage and Bartley. The score:

THE BELLEVILLE GAME WILL BE THE BATTLE OF SEASON

Fresh from his great feat of pitching a no-hit, no-run game against Oshawa, the dearest ambition of every baseball pitcher, Freddy Goyer, crack southpaw twirler of the Belleville team, will be here to-morrow with his colleagues to battle with Manager Solomon's outfit in a Central Ontario League fixture. Goyer is evidently at the top of his form, and that means the Petes will have to play baseball all the way to-morrow to earn a win over the Belleville outfit. The game will be called at Riverside Park at 3 o'clock and the biggest crowd of the season will be out to see the two old rivals clash. Last time the Belleville and Peterborough crews met here Belleville won by 3 to 2 and since then the Petes have beaten them on their own grounds by 7 to 5, so that the season's honours are even. Every game between the two has been a battle, and to-morrow's fixture promises to surpass them all in interest.

A TIP FOR JAKE SOLOMON

Port Hope Guide: "And when they are up, they are up, when they are down, they are down, and when they are half way up they are neither up nor down," is an old saying. But there is no half way measure with our ball team, they are the real high grade or absolutely unk. Yesterday at Peterborough, they couldn't stop a flock of balloons, they couldn't hit, catch or run. On the other hand, Peterborough played air tight ball and held the locals without a score until the last innings, when one lone run crossed the plate. In the meantime Peterborough had scored the even dozen. Port Hope never gave a more wretched exhibition, and the only two players to escape without errors were Fred Chalk and Stanley Friar. But had the locals played errorless ball, they would have found it a big contract to win with umpire Lebar on the bases. He saw things different to any person else at the game and finally his decisions became so bad that umpire Wilson stepped in and overruled him. And it was this same Peterborough team that protested Port Hope on account of a wrong decision by the umps. Along this same line Port Hope has plenty of justification for protest. Alex. Kay, considered one of the most impartial officials in the Central League, viewed the game from the grand stand. Evidently the home team intended to win no matter what tactics had to be adopted. A new rule in the Central League permits the visiting club to have an outside base umpire, provided they stand the expense. Port Hope did not make a request for an outside official and consequently are not called on to pay. We, however, think it would only be fair for, manager Solomon to settle with Mr. Lebar.

CORNER LOT BALL LEAGUE NOW FORMED

After a very successful meeting a few nights ago it has been the interest of the citizens to establish a corner lot baseball league. This league is open for any boy under 18 years, and any team or teams wishing to enter into this league are asked to have their names sent into the secretary, Gerald Thorndyke, at 337 London street, not later than Wednesday evening, Aug. 10.

In the event of enough teams entering this league to warrant starting, all games are to be played at the Oval. The league is late in starting, but will have the full advantage of the remainder of the holidays.

There are a number of keen sportsmen at the head of this league, and the Hurtubise brothers of the South End Garage are donating a beautiful, large trophy for the winning team. Now get busy, boys, and show Peterborough what you are made of.

Don't forget you have only a week and hand in your names at once and then get in practice.

A line-up of the games will appear in these columns at a later date.

LIPTON NOT TO CHALLENGE FOR AMERICA'S CUP.

New York Yacht Club Denies Report From Glasgow.

NEW YORK, August 5. (Canadian Press.) — A cable despatch dated Glasgow was published to-day to the effect that Si Thomas Lipton would challenge for the American Cup Race in 1922. The report was denied by the officers of the New York Yacht Club.

It was said that no challenge had been received from Sir Thomas and no definite information about any other British yachtsman challenging for the cup, had been received.

The New York Club officers added that no challenge was expected at this time. When Sir Thomas was on this side for the races of 1920 he said that he would probably challenge again for the races in 1922, if no one else came forward to race for the cup. His idea was to give other yachtsmen a chance to challenge.

There will be a meeting of the Gun Club this evening at 6.30 for a trap shoot at the grounds.

ALL READY FOR TOMORROW'S GAME WITH BRANTFORD

Last night at the Oval, the Plenty Cup team which will meet Brantford in the semi-final play-off for the Alberty Plenty Cup at 6 p.m. tomorrow night at Riverside Park, had their final work-out by defeating a picked team, and put up a splendid exhibition of football. The two teams lined up as follows:

Scrub Team—Swan; Moir and Hardie; Roberts, Brown, and Hensby; Wright, Jones, Parkins, Morris, and Hannah.

Plenty Cup Team—Griffin; McDonald and Ralston; Burrows, McMillan, and Frost; Canders, Chambers, McDougall, Rorrison, and Bartley.

Referee—Frank Kellar.

The game gave the Peterborough boys a good practice, and it showed the outfit were in the pink of condition. Their combination was brushed up, and the men are all confident of their machinery working successfully against Brantford. The locals are confident of defeating Brantford and going on up in the series, and as Brantford will be under the same handicaps as the Petes were last Saturday, things look very rosy for them. Ralston and Rorrison will have the "once-over" by the doctor to-night, and when they go on the field to-morrow will be as good as ever.

Brantford arrives on the noon train, and will not likely leave till early Sunday morning. The game is called for 6 o'clock.

J. L. Howarth will be referee.

The teams will dress at the G. W. V. A. Hall, where they are asked to meet at 5 p.m., and will be taken in cars to the grounds.

All arrangements are complete to handle the biggest crowd of football fans that have ever packed Riverside Park. There will be fast football played, and even if people don't understand the game, they cannot help but enjoy it. There will be plenty of excitement.

The south end of the river grand stand has been opened up, and more room made for the crowds. If fans want seats in this 15 cent stand, they will have to be at the park early.

FOOTBALL NOTES

"Alec" Morris wasn't born under a lucky star. At game at the Oval last night he received another painful injury. He strained the knee but did not break the knee-cap as was at first thought. He was taken home at once and Haycock substituted in his civic clothes. Dr. Marshall will allow "Alec" to go to the big game to-morrow, but not to do any playing for a while.

CONTESTANTS IN THE COMPETITION FOR BEST LAWN

Considerable numbers of entries have already been received in the annual lawn and garden competition of the Peterborough Horticultural Society, and the Board of Directors is anxious that this year's competition will outclass last year's record.

There were three schools, three churches and three factories entered in 1920, besides nearly fifty individuals. This year the Society hopes to have at least one hundred contestants.

All citizens, whether members of the Society or not, are eligible to make entries, for which no fee is charged, but they must be made in writing to the Secretary, Peterborough Horticultural Society, Chamber of Commerce Rooms, not later than August 9th, noon, and must also explicitely state the contestant's name and address, and the class, or classes, for which the entry is made.

In all probability a number of delegates who will be attending the Canadian Florists' and Gardeners' Association Convention on August the 9th and 10th will competently handle the judging to every one's satisfaction. Classes "F," "G," and "H" will be judged separately from Classes "A" to "E."

It is hoped this year that more entries will be made in Class "E" —"best flower-bed cared for solely by boy or girl, 16 years of age or under," as this pastime not only gives physical exercise, but also is one of the most educational in which children could possibly indulge their leisure moments.

As in the previous year there will be eight classes, as follows:

Class A—Open to all for best kept grounds surrounding premises. 1st price, the F. W. Adam's Cup for one year; 2nd price, $3.00; 3rd, $2.00.

Class B—Amateurs only, for best lawn and surroundings. 1st prize, $3.00; 2nd, $2.00; 3rd, membership for coming year.

Class C—Workingmen only, for best garden and surroundings. 1st prize, $3.00; 2nd, $2.00; 3rd, membership for coming year.

Class D—Best display of window boxes, hanging baskets or urns. 1st prize, $3.00; 2nd, $2.00; 3rd, membership for coming year.

Class E—Best flower-bed cared for solely by boy or girl, 16 years of age or under. 1st prize, $3.00; 2nd, $2.00; 3rd, membership for coming year.

Class F — Best kept factory grounds. 1st prize, $3.00; 2nd, $2.00; 3rd, membership for coming year.

Class G — Best kept church grounds. 1st prize, $3.00; 2nd $2.00; 3rd, membership for coming year.

Class H — Best kept school grounds. 1st prize, $3.00; 2nd $2.00; 3rd, membership for coming year.

As a systematic route of the city will have to be made to lighten the work of the judges, the President, Dr. J. E. Middleton, particularly urges that all citizens will make their entries early. Contest closes at 12 noon, August 9th.

FOOTBALL FOR THE HOLIDAY

GOOD GAME PROVIDED FOR THE CIVIC HOLIDAY.

The Executive of the P. and D. F. A. met last night after the game at the Oval to arrange for special attraction in Exhibition Ground on Monday next (Peterborough's Civic Holiday).

The G.W.V.A. (winners of the League) will play the rest of the League for the trophy which is being donated by the Exhibition Board.

The respective teams are:

G.W.V.A.—W. Jones; Perry and Bishop; Burrows, Haycock and Hurrle; Monk, Willshaw, Dyer, Edwards and Peel.

The Rest—Griffin; McDonald and Cridland; Williams, Mann and Frost; Manders, Chambers, H. Jones, Parkins; and Bartley.

Reserves—Cowie, A. Roberts and Swan.

Referee—J. Clark.

Linesmen—Rollie Denne and Reg. Turner.

The Executive thought a little vigorous exercise of this kind will do the popular linesmen good.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

The Capitol Theatre has a very entertaining feature picture for the last three days of this week. Douglas McLean, starring in "The Home stretch," gets many laughs from his interested audience, and a double race event provides lots of thrills for the sporting element. "Honeyblossom" is the beloved horse, but the hero sacrifices his chances as a winner, and loses $10,000 for himself when he rescues his little baby friend from the feet of the advancing racers. His impetuous disposition leads him into a fight in a roadhouse that evening, and later on the same quick-acting mind and right hand give his career another turn. He buys a house and has it photographed before asking the one girl to come and live in it, and believes his rival implicitly on hearing she is engaged to someone else, but things finally straighten themselves out beautifully with an impulsive dive from the deck of a European liner, which leaves the hero dripping, but happily embracing his little sweetheart.

'The Purple Riders," the new Capitol serial, furnishes some novel situations, and promises to be one of the best-liked serials seen here in some time, and Larry Semon has a "restaurant" comedy in his best vein.

The Capitol Orchestra is already playing in great style, and adds immeasurably to the enjoyment of the evening's programme.

THE OPEN WAR ON PAINT AND "NAKEDNESS"

How the Newest Crusade Against Fashionable Display Has Begun in Girls' Schools Where Pupils Are Being Trained to Teach Their Own Mothers What and What Not to Wear.

MORALISTS, preachers and dress reformers who have been protesting, in vain, against the trend of modern fashions toward extremes of overdress and nakedness, are beginning the war anew, but from an entirely different angle. With the co-operation of the governing boards of various colleges and high schools for girls, a ban has been placed on lip sticks, face paint, powder, transparent waists, high-heeled shoes, tight skirts, extravagant displays of jewelry, and other modern fashions which some school girls of the present generation have adopted in imitation of their grown-up sisters and youthful looking mammas.

But how, it may be asked, is a fashion reform campaign, directed entirely against high school girls, going to influence fashions in general? The answer the reformers are making is that school girls can be dictated to and told what they should and should not wear. And according to the new rules laid down in certain schools, the girls either must dress according to established standards or stay away from school. The idea, of course, is that when a young business woman sees how much nicer a high school girl can look in clothes that do not offend the eye of the moralist, she will naturally want to dress like that herself. And when she sees how much more natural and charming a girl's face looks without being touched up and painted, rouged and powdered, she may be inclined to discard her own lip stick, rouge rag and powder puff.

Following this line of argument it may be pointed out that middle-aged women, who like to dress according to styles designed for the younger set, will follow the lead of the younger women.

By Barbara Craydon

ALARMED by the mimicry of the wearing apparel of their elders by school girls in all parts of the world, a campaign of education has been launched to destroy the tendency toward nakedness and the use of powder, paint and the lip stick. The conservative of the population, which still retains the majority, is behind the crusade and efforts are being made to stop the spread of the fashion so that the rising generation will not fall victims to the styles which to many are shocking.

The crusaders are seeking to kill two birds with one stone by not only reforming dress among the school children, but, through holding up conservative costume to the working girl and the society miss, convince these that the abbreviated skirt and the V neck have been cut up and cut down to such an extent that beauty no longer is the result and something akin to brazenness has become the standard of attire.

A Modern School Girl

The term school girl, until recently, has ever been synonymous with middy blouses, nature-painted cheeks, plain low-heeled shoes, and skirts to the shoe-top. But suddenly the mania for near-nudity seized the tenderest of the budding young women and they've got the craze so that some of them more flagrantly offend than the elders they ape, it not being an uncommon sight to behold them "making up" in public. Silk stockings, of the most diaphanous texture; short socks which leave a good bit above the knee bare and visible in every passing breeze; waists cut so low that they might harmonize with the most daring costume of a debutante; hats worn jauntily, with a flirty, naughty tilt, and powder and rouge plenteous enough to overcome the most powerful limelight, are quite often seen.

But, on the other hand, those in the campaign against this so-called indecent dress, are confident that it will spread no further; that it has reached its high water mark; that it will begin to recede. Already small armies of quiet and home-loving girls, realizing the danger, have donned the apparel which, it is hoped, will soon succeed the garments that really produce nakedness. Such a class has been formed in Columbia University and three of the members of the senior grade, garbed in the conservative yet neat clothing, posed especially for this page to convince the doubting ones that long skirts, sensible shoes, dignified waists and properly "set" hats are much more to be desired than their opposites.

Mrs. Beecher Preaches

Prominent women, mothers, are taking up the cudgel for the reformers and are doing what they can in the home to aid the drive in the school and college. One of these is Mrs. William C. Beecher of New York City, daughter-in-law of the great preacher, Henry Ward Beecher. Anent the habit of "making up" in public, Mrs. Beecher says:

"I disapprove of it, as I am sure every right-minded woman does. If make-up is going to be used, and I am utterly opposed to it for young girls, it should be applied in the privacy of the boudoir. One girl does it because all the other girls in her set do. If it were possible to show these girls how prettier they would look with natural color the use of rouge and powder would cease."

Elsie M. Smithies, assistant principal of the University High School of Chicago, alarmed by the manner in which the daring dress has seized upon her students, issued the following ultimatum:

No lip sticks, rouge or eyebrow darkener.

No conspicuous combs, but simple hair arrangement.

No transparent waists.

No high-heeled shoes.

Middies or plain waists and woolen or cotton dresses must be worn.

Full skirts, devoid of conspicuous trimming.

Low-heeled oxfords or high shoes with low heels must be the footgear.

Dean Jane C. Byrd of the Santa Barbara High School, California, has taken a similar step, quite as sweeping. She has forbidden rouge, high heels, peek-a-boo waists, dazzling jewelry and abbreviated skirts.

"Let's get back to cotton stockings and simple one-piece serge dresses and middy blouses," is the cry of the Silver Star Legion of the schools of Toledo, Ohio, a "sensible dress" organization approved by Schools Superintendent William Guitteau.

At Shelbyville, Ind., the high school pupils have been given notice that they will be suspended if they roll down their stockings from above the knee or wear "indecent sweaters," peek-a-boo waists or hair in great rolls.

Freshmen at Wesleyan College, in Georgia, have been told that they must discard the ultra styles and conform to more conservative patterns. They are up in arms about it. At Hood College, Frederick City, Md., Dean Helen Price has given notice that low necks and sleeveless gowns are tabooed for the future.

"All evening dresses," says Miss Price, "must be shown before they are worn. If they do not meet requirements alterations must be made."

What is the result of this near-nudity on the minds of the girls? Miss Celestine L. Schmit, professor of economics at the University of Wisconsin, says:

"Girls of today are plunging headlong into extravagance. When they should be home sewing they are out cabareting. We do not see any sewing in the American home of today."

They are having their troubles in a similar vein over in England. The girl students at Oxford, among whom are many American girls, have been forbidden to hold any more public dances. They are limited to private ones. It is said that the dresses worn by the girls had much to do with this stern order.

At Cardiff, Wales, Father Joseph Parlin at high mass in St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church, issued the following warning:

"If any immodestly dressed woman approaches the altar for holy communion, I shall refuse to allow her to partake of the sacrament, passing her by as if she did not exist."

What One Professor Did!

The dress reformers realize that the craze for displaying legs and affecting peek-a-boo waists and mocking the peachbloom with cosmetics, is firmly rooted and will be pretty hard to root out. Who says so? Prof. Oscar M. Heath, for one. Prof. Heath taught English in the schools of Chicago for thirty years. Recently he quit and began opening beauty parlors. He was so successful that he could not open them up fast enough to accommodate the rush. But just read what he says about the college and high school girl:

"I found," said he, "that it is the outside of their heads, not the inside, that women want to have fixed!"

Don't think for a moment that Prof. Heath is alone in this opinion. He has plenty of company! Only, they are too cautious to give expression to such thoughts. Listen to what a teacher of the girls says about it. An editorial was published in a Californian newspaper charging that girls in the University of California actually "vamp" their way through college by using the wiles of beauty on their instructors.

"It is quite natural for an instructor to be influenced by a pleasing appearance and personality," Prof. Warner Brown of the Department of Psychology concedes.

Then there is former United States Senator Chauncey M. Depew, who takes his 86 years quite blithely. He always had an eye for beauty. And this is what he observes about modern fashions:

"Women wear fine clothes because the men like to see them. The men are partly to blame for this extravagance. The responsibility, if responsibility you call it, is about equally divided between the men and the women. You know, none of us cares to see a woman in homespun; and if a man can afford it he always likes to see his wife in a new bonnet. If they do wear silks and other costly things, that helps industry and is a good thing."

Three Members of the Senior Grade at Teachers' College, Columbia University, Wearing the Officially Approved Hats, Suits and Shoes for High School Girls and Young Business Women, Which Are to Take the Place of the Present Extremes in Fashion.

The Athletic Type of High School Girl Who, It Is Proposed, Will Supplant the Fashion-Plate Student in Popular Favor.

INDIANS RESPECT MOUNTED POLICE.

Bravado Vanishes When Mountie Appears.

VANCOUVER, Aug. 5.—The Indians' respect for the Mounted Police was again demonstrated a few days ago, when George Williams, an Indian fugitive, suspected of murder, drew his gun on a Provincial police inspector, but promptly dropped his weapon when a red coat appeared behind. Williams heard that a warrant was out for his arrest and took to the woods, leaving a message at his village that he would shoot Provincial Constable Matthews on sight.

Brought to bay in the woods, 125 miles from here, Williams prepared to carry out his threat, but was instantly cowed when a mounted policeman stepped into the clearing.

Williams will be brought to Vancouver by motor launch for trial, charged with the murder of another Indian.

SINN FEIN AND ULSTER ENVOYS ARE MEETING?

LIEUTENANTS OF CRAIG AND VALERA REPORTED TO BE ARRANGING FOR CONFERENCE OF LEADERS OF TWO FACTIONS.

SERIOUS SITUATION FEARED FOR MONDAY

LONDON, Aug. 6.— (By United Press.)—Lieutenants of De Valera and Sir James Craig were reported in conference to-day, blazing the trail for direct negotiations between the Sinn Fein and Ulster leaders.

These interemediaries were supposed to be working to bring about the long postponed meeting between De Valera and Sir James.

Outlining the present status of peace negotiations, the Daily News o-day stated De Valera now was confronted with the problem of obtaining an agreement with Ulster for peace.

Serious developments were feared for Monday, when the government control over the Irish railways ends. The railway workers are faced with wage reductions, although they demand continuance of the present scale.

De Valera has appealed to Labor throughout the Isle, but it is said he is strongly opposed to a continuation of the recent arrangement. This, it was feaed, might provoke a break between De Valera and the wage workers.

The attitude of Uister puzzled the British press and diplomats to-day. Editorially commenting on the "mystery" the Chronicle stated Ulster had taken a stand that could not be modified under existing conditions. "They wish to wait and see how the south of Ireland governs itself before sacrificing their position in the Empire," the Chronicle said.

Hugh Martin, Irish correspondent of the News, outlined the peace development as obtained from "reliable sources," as follows:

"De Valera returned to Ireland with three immediate tasks, firstly examination with the Dail Eirrean Cabinet of the Bitish Cabinet's memorandum. Secondly, the discovery of the point of view of the majority, and thirdly, presentation to the Irish Parliament of the results of his English visit together with recommendations for entering or declining to enter the conference. The first chapter ended favorably for peace and the English peace memorandum was found sufficiently acceptable to form the basis for further discussion.

"The second ended less favorably. In order to avoid the chance of another public refusal to confer, indirect approaches were made to Ulster with the suggestion that Belfast be an acceptable meeting place, Sir James Craig, however, already severely handled by his followers for meeting De Valera, was forced to write his refusal to meet De Valera anywhere in Ireland. He agreed to London as a meeting place.

"As a result of these hitches in the main plan the British government itself has looked upon Ulster's feeling as depressing and exasperating. Ulster unquestionably will refuse to co-operate with Federal Ireland on the ground that it won't and cannot be driven from the United Kingdom.

"The third chapter leads up to the critical stage. A meeting of the Sinn Fein parliament will be held August 16, at which some definite action will be taken."

CHOLERA DEATH WAVE SWEEPING NEW DISTRICTS

150,000 DIE IN TWO TOWNS IN TWO MONTHS AND TERROR REIGNS AS LOOTING GANGS FOLLOW FLEEING REFUGEES.

SOVIETS MAY SEEK AID OF RED CROSS

REVAL, Aug. 6.—By United Press).—The cholera death wave is sweeping five new Russian districts taking a heavy toll of lives.

The epidemic has invaded Podolia, Vologda, Kieff, Tver, and Smolessk making twenty four provinces in all now affected.

One hundred and fifty thousand victims were reported to have died in two towns in two months. Fifty two thousand were children. A description of the terror following the deaths was contained in despatches received here. Gangs of looters followed the trail of burning homes which were fired by the occupants when they deserted them. Armed bands entered the homes of those who might be suspected of having food and stole anything they could find.

A band of fugitives approached Moscow and was refused entrance. One report stated cordons of troops with poison gas surrounded them and drove them back.

Arrangements were being made to day for the departure from Russia of the new commission headed by Gorky, and Kinshuk, president of the cooperative association, and Tsipevrovich, labor leader. They will negotiate relief work abroad. Their tentative plans included a visit to Riga first, then to London and Berlin. It was believed they might attend the Red Cross Conference which has been called at Geneva, August 15. The Red Cross at that time will take up the famine situation and discuss relief measures.

It was not considered improbable here that the Soviet Commission might escort the American prisoners to Riga, where the Soviet Government has announced they will be set free.

An official communique stated troops were not being mobilized in Moscow. It was reported that the Petrograd district had a harvest of about the normal size. It was also stated six German vessels filled with foodstuffs were arriving each week.

AFTER NINE YEARS IN BUSINESS

P. BLACK FORCED TO ENLARGE AND REMODEL HIS STORE.

When Mr. P. Black came to Peterborough nine years ago and commenced business down at the corner of King and George streets, it did not look like a very promising undertaking. Nine years ago the mercantile business done in that section of George street was comparatively small. The store on the corner of King street, which Mr. Black rented, had been unoccupied for some time, and the prospects for a new business to open up was by no means very encouraging.

To-day Mr. Black is glad to be able to meet old friends and customers by the hundreds, to whom he has been extending the same courteous service and attention they receives from him since the day he opened this same shop, nine years ago.

Mr. Black started with a small stock, but with small expenses because his capital was small. Slowly at first, the business kept going; but year by year there was an improvement, until Mr. Black was encouraged to keep on, to increase his stock and to improve his store. He bought very carefully, and with the valuable assistance of his wife, plodded along without extra help, selling his goods on very close margins.

To-day, Mr. Black is compelled to enlarge his store, as he has been crowded for room for several years past. The contract has been let for remodelling and enlarging his store, so that the different departments may be put in a more efficient and systematic order. To accomplish these improvements, much of the stock which is in the way of the carpenters must be sold and cleared out of the way as quickly as possible. That is the reason why Mr. Black has been forced to start a Compulsory Alteration Sale Tomorrow morning, the particulars of which may be read in his large advertisement on another part of this paper.

Farrar is Sued For Separation

FAMOUS GRAND OPERA STAR ALLEGED TO HAVE LOCKED HUSBAND TELLEGEN OUT FOR GOOD

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

NEW YORK, August 6. — Lou Tellegen, who is reported to be suing for separation from Geraldine Farrar, famous Metropolitan Opera singer, was barricaded behind a wall of bellboys, bouncers, and house detectives at the Hotel Ritz Carlton to-day.

"Mr. Tellegen says, 'Please go away and let me sleep,'" was the gist of the message from the besieged actor's bed chamber.

As for the beautiful Geraldine, she was also in a state of siege at her residence on Seventy-fourth Street. Nobody could get in, not even husband Tellegen. In fact, Tellegen alleges that his wife went so far as to change the locks on the front door so his faithful latchkey wouldn't work.

Many of the details of the crash of the Farrar-Tellegen romance were still enveloped in mystery to-day. It appeared, however, that both parties were contemplating separation actions.

Tellegen's complaint is said to be that his wife, in the capricious manner of a Carmen, which part she has sung so often on the Metropolitan stage, locked the doors against him, and notified him, through her lawyers, to tell her where she could ship his clothes.

This ultimatum about his wardrobe reached Tellegen, it was reported, while he was on a fishing trip at Long Beach, N.Y. He hurried back to town, but the blinds of the Seventy-fourth Street house were drawn, the door was bolted and barred, and there was no response to his ringings and poundings.

Following this, according to Tellegen's attorney, papers were served on Geraldine Farrar in notification of a separation suit, charging desertion. Farrar's secretary, however, says she is out of town.

U.S. DRAFTING PRINCIPLES OF PACIFIC PEACE

RECOGNITION OF "OPEN DOOR" AND SAFEGUARDING INTEGRITY OF CHINA AND RUSSIA ARE URGED.

BASIS OF AGENDA FOR COMING CONFERENCE

BY A. L. BRADFORD,
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.— The United States government to-day was apparently basing its program for the Pacific discussions in the coming Washington Disarmament conference on three cardinals principles. These are:—

1. — The recognition and firm establishment of the "open door", in the Pacific and Far East.

2.—The protection and maintainence of the integrity, political and territorial, of China.

3.—The safeguarding of the integrity of Russia, which principally involves Siberia.

These principles also are understood to be Secretary of State Hughes' guide in negotiating with other powers, principally Japan and Great Britain, to define the agenda for the Pacific discussion. The agenda is an outline of what shall be discussed. The determination of the agenda is the most important work remaining before the actual opening of the conference, since the date for the opening, Novembr 11, has been practically agreed upon and the formal call for the conference will be issued shortly.

A 500-pound steer brought $7.46, a 110-pound sheep $3.85, a 100-pound sheep brought $3.50, a 50-pound lamb $5.25, another 50-pound lamb $3. While a veal calf weighing 120 pounds brought $4.75. PRAYING MANTIS NOT NEW INSECT

The "praying mantis" or "mule killer reported yesterday as a new insect in Victoria County, has been found in the vicinity of Kingston for at least five years, according to W. J. Saunders, principal of the Collegiate Institute of that city. He identified a specimen for a pupil of the institute in 1916.

Another specimen was handed in with the pupils' collections in 1918. A third specimen has been received at the Institute this summer.

It is possible that it has been introduced in Ontario in the egg stage, on nursery stock, as this is the way in which it is supposed to have been introduced into the United States from Europe and Japan.

PROPOSE CHAMPLAIN FETE HERE NEXT YEAR ON LARGE SCALE TO ADVERTISE THE TRENT DISTRICT

TRENT WATERWAYS ASSOCIATION CONSIDERING SERIES OF PAGEANTS ON TRENT SYSTEM TO COMMEMORATE CHAMPLAIN'S VOYAGE.

"OLD HOME WEEK" HERE COINCIDENT WITH IT

Yesterday afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce rooms a meeting of the executive of the Trent Waterway Development Association opened with the publicity and advertising of the district the most important matter for discussion. President Gordon K. Fraser presided with the following members at the meeting: Senator W. H. Bennett of Midland, honorary president; F. D. Kerr, K. C., 1st vice-president, J. B. Hanly, Midland, Reeve Moore, Bobcaygeon, Ald. J. J. Turner, Peterborough, Reeve J. C. Strickland, Lakefield, Messrs. Hale and Ball of Orillia.

Celebrate Next Year.

An interesting suggestion has been made to Senator W. H. Bennett by R. F. Choate, of McCracken's Landing to advertise the Trent district next year and at the same time commemorate a historical event in Canadian history. The suggestion is that a Champlain fete be held similar to the affair at Penetang this week. Symbolical scenes would be arranged and a true representation of the scenes of four hundred years ago made. It is suggested that this fete might be combined with an "Old Home Week" or "Old Boys' Reunion." After the presentation at Peterborough the entire fleet of canoes and craft which would participate could move on to Orillia for a week and thence on to Midland. Mr. Choate's suggestion was favourably commended.

Erect a Monument.

"Orillia is having a monument erected to Champlain. It is being built in England. I cannot say whether it will be finished next year or not, but if it is it could be erected then. I am told it is bigger than the one at Quebec," stated an Orillia delegate.

"That is what we want," said President Fraser. "It would work in with the other fine."

Senator Bennett was enthusiastic over the idea, and speaking for Midland he said they were ready to fall heartily in line with such a pageant. It was decided to wait till December to reach a definite conclusion. In the meantime Ald. Turner will endeavour to revive the idea of an Old Boys' Re-union next summer and will bring the mater up in Council. On the decision of this city, the executive will consider the mater further at the December meeting here.

Advertise District.

R. F. Choate, representing J. J. Gibbons' Advertising Agency, Toronto, interviewed the executive with regard to advertising in various Canadian publications and newspapers. After considerable discussion on the advertising programme of the association the mater of this advertising, which could not be used till next summer, was left in abeyance till the autumn meeting. Senator Bennett's advice was to "stick with" the American publications in which the district has been prominently advertised to advantage. He thought that advertisements in Canadian journals would not net results like they were now getting from American magazines, which are read by motor boat owners from the Pacific to the Atlantic and Maine to Florida. "Get the Americans," he advised. "We're getting the class of people up there we want," said Midland's senator. "It's the advertising that's doing it," declared the President. F. D. Kerr pointed out that the Americans are re-discovering these lakes and rivers for the Canadians who have known they were here, but have never appreciated them. A big influx of Americans is the best Canadian advertising possible.

Exhibit at New York.

As was done a couple of years ago the Association will ask the government to have a representative at the New York Motor Boat show in February next to arrange an exhibit for the association and will also ask the Department of Trade and Commerce to show there the films of the canal and in connection with these distribute pamphlets describing the canal and illustrating it. It was on Ald. Turner's motion that the request to the Department will be made for their co-operation with the association to this extent. Ald. Turner, with the President, Secretary and Mr. F. D. Kerr, K.C., was appointed a committee to prepare the advertising copy for the pamphlet before the next meeting.

Speeding at Orillia.

At the meeting yesterday Ald. Turner said he always believed that if speed boat trials could be held at Orillia it would be the finest way to attract attention to the Trent waterways. The trials might be held next year in the connection with the proposed Champlain anniversary and be a further drawing card. At Orillia he stated there was a good stretch of water suitable for speeding. He had in mind that Peterborough and other municipailties along the Trent would contribute to the prizes, as all were interested in advertising the stretch of waterway and this would be one of the best ways. The President commended the suggestion and he promised to interview some of the fast boat owners in Toronto and see what they thought of such a plan. The speed craft are all at Chicago now, he said; from there they go to Buffalo, to Detroit and then to Toronto. It would be a good idea he thought to feature races between a fast boat and a hydro-aeroplane; this he believed would attract thousands. The question arose, however, how these boats would come up the canal. The speed limit of the canal is 6 miles per hour, and as none of these craft, according to President Fraser, can be throttled down any below 18 miles an hour, there were difficulties ahead. The President said the boats would have to be shipped. It would be impossible for them to travel through the canal. Their minimum speed would be 18 or 20 miles an hour and they had no revrse gears, which would be necessary for navigating the river and canal waters. It would be practicable to ship them, he said, and he felt sure that some of the speedsters would consent to enter if the trials were arranged so as not to conflict with the big races which they all attend.

The Future.

Optimism for the future of the Trent waterway was radiated by the President. Because of the favourable exchange situation, Americans were pouring into Canada, he said, and the American resorts were practically deserted. With their money at a premium of 15 to 17 per cent. they were crowding all the Canadian resorts. All along the American shore, at Alexander Bay and Clayton, the season was practically dead, while business in the Thousand Islands was booming and our own Kawartha Lakes are filled with tourists, most of whom have motored over. That there is a slack summer at Alexander Bay is evident, he declared from the way pilots are scampering after jobs. One is followed about by a veritable drove of them, but over on the Canadian side the situation is quite the reverse. Last year the Yankees were very busy, but not this year. They have found that there high money has been a boomerang.

Want Railways Enlarged.

The association went on record as favouring enlarging the marine railways above Washago to carry 50-foot boats. At present these will only handle 35 foot craft, and for an inconsiderable expenditure the railways can be made to carry the larger boats it was stated. Complaints that the C.N.R. bridge at Trenton is too slow in opening for the boats were made. It was stated that five or seven men are required to open the bridge and that there does not appear to be much system about the watchingof it. It was stated that the "Gradawa" had to wait half-an-hour to get through on Sunday and nine men were required to open the structure. Senator Bennett advised the secretary to write A. L. Killaly, Superintendent of the Trent Canal, in regard to the matter.

Increase Membership.

An aggressive membership policy was decided upon yesterday. Membership of a municipality or organization in the Association costs $10, and individual memberships are $5. Theer are not many of the latter and the present members are going after new blood. Ald. Turner guaranteed five new members. Among hotel proprietors, canoe builders and those business men who benefit mostly from the summer trade the association will seek its material and before the next meeting the rostrum is expected to be filled up.

From Muskoka to Toronto.

Secretary Fraser told the executive of the unusual cruise of a 25-foot launch belonging to J. G. Graham of Toronto. Not being content with Muskoka waters, and wanting to go around home in his boat, Mr. Graham transfered his boat by rail from Gravenhurst to the Severn River to go down the Trent to Lake Ontario. On Tuesday he passed through Peterborough.

In Guide Book.

The prominence given the Trent Waterways in Frederick Smily's Summer Resort Guide this year was noted by the members and remarked upon. Smily's Guide covers the entire Dominion and contains information on all the resorts and the whole chain of lakes and rivers that twine from Trenton to Georgian Bay, came in for special mention.

BUSINESS BOOM SOON, PREDICTS U.S. OFFICIAL

RESUMPTION OF PRICE ADVANCES POINTED OUT AS SIGN BY WAR FINANCE CORPORATION HEAD.

URGES MERCHANTS TO BUY LARGER STOCKS

BY RALPH F. COUCH
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—"Business is going to boom soop," Eugene Meyer told the United Press to-day.

Meyer is head of the War Finance Corporation, the clearing house through which the adiminstration hopes to straighten business affairs for the march to normalcy.

"If you stand on the fringe of the woods," he said, "you can see a business man burst his way out every little while. For a minute he looks around as if dazed. Then he gives a shout of triumph and dashes off in a bee line toward the open ground of profits and prosperity.

Prosperity Factors.

prices are more firm. Congress is about to take action on tax revision. Prices of many commodities have hit bottom long since and now are on the upgrade. Cotton, for instance, advanced $5 a bale the other day. It is true the price again that all prices are becoming more and more stabilized.

"Perhaps the biggest single factor which now would contribute towards a return to prosperity would be the resumption by dealers and manufacturers, jobbers and wholesalers, of the custom of carrying substantial stocks of commodities to meet the normal neds of the public. Stocks are now being carried on a hand to mouth basis. Merchants and business men are afraid to buy because they fear prices will drop."

AIR BOARD IS TO ENCOURAGE LOCAL EFFORT

FAVORS DEVELOPING AVIATION BY INDIRECT ASSISTANCE TO INDIVIDUAL ENTERPRISE.

NO AIR SERVICE TO BE DIRECTLY SUBSIDIZED

OTTAWA, August 6.—(Canadian Press).—Steps proposed by the Government of Canada for encouragement of the development of aviation in the Dominion, are outlined in a report on development issued by the Secretary of the Air Board, the body which has control of aircraft flying in all parts of the Dominion.

"The view of the Canadian Government," says the report, "has been that commercial aviation can for the present be best encouraged and developed by administrative assistance and the provision and improvement, where necessary, of ground equipment, not, however, including terminal air harbors serving urban centres. There is a probability that as time goes on, so many of these may be required, that for the Government to undertake the provision of some of them, would have the effect of stifling local effort and thus hinder rather than advance general development."

The policy of the Government, through the Air Board, for the development of civil flying, is set forth as follows:

1. The regulation of civil flying, the inspection and registration of machines, certification of personnel, and the inspection and licensing of air harbors, on the principles laid down by the convention for International Air Navigation.

2. The establishment of a technical branch under the Air Board, the services of which are freely placed at the disposal of promoters of air undertakings.

3. The survey of air ruutes and the provision on recognized air routes of emergency landing grounds where necessary, between urban centres along any route.

4. The establishment of an operations branch which confines itself to the carrying out of such flying operations with heavier-than-air machines as are required for the various departments of government in relation to forests, fisheries, surveys, customs, etc., and to scientific experimental work.

5. The loan of airships and lighter-than-air equipment to commercial companies.

The Canadian Government, the statement points out, has not undertaken to subsidize directly any commercial air service. The view taken has been that such services were not at present likely to be profitable in Canada if operated independently of the existing railway and steamboat companies. The railway and steamboat connections between large centres in Canada are efficient and an air competition, if it involved the maintenance of expensive administrative and auxiliary departments, has been thought likely to be unprofitable. Existing transportation companies have, on the other hand, not shown any desire to establish their own air services. There is, moreover, an independent field for air operations in the sparsely settled and undeveloped portions of Canada in which at present communications are inadequate. Exploration and communication services by aircraft in these areas depend chiefly upon their timber, mining or like enterprises, which, if adequately financed, can, with the assistance of the Technical and Operating Branches of the Air Board, operate advantageously and profitably. Such individual interests do not, however, justify direct assistance on public grounds.

LINDSAY, Ont., Aug. 6.—Another victim was added to the list of drownings when Miss Mary Brown, 17 years of age, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Len Brown, of Toronto, formerly of Kinmount, lost her life while bathing in Burnt River at Kinmount on Tuesday last. The accident occured about a mile below the vilage when she and some girl friends were enjoying a swim prior to their departure for Toronto. Heart trouble is thought to have ben the cause of death, as the body was in the water a few minutes only and never sank below the surface.

MOORS MASSACRE LAST REMNANT OF SPANISH DEFENDERS AT NADOR

THEN LOOT TOWN AND DEMOLISH CHURCH.

MADRID, Aug. 6. — (Canadian Press.)—Twenty Spanish soldiers, the last remnant of the Spanish troops to resist the capture of the town of Nador, 15 miles south of Melilla, were massacred by Moors after having surendered, according to advices received here to-day from Melilla.

The massacred Spanish troops had held out for eleven days against great odds, the despatch said, taking refuge in a church, and finally in a mill. They surrendered, it was said, only after the attacking tribesmen had offered to spare their lives. The Moors, after entering the town, ransacked the houses and demolished the church.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 6, 1921.

NO CELEBRATION NEEDED.

The official opening of the Hunter Street Bridge, scheduled for Civic Holiday morning, has been indefinitely postponed, and so far as The Examiner has been able to learn, there is no indication of deep mourning on the part of the public that the ceremonies are not to take place as announced. Somehow the ratepayers have not been able to see any reason for celebrating the opening of the structure, and while the presence of a band and of a Federal Minister might have attracted the usual crowd of curious spectators, there would not have been any noticeable undercurrent of rejoicing in the assembly. The bridge is there and will have to be paid for, and to that extent the citizens are reconciled to the situation; but they—or most of them—ask to be excused from any demonstrations in connection with the opening of the structure.

A NOVEL PLAN.

No sooner had the British Government announced the appointment of a committee of business men, headed by Sir Eric Geddes, to advise the Government on the reduction of national expenditures than the majority of the newspapers hastened to pick the scheme to pieces.

Usually when a business man is in difficulties he calls in experts to help him, but apparently the British press do not approve of a Government adopting a similar plan. Objections are made that the scheme would change the method of Government, place outsiders in possession of confidential information of State affairs, and that the committee could not be given anything but unconstitutional powers, and therefore would be of little use. And yet there are many things to be said in favour of the proposal for a committee of the proper calibre should be of most valuable assistance in an advisory capacity. No Government should be above advice, and for that reason the Lloyd-George plan commends itself to many people.

A CHAMPLAIN CELEBRATION.

The success of the tercentary celebration at Penetanguishene this week gives weight to the suggestion made to the Trent Waterway Association that a series of Champlain pageants should be held at different points along the Trent Canal next summer to commemorate the passage through the waters which we now call the Trent system, of the great explorer. It is proposed that at Peterborough, Orillia, Barrie, Midland and perhaps several other points, historical pageants shall be staged and a programme worthy of the occasion arranged. In Peteborough it is hoped to make the Champlain celebration coincident with an Old Home week that will bring Peterborough old boys and girls from far and near back to their home city to participate in the historic event. The scheme of course is only in a tentative stage, but there seems no reason why it could not be carried through to a triumphal success. A series of pageants such as is proposed would bring thousands of visitors to the Trent waterway, and the publicity that would ensue as a result of the celebration would be invaluable.

A SIGN OF THE TIMES.

The decision of the Provincial Hydro Commission to reduce the scale of wages for labourers employed on the Chippawa Hydro-Electric development scheme from 50 cents to 40 cents an hour is an indication of the gradual return of normal conditions, and the verdict of the general public doubtless will be that the 4,000 men affected would be well advised to accept the cut cheerfully. For the same class of work labourers in the United States are being paid 35 cents an hour, and under the circumstances the paying of 15 cents an hour over that scale would be an unjustifiable waste of public funds. The 10 per cent. reduction on the Hydro scheme would effect a gain for the people of over $20,000 a week, and a considerable saving in the carrying out of the Chippawa project will be brought about by the new scale. Wage reductions in many lines of work are inevitable with the drop in the cost of living, and the sooner this fact is recognised generally, the sooner will a pre-war condition of affairs be reached. The Chippawa cut is just a sign of the times.

SOME INTERESTING STATISTICS.

The statement made recently by a contemporary that "nobody ever goes through the Trent Canal in a boat," inspired the Packet to look up canal statistics, and what was discovered by doing so was, we confess, a surprise to us, as we have no doubt it will be to most of our readers. The latest volume at hand is the Canada Year Book for 1918, which gives the statistics up to the close of 1917. From this we learn that in 1917 more passengers passed through the Trent Canal than through the St. Lawrence canals, the figures being 93,599 for the Trent against 81,249 for the St. Lawrence. To be sure most of the passenger traffic on the St. Lawrence canals is one way, but the comparison with the uncompleted Trent Waterway is nevertheless interesting. All the other canals in Canada together had only 70,071 passengers. Nearly 40 per cent. of all the passengers carried through all the canals in Canada were on the Trent system. It may be said that the passengers on the Trent were chiefly tourists, but this is true to a large extent of the St. Lawrence and of the other canals also. And these figures do not include the Severn section of the Waterway, which was not in operation in 1917, but which has since become the busiest portion of the whole system. Nor was 1917 unusually busy, for in the previous year the number of passengers carried through the Canal was 104,736, or more than 25 per cent. greater than the traffic on the St. Lawrence canals, which was 81,623 passengers.

When this is the case with an uncompleted canal, it is a safe prediction that within a year or two after the Waterway is open for its entire length, more than half the passenger traffic on the canals of Canada will be along the Trent. In fact, it is probable that if the Severn section were counted, this is already the case. The development along the Severn River during the past few years has been astonishing, and there is every indication that the northern end of the Waterway will at least have as much traffic as any other. If the figures were available it would probably be found that there are more lockages at Port Severn than through any other lock in the Dominion. The number runs from 50 to 75 in a day, and upwards of 5,000 craft were put through last year.

So much for the assertion that "nobody goes in boats through the Trent Waterway." The same journal made the further statement that the total value of all the vessels that went throuhg the Trent Canal in a year, together with their cargoes, would not pay interest and operating charges on the Canal. The official statistics show that in the same seven years, from 1911 to 1917 inclusive, an average of 3,624 vessels a year passed through the locks of the Trent Canal. This is nearly half the total number of Canadian vessels going through the St. Lawrence canals. To be sure the tonnage was not great, but it averaged 182,685 tons per annum. Valuing those at $250.00 a ton (a very low estimate for such craft) it would represent nearly three times the total capital expenditure on the whole Trent system since construction was begun by the British Government 90 years ago, which total, up to the end of 1917, amounted to $16,239,384. To hear some people talk you would think that hundreds of millions had been spent on the Trent. During the same seven years the freight carried through the Canal averaged 57,398 tons per annum. This is not a large amount, but is by no means contemptible, and if valued at $30.00 a ton, represents over a million and a half dollars. Considering that the northern end of the Waterway is not yet open, and the freight traffic is therefore purely local, these figures do not bear out the contention that it will be entirely without commercial value. These statistics as to number and tonnage of vessels and freight also are without the Severn section, which would more than double the number, if not the tonnage, of the vessels locked through.

These figures go to justify the faith of those who, having studied its possibilities, believe that the Trent Waterway is destined to develop into the greatest summer resort region in all Canada. On this basis alone, the expenditure upon its construction will be fully justified. But there is every reason to hope that it will also be of considerable commercial use and advantage. — Orillia Packet.

"Yes," the other replied gloomily, "a country without a man."

Chalmers Owners Know Its Wonderful Value

Chalmers owners know that they drive a wonderful car. They do not hesitate to say so.

They have found that its remarkable performance is accomplished at exceedingly economical upkeep charges.

Repair Costs Low

These are held down by the infrequency of extensive repairs and replacements. The Chalmers stays out of the repair shop longer and renders steady, reliable service.

This makes its value greater and adds to the owner's enthusiasm.

The exceptional performance of the wonderful Chalmers motor is aided by pre-heating the fuel mixture with the hot-spot.

Fine Motor Performance

As a result, more power is obtained from less fuel. Combustion is better. The explosions are more powerful. Acceleration is faster. Carbon is reduced.

But it is not the fine motor performance alone that pleases our owners.

They also place high value on the beauty of the Chalmers and its marked comfort and convenience.

You should know the superiority of the Chalmers in order to buy a car wisely. You can learn that superiority in a Chalmers demonstration.

The "Y" Camp Secures a Mascot

The "Y" camp at Stoney Lake is quite complete now, for they have a mascot. It is a small black kitten, and its name is "Nigger." What with the melancholy bull-frog and the groundhog who is so fond of flowers that he ate up all the geraniums in the rockery, the visiting dogs who swim across the lake every little while to see the campers and the chipmunks, the menagerie is now quite complete. The chipmunks are the most constant inmates of all. They come and investigate things at dinner time and one is liable to see a small brown tail whisking along the baseboard at any moment. The smallest of holes in the screen door affords entrance for these tiny striped creatures. On one occasion, a member of the tribe captured a soda biscuit and tried to take it along with him, but the hole wasn't large enough, and after many vain attempts to get it out, he gave up in despair. A ghostly series of thumps one particularly dark night materialized next morning into a nocturnal visit from a chipmunk. He had captured a potato in some way, which fell loudly from the shelf, but was unable to get it any farther than the screen door, where it was discovered next morning. But on the occasions of outdoor meals is where the chipmunks shine. Then they scamper back and forth looking for morsels and will come up to within a few feet of the feasters, sitting with their bushy tails erect and their tiny brown eyes snapping brightly.

The United Farm Young People Meet Once a Month in Peterboro

The Peterborough branch of the United Farm Young People of Ontario, who meet once a month in the rest-room on Simcoe street, is quite a thriving little society. A new system, which has been inaugurated at recent meetings, is to call the roll and each person who responds gives a short address on some current event. The last meeting, on Tuesday evening, included talks on the following subjects: "Disarmament of Nations and the Pacific Question," "The Indian Situation," "New Suggestions for Marketing Grain," "Fall Fairs," etc.

A club paper, which is composed of contributions sent the editor by the members of the society and read at the meetings, is another innovation. Bright, snappy, amusing and educative articles are received in this way. In the latter class was a small article, read on Tuesday evening, entitled, "Marketing Our Export Grain," which pointed out Canada's loss in shipping by sending over half our grain to Europe through American ports, and urged that Canadian wheat, to be shipped in the form of flour, be milled in Canada rather than in the United States, thereby eliminating the danger of adulteration with soft American wheat and also helping to relieve the unemployment problem in Canada.

Entertaining debates are also a feature of these meetings, when all sorts of arguments are heard from both stoutly-contested sides, and opinions are given on such subjects as the use or abuse of rural schools as practice schools for teathers in training at the Normal and the County Livestock Judging Courses.

The following programme has been arranged for the September meeting, which will be held on Tuesday, September 6th:

1.—Response to roll call with current events.
2.—Reading of the club paper, to which members are again asked to contribute.
3.—Debate: Resolved, that it would be better for a farmer to spend $600 in a farm lighting and heating plant than in a car, with Messrs. Earl Petrie and Jim Webber taking the affirmative and Mr. Archie Bulmer and partner the negative.
4.—Recitation.
5.—Paper on "The Tariff as It Affects the Young Man Just Starting Farming," by Mr. S. Blewett.
6.—Corn roast. The boys will supply the corn and the girls the sandwiches, butter, etc.
7.—Game, to be arranged by Mrs. W. R. Shields, honorary leader.

Teachers Meet

The third meeting of the Imperial Conference of Teachers' Associations will take place in Toronto next week, from August 10th to 13th, inclusive, at Convocation Hall, University of Toronto. Each educational association (teachers', trustees', or general) of Dominion or Provincial scope will be entitled to two official delegates and all Canadian teachers of trustees will be welcomed as unofficial delegates to the conference.

There will be nine general sessions of the conference, in addition to which will be receptions, garden parties, drives about the city, luncheons and trips to Niagara Falls and the Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph.

In the nine sessions five main topics will be discussed—civics and education, imperial co-operation in education, Canadian education, vocational training, health and education—with a short session devoted to the discussion of music. Four out of the nine sessions are given to the principal topic, which appears to be vocational training, and this subject will be considered from many different angles—the correlation of the work of the school with the activities of life, rural and urban problems, such as agriculture, horticulture, school gardens, school fairs; commercial work, domestic science and art, home gardens and the beautifying of the city; continuation classes; and the organized movement to direct the young people into the lines of activities and occupations for which they are specially qualified.

This conference, which will be held under the auspices of the League of the Empire, associated with the Overseas Club and Patriotic League, will be attended by teachers from many parts of the Empire who have been working in connection with the Interchange Teachers' Scheme.

East City Social

Among the special attractions in connection with the social to be held at the Riverside Park grounds next Thursday, August 11th, under the auspices of the Immaculate Conception Church, East City, will be a real live calf, which has been presented as one of the prizes. There will also be 250 lbs. flour in 25-lb. sacks, which has been kindly donated by the various mills of the city; sides of bacon, baskets of fruit, dresses, rompers, fancy and useful articles of all sorts to be won on the wheel of fortune.

Real home-made cooking in pies and cakes of great varieties, home-made candy, booths for the sale of ice cream and soft drinks, a buffet lunch counter, and sports of all sorts, with races for children, young people and fathers and mothers of families, are promised to aid in a general good time.

Fall Blouses

The sleeves are the important consideration in the new fall blouses. They are to be long, wide and inclined to spread over the hand. Shoulder caps have served their day and now the long sleeve is back again, where high-class goods for day-time wear are under consideration. The style of the sleeve has much to do with the success of the blouse or waist of any kind, and it is in connection with it that Fashion rings in more changes that on any other part of the garment. The new sleeve is wide as well as long and is allowed to spread at the bottom or has its fullness confined by a cuff at the wrist. These new sleeves are mostly set in as is usually the case when sleeves are full length.

Another new and interesting feature of the fall blouses is the high collar with open buttonless front, the edges of which just meet, and with the movement of the body fall slightly apart and reveal ever so little of the exquisite lingerie back of it. The high collar must, however, have some kind of a fastening, so it has tiny buttons under the chin, which are quite as ornamental as they are useful.

Over-the-skirt tie-ons are taken without question and the really good-looking ones are cut just a little longer so that the bottom of the waist, before it is banded, extends to the bottom of the skirt belt, or where the skirt belt would be if there was one, and they tie on just as they did in the summer. One finds some very handsome conventional embroidery designs used on these blouses, which are of satin with little mock jewels set in the spaces left for them. These blouses spell smartness in every line and are sure to be approved of by the buyer. Women's Wear.

"Small Talk"

A clever woman writer, discoursing on the subject of "Small Talk," says:

The man who is a failure at small talk never quite hears what the girl he is talking to has to say. He is trying to think what he is going to say next, so, of course, he cannot fail to misunderstand what the girl he is talking to says. He is heedless, abstracted, worried and has a way of listening to the conversation of others rather than to those at hand.

The girl whom men regard as a good talker is always ready with a laugh and the girl who laughs well is always popular. One can excuse the girl who giggles if she giggles in a way that makes others merry and seems to tell those with whom she talks that they are entertaining her immensely, that their stories are deliciously funny—and that on the whole she is enjoying herself and her companions enormously.

"How should a man start the conversation at a dance?" is a frequent query. There are a thousand ways and almost any way is a good way providing it is prompt and whole minutes of agonizing silence do not slip by before anything is said. Little personal remarks that are not impertinent are sure to win a girl's attention.

"I was impatient for this dance," says the popular man to the girl dressed in old rose, whom he has met for the first time that night, "because I always find that I get along famously with girls that wear pink. I can tell a lot about a girl by the colors she likes to wear."

The man who never seems to know what to say to a woman would say something like this: "I knew I had this dance with a girl in pink, but there are so many girls in pink here and they all look alike to me so I was afraid I would ask the wrong girl."

Salmon skin is about the best waterproof material that can be worn. The Eskimos use it for both shoes and shirts.

KENT FINISHES HIS STORY

Chapter 31

Kent went on with his story of how he had returned the diamond.

"It worked—worked fine, Babs. Lachman never doubted for one minute but what I had found the diamond hidden away in the folds of that map of South America. He was hilarious—over-joyed. He called a taxi and insisted that I go with him at once to break the good news to his wife."

Kent hesitated a minute, a shadow of pain crossed his features.

"I hated the lie, Barbara. It was such a scheming, hideous thing I had to do."

"Poor Kent," I thought to myself. He had been so strongly tempted to steal the diamond because he wanted money that he had lost the significance of what the taking of it had meant. The lie to get it back safely was repellent to him, and I realized that Kent was fundamentally good. I prayed that he would be able to understand things more clearly later on.

I put my arm around his shoulders and pressed him closer to me. "Go on, dear," I encouraged.

"I didn't want to go up to the Lachman's. I did not want to see Mrs. Lachman. I wanted to get away from them both. Then I realized that it was possible Mrs. Lachman might have opened the map before she gave it to the office boy to bring down to me. She might have opened it to be sure it was the right map. Then they would know I was lying. That trip uptown in the taxi was nerve-racking. I was afraid to go, and yet I wanted to se the thing through. I could not leave it until I knew it was ended, and everything had come out right.

"But it was all right, thank God!" Kent whispered gratefully. Mrs. Lachman was so pleased, and she thanked me over and over again until I felt beastl. And then what do you think, Barbara? Victor Lachman tried to make me a present of $100 for finding it for him. I had a terrible time refusing it, and I felt I really hurt their feelings. Oh Babs, it was horrible! And all the while my nerves were getting the best of me, and I was feeling worse by the minute. I thought if I didn't get away from them soon, I'd faint. I finally just had to run away.

"I suppose by this time they have telephoned to the Walkers and its all over town," he shuddered.

"But I'm so thankful, dearest," I breathed. "I have worried so, and hoped you would be successful. Don't you feel better yourself" I asked anxiously.

"Oh, I don't know how I feel!" Kent answered despondently. "I've suffered more over this than even you have known Babs. There is a strange, suffocating sort of pain way down inside of me."

I did know, and I thanked God for the pain that Kent had suffered, but I did not tell him so. I only put my arms around him and pressed my lips softly against his broad forehead. We sat quietly for a long time, both of us getting comfort from being near to each other.

Then I remembered that Kent had not eaten anything.

"Will you eat something now if I get it for you, dear," I asked He hesitated a second. "Please?" I coaxed.

"If you'll let me come in the kitchen with you while you get it ready," he said, squeezing my hand.

RINSO—not a cake soap, not a chip soap, not a "washing powder", but fine granules that soak the dirt out of your clothes.

—the dirt is soaked out, not rubbed out by main force!

Children's rompers, grimy from the playground—kitchen aprons, curtains, towels—things you dread washing because they need so much rubbing—pile them into a tub of the rich bubbly RINSO suds. RINSO harms nothing that pure water may touch. Let them soak over night. Then—just rinse them, either in warm water or cold. Your clothes are gleaming white and CLEAN. RINSO has done all the work. For anything particularly dirty it will be necessary to rub, such as soiled cuff edges, etc. It has saved the weary hours at the washboard wearing out your clothes and yourself too. Do not wash the old way any longer. Get a package of RINSO, and do your washing the new and easy way.

At night—soak the clothes with RINSO.
Morning—rinse them out. That's all.

If you have a washing machine—
Soak the clothes overnight in the usual Rinso way. The cleansing suds loosen every bit of dirt. In the morning operate the machine for a few minutes and the clothes are perfectly clean—even the most soiled spots.

HOLIDAY BILL AT EXHIBITION PARK SHOULD DRAW CROWDS

THREE HORSE RACES, FOOTBALL MATCH, BAND CONCERT AND OTHER FEATURES COMPRISE INTERESTING PROGRAMME.

The chief attractions in Peterboro on Monday will be the horse races, football match and other features at the Exhibition Park.

As a magnet to the best trotters in the district the fair directors are offering a purse of $1100 for three races, a 2:30 class, 2.20 class, and Free-for-all. Horsemen have had an interesting season at Picton, Belleville, Port Hope and other tracks and it is expected that the holiday card will bring out some fast horses in each race.

Football Match.

The Peterboro Football Association is putting on a match between picked teams representing England and Scotland. This game will begin at 2.30 o'clock and will find some of the best soccer players in the city or either team.

Tug of War.

Also beginning at 2:30 p.m. will be a tug of war between the City Council and the city directors of the Exhibition Board, the winners of which will meet the rural directors on a play off. The gentlemen from the farms are regarded as the likely winners, but the two other teams have been talkin gas though they would each wipe the earth with the others. According to a resolution in council Mayor McIntyre's stalwarts are supposed to be in training for the event, but if they are practicing anywhere they are keeping their workouts a real secret.

Folk Dances.

A band concert will be given by the Peterboro Rangers' Band and the Cassidy children will be seen in four dances. These two little girls have already won warm praise in thei rseveral public appearances and in the holiday programme their numbers should prove a delightfud interlude.

The Fair Board arranged this programme at the request of the City Council, and they decided to make it primarily a race meet. It is hoped that the citizens will attend in large numbers. They will find the park looking its best, and the enlarged grandstand will provide more accommodation than ever.

For those who remain in Peterboro, the races in the afternoon promise interesting entertainment.

FREQUENT HEADACHES

A Sure Sign That the Blood is Watery and Impure.

People with thin blood are much more subject to headaches than full-blooded persons, and the form of anaemia that afflicts growing girls is almost always accompanied by headaches, together with disturbance of the digestive organs.

Whenever you have constant or recurring headaches and pallor of the face, they show that the blood is thin and your efforts should be directed toward building up your blood. A fair treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do this effectively, and the rich red blood made by these pills will remove the headache.

More disturbances to the health are caused by their blood than most people have any idea of. When your blood is impoverished, the nerves suffer from lack of nourishment, and you may be troubled with insomnia, neuritis, neuralgia or sciatica. Muscles subject to strain are under-nourished and you may have muscular rheumatism or lumbago. If your blood is thin and you begin to show symptoms of any of these disorders, try building up the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as the blood is restored to its normal condition every symptom of the trouble will disappear. There are more people who owe their present state of good health to Dr. Williams Pink Pills than to any other medicine, and most of them do not hesitate to say so.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CARS SPEED 50 MILES AN HOUR IN PURSUIT

OFFICERS CHASE MAN SUSPECTED OF HAVING LIQUOR 35 MILES AT THIS PACE.

SUDBURY, Aug. 6.— (Canadian Press.)— License Inspector T. Kilpatrick and officers had a wild drive yesterday from Copper Cliff to Espanola, trying to overtake Mike Chamos.

They suspected he had liquor in his car and tried to overtake him. The two cars averaged 50 to 62 miles an hour for 35 miles over rough roads. Going through Nairn Centre an officer dropped off and telephoned to Espanolo. The Chief of that centre came out to a narrow point on the road, which he blocked with his car, and the chase ended at this point. Chamos was fined $300 for having two bags containing liquor and $10 for speeding.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor af the Examiner:

Sir: The government has surely quit Peterborough for good when its fepresentatives cannot get anybody to open the bridge. If this town canot get that much what else could a National Liberal and Conservative candidate get. Seven thousand majority against the government was an awful knocker and did more to make it a laughing stock in the west than any other thing, but if we cannot get the loan even of an understrapper a N. L. and C. canditate cannot have very much influence. It would be a poor look-out for this riding.

CANADA

DIVORCE INCREASE 114 P.C. IN TWO REARS

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Suits for divorce in 1919 increased 355 per cent. over 1913, the year before the war. Compared with 1918, the increase is 114 per cent. There were 5,763 cases in 1919.

To a great extent, this growth in the business of the divorce court is attributed in a judicial report to te facilities for instituting proceedings provided since 1914 for te benefit of the poor people, who brought 2,341 of the 5,763 suit.

THE PROCESS OF PASTEURIZATION

PASTEURIZING MILK in our Creamery simply means passing the Milk through a Heater that raises the temperature to 145 degrees Fahrenheit, then holding it at this Temperature for a period of Half an Hour.

The Milk is then Cooled to a Low Temperature, Bottled, and made ready for Delivery.

PASTEURIZATION destroys any harmful thing that might be contained in the Milk. As a City's Milk Supply must be drawn from many sources, any danger of contamination before reaching the Consumer is overcome by PASTEURIZATION.

Do not confuse PASTEURIZATION with Boiling of Milk. When Milk is Boiled it, to some extent, affects its Food Value. But PASTEURIZATION in no way affects the Digestibility or Food Value of Milk. It is not Boiled.

Every step of the way our Milk is so Safeguarded that ABSOLUTE PURITY is assured. Being rich in Butter Fat, it is rich in Vitamines, which are so necessary to Health.

POLICE CLOSED THE WHEELS OF FORTUNE

Brantford Market Square Used For Mechanical Amusements.

BRANTFORD, Aug. 6.—Farmers in this district resented the idea of the Market Square being used for mechanical amusements, alleging that some of them were gambling devices, and they threatened injunction proceedings. On return of Mayor Wedlake, who had been out of town, a deputation of farmers laid their complaint before him, and, following investigations, Chief of Police Slemin, acting on His Worship's authority, closed certain of the amusement booths. "Wheels of fortune" were given particular attention, with the result that practically all of them were off the market in quick time.

MR. TOOMS VISITS BACK TOWNSHIPS

Observed That Coionization Roads Need Larger Grants.

T. Tooms, M.P.P., is back from a three days' tour of the north country, going over the colonization roads in the townships of Harvey and Galway. Very good progress is being made on these roads, which are being greatly improved. "The work is carried on carefully and indiciously," Mr. Tooms said, "but the grants are altogether inadequate for the miles of roads to be covered, especially when one considers the amount of revenue the Governments in the past must have taken out of that part of the country from timber, etc. I hope to work for a more aggressive policy with regards to our colonization roads. The residents are very willing to do their share, if the Government can be persuaded to adopt a more aggressive policy, backed up with substantial grants. The boundary road, in parts, between Peterborough and Victoria Counties, is very bad leading to Kinmount. I got into the track of Mr. J. Duffus, who must be in that part of the country.

The crops in the north country are much better than around the city of Peterborough. They must have had more rain.

"Splendid summed residences are being erected at Swamp Lake, Galway, by Mr. Dexter of Kinmount, which is another beauty spot in the county of Peterborough. It is regretable to notice some farms have been vacated, especially in view of the splendid farms that the residents have who stayed with it; but the community spirit of the people of Harvey and Galway show that there is a lot of good yet remaining in human nature, which is by no means so apparent in and near the city. Too bad there is no mail route yet for the greater part of Galway.

"It struck me while up there that the fish and game overseers could also combine with their duties that of fire ranging.

"Quite a few American tourists are around the lakes in the wild, yet beautiful, north country.

"Very successful meetings were held in Galway and Buckhorn, the people being appreciative and interested."

The Fire Ranger and His Job

DOTTED over 100,000,000 acres of forest, 1,000 men, organized in the employ of the Government of Ontario, are, this summer, passing back and forth over the canoe routes and along the railways, watching out for the tell-tale smoke which is the sign of fire. Regardless of hot weather, black flies, mosquitoes, discomfort, loneliness or monotony, the Fire Ranger makes his rounds, preventing, quenching or fighting fires in Ontario's forests, paying his own living and traveling expenses, and receiving $3.00 per day for his services.

All in all, the Ontario Fire Ranger is entitled to the help and co-operation of everyone. He deserves all the support the people of Ontario can give him. His work is of vital importance. Heed his warnings. Do what he asks.

Save Ontario's Forests
They're Yours

The Ontario Fire Ranger, during the danger period of the dry summer, is constantly on patrol to catch fires while they are small. He cannot prevent them starting, as a rule. He is at the mercy of all types of carelessness. Thanks to his vigilance, however, two-thirds of the forest fires in the last four years did not spread beyond five acres and of these, half did not exceed one-quarter acre.

Most of Ontario's Fire Rangers are northern woodsmen. Contrary to common belief, only five per cent. of them are students, and these are experienced Fire Rangers or returned soldiers.

Rangers travel chiefly by canoe and in pairs over a definite "beat", the length of which varies according to the degree of danger from fires.

Others travel up and down the forested railway sections on hand velocipedes, following trains to put out fires set by steam locomotives. In all, 2,100 miles of railroad are patrolled steadily all summer.

Two men devote their whole time to examining locomotives to see that screens and ashpans will not permit the escape of sparks and live coals. In the clay belt, a large force of Rangers supervise settlers' fires in land-clearing operations.

Don't blame the Fire Ranger if he asks you to be careful. Don't think he is too particular. He knows the risk. Ontario is poorer by untold millions of dollars through forest fires in the past. Help the Fire Ranger save the increasingly valuable forests that remain.

CROP REPORT

Below will be found a brief synopsis of telegraphic reports received at the head office of the Bank of Montreal from its branches. The branch managers have complete and intimate knowledge of each local situation and are in close touch with crop conditions in all sections of the districts shown.

Prairie Provinces.

Edmonton district.—Wheat and oats promise good average crop. Hay lighter than usual. Plenty of moisture; no damage reported.

Calgary district.—Whole district visited by rains, which, though helpful, were too late to be of much benefit. Fair to average crop expected north part of district, but in south crop light.

Lethbridge district.—Heat of past two weeks will lower yields. Heavy rains in south district and some hail, late grains are profiting by rains and there is no danger of a feed shortage. Grain crop estimated at two-thirds of last year's crop.

Regina district.—Prospects above average with continuing able conditions except in the extreme west, where drought damage is heavy. Late wheat crop will suffer somewhat from rust and saw-fly. Oats, rye and flax promising well.

Saskatoon district.—Cool weather has made good crop-growing conditions. Heavy scattered hail losses. Wheat expected to average 15 bushels. Poor crops in certain districts, but in immediate Saskatoon district conditions good. Oat crop and pasture good.

Winnipeg district.—Considerable damage has been done by heat and rust and crops are spotty. Somewhat better than average crop expected, but oats and barley will be light. Harvesting has started and will be general through the West in from 10 to 15 days.

Province of Quebec.

The hay crop, except in the Abitibi and Lake St. John districts, will be very light, and in some districts almost a failure. Recent rains have helped the growth of cereals, but crops generally will be below average. Roots are in fair condition and grass pasture has benefitted by recent rains, but more moisture is still needed.

Province of Ontario.

Conditions in most districts are able for a good general yield, harvesting is almost finished from three to four weeks earlier than usual. Fall wheat is a good average crop on the whole, other grains a fair yield. Hay generally has been light, but there will be no shortage of feed as an exceptionally large yield of corn will offset the shortage in oats and hay. Grass pasture and roots have been improved by recent rains. Apples light crop; small fruits, cherries, plums and pears, good. Tobacco and early tomatoes doing exceptionally well.

Maritime Provinces.

Reports from the Maritime Provinces indicate that the prolonged drought has adversely affected all crops, more especially in New Brunswick. Hay crop light, probably 50 per cent. of an average. Cereals generally below average. Roots and grass pastures have benefitted by recent rains. Fruit prospects are average. In Prince Edward Island hay is nearly an average crop. Cereals are ripening and harvest will be early. Roots rather below average. Fruit prospects fair.

Province of British Columbia.

Weather generally hot and dry. Grain cutting has commenced and good average crop is expected. Roots continue satisfactory, though Kootenay district reports lack of moisture. Tomatoes are commencing to move. Prospects excellent. Hops promise 100 per cent. yield. Apples now making first appearance and quality excellent. Other fruits making good headway; over 100 per cent. crop predicted in Okanagan.

Things You Would Not Do Without

There are many forms of advertising, but the world could get along without some of them.

Billboards are good, but if they were to disappear nobody would worry.

Circulars that come in the mail are sometimes interesting, but if your mail was free from them you wouldn't worry.

Electric signs are often beautiful, but you wouldn't miss them.

Street car cards serve a useful purpose, but if they weren't there you would hardly notice it.

But think what chaos would reign if the world were suddenly deprived of its daily newspapers.

The daily newspaper is man's only point of contact with the universe. It is this fact that makes the daily newspaper the greatest advertising medium. It is the only form of advertising that people pay to read.

Use it to stimulate fall and winter trade.

PROGRAMME FOR CHEMONG REGATTA

All arrangements have been completed for the big regatta at Chemong Park, starting at one o'clock, on Thursday afternoon, 11th Aug.

The Programme and Prize Committee held a meeting last evening and made final arrangements for the biggest list of events that has ever been put on at a Chemong Park regatta. The sailing and paddling course is the finest on the Kawartha Lakes, as spectators seated in the shade on the high bank can see every movement of the boats during the whole race. It is a natural grand stand, free of charge.

A special challenge has been issued by Jerry McClelland and his crew of huskies to all comers for the paddling event—10 men in a punt. The hurry-scurry race promises a lot of fun, and the Programme Committee have a real new one in the shape of a goose race, which is bound to make a lot of excitement.

The free-for-all motor boat race has already aroused a lot of interest amongst the "speeders," and entries are coming in from all over the Lakes.

The Ladies' Committee will serve five o'clock tea and light refreshments at the club house during the afternoon.

The dance at the Pavilion in the evening at 8.30, with Scott Paton's New York Orchestra supplying the music will be the event of the season at the Park.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

NEW YORK, August 6. (Canadian Press.) Sales by discouraged holders and operations on the short side of the market were again effective in depressing the prices at the opening to-day.

Prospects of continued tight money, extreme weakness of coppers and metals and predictions of further dividend cuts weakened the speculative confidence and enabled the bears to undermine the market. United Drug, Baldwin Locomotive, California Packing, Cerro de Pacco Copper and Texas and Pacific yielded one to 1 1-4 points. Mex. Pet. Gen. Elec. Beth. Steel, Chino Copper, Central Leather gave way 1-2 to 3-4 points. Foreign exchange rates were steady.

PETERBOROUGH TALENT AT GORE'S LANDING EVENT

The bazaar, concert and sports at Gore's Landing last Wednesday, under the auspices of the Methodist church was a huge success. Visitors from Peterborough, Cobourg, Port Hope and other nearby localities also took in this event, from which the handsome sum of $500 was realized. Peterborough contributors to the exceedingly entertaining concert were Mr. S. Whitehouse, bass; Mr. Frank Whitehouse, violinist; Miss Muriel Bridge, organist, of All Saints' church.

CIVIC HOLIDAY AT BRAUNDPORT

Braunport will celebrate Civic Holiday with acquatic sports and in the evening there will be a big bonfire and plenty of good things for everybody and specials for the kiddies. Everyone is cordially invited.

SERPENT MOUNDS REGATTA, RICE LAKE

FIRST EVENT OF THE KIND AT THE FAMOUS INDIAN MOUNDS, TO BE A THRILLER.

An energetic committee of influential residents of the village of Keene, have undertaken arrangements for holding a regatta at the romantic Indian serpent mounds, Ashburn's Point, Rice Lake.

The date has been fixed for Thursday, August 11th, and a programme of novel and unique aquatic events has been prepared, which may be learned by reference to the large posters now in circulation.

Prizes are offered for competition in over twenty-four events, of various kinds. A baseball match between Keene and Harwood will be a feature of the afternoon for which a silver cup has been donated.

The Steamer Rainbow will call at different points on the lake, returning after the sports are over. The Alderville Brass Band will attend and furnish music for the occasion. The sports are announced to start at 1:30 p.m. and the public are advised to bring their luncheons by motor or boat and enjoy a high old time. The following are the names of the Sports Committee: Messrs. J. H. Cruickshank, president; Stan. Taylor, secretary-treasurer; and Ed. White, F. S. Pollard, T. J. Wallace, F. A. Eason, M. O'Keefe, Amos Shearer, E. H. Barnes, G. T. Gall, Fred Fields, Bert Anderson and W. H. Fletcher.

JACK JOHNSON IN NEGRO PULPIT.

Says Hypocrites Have Slandered — Advocates Golden Rule.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—With an open Bible before him and the Golden Rule as his subject, John Arthur (Jack) Johnson, former world's heavyweight champion, who recently finished a prison term for violating the Mann White Slave law, protested his innocence of all wrongdoing to a negro church audience here. He assailed as hypocrites and cowards those who had attacked his character, and closed with plea to his hearers to help in solving the race problem by leading a Christian life.

"This book teaches you to be fair-minded," said Johnson, pointing to the Bible as he spoke in the New York Baptist Tabernacle, 125th street and Madison avenue, "and to be sympathetic to others in their trouble. I have always tried to live by the Bible's teaching, as my mother told me to do. Is there any one here who has done more, any one who has really lived up to the Golden Rule? If there is one here without sin, let him rise.

"The Bible teaches us to go into the bottomless pit, if need be, and get out the one who is sinking there All the dirt that has been done me was done by those cowards with prejudiced minds, those hypocrites who kneel and pray on Sunday and commit slander the rest of the week. Cut me open, and you will find written upon my heart that I have never done wrong to my fellowmen."

After referring to attacks by what he called "underhand and hypocritical" newspapers, Johnson read from the Bible the words, "Thou shalt take unto thyself a wife."

"It doesn't say what kind of a wife", he went on, "Chinese or white or green or black or any other kind I took unto myself a wife, just as the Bible told me to, and just because she was a college woman people were down on me. I suppose if I had married some woman of the streets it would have been all right. I'm sure I've lived up to all the rules any husband should live up to."

Johnson then spoke of the race problem, said he hoped the Ethiopian race would come to have equal rights with white men and urged his hearers to "forget and forgive."

"You who are religious, follow this book," he cried. "Never carry malice, remember that you must crawl before you walk; and may God bless you all."

The audience of 100, mostly women, who paid one dollar admission which was to be devoted to church objects, followed Johnson's talk with murmurs of approval, sympathetic cries of 'yes, yes" and an occasional hand-clasp. The minister, the Rev. Lewis B. Twisby, in his opening prayer, asked for "a blessing on the speaker of the hour." J. Frank Wheaton, a negro lawyer, introduced the former champion.

"The victim of unfair treatment and denied a square deal," he said "this man has declared, 'if society feels wronged, I have paid the penalty.' Should not a Christian community receive with open arms he who comes out into the world with clean hands and a clean heart?"

People who ask you for your candid opinion usually desire your candied opinion.

MAKE ATTEMPT TO PUSH EGGS; BUTTER RISES

EGGS OPENED AT 30 AND 32 CENTS AND EFFORT WAS MADE TO FORCE THEM TO 40 CENTS.

Although eggs were plentiful on the farmers' market to-day, an attempt was made to push the price up. While many asked 32c and 35c at first, they tried to get 40c later on. It did not seem as if this little price sally would succeed.

Butter was in an upper price strata. By a combination between the cows and the buyers, the price has rebounded. Fifty-five cents was asked to-day. One lady would take 52c, and it was believed by many housewives that the price would come down to 50c. This did not seem possible to The Examiner, for butter was very scarce.

Spring chickens were plentiful at 40 cents; some sold at 35c. Old hens were going for 30 cents. There were ducks of various sizes and conditions. The farm wives asked 40 cents a pound.

The Outside Market.

In the open market there was more corn and apples than anything else. Yellow Bantam filled many crates and sacks. Practically all sold at 25c, but some went at 30c.

Fruit growers found Duchess apples selling well. One grower got rid of nearly his entire waggon at 40 cents a peck.

Potatoes were not much in evidence, and those who had them got 60 cents a peck, or $3.00 a bag readily.

Beets, carrots, lettuce, radishes, onions, parsley, and such stuff was freely sold at 5c. Cabbages were plentiful at 10 cents, and cucumbers were only 5c. Celery was 15c.

There were some Lombard plums on to-day at 15 cents a quart, but they were not in any quantity.

A cheerful flowerman individual is one man who drives in from the country every Saturday with a car full of flowers. His Ford is a mass of bloom, and he takes a pardonable pride in his display. All sorts of colourful bouquets are sold at 25 cents up, and the clientele of the flowerman is growing.

Honey To-day.

Comb honey sold at 20c and 25c on the market. Clover honey was 35 cents a pound, 2:50 a 10-pound pail.

Roosters for Sale.

A crate of Andalusian roosters was for sale to-day. The lady in charge wanted $2.00 for one old bird, but the cockerels were only $1.00. No other live stock was noticed.

GERMAN WHO SANK A HOSPITAL SHIP IS TO SURRENDER

COMMANDER TAKES BLAME FOR ACT FOR WHICH LIEUTENANTS WERE SENTENCED.

BERLIN, August 6 (Canadian Press). — The Abendpost of Leipzic to-day says Lieut.-Commander Patzig, who commanded the German submarine which sank the British hospital ship Llandovery Castle during the war, who is now in South America, has declared his intention of returning to Germany and surrendering himself for trial by the Leipzic Court.

The newspaper says that Patzig will surrender himself because he claims that he, and not Lieutenants Ludwig Dittmar and Johann Boldt was alone responsible for the act.

Both Dittmar and Boldt were sentenced to four years' imprisonment for the act by the Leipzic Court.

EDMONTON'S POPULATION.

Edmonton, Alberta, claims, under the census just taken, a population of 59,100. The Edmonton Journal does not think there is any reason to be disappointed in these figures. It says that so far as the official counts show, the city has never gone back. The census of 1911 gave it 31,604, while twenty years ago it had 4,176. These last figures represent the combined population of Edmonton and Strathrona, which did not become one municipality until 1912.

GLADIOLI AND ASTER EXHIBITS

ARRANGED FOR BY LOCAL HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY—CASH PRIZES.

At the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Horticultural Society held last evening in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, the report was made by the special committee of the Flower Show, by Mr. Walter Stocker, and owing to the expense necessary to put on a good show, and the nearness of the flower show at the Exhibition, it was decided not to carry the suggested flower show out.

On the suggestion by the President, Dr. J. E. Middleton, a special committee, comprised of Walter Stocker, A. Sanders and the Secretary, was appointed to complete the details with respect to the placing of a Gladioli exhibit in one of the store windows.

Through the kindness of the Cressman Company, a window will be set aside for this purpose on Wednesday next.

The exhibit will take the form of a competition for the best six gladioli exhibited by any citizen and all entries with flowers must be at the Cressman Company Store before 10 o'clockon Wednesday morning, at which time the judging shall take place, and will be performed by delegates who will be attending the Canadian Florists' and Gardeners' Association convention.

Money Prizes.

Four money prizes will be given by the society—1st prize, $5.00; 2nd $3.00; 3rd, $2.00, and 4th, $1.00.

To assist the Society financially to carry out its activities in connection with the beautifying of the city, these flowers will be sold on Thursday morning at the Cressman Company Store by Walter Stocker, commencing from 9 to 11 a.m.

With the successful conclusion of the Gladioli Exhibit, the Society will make an aster exhibit in one of the other departmental store windows, as will be arranged by the special committee.

Directors' Competition.

Owing to the understanding that the directors of the Society are not permitted to enter the annual lawn and garden competition, the President has offered three special prizes for a special directors' competition for lawn and surroundings, the judging of which will take place on Wednesday next, in conjunction with the annual competition.

Gladioli Exhibit.

All citizens interested in the development of the Horticultural Society will support it strongly by sending in six gladioli of their own cultivation to the Cressman store before 10 a.m. on Wednesday next.

The society believes that in placing this gladioli exhibit in the city at this time it will be opportune, owing to the presence in the city of florists and gardeners from the whole province, attending the convention between August 8th and 10th.

This also might prove an incentive to other merchants to place a few flowers or plants in their windows during these three days, to demonstrate that Peterborough is particularly interested in the beautification and production of beautiful flowers.

Constipation

It is a disease-producing malady, and if not corrected may result in serious complications. In good health the bowels should move freely at least once every day, carrying away the waste products from the Blood and Liver. If this function fails or is irregular, the work of removing the poisons falls on the Skin and Kidneys, with the result of the latter organs becoming congested and clogged. The Blood becomes poisoned, Indigestion sets in, the Kidneys become deranged, and a severe if not fatal illness is brought on. DR. HENDERSON'S HERB TABLETS correct this trouble by its action on the Liver, causing a healthy flow of Bile, and exerting a soothing and toning influence on the whole Intestinal Track.

Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets are put up in three sizes—25c, 50c, $1.00 per Box. For sale at Warne's Drug Store, Peterborough.

Style tendencies for fall are favorable to buttons. Where only a few buttons are required as on the coat suits promised, they must be very large and costly. One-piece dresses are to have elaborate medium-sized button trims and blouses will have quantities of small buttons.

Materials are to be severely elegant, with sumptuous pile fabrics in plain colors most in evidence. These will depend greatly upon buttons and braid for a distinctive, smart touch.

Among the newest buttons is the olive-shaped, highly polished jet button. Very large handsome buttons of jet and gallolith will be used largely on coat suits.

Cut steel buttons will have a large demand, both as trimming for one-piece dresses and blouses. For sheer fabric and lace blouses there is a striking new ruby red button and quantities of small cut steel.

Cut steel buckles are worn on a ribbon girdle with fancy blouses and one-piece dresses.

THOUSANDS OF THEM DIE EVERY SUMMER

When the baby stars to cut its teeth, then is the time the poor mother is under the stress of great anxiety. The child's bowels become loose, and diarrhoea, dysentry, colic, cramps and many other bowel complaints manifest themselves; the gums become swollen, cankers form in the mouth, and in many cases the child wastes to a shadow, and very often the termination is fatal.

On the first indication of any looseness of the bowels, give a few doses of

CRITICISM AND REMINISCENCE

(By PATERFAMILIAS)

HANDSOME JACK.

For every one of our enchantingly picturesque chain of KawarthaLakes we find a name—some English, others Indian—derived from past incidents, old-time individuals or natural qualities. The meaning of some of these cognomens are quite apparent, while that of others is elusively latent. One can readily appreciate why one body of water is called Clear Lake and another Stoney Lake, but who shall give the origin of such a name as Katchewanooka for that pretty stretch of water adjoining Lakefield?

Then, in the northwest corner of Methuen Township we find, about eight miles northeast of Stoney Lake, with which it is connected by Jack's Creek, a comparatively small lake, the proper name of which is Jack's Lake, although on one map it is called White Lake.

A rather common appelation—Jack's Lake—but nevertheless underlying it there is a beautiful story, full of pathos and paternal affection. It derived its name from Handsome Jack, an Indian Chief who claimed all the streams and lands in this locality as his own personal hunting grounds. Standing 6 feet 4 inches high, weighing 250 pounds, he was considered the handsomest man among the Chippewas, then commanded by "Cap" Paudash of Rice Lake. Belonging to the Cow family, the whites dubbed him Jack Cow. Claiming rights to Loon Lake, Stoney Lake and all southern tributary streams, he would destroy the traps of white settlers found in that neighborhood—his inherited property, asserted Jack, who lived in a birch-bark wigwam he moved here and there as the fancy took him. Naturally hospitable, Handsome Jack often invited friendly whites to his wigwam, when he would order his squaw to prepare a meal of rice, beaver and partridge boiled with pounded corn. After the repast he would smoke and relate thrilling stories of his wild adventures hunting bear, wolf, deer and other animals.

Baby and Polly.

Handsome Jack had two lovely daughters, Baby and Polly, of extreme beauty and charming feminine physique. Polly, the most beautiful maiden of the two, had a soft-tinted complexion, 'tis said enhanced by the rosy-hued bloom of perfect health, with long, straight black hair nearly reaching the ground on which her dainty feet trod with lithsome and graceful step. She was a charming singer, and loved to paddle along the island-girt passages of Stoney Lake, propelling her happy way beneath the overhanging shadows of majestic pines and filling the air with sweetest melody of weird, quaint Indian songs, to the accompanying ripple of wind-kissed waters.

Polly was the idol of her worshipping father, Handsome Jack, whose heart broke when at the age of sixteen she took sick of fever, and despite all efforts of medicine men her released spirit flew away to the Indians' happy hunting grounds on the wings of a frost-ladened autumn wind.

A Fitting Grave.

Determined that his dearly-beloved virgin daughter should sleep in a grave fitting to her many virtues, Handsome Jack, with his own loving hands, prepared a last resting place for all that had been Polly Cow on the northern most of the three islands where the waters of Clear Lake empty into Katchewanooka—the Water of Many Rapids. He then laid the body in a birch-bark coffin, paddled it down the lake in his canoe, and buried it in the grave he had dug and walled up with stones beneath a balsam tree just ten feet from the water's edge. The disconsolate father then cleared away all trees and brush between the grave and water, that his daughter's spirit could have ready access daily to water for a thirsty soul, as the Indians used to believe. And night after night did broken-hearted Handsome Jack watch by his loved one's lonely grave until he himself passed away in 1835, his squaw surviving him many years, the wife of an Indian named Snowstorm.

These islands in question were at one time known as the Polly Cow Islands, in memory of the Chieftain's daughter. They are situated about half a mile below Young's Point.

WON'T BUY COAL.

The coal trade papers complain that people are not buying coal now, and unless they load up before summer passes there will be difficulty in dealers meeting the demand next winter. But apart from the fact that some consumers are hoping for a deflation in prices before compelled by weather conditions to purchase fuel, many a man who would like to lay in his coal today has not the cash to hand over for six, seven or eight tons of hard coal, as his winter's requirements may reach. The country is in a state of depression this year—the average person's bank account has dwindled to zero, and he is fortunate indeed in making ends meet. Were Canadian dealers who are anxious to unload their stocks willing to fill reputable men's cellars on credit, many a consumer whose account would really be quite safe, but who cannot, like some, offer a perfectly good cheque in payment of their winter's coal in bulk, might cheerfully order their fuel now and gamble on prices tumbling down later on. But this hypothesis seems like a paradox, you know, for not a few who really enjoy a fat bank account pay when they jolly well please anyway. To my mind, a dealer would, perhaps, benefit by unloading his overstock of coal into the premises of those citizens dollars short, but able to pay if allowed say three months' credit, and thus creating shed room for further supplies at a time when a superabundance of transportation cars are available. The interest on money invested, except for cartage, would amount to no more for coal in consumers' cellars than in the dealer's sheds with no demand.

However, the crux of the coal situation does not so much lie in what a dealer can do or will not do as in conditions which threaten a person's coal supply because he or she finds it either more convenient or imperative to order fuel as they need it. Canada is no country in which to play battledore and shuttlecock with the fuel situation; and something is radically wrong in a country where Governments do not bestir themselves to assure to its inhabitants that commodity which is a national, vital necessity. During the war we heard much of that world and international brotherhood which was to be stimulated by the Allies in victory, but there yet remains an overplus of one law for the rich and another for the poor. In any event, it looks, according to coal trade papers, as though the poor, and all short of ready cash, are to be penalized for their unfortunate position by being denied the wherewithall to defy Jack Frost next winter. If Canadians are to be every recurring year perturbed by a danger of coal shortage scarcely ever hinted at under pre-war conditions, whoever is to blame, it is high time that black coal, like white coal, passes into the controlling hands of either a Provincial or Dominion commission.

CRICKET, RUSH, LONG LIFE.

We find here and there agitation that cricket should find more prominence among Canadian sport than it enjoys at present. The truth is, cricket, although a game of exceeding skill and interest, is too slow and plodding for appeal to the hustle and bustle characteristics of the English-speaking races this side of the Atlantic—the thrills, and there are many, are too far apart. A cricket match in England will last a day, a half day, aye, and even two days at times. But its devotees and fans love to take it easy—make a holiday of the match instead of business, so to speak—with intermissions for refreshments and lunches beneath the shade of spotless white canvas marquees, to say nothing of quiet smokes and entertaining reminiscences under spreading chestnuts or noble ancient oaks. In cricket, as in business, the Englishman can't hustle or be hustled; he is nothing if not quietly methodical—but efficient and tenacious over all. That trait underlies British charact[illegible] most activities, his industry, [illegible]tional game of cricket, and it [illegible] Still he seems to get there and attain his ends even when opposed by an excess of impetuous energy, as in the late world struggle. And to where does all the super-strenuous rush and over-forcefulness which dominates much of Canadian and American life lead us? Not to real enjoyment or either prolongment of days on earth or retention of physical and mental health. The man or woman who attains to great age does not "rush" his or her days—and nights;—the races whose average years were at least threescore and ten neither stressed their work-day lives and pleasures, nor over-taxed Nature's potentialities. An American millionaire once said that his days had been filled with the hustle after millions, which at the age of 50 he was spending in a vain chase for health.

Baseball, lacrosse, hockey are all good games, full of speed and thrills, certainly far from being derogatory to human weal, and they are typical of Canadian character. But the point I wish to emphasize is that even as the race does not always go to the swift, neither must one imagine that cricket lacks science and physical developing virtues because of its comparative slowness of movement. It is said that golf is the most invigorating exercise in the world, but there's no rush in it. Seven years ago yesterday Germany started to rush their occupation of Paris and to hustle the British into the sea; but thanks to that "they shall not pass" will of the French, and the tenacity of British and Colonial forces, coupled with an application of talent scientific skill undreamt of by "efficient" Hunland, Paris is still French and the British Empire yet intact.

ONTARIO CITIES JOIN IN DEMAND TO RETAIN FEES.

ST. THOAMS, Aug. 5.—St. Thomas will join with the other cities of Ontario in petitioning the Ontario Government to amend Section 1036 of the Criminal Code, which enables the Government to collect all police court fines imposed under the code, as well as under other statutes, for the benefit of the Province. The matter was introduced in the City Council meeting last month, when a communication was received from the Hamilton council, asking this city's co-operation, and Friday evening, as the council meeting, a similar request was read from the Peterborough council.

City Solicitor Doherty explained that under the present scheme, this city will have to pay the Ontario Government about $3,500 in police court fines for the past five years and similar payments will have to be made by other Ontario cities. He did not consider the system fair as the cities are forced to bear all the expense of the police courts in which the fines are collected, as well as the costs of the police forces. The question will be a live topic at the meeting of the Ontario Municipal Association in Toronto next month, Mr. Doherty stated. He has been asked to prepare a paper on the matter. A giant protest will undoubtedly result, he said.

Mayor Brinkman stated that he thought the association should go farther and should protest against the police fee system. He was heartily in favor of its abolition.

"If our police officers aren't getting enough, they should be paid more, but this fee system should be stopped," said his worship.

Mayor Brinkman and City Solicitor Doherty were appointed delegates to the association meeting.

Windsor's bill to the Government for fines is $25,000.

Goodyear Tires Lower in Price Than Before the War

BEFORE the war Goodyear Tires were of such value that more motorists used them than any other brand. Today an even greater percentage of the world's automobiles are equipped with Goodyears;

Because Goodyear Tires cost less today than in 1914

Because Goodyear Tires are better tires than in 1914

These savings in price are only a fraction of the greater value you get in Goodyear Tires today. The increased mileage resulting from seven years of improvement is even greater than the reduction in price.

Goodyear Tires are today the dominating value on the Canadian market. The Canadian army of veteran motorists who know tires keeps swinging to Goodyears. It will pay you to see the nearest Goodyear dealer about tires.

WOMEN BETTER ATTIRED THAN EVER, SAYS A FASHION OBSEVER IN PARIS

BY WILFRED FLEISHER JR.
United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, Aug. 6.—Take the word of a competent American observer "French women are better dressed than ever."

The observer was Milton Wolff who has just concluded one of the most important fashion ideals in the history of Paris. Acting for a Fifth avenue house, he has arranged to distribute in America Paul Poiret's famous collection of 100 models.

Wolff dealt almost entirely in superlatives as he discussed the 1921 designs which Poiret and other famous dressmakers have evolved this year.

"Longer dresses haven't hurt the appearance of French women," he said. "The flowing lines of skirt and sleeve give them a slender, girlish appearance which is most attractive.

French dressmaking is reviving. During the war much poor material was turned out, but now it is beginning to pick up again."

Wolff had ample opportunity to study the entire range of French fashion at Deauville, the great resort.

Two Colors.

"There were just two colors there," he said, "'white and orchid."

At Wolff's request, Poiret exhibited his 1921 dreams for the United Press.

Dominant features of the display were:

Long, loose kimona-like effects.

Dim, neutral colors with flares of Oriental red and yellow.

Wide sleeves of Chinese origin.

Soft Elegance.

"You will see the majestic simplicity and soft elegance of these," Poiret said as his models passed in parade. "The business depression does not allow women to dress flashily. Bu tat the same time it will not permit them to cheapen their appearance."

A bright-eyed mademoiselle led the line with a chic black velvet afternoon dress—which Poiret explained would enhance the charms of the American girl. It was one-piece with large patch pockets. The collar and cuffs were of soft leather with a gold design imprinted thereon.

Next came a blond—just like those in South Bend, Ind.—in black satin with a leather over-blouse. A Chinese design was printed on the blouse.

Then—a stately Queen Elizabeth model came forth in a pink satin affair with a silver lace cape. The kimona sleeves were trimmed with heavy fur, as also was the skirt.

Next—a tailored model, displaying a black satin waist with velvet skirt trimmed brightly with a scarlet neck piece.

Five light grey heavy evening coats were shown. One design was of Oriental plum blossom color with hand painted yellow blossoms and high fur trimmed collar, giving the wearer the air of a "poor little butterfly" dressed up.

INDIANS SUPPORTING TWO WIVES AND SETS OF CHILDREN EACH

PORT ARTHUR, Aug. 16.—(Canadian Press) Two Thunder Bay Obijay Indians, brothers, were found by Indian agent Brown during his recent trip to Long Lake to have each two wives and two groups of children. Chief George Taylor has seven children by his first wife and six by his second. Both wives and all their respective children live amicably together. His brother, also George Taylor, supports two wives and their children, numbering eight and five respectively.

SNOW WHITE BALL PLAYERS

The Chicago Sox are once more whiter than snow. A jury has said that they are not guilty, so that settles that. If hair-splitting moralists are still in doubt as to the exact naure of the offence of which the defendants have been acquitted, that must be ascribed to the wide scope of the arguments of their own lawyers. Counsel for the defence held that the players were not under contract for the world's series—presumably they took part in the games only as a favour to Comiskey—and that there was nothing in their contracts obliging them to try to win games anyway. The Court instructed the jury, according to Chicago despatches, that it had to determine "whether the defendants intended to defraud the public and others and not merely to throw ball games." To the lay mind this sounds very much like asking whether the defendant intended to murder his victim or merely to cut his head off, but the law is a mystery not open to the speculaitons of the profane.

If the innocence of the players is established, in all this labyrinth of subtleties it is rather hard to find out just what the jury decided they didn't do. Against some of them, certainly, there was little evidence; some of the others had confessed, but without prejudicing their case in the minds of the jury. Everybody will be pleased with what the counsel for the defence called "a complete vindication of the most mistreated ballplayers in history"; but nearly everybody will be still better pleased with the prompt and decisive action of Judge Landis in barring the "vindicated" athletes from organised baseball. In such a situation the old National Commission would probably have exhausted its enregies in twiddling its thumbs and finally come to the conclusion that it couldn't go back of the verdict of the jury. But the new High Commiasioner is not much troubled by that respect for quibbles and technicalities which is the Western idea of justice. He goes straight to the essential rights and wrongs in the good old Oriental manner — the manner of Haroun-al-Raschid.

SIMCOES WHO PLAY PETES HERE MONDAY ARE LEAGUE LEADERS

Fans are asked to note that the game between the Simcoes of the Riverdale League, Toronto, and the Peterborough Central Ontario League team will be called at Riverside Park at 10.30 o'clock on Monday morning. The Simcoe team are two games ahead in the Riverdale League and can cinch their league and qualify for the T.A.B.A. play-off by winning their scheduled game this afternoon. They have been playing consistently good ball all season and are regarded as one of the strongest contenders for the Toronto championship. It is likely they will use Glover, their pitching ace, against the Petes on Monday, although they have several other box artists of ability who are worthy opposition for any man's team. The Simcoes will arrive in Peterborough to-morrow night, so that they will be in good shape for Monday morning's game. The fixture should provide an interesting morning's sport for the local fans.

KEENE HERE MONDAY EVENING IN FIRST O.B.A.A. CONTEST WITH C.G.E.

The game between the C. G. E. team, intermediate champions of Peterborough and the Keene team, winners of the East Peterborough League in the O.B.A.A. semi-final at Riverside Park at 5 o'clock Monday (Civic Holiday evening, should attract many fans. The East Peterborough winners have been playing good ball and the C.G.E. gang will have to be on their toes all the way. The winner of this series will meet the winners of the Trent Valley-Bay of Quinte series, either Madoc or Picton, for the Eastern Ontario interemdate honours, after which the Toronto intermediate champs will likely be next in line. Monday's game will be in charge of Umpires Alex Gay and Kevin Murray.

THE KEENE C.G.E. FIXTURE WILL BE A GOOD BATTLE

On the evening of Civic Holiday at Riverside Park the Keene team, champions of the East Peterborough League and winners of the Eddie Wright Silver Trophy, will be here for the first game in the O.B.A.A. series with C.G.E., winners of the City League and conquerors of Cressman's in the first round of the Ontario championship semi-finals.

This game will be a fitting twilight attraction to conclude the Civic Holiday celebration. Keene promises plenty of opposition, and with an even split in the breaks of the game, will make Manager Webb's go the limit to get the decision.

And C. G. E. cannot afford to lose this game, a sthey must go to Keene for the second contest. The grounds at Keene are far removed from likeness to a billiard table, and in their home game Keene will have a big advantage over the Electricians.

The game on Monday evening will start at five o'clock, with Alex. Kay umpire-in-chief and Kevin Murray at the bases.

THE LINE-UP FOR PLENTY CUP GAME

BRANTFORD HAS STRENGTHENED THEIR TEAM—PETERBORO UNCHANGED.

Brantford and district F. A. have strengthened their Plenty Cup team for to-day's game in Peterboro.

They have re-arranged their forward line, dropping Harbour, who played centre forward in the previous game. G. Richardson moves from inside left to centre forward, and the new player is D. Lynn playing as partner to Bob Richardson on the left wing.

The team is the same with these alterations in the forward line. Peterboro is relying on just the same line up as in Brantford and the public will be assued of a hard struggle. Peterboro are feeling confident they can pull out with a win, and Brantford have already declared they can beat Peterboro to go into the next round. The game will be played no matter whether the weather is wet or fine, and Riverside Park is all prepared and in good shape for the big crowd that will wend its way over the big bridge this evening. The game will be off at 6p.m sharp.

Come and boost your own town team and help the Soccer game to flourish as good in Peterboro as in any other Ontario City. We have got players who can and are doing and other large centres:

DOWNEY SIGNED; RICKARD TRIES TO COAX WILSON.

NEW YORK, August . — If Tex Rickard can coax Johnny Wilson into the ring, Bryan Downey will get a chance for a clear title to the middleweight championship crown.

Downey has a legal title to the regal robes now in a pile of affidavits from all the officials connected with the recent Cleveland thing, when the judges said Downey won, but the referee gave it to Wilson on a foul; but the New York commission has ruled that the only way to settle the controversy is to fight it out.

Tex Rickard wants to settle the argument, and he has reached terms with Jim Dunn, the Columbus boy's manager. To-day Rickard was trying to reach Wilson .

Dunn and Dowpey, who came here seeking the moral support of the New York commission ,are returning to Ohio to-morrow. Neither one is very optimistic over the chance to get Wilson back in the ring.

"Wilson not only will be slow to give Downey another chance but he cannot make the weight that the New York or the New Jersey commission will demand. He will hold out for his own referee, too."

According to the affidavit of Chairman Wilberdig, of the Cleveland commission, Wilson agreed to permit the commission and two judges at the rngside to overrule the decsion of the referee if it was their opinion that the referee's decision was not fair.

If Wilson's signature is on an agreement with that clause there is no doubt that Downey is the champion.

The West side Rowing Club of Buffalo defeated the Argos of Toronto, Intermediate fours. The University of Toronto won the International Eights with New York second and Duluth third.

TEAMS AT FULL STRENGTH FOR BIG JUVENILE GAME

Bankers and Lakeviews Meet Again at Riverside On Tuesday Evening.

The casualties in the camps of the Lakeviews and Bankers are reported to be improving, and the teams will be at full strength for the renewal of hostilities for honors in the juvenile series next Tuesday evening at Riverside Park. Play will commence at 5.30 o'clock.

Bankers got the first game by forfeit, when Lakeviews were hitting a dangerous pace. Lakeviews always have been formidable when in the rear, coming through with a punch that played havoc with the best pitchers in the league. Tuesday evening must bring them a win, or the championship goes to the Bankers.

These teams have not received the patronage they deserved from supporters of amateur ball among the young players. It would be encouraging to the teams and the officials of the league to see a large crowd of fans at this important game.

'THREE LIVE GHOSTS' COMING TO GRAND.

Frederic Isham's Famous Comedy Will Be Seen Here on August 23rd.

"Three Live Ghosts," which will be the attraction at the Grand on Tuesday, Aug. 23, is a comedy written by Frederic S. Isham, and produced by Max Marcin, himself an author of considerable note.

The play has just completed a long season in New York. "Three Live Ghosts" sprang into instant favor with theatre-goers. It was soon the talk of the city and patrons swamped the little Greenwich playhouse nightly, and literally forced the comedy into the white light district.

The play was a surprise all around, including its success. Written by Mr. Isham just to carry out an idea that came to him one day while reading his newspaper, the play was practically cast into the discard by him when Mr. Marcin surprised him by offering to produce it. Its favour with New York playgoers justified Mr. Marcin's faith in the idea.

The story is that of three soldiers who return from a prison camp in Germany to discover that they are listed and mourned as dead. The complications which arise from the situation afford the fun.

The mother of one has collected the money on his war risk and wants him to stay "dead" a while at least. Another has not a care about life or death as his brain is clouded from shell shock. His senses are restored by a policeman's club later during the excitement, but that is part of the story to remain unrevelled until seen in order not to mar its enjoyment. The third, an American, has a very positve reason to want to remain in oblivion.

The cast includes Ruby Hallar, Alida Middlecoat, Fred Bean, Harry Vincent, Ben Lyon, Edward Martyn, Eleanor Masters, George Dathie, Charles Mayfair and Agnes Atherton. The stage settings are said to picture accurately home life in the queer East Side of London.

AT THE THEATRES

Butler Stages Hold up to Outwit a Scoundrel, but this is only one Incident of many in Excellent Cosmopolitan Production.

That a former Crook who is determined to live straight may be compelled against his will to practice the principles of knavery in order to save the honor or reputation of his benefactor, is demonstrated in 'Proxies,' th enew Cosmopolitan production, which will be shown at the Capitol Theatre next Monday. It is a Paramount picture.

Peter, a butler, in the fashionable home of Christopher Darley, is a reformed convict. His record is exposed to Darley by a man who seeks to use Darley in a dishonest stock scheme. Darley decided that Peter is good enough for him and stands by him. Peter is filled with gratitude and when he learns that the man alluded to has obtained a proxy, the voting of which at a stockholders' meeting may ruin Darley, he decided to resort to a hold-up in order to obtain the proxy and save Darley.

The hold up is staged by Peter, with the aid of Clare Conway, a maid and his sweetheart, at a party in the Darley home. While everybody is held up none but the schemer loses anything and he is deprived of the proxy which is later destroyed. Swift action follows this scene, and there are thrills a plenty until the final fade out.

Norman Kerry has the leading role of Peter, while Zena Virginia Keefe is seen as Clare, the maid. Other notables in the cast include Raye Dean, Jack Crosby, Paul Everton, William H. Tooker, Mrs. Schaffer and Robert Broderick.

MONDAY—Civic Holiday—a big special matinee will be offered at special prices. Children only 10c; adults, 25c. The balance of the programme will be of the usual high class Capitol standard of quality, and combined with the very excellent musical selections of the new Capitol Concert Orchestra, capacity crowds should prevail on the holiday, both Matinee and Eevning. CARPENTIER NOT FIRST FRENCHMAN TO TRY FOR TITLE

Petit Fought Champion in 1751 and Lost.

PARIS, Aug. 6.—(Canadian Press) — Carpentier was not the first Frenchman to have the honor of competing and of being defeated in a world's boxing championship match. French statisticians have discovered since the knockout administered to Georges by Dempsey.

On July 28, 1751, a Frenchman named Petit, weighing 260 pounds, and standing six feet four, met Jack Slack, of England, then the undisputed champion of the world. The purse was $500.

Petit, a combination of wrestler and boxer, jumped in the centre of the grass ring as soon as the word "go" was given, and, seizing Slack by the throat with his left hand, began placing his right with great force upon various parts of Slack's anatomy. History does not record why the Harry Ertle of the time did not immediately disqualify the Frenchman, but goes on to relate that "Slack swung a mighty right into Petit," much below the belt, and that the Frenchman went down writhing in pain.

When he could summon enough strength to regain his feet, he immediately used one of them to send a well directed kick into Slack's shin. The Briton then swung right and left to the chin and the Frenchman was out cold.

"They were giants in those days, and did not use eight-ounce gloves," concludes the historian.

LARAMIE HOLDS THE RANGE

By Frank H. SPEARMAN.

"If you weren't a human being you wouldn't mind being called names; you wouldn't be so angry with me, either."

"I'm not angry," he said resentfully. His very helplessness in her hands pricked her conscience at the moment that it restored her supremacy. His strength might menace others—she at least had nothing to fear from it.

"Do you know," she exclaimed, shaking off for the moment all restraint, "what I'd like to do?"

He looked at her surprised.

"I'd like to ride back this minute with you and help find Abe Hawk. I know I mustn't," she went on as he listened. "But I'd like to," she persisted hurriedly. And then, afraid of herself more than of him, she repressed a quick 'good-by" and, without giving him time to answer, galloped away.

She reached the ranchhouse without further difficulty. No one was stirring. She stopped at the corral and turned in her horse, and, walking awkwardly on her swollen ankle to the kitchen, built a fire, warmed herself as best she could, and went to her room. By the time her father was stirring Kate, under her coverlets, quite exhausted, was fast saleep.

It was broad day when she woke. Through an open window she saw sullen gray clouds still rolling down from the northwest, but between them the sun shot out at ragged intervals—the storm had broken. Walking gingerly from her room, on her lame foot, she found the house empty. Her father, Kelly told her, had gone out early, and she sat down to a late breakfast, glad to be undisturbed in her thoughts. Her mind was still in a confusion of opinions; some, long-cherished, being crowded, so to say, to the wall; others, more than once rejected, growing bolder. It was in this mental condition that her seclusion was invaded by Van Horn.

He swept off his hat with a show of spirits. "Just heard you'd got home." He sat down with her at the table. "Everybody thought you'd stayed in town last night. Got lost, eh?"

Kate raised her coffee cup noncommittally. "For awhile," she murmured between sips.

"What time did you get here?"

"I was so glad to get to bed I never looked at my watch." Again she regarded him, quite innocently, over the rim of her cup. "Did anybody lose any stock?"

He did not abandon his inquisition willingly, but each time he asked a question Kate parried and asked one in turn. He gave up without having gained any information she meant to withhold.

It was not hard to keep him in good humor; indeed, it was rather too easy. He pushed back his chair, crossed his legs, talked of a strong cattle market for the fall, and spoke of Hawk and the hunt he was keeping up for him. "They had a story around—or some of the boys had the idea—that his friends would pick a wet night like last night to take him into town."

"Is he still in the country?"

"Sure he is. Say, Kate," he changed his attitude as lightly as he did his subject—uncrossed his legs, squared himself in his chair and threw his elbows on the table.

She met the new disposition with a tone of prudent reserve: "What is it?"

"When are you going to do something for a lonesome old scout?" he asked, bluntly.

With as little concern as possible, she put down her knife and fork, and, with her hands seeking her napkin, looked at him. "What do you mean," she returned collectedly, "by 'doing something'?"

"Marry me."

"Never."

The passage was disconcertingly quick. Van Horn, thrown quite aback, remonstrated. His discomfiture was so undisguised that Kate was embarrassed. The next moment he was very angry. "If that's the case," he blurted out, "what's the use o' my sticking around here fighting your battles?"

"You're not fighting my battles."

"Maybe you don't call 'em your father's, either," he exclaimed, scornfully.

"They're your own battles," declared Kate. "You know that as well as I do."

"All the same, your father gets the benefit of them," he continued, hotly.

"I wish to heaven he had kept out of them."

Van Horn eyed her sharply. His face reflected his sarcasm. "Of course, you needn't worry," he grinned, with implication. "They wouldn't steal your horse even if you do always leave it in Kitchen's barn; the Falling Wall bunch think too much of you for that."

Surprised as she was at this outbreak, Kate kept her head. "There are some of the rustlers I'd trust as far as I would some of the raiders," she rejoined, coolly.

"Why don't you say Jim Laramie?" he exclaimed, harshly.

"Jim Laramie," she returned defiantly, "is not the only one."

"He'll be the 'only one' after our next cleanup in the Falling Wall. And he won't be 'one' if he doesn't change his tune."

Kate's eyes were snapping fire. "Take care that next time Falling Wall doesn't clean you up," she said, bitingly.

He snorted. "I mean it," she exclaimed. "Next time you'll need to look out for yourself."

He bolted from his chair. "That's the first time I ever heard anybody on this ranch take sides with the men that's robbing it—or carry a threat to this ranchhouse for rustlers."

"Call it whatever you please, you won't change my opinion of you. But, of course, I'm only a woman and don't know anything."

"I'm thinking you know a whole lot more than you let on," he declared.

"Anyway, I wish you'd leave this ranch out of the rest of it. If you keep on 'cleaning up,' as you call it, you'll go farther and fare worse."

He brought down his fist. "Not until I've cleaned out two more pups, anyway! Now, look here, Kate," he went on, "you may be fooling about this marrying, but you can bet I'm not."

"Well, you can bet I'm not," she returned, echoing his pert slang sharply.

"Who's the man?" He flung the question at her point blank.

If she flushed the least bit it was with anger at his rudeness. "There isn't any man, and there isn't going to be any—so please never talk again about my marrying you or anybody else."

She rose and left the table. He jumped to intercept her and tried to catch her hands. She let him see she was not in the least afraid, and as he confronted her she faced him without a tremor. "Let me pass!" She fairly snapped out the words.

Van Horn, without moving, broke into a boisterous laugh. Kelly walked in just then from the Kitchen and Van Horn, losing none of his malevolence, did stand aside.

"All right," he said—"this time."

For two days Kate burned in feverish reaction from her exposure, wretched in mind and body. Her only effort in that time was to get down to the corral and see that Bradley, acting as barn boy, should do something for her cut and bruised pony.

Her father was still in Medicine Bend, and Van Horn, much to her relief, had disappeared. She spent the morning trying to rehabilitate her riding suit. The task called for all her ingenuity and she was still in the kitchen working on it late in the afternoon when Bradley came in.

He had no sooner sat down by the door to report to Kate at his ease, than Kelly interrupted him with a call for wood. Even after he had filled the box, Kelly warned him he would have to split more next morning to get a supply ahead.

"Easy, Kelly," remonstrated Bradley, in his deeply tremulous voice. "Easy. I can't split no wood t'morrow mornin', not for nobody."

"Why not?"

"Got to go to town."

"What for?"

Bradley declined to answer, but Kelly, persistent, bored into evasiveness until Kate tired at the discussion. "Tell him what you're going for and be done with it," she said tartly. The reaction of three days had not left her own nerves unaffected; she admitted to herself she was cross.

Bradley, taken aback by this unexpected assault, still tried to temporize. Kate refused to countenance it. When he saw he was in for it, he appealed to her generosity. "It'd be most 's much 's my job's worth if they knew here what I'm goin' to town tomorrow f'r."

"If that's all," said Kate, to reassure the old man, "I'll stand between you and losing your job."

Bradley drew his stubby chin and shabby beard in and threw his voice down into his throat. "D'y' mean that? Then don't say nothin', you and Kelly. Least said, soonest mended. I'm goin' t' town t'morrow t' see the biggest funeral ever pulled off in Sleepy Cat," he announced with bleary indignity.

"Who do you mean—whose funeral?" demanded Kate, looking at him suddenly.

"Abe Hawk's. It's goin' t' be t'morrower next day."

If the old man had meant to stupefy his questioner, he could not better have succeeded. Kate turned deathly white. She bent over the table and busied herself with her ironing. Bradley, pleased with his confidence safely made, talked on. He found a pride in talking to Kate, with Kelly in and out of the room, and launched into unrestrained eulogies of the famed rustler, always the friend of the poor man, once king of the great north range itself.

"It's a pity," murmured Kate, when she felt she must say something, "that he ever went wrong."

Bradley had a point to offer even on that. "It's a pity they ever blacklisted him; that was Stone's get-up. And Stone, when I was sheriff, was the biggest thief in the county an' the county was four times as big then as it is now—that's 'tween you 'n' me."

"Were you ever sheriff, Bill?"

"You won't believe it, but it's so—dash me 'n' dash drunkards one and all."

"I hear, though," returned Kate, only because in her distress of mind she could think of nothing else to say, "that Tom Stone has stopped drinking."

"That man," was Bradley's retort, and he kept his tremulous voice still far down in his throat, "is mean enough to do any d—d thing."

"You used to be sheriff?"

"Yes. And when I was sheriff, Kate, I found out it was better to trust an honest man turned thief than a thief turned honest man."

Kate, listening to his halting maunderings, hardly heeded them. She heard in her troubled ears the rush of mad waters; phantom voices cracked again in pistoled oaths at the horses, the fear of sudden death clutched at her heart, and in the dreadful dark a powerful arm caught her again and drew her, helpless, out of the engulfing flood.

She got out of doors. The sunshine, clear and calm, belied the possibility of a night such as Bradley's words had summoned. "Dead," she kept saying to herself. Laramie had been sure he would get out of the creek. What could it mean?"

She went back to the kitchen, where Bradley, eating supper, had switched from his long-winded topic. Kate had to question him. "What was the matter with Abe? When did he die?" she asked, as unconcernedly as she could.

There was little satisfaction in Bradley's slow, formal answer. "Some's got it one way and some's got it another, Kate. I can't rightly say what ailed him or when he died 'n' I guess nobody else can, f'r sure. Some says he got shot; some says he was drowned 'a' last Tuesday night in the Crazy Woman; some says they's been a fight nobody's heard of yit, 't all. The only man that knows for sure—if he does know—is the man that brought him into Sleepy Cat, 'n' if he knows he won't tell." He held out his big enameled cup. "Kelly, gi'-me jus' a squirt o' coffee, will y'?"

Kate, on nettles, waited to hear who had brought Hawk in. Bradley would not volunteer the name. Some deference was due him as the purveyor of the big news, and he meant that any one curious of detail should do the asking. Kate, realizing this, framed with reluctance the question he was waiting for. "Who brought Abe in?"

Even so, she knew there would be but one answer. Bradley gulped another mouthful of scalding coffee and set down his cup. "Jim Laramie," he answered, laconically.

She said to herself that Hawk had never got out of the creek; that he had drowned miserably in the flood. She tortured herself with conjecture as to exactly what had happened. And night brought no relief. Sleepless, she tossed, marveling at how close his death had come home to her. Every scrap of the meager news added to what she already knew pointed to what she most feared.

She lay propped up on her pillows and looked through the open window out on the glittering stars. Strange constellations passed in brilliant procession before her eyes. And while she lay thus reflecting and revolving in her mind the loneliness and unhappiness of her surroundings a startling suggestion far removed from these doubts offered itself to her mind. Repelled at first, it came back, as if demanding acceptance. And not until after she had promised herself she would consider it did her thoughts give her any peace. She fell into an uneasy slumber and woke with day barely breaking.

Bradley had not been able to tell her just when the funeral was set for. But it surged in Kate's heart that after what Abe Hawk had done for her, to let the poor, bullet-torn, neglected body be put into the ground without some effort to pay a tribute of gratitude to the man that had once animated it would be on her part fearfully cold.

The difficulties of the situation were many. She feared the anger of her father, and owed his feelings something as well. But every time she decided she ought to stay at home the pricking at her heart grew keener. In the end her feelings overrode her restraint. She resolved at least to go to town. The funeral might have already taken place—it would be a relief even to learn more about his death.

Late in the afternoon she got Spider Legs up again, saddled him, and, telling Kelly she might not be back that night, rode away.

It was dark by the time she reached town, and, leaving her horse with McAlpin, she crossed the street from the barn and walked hurriedly around the corner to Belle's. The front door stood open and the red-shaded lamp burned low on the dining room table.

Tapping on the screen door, Kate, without waiting for Belle to answer, opened it and went in. There was no light in the living room, and the portieres were drawn. She walked down the hall to the dining room, where she laid down her gloves and took off her coat and hat. Smoothing her hair, she knocked on the door of Belle's room, but got no answer. Conjecturing that she had gone out on an errand, Kate sat down in a rocking chair and, taking a newspaper from the table, tried to read.

Her thoughts soon blurred the print. She read on, only to think of what had brought her so irresistibly to town and to wonder what she should hear now that she had come.

After some struggle to concentrate she tossed the paper aside to ask herself why Belle did not return, and, being tense, began, without realizing it, to rock softly. Her eyes naturally turned to the familiar lamp. It's somber paper shade threw the light in a circle on the table, leaving the room in the heavy shadows of its figured pattern. Kate became all at once conscious of the utter silence, and, impatient for Belle's return, got up and walked through the dark hall toward the front door.

Passing the living room portieres, she pushed open the screen door and stepped out on the porch. There she stood for a moment at the top of the steps looking at the stars. Lights here and there burned in the neighboring cottage windows. No wind stirred. The street and the town were as still as the night. After some minutes Kate descended the steps, opened the gate, leaving it to close with a click behind her, and walked to the corner of Main street. It looked dark. The stores were closed. From the saloon windows spotty lights shot at intervals across the upper street, but these only made the darkened store fronts blacker and revealed the nakedness and desertion of the street itself. Not a man, much less a woman, could she see anywhere moving.

Either the silence, or the night, or her long wait changed her impatience into a feeling of loneliness. She turned back toward the cottage gate. She had not noticed before how very dark the side street was. Reaching the gate, she hesitated, pushed it open, and then stopped, conscious of a curious repugnance to entering the house.

Her feeling refused to explain itself. Through the screen she could see the lamp still burning on the dining room table. Things just appeared as she had left them, yet she did not want to go in. But, dismissing the qualm, she walked up the steps, crossed the narrow porch, opened the screen door, and, stepping inside, closed it after her.

This time that she passed the living room she noticed the portieres were partly open. Both times she had passed before, she felt sure, they had been closed.

Kate sat down in the dining room and looked suspiciously back at the portieres. She was already sorry she had come into the house, for the silence and her aloneness added to the conviction fast stealing over her that some one must be in the dark living room.

Once entertained, the suspicion became insupportable. Her ears were pitched to a painful intensity of listening and her eyes were fastened immovably on the motionless curtains.

She carried a ranchwoman's revolver, and, putting her hand on it, she rose, stepped close to the door of Belle's room—into which she could retreat—and, with one hand on the knob, called sharply toward the living room: "Who's there?"

Not a sound answered her.

"Who is in the living room?" she demanded again. This time, after a moment's delay, she heard something move in the darkness, then a man's step, and Laramie stood out between the portieres.

Except for a fatigued look as he rested one hand on a portiere and the other on his hip, he appeared quite as she had last seen him. "Are you calling me?" he asked.

"Yes," she responded tartly. "Why didn't you answer?"

"I didn't know whom you were speaking to at first. I've been here all the evening. I didn't know you were in town till I saw your hat on the table a few minutes ago."

"Where is Belle?" asked Kate, still on edge.

"She went over to Mrs. Kitchen's."

"When will she be back?"

He seemed to take no offense at her peremptory tone. "She said she wouldn't be gone a great while. But," he added, with his customary deliberation, "all the same, I wouldn't be surprised if she stayed over pretty late—or even all night."

This was just what Kate wanted to hear. "Why didn't you say something when I first came in?" she asked, her suspicion reflected in her voice.

He did not seem nonplused, but he answered slowly: "I heard some one come in. I didn't pay much attention, that's about the truth."

"What are you doing in there in the dark?"

He was provokingly deliberate in answering. "You probably haven't heard about Abe Hawk?"

Her manner changed instantly and her voice sank. "Is it true that he is dead?"

"Yes."

"He didn't drown that morning, did he?" she asked, eagerly anxious. "You thought he could get out—what happened?"

"He got out of the creek. But he strained his wounds—they opened. I wasn't much of a surgeon. I got him to the hospital—he died there. I had no place to take him then. I wouldn't leave him there alone. Belle said I might bring him here. I'm spending my last night with him."

"You're not trying to spare me, are you?" she asked, unsteadily. "He really did get out of the creek?"

"He did get out."

She spoke again, brokenly: "He saved my life."

"Well," remarked Laramie, meditating, "he wouldn't ask anything much for that. Do you mind if I smoke?"

"Not a bit."

DURHAM-DUPLEX

Shaves Without "Rasp" or "Pull"

Each Durham-Duplex blade is individually hardened, oil-tempered, hollow ground and honed to a fine cutting edge, which is possible only with the finest Swedish steel. Then it receives 500 strokes on the stropping machine, because, before it is packed, each blade must be sharp enough to cut a hair six times in the hands of a tester. The result of such infinite care shows itself in the unusual number of cool, clean shaves you get from each Durham-Duplex blade—without the least "rasp" or "pull."

Standard set, consisting of razor, safety guard and three double-edged blades in a handsome ivory case, $1 complete. Other sets $2 up. On sale at all drug, hardware, jewelry, sporting goods and department stores. Get one today.

Made in Canada by the Durham-Duplex Razor Co., Limited, Toronto
Factories: Toronto, Jersey City, Sheffield, Paris

China, Christianized, will be a great nation,
That's the verdict, and without hesitation
The scholars are busy, with typewriters many,
While others use pen, for they haven't any.

This week, from China, a good missionary came,
For seven long years she's been in the game;
She used a "Corona," which got out of order,
Nelson repaired it, within Peterborough's border.
Typewriters bo't, sold, repaired & rented at Nelson's Typewriter Co., 332 1-2 George.

IN MEMORIAM.
The month of August again is here,
To me the saddest of all the year,
Because it took my brother away;
Just three years ago to-day.

Oh, why was he taken so young and so fair,
When earth had so many it better could spare,
Hard was the blow that compelled to part,
With a loved one so near and so dear to our heart.

In loving memory of Millen Pearson who met his death in Peterboro, August 6, 1918. Inserted by his loving brother, Elmer Pearson. 1d

CHIROPRACTIC Spinal Adjustment

DR. A. P. ROGERS wishes to inform the Public he has OPENED AN OFFICE in the City for the PRACTICE OF CHIROPRACTIC AND GENERAL DRUGLESS HEALING.
CHIROPRACTIC is not a fad—it is a system of Healing based on Scientific facts and proven correct by very careful Clinical investigations.
It has to do with the main factor in the "Tripod of Life"—
A loss of Nerve Energy means loss of Function and lack Nerve Energy and without which the other two factors, Respiration and Circulation, could not function. of Resistance, the result of which is Disease. The most likely place where loss of Nerve Impulses occur is where the Nerve Trunks have their exit from the cord through the openings in the Spinal Column.
Due to slight Misplacements or slipping of one Vertebrae upon the other (Subluxation) the exit is narrowed and pressure is brought to bear upon the Nerve, causing a blocking of the impulses to a greater or lesser degree.
By Adjustment of the Misplaced Vertebrae the normal flow of energy is resumed and the part involved is restored to Normal.
Health is mankind's greatest asset. If you have it, we will help you keep it.
If you have lost it, we will help you regain it.

Chiropractic For Good Health

A Normal Spine indicates a Strong and Healthy Body; but a crooked, twisted Spine means a weak body, ragged Nerves, low Vitality, and oftentimes terrible and long suffering.
Modern science has proved that in a Crooked Spine every displacement or subluxation of the Vertebrae means a pressure upon the Nerve emitting from the Spinal Column at that point, and that every such pressure upon the Nerves means a cutting off of the vital force, or mental impulses, which give life to the body and its parts.
Whenever through Nerve pressure the supply of vital force going from the brain to any organ or part of the body is cut off or diminished, that organ or part becomes affected. It no longer has the power of resistance; and the effects of Disease will likely be manifest in the course of time.
Treating Disease and the effect will do no permanent good. To remove the CAUSE of Disease by Adjusting the Subluxated Vertebrae (small bones of the Spine) until your Spine is Normal is the only way to attain a Strong Body and Good Health. See your Chiropractor. Have him Adjust your Spine, and give Nature a chance to make you Healthy.

Jimmy had a very good mother:
He said there was not such another.
Her cherry pies were the very best,
And good enough for any fair guest.

Her recipes were neat and easily read

STOP THAT SUFFERING

with Sciatica, Rheumatism, Gout, and similar complaints. Let Chiropractic, Nature's way, correct the Cause and remove the seat of the suffering.

Chiropractic is the only scientific philosophy and art that has thoroughly tested and proved that Disease is caused by the interruption of mental impulses, as they pass through the Nerves, at the intervertebral foramina wherever the Vertebrae (Spinal Bones) are not in perfect alignment with each other. Such conditions are called Subluxations, which impinge the Nerves that pass through these openings, thereby interfering with the mental impulses and, consequently, causing Disease in the organs or tissue in which the Nerve ends.

Chiropractic further proves that scientific adjustments will be followed by the return of Health.

Chiropractic is no longer in its infancy.

Millions of happy patients testify to its merits.

Chiropractic Vertebral Adjustments are quickly given by means of a skilful movement of the hands alone. This method is in harmony with the modern spirit of Progress, which demands RESULTS.

ADVERTISEMENT NEEDS 5 THINGS TO BE SUCCESS.

Requirements Outlined By Editor of Trade Publication.

NEW YORK, August 5. — The advertisements of a retail store, to obtain and hold the interest of the reader, must do five things, according to Ernest C. Hastings, managing editor of the Dry Goods Economist, New York, who addressed the retail section of the world convention of advertising. They are:

First—Acquaint people with unfamiliar goods.

Second—Remind people of things they need.

Third—Give information about goods wanted.

Fourth—Direct people where to get the goods.

Fifth—Educate people how to use the goods.

Translating this into terms of the store, he continued, it means:

First—Move goods out of the store by telling people you have what they want.

Second—Stimulate interest in different kinds or similar goods.

Third—Sustain people's interest in the store between purchases or between visits.

Fourth—Develop a sense of value in the customer's mind.

Fifth—Multiply the customer's buying impulse. That is, induce the buying merchandise which will leave so favourable an impression that customers will come back to your store for their other needs or wants.

In the preparation of advertising copy, he said:

First—Tell how you got the merchandise.

Second—What it is.

Third—What it is used for.

Fourth—What it is made for.

Fifth—What colourings.

Sixth—How trimmed or ornamented.

Seventh—What size.

Eighth—Prices.

Ninth—Any other information

DEMONSTRATION OF FIRE FIGHTING HERE

THIS MORNING FOR BENEFIT OF VISITING FLORISTS.

From Box 28 the fire alarm sounded at 11.45 this morning. "Corner of Brock and George," everybody shouted and hurried to the spot. They looked and sniffed for smoke, but a cigar a man was smoking on the corner was the only evidence of fire in sight. One minute passed, then two minutes and the firemen had not appeared. Someone said they had gone up Aylmer street and people concluded the alarm had been wrung in wrongly, it was 38 or 48 or 58 that was meant. Some said there was no fire.

They were right. The fire department were giving a demonstration of fire-fighting to the florists assembled in convention. The alarm was rung in to get the pressure up on the mains and then for the benefit of the florists, Central Park was sprayed with water from a battery of hose. The demonstration concluded, everybody was happy, but business men down town who were still anxiously looking for the fire, and a disappointed crowd of excitement seekers.

The Chief's car shortly after, just at noon, had to attend a chimney fire at 569 Concession street. It was just a splutter in the chimney and was smothered out without even using a quart of chemical.

Gordon told the magistrate that O'Reilly was operated upon on Sunday and had only been removed to his home. He expected he would be completely recovered in a week however. Mr. J. F. Strickland, counsel for Mr. Stewart and Mr. Gordon found Friday, Aug. 19, satisfactory to both parties and the case was enlarged till then. On Aug. 4, the case was enlarged till to-day. There was an array of witnesses amid the prosecution in court this morning with sundry bags and satchels but they covered up their disappointment and agreed to meet again on the 19th.

JOSEPH GRIERSON WON FIRST PRIZE GLADIOLI EXHIBIT

JUDGE CONGRATULATED CITIZENS UPON THE EXCELLENT SHOWING.

At the conclusion of judging the gladioli exhibit, Miss Campbell, the recognised largest grower of gladioli in Canada, said, "The exhibit is wonderful, and the gladioli are by far a great deal better than the ones exhibited at London, Ont., which I also judged. The citizens are to be congratulated on their excellent showing in this exhibit," she remarked, "and it was very difficult for me to decide the prize-winners."

With a very short time to prepare for the exhibit, the showing in Cressman's store window demonstrated the ability of Peterborough enthusiasts in the production of beautiful flowers.

Miss Campbell anounced the prize-winners as follow:

1st Prize—Jos. Grierson, 197 Mark Street.

2nd Prize—W. H. Young, 592 Chamberlain Street.

3rd Prize—Mrs. R. T. Hounsell, 232 Edinburgh Street.

4th Prize—Mrs. William Dolby, 184 Stewart Street.

There was a total of sixteen exhibitors.

Every exhibit was acclaimed by Miss Campbell as being wonderful, and it was unfortunate that the Horticultural Society would only give four prizes.

Miss Campbell particularly commented on the excellent exhibit donated by the Peterborough Floral Company, and the spirit of co-operation between the local florists and the society is a particular asset to any city, and an advantage to both the florists and the society alike.

An illustration showing the activities of the Horticultural Society was clearly shown in the mounted photographs of the corner of Park and Reid Streets, as at 5th November, 1920, and then again beautified at 6th August, 1921.

The proceeds from the sale of the gladioli to-morrow morning between 9 and 11 o'clock will be used by the society to help in this good work, and all citizens interested in the society would assist materially by purchasing these exhibits.

The society directors, represented by their president, Dr. J. E. Middleton, stated to The Examiner that they thoroughly appreciate the co-operation of all the exhibitors in making this exhibit a success; of the Cressman Company in permitting the use of window space; of the efficient work of C. Nicholls in the window dressing; of M. Long for the printing of the cards; and of the Peterborough Floral Company for its magnificent display.

CONVENTION WILL CONCLUDE TO-NIGHT

OFFICERS FOR RETAIL FLORISTS SUB-SECTION — TO-DAY'S SESSIONS.

The Florists' Convention enjoyed a sumptuous banquet at the Empress Hotel last evening. About 125 attended. There was a long toast-list, with responses from various delegates, and the musical part of the programme was provided by local artistes. The little Cassidy Sisters danced some Highland steps to the music of the pipes, Miss Alma Stinchcombe gave a reading, Mr. Alex. Clarke a vocal solo, accompanied by Mrs. W. Hyde.

This morning's session was occupied by addresses from Mr. A. M. Terrill, of Calgary, on "Managing a Retail Store," in which he pointed out many items of interest to retail merchants, emphasising the need of service in every line, and a very interesting address and demonstration from Mr. S. A. Frost, of Toronto, on "Art in Floral Arrangments." Mr. Frost illustrated very effectively the best methods of wiring and setting up ornamental wreaths and baskets, and his talk was followed by animated discussion from the floor.

Florists' Sub-Section.

The annual meeting of the Retail Florists' Sub-Section took place at the close of the session, resulting in the election of the following officers for the ensuing year:

President—S. A. McFadden, Toronto.

Vice-President—W. C. Hall, of Montreal.

Secretary-Treasurer — Mrs. Percy Waters, Toronto.

Board of Directors — Messrs. Terrill Gibson, Calgary; W. W. Gammage, London E. B. Hamilton, London; C. J. Hay, Brockville; E. J. Hayward, Montreal; J. J. Higgins, Toronto; S. A. Frost, Toronto, and C. A. Williamson, Peterborough.

The Peterborough Fire Department gave a good demonstration to the visiting delegates at 11.45 this morning. They responded in three minutes to the fire alarm turned in, and gave a short demonstration with the hose waggon.

Messrs. Campbell Bros., of Simcoe, have a fine exhibit of gladioli at the convention, a long table covered with blooms in all the gorgeous colours of this beautiful, orchid-like flower, ranging from almost pure white, through different shades of mauve, yellow, orange, and crimson.

This afternoon's programme for the entertainment of the visitors included a motor ride around the city, sports at the Oval, with visits to the Capitol Theatre, local greenhouses, or the bowling alleys, to wind up the evening.

A number of Australia plants are covered with hair.

The world's largest collection of war photographs from the Canadian Official Records will be shown at the C. N. E. this year.

LAKEFIELD ROAD BEING REPAIRED

LAKEFIELD NEWS OF INTEREST —ORGANIST RESIGNS

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 10. — The roads between Peterborough and Lakefield are receiving some much needed repairs between Warsaw and Carnegie's hill. We understand the government is undertaking the work and it is high time, as the road, which is a main highway between Peterborough and the northern part of the county, is a disgrace. Hundreds of tourists have motored over it and one and all pronounce it "the limit." No road work ever seems to be done and in places the stone foundation is laid bare. The Apsley road is much better and some local chauffeurs prefer to motor to Burleigh than to Peterborough.

Officers Elected.

The newly formed Lakefield Amateur Athletic Association has elected the following officers:

Honorary Pres.—W. Sherin.

Pres.—Reeve J. C. Strickland.

1st Vice-Pres.—Dr. S. J. Gibson.

2nd Vice-Pres.— Dr. J. Cameron Smith.

Sec.-Treas.—R. A. Hirsch.

Committee—J. W. Ridpath, R. W. Douglas, W. G. Morrison, C. S. Tanner, Braden Blewett.

Patrons—W. H. Casement, E. W. Bailey, W. J. Charlton, A. E. Dawson, Rev. A. W. Mackenzie and Thompson Braden.

Has Resigned.

Miss K. S. Atwood, who has been a faithful and efficient organist of St. John's church for the past twenty-eight years, has tendered her resignation, which takes effect immediately, as Miss Atwood is taking a well earned vacation. Mrs. Jack Twist has been appointed as her successor.

Crops Lighter.

The farmers are busy now with their harvests and are finding that the exceptionally dry weather has made the crops small. Corn will be extra good but oats and wheat will be very light.

Registrations.

The following are registered at the Hotel Lakefield: Miss Gertie McCarthy, Miss Helen McCarthy, Miss Unitt, C. E. Burton, Peterborough; Dr. J. C. Smith, O. A. Not from the heart beneath—
'Twas a bubble born of breath,
Neither sneer nor vaunt
Nor reproach nor taunt—
See, a word, how it severeth!
Oh, power of life and death
In the tongue, as the preacher saith!

Canadian Clothes

"Women's Wear," a publication devoted to the furthering of Canadian interests, has this to say about the fabric situation:

"Although cloth was made in Canada prior to the outbreak of the great war, it was during and since the war that the mills experienced an impetus in the direction of the finer grades used for women's wear. During the greater part of the war woollen mills and others with the necessary machinery were engaged in making cloth for soldiers' uniforms, blankets, puttees, etc. Many had increased their capacity because of the rush of orders from the Government War Office, and when these dropped off after the Armistice was signed they began to put into operation plans for making the finer materials which had been formulated while the mills were still busy on war work. The result is that today many merchants are selling over the counter and many manufacturers are cutting up materials from Canadian looms, such as velours, duvetyn, silk and wool jersey cloth, bolivia, tricotine, gabardine, crossbred and botany serges, as well as the plaid back and plaid blanket cloths and tweeds which were manufactured before the war, and grey, white and cardinal curl cloth for children's coats.

"Wool jersey cloth came into prominence during the war, about the first that was shown being an imported article. But we are told by a Canadian mill that just before the outbreak of war they had made sample pieces, which they sold, but could not deliver as their mills were virtually commandeered by the Government for the production of army cloths, and it was not until the war was over that they were at liberty to turn their attention to them again and get their share of the trade. In the meantime, wool jersey cloth had lived down whatever opposition it met at the outset, and is today one of the most desirable sports material available. Two Canadian mills are making it in large quantities, one of them doing a great deal of good missionary work in the artistic advertising it is using to familiarize the Canadian woman with a domestic product of acknowledged excellence. It comes in three weights, namely, dress, suit and coat. The special knitted weave of this material lends itself to a mixture of colors in the threads which are known as heather or lovat mixtures, one tone, such as brown, green, blue, grey, red, etc., predominating, the others blending with it. It also looks well in plain colors and is purchased largely in navy blue, brown, taupe, henna and the soft greys, tans and blues. It has great wearing qualities and is serviceable for everyday wear as it does not crush and therefore does not require frequent pressing. It has had a great run for sports suits this summer and in the heavier qualities sold well as sports and storm coats for the early summer. Manufacturers tell us that the dress manufacturers are buying sample pieces for fall and they are looking for large business in dress weights.

BOUND BROOK, N. J., Aug. 6. —A "lion" for which residents of South Bound Brook searched last night with lanterns and shot guns turned out to-day to be a ferocious mastiff, which was killed after it had bitten two persons on the esate of Jack Northworth, actor, at South Bound Brook.

When four persons reported they had been attacked by the 'lion" just after dark last night a citizen's posse was organized to hunt down the animal. The hunt was without result other than to give the searchers a thorough drenching as they tramped about in a steady downpour of rain.

Shortly after 7 o'clock this morning Jacob Herman, 16 years old, employed on the Norworth estate, was attacked by a large mastiff that no one about the place had ever seen before. He was bitten in the right hand and arm. The boy was taken to the Pasteur Institute in New York and the dog was killed by Martin Herman, superintendent of the Norworth estate and father of the injured boy, who ended the animal's career with a shotgun. The animal's head was sent ot the Pasteur Institute to ascertain whether it was suffering from rabies.

PETERBORO TASTE FOR WATERMELONS

Yesterday's sales practically obliterated the neat pile of watermelons in front of a Charlotte Street fruit shop. There were 45 to start with in the morning, and by 11 p.m. there were only five left. Altogether, the fruit man was very well satisfied with the watermelon patronage, and he felt genially inclined towards melons and people in general to-day.

When he has sold the 32 he has left, he said, he would decide if he would get any more.

It has been known as the Canadina National Exhibition since 1904. Previous to that it was the Toronto Industrial Exhibition.

HALF A DOZEN MORE WASHINGTON CLUBS WOULD GIVE THE PENNANT TO THE HUGGINS-RUTH COMPANY

(By HENRY L. FARREL, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Put about a half dozen more Washington clubs in the American League and the New York Yanks would have to win a pennant.

The bumping that the Cleveland Indians got in the national capital last week forced the erratic Huggins clan into first place and furnished the only feature of the major leagues.

Today Ruth and company are hanging on by one slim point, but with the White Sox on hand and with Cleveland sitting at Connie Mack's table, one point doesn't offer the Yanks much solace.

Back on the old home grounds, after wobbling on the tail of their eastern jaunt, the Pittsburg Pirates are again creeping away from the Giants and making it look like the pennant is "in" in the National League. The Giants are not hustling and are being bothered with internal troubles as well as with a lack of first-class pitching. Against Pittsburg the Giants look like champions. Against the second raters they are second raters.

The Pirates won five games last week, while the Giants dropped two out of eight. The Braves split even in six starts, and the Robins and the Cards speeded up a little and nabbed five out of seven. The Reds split even in eight games, while the Cubs won only two out of seven games.

The Yankees went into first place by winning three out of five games, while the Indians hit a bad slump and landed only one out of six starts. Washington played the most consistent ball in the circuit by winning six out of their seven games. Detroit dropped two out of six. The Browns and the Red Sox won four out of seven, and the White Sox and the Athletics dropped three out of five.

Right now Tris Speaker is in trouble. The team is not working at all to his liking, and the next two weeks look like they would determine the championship of the American League.

The same pitching problems that face Speaker are in McGraw's way.

CLUB APPOINTED A NEW SECRETARY

EXECUTIVE MEETING OF THE FOOTBALL ASSOCIATION HELD LAST EVENING.

W. G. Nicholls is the new Secretary-Treasurer of the Peterborough and District Football Association. At the executive meeting in the G. W. V. A. Hall at 8 p.m., last evening, two applications for the position were received from W. C. Nicholls and John W. Stott. Mr. Nicholls, when Fred. Sutcliffe, flatly refused though pressed to continue in office after the Plenty Cup games, was appointed, and he will take office at the next meeting. Fred. Sutcliffe said that he wanted to see the Plenty Cup games through. His work as Secretary was commended. Because of the central position of his shop and his zeal in all football matters he was urged to remain Secretary, but declined.

The Secretary is awaiting a reply from the Ottawa club about the game on Saturday, meanwhile preparations for this big game are proceeding. Tomorrow night the team will do some track work. All players are asked to meet at the G. W. V. A. Hall at 7.30 for a sprint in the park, followed by a rub down at the hall. The desire of the executive is to save the team for Saturday and the run is merely to keep the men in condition.

BANKERS CAPTURE THE JUVENILE CHAMPIONSHIP

DEFEAT LAKEVIEWS IN FINAL GAME BY 15 RUNS TO 5—WINNERS SHOW FINE FORM IN CAPTURING DECISIVE GAME OF SERIES.

Louis Yeotes' Bankers won the championship of the City Juvenile League last night and qualified for the O.B.A.A. semi-finals by beating the Lakeviews in the second game of the play-off series between the two clubs by 15 runs to 6. The issue was never in doubt after the 1st innings when the Bankers put over four counters. The Champs pitched snappily, hit hard and had all kinds of "pep." Geoff Hardill started the game for the winners and after blanking Lakeviews for four innings allowed them three hits and a walk in the fourth session netting them four runs. There were still two on three sacks, and one out, and although Hardill might have weathered the storm, with the score still 7 to 3 in favor of his team, the Bankers took no chances, and "Lefty" Turner was sent to the firing line. The Lakeviews got but one scratch hit off him for the balance of the game and he whiffed eight men in 4 2-3 innings.

Shaughnessy was Manager Lebarr's pitching selection and he was hit hard from the start, giving away to Lou Lebarr in the fourth. The second pitcher did not succeed in stopping the winners either, and finally Moore was called upon. He got by him without a run being scored on him in the two innings he pitched, thanks to Jack Hardill who overlooked the trifling formality of touching first base. Hardill came through with one of the longest hits of the season in the seventh, his drive landing in deep right field and bounding into the river, for what should have been a clean home run. He did not touch first base however, and was called out.

The Bankers did not waste any time, scoring four in the first. Hensley reached second on Moore's fumble and high throw and Jack Turner singled through short to score. Hensley going to second on the throw in. J. Hardill popped to second. Wilgar was safe on Moore's miss. Turner scoring from second. J. Hardill singled through the short scored Wilgar and Hardill. McLean was safe on Moore's error. C. Turner flied to Whitlow, who doubled Johnston off third.

A wild throw to Whitlow, a wild pitch and Jack Turner's single to right allowed Hensley to score for the Bankers in the second.

In the third with one down Johnston singled to centre, stole second and went on to third when Rogers throw hit him on the head. C. Turner singled over third to send the run in.

With Lebarr pitching for Lakeviews the Bankers added another in the fourth, Jack Turner beat out a tap to Lebarr and went to second on the pitcher's high throw to first. J. Hardill rolled to Moore, Turner going to third. Wilgar and J. Hardill walked filling the bases. McLean fanned Turner scored on a wild pitch and McLean lifted one to Shaughnessy.

The Lakeviews put over their first runs in the fifth. After Rody had fanned Pethick singled to left and Fitzgerald drove a safe one through short. J. Lebarr walked filling the bases. Rogers doubled over Jack Turner's head in left scoring Pethick and Fitzgerald. This was enough for Hardill and Lefty Turner was sent to the rescue. He cut loose a wild pitch that scored Lebarr but L. Lebarr popped to Hensley and McLean tossed out Moore.
